HAIG SUMMONS SIR HENRY RAWLINSON.

With the superseding of General Sir HUBERT GOUGH as commander of the British Fifth Army in France a brilliant reputation goes into eclipse. It may be only partial, but the demotion of General GOUGH is notice to the British forces that the high command must be equal to any emergency or pay the penalty of failure, as a regimental officer would have to do. Sir HUBERT GOUGH's line did not hold fast in the opening stage of the great battle. There was no panic, no faltering, among the men; the Fifth Army was not led and held with the skill that its commander had displayed on other occasions. There came a time when something more than a retirement in good order seemed to be imminent, as if from an attack that had not been foreseen and prepared for.

At the critical moment Temporary Major General SANDEMAN CAREY, previously unknown to fame, collected a scratch force in the rear—not supposed to be first-class fighting men, for there were signalers and even nondescripts in it—pushed to the front, and saved the day. BYNG with the Third Army held fast, like the bulldog he is—he has often done it before—but GOUGH did not live up to his reputation. It seemed to be a solid reputation for so young a commander of a great British army; he is only 47 years of age. In his report of the battle of the Somme Field Marshal HAIG, speaking of Sir HENRY RAWLINSON of the Fourth Army and Sir HUBERT GOUGH of the Fifth, said:

> It is impossible to speak too highly of the great qualities displayed by these commanders throughout the battle. Their thorough knowledge of the profession, and their cool and sound judgment, tact, and determination proved fully equal to every call on them. They entirely justified their selection for such responsible commands.

Sir HUBERT GOUGH had been rapidly promoted. Not long before the war he was Colonel of the 16th Lancers. He crossed over to France with the "Old Contemptibles" as a brigade commander. In the first battle of Ypres he led the 2d Cavalry Division, and at Klein Zillebeke was almost overwhelmed by superior numbers, holding on until the 7th Brigade of General BYNG's 3d Division came to his relief. But every British command was in trouble at Ypres when, as Sir HENRY RAWLINSON has said, "it was left to a little force of 30,000 to keep the German Army at bay while the other British corps were being brought up from the Aisne." RAWLINSON's 7th Division lost 356 officers out of 400 and 9,664 men out of 12,000.

General GOUGH in the retreat to the Marne (earlier in the war) had distinguished himself by charging and routing with heavy loss a strong column of Uhlans of the Prussian Guard between St. Quentin and La Fère, and was thanked by Sir JOHN FRENCH in his dispatches. In the battle of the Aisne the Waterford Irishman won more laurels. When the battle of the Somme was planned Sir HUBERT GOUGH had made such a reputation that his deserts called for still further promotion. Marshal HAIG made him commander of the Fifth Army, a great honor for a soldier well under 50.

The recall of Sir HENRY RAWLINSON from the Versailles War Council to lead the Fifth Army will please the rank and file. His selection in a great emergency will be commended in England. Although only 54, General RAWLINSON has been in all of England's wars since he received his first commission. He was held in high esteem by KITCHENER, under whom he served in the Sudan and the Boer war. Like other British officers who have had high command in the great conflict, HAIG, ALLENBY, BYNG, and GOUGH, Sir HENRY RAWLINSON is a cavalryman. From the time he landed in France with an expeditionary force, too late to save Antwerp, he has never failed to display the finest qualities of leadership. There is not a braver and cooler officer in the British Army, and he always has his wits about him. His steadfast courage and habitual cheerfulness make him a great favorite with his men. He will hold any line if it is humanly possible. He is the kind of General for whom Tommy Atkins always has a nickname. RAWLINSON is rated second to Sir DOUGLAS HAIG as a competent tactician and leader. It seems likely that there will be other changes in the high command. England must have the services of her best in the greatest crisis of the war, and the commanding General fortunately has the moral courage to change his lieutenants.

HOW PLEASANT 'TIS TO SEE!

Why can't brethren dwell together in unity? Now, when Prohibition expects every Dry to do his duty, why must Mr. WILLIAM H. ANDERSON, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, belabor and bewhack the Hon. WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN and the Dry Federation whereof he is President? Admitting joyously that Mr. ANDERSON is and of right ought to be Grand Lama of the Drys, admitting that the sincere milk of prohibition is canned in no other establishment than the Anti-Saloon League, must bricks rain from it on Mr. BRYAN's comely and clifflike Parian brow as he goes by on his lawful occasions?

Even if it be true that, as Mr. ANDERSON charges, "it has been only a little over four years since Mr. BRYAN stumped the State of Maryland" for a candidate for United States Senator "who was backed by the unspeakable liquor ring of Baltimore," why dig up those evil days, when

> The Demon's heel was on thy shore,
> Maryland, my Maryland!

Mr. ANDERSON may be an elder, he cannot be a better, soldier of prohibition than Mr. BRYAN. Who, earlier than Mr. BRYAN, tried to dedicate the Democratic Party to prohibition? Was Mr. ANDERSON born with "Federal Prohibition" written on his forehead? Outside of the little Prohibition Party, how many of the now so unctuous shouters for the prohibition amendment had given it a thought a few months ago? Besides, four years ago Mr. BRYAN was in politics. He could have a political zone anaesthetic to his ethical zone. Mr. BRYAN cast himself out of politics in June, 1915. Mr. ANDERSON has the queer delusion that this amiable preterit has designs on the future. The aim of the Dry Federation, to most of us as much of a mystery as the Anti-Saloon League itself, is "to get some kind of a national prohibition organization behind Mr. BRYAN in ample time before 1920." So our genial friend of the league.

This is most unjust. Whatever Mr. BRYAN's optimism, he has learned that the subject of three decapitations won't do for a head again. So far as 1920 is concerned, be sure that his fondest hope is to see a rumless commemoration of the Landing of the Pilgrim Fathers. The Anti-Saloon League, if it be not a poem, a myth, an incorporation of its active, if somewhat cholerio, Superintendent, ought to labor by the side of the Dry Federation for that and similar virtuous ends. Why smack a brother because he happens to be a politician emeritus? Saddening to the good is this aridus fragor, this clashing of the Drys.

AN INTERALLIED BREAKFAST.

To a writer in La Vie Parisienne we owe the preservation for posterity of an incident simple in itself, but refreshing in the midst of war in its evidence of appreciation of the delicate consideration that goes with alliance. The King of the Belgians, it appears, was returning from a brief period of rest on the Riviera, and finding that the exigencies of war had reduced the rolling stock of the P.-L.-M. Railroad to such a point that it would be difficult to provide him with a special train, contented himself with a private car, to which meals for himself and suite were sent in from the dining car, when there happened to be one with the train, or from station restaurants by the way.

To the manager of one of these restaurants the railroad management sent this telegram: "Coffee and rolls for four distinguished personages in the first car of the train arriving at 7:36." But this was just at the time of unprecedented snowfalls in the Midi; the train from the Riviera was late, and it so happened that the train arriving at this junction point at 7:36 was one from Winter resorts in the Alps. The waiters, who duly carried out instructions, found in the first car of this train only one distinguished personage—Sir ERIC GEDDES, First Lord of the British Admiralty, returning unattended from a short holiday amid the snows.

What to do? The manager of the restaurant was taken aback, but only for a moment. Though the personage was single instead of quadruple, orders must be carried out; failure might cause a miscarriage of some delicate courtesy devised by the Government for its honored guest. So the four coffees, the four arrays of rolls and butter were brought in and laid before Sir ERIC; and he, not to be outdone in courtesy, forthwith ate and drank them all.

No doubt, as the French writer observes, he was surprised and touched by such lavish entertainment at the hands of a nation whose food supply is somewhat constricted. But putting aside the possibility that even four pots of coffee might have been a not excessive refreshment for a gentleman passing in the gray hour of dawn into the cold February rains of northern France, one must admire the spirit in which Sir ERIC took it. He was the guest of a nation which contrives to be gracious even in its mistakes, and it was not for him to mar by any lack of appreciation a breakfast which might appear to be strangely conceived; an attitude the more commendable since in the days before the war persons of Anglo-Saxon race, whether from the eastern or the western side of the Atlantic, were all too apt to look with surprise, if not disdain, upon Continental customs which did not accord with their own. The war is teaching the heterogeneous nations of the alliance to accommodate each other in matters besides war aims.

And the example of Sir ERIC GEDDES is something more than a praiseworthy exemplification of the Entente Cordiale; it may serve as a parable for Americans, whose situation with regard to food is still immeasurably more fortunate than that of their allies in Europe. Courtesy demanded that he eat and drink, even to the extent of four coffees; courtesy and interest alike require us to modify our eating and drinking a little. The spiritual accord of the alliance will surely be promoted if we can do it with a gesture as graceful as that of the First Lord of the Admiralty.

CZERNIN ON RUMANIA.

"The future of Rumania," says the Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister in his latest setting forth of the Dual Monarchy's desire for a friendly peace, "lies in the east, in Bessarabia." From a study of the specific conditions which he mentions it appears that there is not going to be much of a future for Rumania in Rumania. The Count tells us that "the peace concluded with Rumania, it is calculated, will be the starting point of friendly relations. The slight frontier rectifications which we receive are not annexations. Wholly uninhabited regions, they serve wholly for military protection."

Purists might cavil over the question whether a strip of territory containing several towns of some thousands of people and a considerable number of villages could be accurately described as "wholly uninhabited." For military protection, however, the new frontier will serve admirably. It appears that Hungary is to take over a strip of the borderland fifteen to eighteen kilometers deep, running, so far as may be judged from the places mentioned by Count CZERNIN, from the extreme southwest where Hungary, Rumania, and Serbia meet on the Danube along the whole frontier up to the Bukowina. That is to say, the whole Hungarian frontier advances ten miles or so into Rumania, besides which one or two strategically inconvenient corners further north, abutting on the Bukowina, are to be cut off.

This means that the summit of the Carpathians and the passes through the range, heretofore divided territorially, are to be all Hungarian; if the Rumanians ever attack Hungary again they must start from the beginnings of the foothills. Austria had a frontier of very much this sort against Italy when the war began, and found it so convenient that a similar one is to be established in the Carpathians.

More extended annexation, it seems, is to be made in the southwestern corner. Apparently the considerable Rumanian town of Turn-Severin, eleven miles east of the present boundary, is to be left just inside the Rumanian line, but so close to the border that Austro-Hungarian soldiers could be in the streets in fifteen minutes. This again gives the Hungarians all the mountains and takes the frontier out to the rolling plains; it insures the protection of the railroad from Temesvar, which strikes the Danube just inside of Rumanian territory and runs along the river for some twelve or fifteen miles; it makes certain that the famous Iron Gates and the mountains to the north can never be held by the Rumanians against the Hungarians, but will be a bulwark, we may suppose a strongly fortified bulwark, for Southern Hungary.

But this is not all. This arrangement does more than protect the frontier; it "protects merchant shipping in the lower Danube." For the benefit of this merchant shipping, no doubt, Austria has also leased a valuable wharf near Turn-Severin and a strip along the river (for $200 a year); which means that under one guise or another Hungary will retain for military and economic purposes the whole territory around Turn-Severin.

Moreover, "we have obtained the leasing rights to the islands of Ostrovo, Mare, Corbu, and Simeanu"—considerable islands formed by splitting of the Danube. These islands lie between Serbia and Rumania; and in their "leasing," combined with the later observation that "Bulgaria must receive from Serbia certain districts inhabited by Bulgarians," we may see a preparation for the annexation to Bulgaria of the regions between the Timok and the Morava. In other words, the celebrated "corridor" between the Central Powers and Bulgaria is to be made permanent by the cutting off of the inconvenient corners of Serbia and Rumania. The Sofia-Nish-Belgrade Railroad, we may suppose, is to be replaced by new lines driven through this annexed territory.

But Count CZERNIN has taken care of other matters than military security and the corridor of Mittel-Europa. His strip along the frontier carries the border close to the oil wells, if it does not actually include some of them. "We shall take precautions," says the Count, "to have our interests in the questions of grain, food supply, and petroleum fully protected." Imports from the Ukraine are coming in slowly, he admits, but "from Rumania we shall obtain a considerable surplus of last year's harvest. About 400,000 tons of grain, peas, beans, and fodder must be transported via the Danube. Rumania must also immediately provide us with 800,000 sheep and pigs. It is clear from this that everything will be done to obtain from the exploitation of the regions which peace has opened for us in the East whatever is obtainable."

By way of compensation it appears that the benevolent Austro-Hungarian Government is going to solve some of Rumania's internal problems for her. The Catholic Church and schools are to be protected; the Jews are to have equal civil rights, (which the Rumanian Government itself was at last getting ready to give them.) But "the irredentist propaganda, which has caused so much evil in Hungary, will be restrained. Rumania can gain much more in Bessarabia than she lost by the war."

This detailed statement of the peace conditions with Rumania, the almost pusillanimous moderation of which the Count defends vociferously against the annexationists, throws light on what Serbia may expect when, or if, Austria ever forces her to terms. "We have no desire to destroy Serbia," says CZERNIN. "We would welcome closer economic relations with her." The close economic relations of the wolf and Little Red Riding Hood.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

"America" Is Not Illusioned. Unjustified apprehension is expressed by the Journal des Débats when, in discussing the relation of the United States to the present leaders of the Russian revolutionists, it says that there still exist here "some strange illusions." As a general statement that would be true enough, for there is no illusion strange enough to be without followers in a country as large and well populated as this one is. It would also be true, however, of every other country, and the probabilities are that at least as many people in France as in the United States are either sufficiently stupid to believe, or sufficiently vicious to hope, that the Bolsheviki are representative of the sort of revolt against despotism in any one of its various forms and degrees with which the citizens of democracies are always and naturally in sympathy.

The editor of the Journal des Débats, and other Frenchmen suffering from a like disquietude to his, could learn from the intellectual and moral standing of those among their own countrymen who admire the Bolsheviki and agree with Bolshevist economics and politics just how much importance should be ascribed to the folk of like kidney who live in the United States. They are numerous and voluble enough to be irritating, but not enough to be really dangerous either to ourselves or to the allied cause.

The great majority of Americans, beginning with President WILSON and including all of any influence or authority, are perfectly well aware that the Russian revolution in its present phase is quite as much a menace to democracy, as we and other free peoples understand democracy, as it is to Governments like those of Germany and Austria. The Bolsheviki do not want what we have, and it is not the imperfections in our system of government that they desire to cure. Their aspiration is to overthrow the whole system and to substitute for it another that would be not less, but more, repugnant to us than the one the Kaiser would impose on us if he could—the one he will impose on us if he can. We do have some Bolsheviki of our own, but they are not Americans—they are only in America. Their "strange illusions," like their dark plottings and their darker treasons, are etiolated exotics that will not trouble us long or much.

An Expert Offers His Advice. Serious and immediate consideration is deserved by the warning given by the Superintendent of Roosevelt Hospital to the Red Cross and other like agencies that their present methods of training nurses and the qualifications demanded by them must be changed or else it will soon be impossible to meet the rapidly increasing demand of the army for such services as nurses give.

The now usual course of instruction, he declared, was too long, and it included teaching of a sort which it was not necessary or even certainly desirable for nurses to have. His reference to the "professional halo" as something that did not make for efficiency and that would not be missed will irritate the nurses themselves, but like views have often been expressed by doctors who have found their work hindered, not helped, by nurses whose education along medical lines had been carried too far.

The remedy suggested for the shortage apprehended, and in some degree already felt, by Dr. GRIMSHAW was for the Red Cross to lower the requirements for eligibility to acceptance for training and to make its own hospitals, both base and camp, a means for hastening the advancement of more nurses' aide to the status of graduate nurse. He might have added that the number of nurses might long since have been increased had not the hospitals demanded of aspirants for training a large amount of work of a kind that had little or nothing to do with the acquisition of the knowledge and skill needed for proper care of the sick. This plan saved the hospitals a lot of money they otherwise would have had to pay out for labor of a much lower grade than should be expected of nurses, but it prevented many from entering this admirable vocation and wore out many others before their time.

The Superintendent's letter to the Acting President of the Academy of Medicine was boldly critical in several directions usually held immune from criticism. It is, therefore, sure to excite resentful protest. The more discussion there is of "red tape," however, the more likely is it to be cut, and there never was a time when the cutting of it was more to be desired.

And War Is Indeed Terrible! A new and stern realization of the fact that the country is at war must have come yesterday to many who were still thinking of the conflict as one 3,000 miles away. For they read in the morning papers that the Government had made itself the only customer of the tobacco company whose product is to well-nigh innumerable Americans, if not essential to life, at least essential to comfortable living, and a good many of them are now asking in a sort of panic how they are going to get snuff after the stocks at present in the hands of the jobbers and retail dealers have been exhausted.

The situation is really serious—except for the sense of humor it might be called desperate. The starvation-menaced survivors of an ancient Egyptian cult have already lived through one terrible crisis. It was when a wretched oculist up in Massachusetts spoke darkly to them of alfalfa and strawboard. Him they hated for weakening their faith, but he did not destroy it. Now the case is different, and fidelity will not help. But why mourn? There is a remedy! Enlist, and all will be well!

ART NOTES.

Another Section of the Halsey Prints Now on View.

The twelfth section of the Frederic R. Halsey collection of prints is now on view at the Anderson Galleries. It comprises the Dutch and English portrait engravers and old masters of the sixteenth, seventeenth, and eighteenth centuries, including Cornelis van Dalen's portraits after Titian, with a fine impression of the Boccaccio, the rarest of the set; the splendid equestrian portraits by Jan van Troyen; Vaick's "Hortense Mancini, Duchess de Mazarin," after Peter Lely; Visscher's "Portrait of Pieter Schreiber," and the "Birch-Heads," by Jacob Houbraken, a series of portraits of English characters published in London about the middle of the eighteenth century, with "Lives" by Dr. Birch. Many of the plates in this part of the Halsey collection are rare, and there are a number of very fine impressions.

The MacDowell Club Exhibition.

The current exhibition of the MacDowell Club is at least cheerful in color and spirit. Louise Upton Brumback's vivid landscapes, the sunny orchards and yards of Alexander M. Hudnut, Natalie Johnson's sensitive studies of children and young girls, Jane Peterson's enlivening dock scenes and her two or three brilliant figure subjects, are in themselves sufficient to give the walls an appearance of agreeable vivacity. Thalia Millett's broadly painted landscapes are graver in manner and color. One of the most serious pictures in the exhibition, a portrait by Margaret White, is not listed in the little catalogue. The other exhibitors are William E. Atwood, Harriette Bowdoin, Ellen Hopkins, and Frederick Theodore Weber.

Send the Wheat.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If the Government needs the wheat why doesn't it take it, not depend upon a few volunteer patriots? There happens to be a war going on, not a Sunday School picnic. If the Government would commandeer all the surplus food with which the majority of people stuff themselves, also the ice-water, we could send all our doctors over. We wouldn't need them here.

BATTALIONS OVER SEA.

Down to the Sea in ships they go, our boys in tan and blue,
Lips grimly set, yet eyes aglow—defenders staunch and true;
American and Frenchman and Briton, every one
To guard the way and save the day from Attila the Hun!
Across the World they thunder, battalions over sea,
Against the Lords of Plunder that nations may be free!

In home and camp and city, in office, shop and store,
The watchword: "No selfishness, but Service more and more!"
More labor, gold, and life-blood, more youth and prayer and pain
That we may help to stay the flood nor sacrifice in vain!
Across the World they thunder, battalions over sea,
Against the Lords of Plunder that nations may be free!

We stand today beside them, that stalwart splendid Three—
Thank God we've not denied them—
France, England, Italy!
The day of Peace is darkened, the night of War is here:
Thank God we have not hearkened to weaklings crazed by fear!
Across the World they thunder, battalions over sea,
Against the Lords of Plunder that nations may go free!

It may be long, the time before we wear
the rose of Peace,
Before this Devil's fray is o'er, before the cannon cease.
But Death is clean, sun-bright, serene—
the ultimate disgrace
Is Life, dishonored! Gallant Death reveals a shining face!
Across the World they thunder, battalions over sea,
Against the Lords of Plunder that nations may go free!

Our Ally's front line falters . . . the Prussian hordes advance. . . .
Yet no dread headline alters the steadfast soul of France.
And no defeat intimidates the stubborn
British mind,
Nor can foul hate assassinate the
Yankee breed and kind!
Across the World they thunder, battalions over sea,
Against the Lords of Plunder that nations may be free!

TO STUDY GERMAN MINDS.

A Commission to Work with Prisoners Suggested.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It seems to be the popular belief that the German people are either suffering from a severe psychosis or they are racially defective. If either opinion be true, why not make an intensive study of some of the more intelligent captured prisoners, just as we do the insane in State hospitals or the criminals at Sing Sing? An expert psychologic commission for this purpose might be appointed and put to work. The interned prisoners might be so far removed from a propaganda motive as to make them rather ideal material for psychopathic study. The greater part of their mental productions (books, pamphlets, &c.) either antedates this war or was written in the early part of the present conflict.

It may be that their present ideas have undergone some change, that is, they may have lessened or increased in morbid tendencies. If so, we ought to know that, for ultimately we shall be obliged to live more or less intimately with that portion of the German people which is not destroyed utterly. It may be determined that their present mental state is not an incurable one. If we study the more hopeful individuals carefully we may be able to apply the proper training and re-education to make these survivors socially acceptable after the war is over. If, on the contrary, we find their mental state is a hopeless, atavistic type, we should know that, too, so we may properly segregate them from contaminating the rest of mankind as we do the hopelessly incurable juvenile delinquent, insane, or criminal. The findings of such an expert psychologic board might not be made public at this time, but be reserved for use when the war is over and when a rehabilitation of the German people shall be undertaken. Careful scientific studies of the German type of mind based upon actual case histories, so far as I am aware, have not been made. I believe such would be worth while, at least to guide us in instituting reform measures when peace is again maintained.

For American Soldiers in Rome.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I received this morning a letter from Mrs. J. L. Chalmers, the Secretary of the Bureau of Welcome and Information for all American officers and men in Government service visiting Rome, from which I am sending you a few quotations for the purpose of giving publicity to this work. Mrs. Chalmers writes:

"Since our boys (aviators) began to come to Rome there has been great need for some way of meeting them and making them feel at home. * * * We have the embassy back of us; Mrs. Page, Mrs. Jay, Mrs. Train, Mrs. Hodges, and Mrs. Scriven are members, and after a month of existence we can say that it is a success. The boys are invited to the homes of the members for luncheon or dinner or tea, and in this way have the opportunity to see something of home life and meet the right kind of women. I want the mothers at home to know about this, so will you tell your friends that the American women in Rome are doing all they can for the boys? If there are any mothers who would like to write to me I shall be very glad to hear from them. Our visitors' book shows that the men come from ten States and twenty cities at home. If any one is interested to help us we shall be glad of contributions."

The address of the Bureau of Welcome and Information is Hotel Royal, Via XX Settembre, Rome, Italy. Mrs. J. L. Chalmers, Secretary.

Key Names for Soldier Casualties.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If I am correctly informed, each soldier who goes across registers the name of some relative or friend to whom notices should be sent in case of necessity. As the authorities do not think it wise to give addresses, why could not the name of the registered relative or friend be given after the name of the person who has been wounded or killed, viz: William Smith, Mary Gordon Smith; John Brown, Charles Jones. The above would mean that William Smith and John Brown are among the casualties, and their identity would be determined by the names following theirs, which would be the registered key names. It would hardly be possible for a key name to be duplicated in many instances, while in very few instances is it likely that the person having the key name would not be known to friends of the soldier reported. Giving these key names would not in any wise disclose any military information, and would, I think, serve equally as well as an address in getting word to friends and relatives of the man reported, while relieving the minds of the relatives of other men of the same name.

The Magyar Oppressors.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On many occasions, with great satisfaction, I have read articles published in your estimable paper in behalf of the oppressed nationalities of Austria-Hungary. The latest article, published in your issue of March 31, under the headline "Magyar Land," exposes to the American public the spirit of the Magyar oppressors. I thank you for this defense of the oppressed, and especially I thank you in the name of the Rumanians from Hungary and of Hungary who have to suffer the most barbarous persecutions because they want to live as they were born, Rumanians. That you are right in writing this exposé of the trickery of the Magyars, the best argument is that the Magyar press of this country is very angry against you. It will abuse you as it has abused the President, the Congress, the American people and American institutions. With the deepest respects, and hoping that the day will soon arrive when the Allies may cheer that glorious triumph of justice—the liberation of the oppressed.

An Irish Compromise.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I appeal to genuine Irish Home Rulers to take the present splendid opportunity for furthering their cause. I do not appeal to those fanatics or pro-Germans who cry for what they know to be a geographical impossibility, but to those who would welcome such a measure of Home Rule as the United States allows to each of her States. Let such men appeal to the Irish convention to agree at once on the form of a bill to be presented to the British House of Commons, giving Home Rule to Ireland when the war is ended, a condition attaching to the bill being that the Irish Members of Parliament support immediate conscription in Ireland. On this basis, for the sake of the empire and civilization, I firmly believe that Ulster and the Home Rulers would agree to bury the hatchet.

Bread Without Wheat.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In response to letter from "M. R. W." in today's TIMES requesting directions for making bread without wheat flour, I submit the following, which has proved a satisfactory rule for either bread or biscuits: One quart liquid—milk and water, or either separately; 2 even tablespoons salt, small quantity sugar, molasses, or other sweetening; enough rye flour to make dough stiff enough for kneading; a little cornmeal may be added if desired—this makes the bread drier; one yeast-cake dissolved in warm water. Mix well in bread mixer or with a spoon, let rise overnight in a warm place, and in the morning knead, let it rise again in pans; bake one hour. This will make two loaves.

SOUTH CAROLINA'S SENATOR

Blease a Formidable and Unwelcome Candidate for Tillman's Seat.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Under the heading "Tillman of South Carolina" your editorial article of the 26th concludes:

> If South Carolina packs Tillman home to fill his place with some brisk anonymity—anonymous to the nation, however well his name may be known—she may get a gratifying increase of activity in her Senator, but she will be giving up something that seems imponderable and yet weighs heavily in the scales at Washington.

As to that conclusion and the premise on which it is based, there can be no dissent. But suppose South Carolina packs Tillman home to fill his place not with some brisk young anonymity, but with Cole L. Blease—who is far from being an anonymity either at home or abroad. That is the real, and the only, consideration in the South Carolina political situation at present.

There are many reasons why Blease should not be Senator. Many of them are local, affecting South Carolina chiefly. One of them is national, even international. He could be depended upon to embarrass President Wilson at every step. He has always been anti-Wilson and was anti-war, and is not a big enough man to rise above past prejudices and dislikes and opinions. As to that, there is no argument. The question in South Carolina—which no one should ponder more seriously than Senator Tillman himself—is: Can Tillman be nominated in the primary over Blease?

Senator Tillman is incapable now of making a fight on the stump. He long ago announced that on account of his health he would not be a candidate for another term. Should Mr. Tillman withdraw from the race the danger that some "brisk young anonymity" would succeed him is most remote. Even a brisk young anonymity would be preferable to six years of Blease in the Senate. But with Tillman out of the race, it is well understood that Congressman Lever would come in. The Chairman of the House Committee on Agriculture is both youthful and brisk, but he is not an anonymity. He has rendered conspicuous service in the House, and while not as famous abroad he is as influential in Washington today as Senator Tillman is. He is, moreover, an aggressive and fearless stump speaker and can defeat Blease. Only a personal regard for Mr. Tillman keeps him from opposing both Blease and the Senator. That is much to his credit as a friend; but it may not be the most patriotic view for the sake of South Carolina.

There are other men in South Carolina of Senatorial size; men who could put up a winning fight on a "win the war" platform, and with Tillman out of the way one or more of these men would get into the contest if Lever did not. Dr. George B. Cromer of Newberry, lawyer, educator, publicist, has no superior in the United States Senate today for clear, incisive thinking and speaking, or for character. R. Goodwyn Rhett of Charleston, President of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, is a profound student of statecraft and a most eloquent speaker. Mendel L. Smith of Camden, who recently resigned as Circuit Judge to become a Major Judge Advocate in the army, is a man of the highest character, finest intellect, and as a parliamentarian has few superiors in the United States. He would not long remain an anonymity if elected to the Senate, which body, we agree, contains enough anonymities now. But as yet it has no Blease. If Mr. Tillman insists on seeking another term, the Senate will very likely not only lose one of the oldest members by defeat, but will become acquainted with a personage beside whom Martins, Vardaman, and La Follette are Chesterfields and Gladstones.

CAROLINIAN.

New York, March 28, 1918.

THE CALL TO LATIN AMERICA.

Viscount Bryce's Message a Warning to be Heeded.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The note of warning from the venerable veteran of English thought, Viscount Bryce, should awaken Latin America to a realization of the perils which threaten our republican systems of government if the present conflict ends in a victory for the Prussians.

It is the limit of oddity that proud, quick-tempered nations like Spain and Argentina had been so excessively patient in enduring the series of outrageous sinkings by German U-boats of a valuable part of their merchant marine. For Switzerland, Holland, Denmark, and other Scandinavian countries to submit meekly to the atrocious conduct of Germany is not to be wondered at, because they are, we may say, on the outskirts of her territory and thoroughly aware that to keep in evidence her military successes it is easier to conquer small nations like them than to take a fortification like Verdun. But Spain is far enough from German territory to consider herself in a safer position than France and Italy, having by land besides the protection of the allied forces the natural bulwark of the Pyrenees and by water the powerful combined navies of the Allies. Even were she to take no active share in the war her nominal participation would have a very dispiriting effect upon the German people, who consider the Spaniards as a sort of admiring vassals.

Regarding Latin America, our duty is to take at once and unanimously sides with the United States, which had proved to be, not by words but by deeds, the only country on which we must rely in order to preserve our independence. The time to prove our solidarity with this country is under the present trying circumstances. If we let it go by we will either be considered as calculating opportunists or as peoples so entirely ignorant of the rights of humanity as to become a negligible quantity in the unavoidable organization of a league of nations to maintain the future peace of the world.

We say in Spanish "silence gives consent," and our neutrality only means acquiescent silence for German atrocities. Have we ceased to believe, with our heroic ancestors, that nations, like individuals, have an undeniable right to self-development? An exuberant nature has made us love liberty. Do we wish to substitute the dogmatic, selfish, and inhuman maxims of Kultur for our freedom of opinions? Are we ready to bow our heads to the audacious military ascendancy of the Junkers, to help them through our inactivity to acquire that place in the sun that will completely darken the earth and put an end of the sovereignty of nations? Are we to continue being a paragon to the pacifists of the allied countries who are giving, perhaps unconsciously but all the same infamously, courage to the enemy of mankind while dampening the resolute resolve of the worthy defenders of democracy? If Bolivar, San Martin, or O'Higgins were living today they could do nothing else than frown disdainfully upon our inexplicable impassivity before the new peril that menaces us. In the words of Lord Northcliffe, "Latin America seems out of the danger zone today, but the defeat of France and the British Empire would be followed by an attack upon South America as surely as night follows day."

R. MUNOZ TEBAR.

New York, April 1, 1918.

MISS KING TO WED LIEUT. C. DE RHAM, JR.

Sister of Lieut. Col. Van R. C. King Betrothed to Officer at Camp Upton.

BROTHER ALSO TO MARRY

Col. King Engaged to Mrs. Jewell Minturn—Troth of Lady Cutting and Geoffrey Scott.

Several interesting betrothals have just been made known.

Announcement has been made by Lieut. Col. Van Rensselaer C. King, U. S. A., at present serving in France, of the engagement of his sister, Miss Jeanne King of 270 Park Avenue, to Lieutenant Charles De Rham, Jr., of the 305th Infantry, now stationed at Camp Upton.

Miss King, who is a daughter of the late David J. King, Jr., has been actively engaged in war relief work here. She is a sister of Mrs. Griswold Flagg of Philadelphia and of Miss Ruth King of this city. Lieut. Col. King's engagement to Mrs. Jewett Minturn, daughter of Mrs. Julian Robbins, who is serving as a nurse in one of the hospitals abroad, is also announced. Lieutenant De Rham is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles De Rham of 24 Fifth Avenue. He received his commission at Plattsburg, and is a graduate of Harvard, class of '10. His clubs are the Knickerbocker and Harvard.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Woodin of 127 East Sixty-ninth Street announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Mary Woodin, to Charles Miner, a Lieutenant of the 109th United States Field Artillery, stationed at Camp Hancock, and a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William P. Miner of Wilkes-Barre, Penn.

From abroad comes the announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of Lady Sybil Cutting, daughter of the Earl and Countess of Desart of London and widow of William Bayard Cutting, Jr., of this city, to Geoffrey Scott. Since the death of Mr. Cutting, in 1910, in Egypt, Lady Cutting has resided near Florence, Italy, where the wedding is to take place shortly. Mr. Scott is attached to the British Embassy in Rome. As Lady Sybil Cuffe, she was married to Mr. Cutting, son of Mrs. W. Bayard Cutting of New York, in 1901, by whom she had a daughter, Miss Iris Cutting, now 10 years of age.

Mrs. Charles G. Du Vivier of 155 East Seventy-second Street has told of the betrothal of her second daughter, Miss Natalie Du Vivier, to John A. O'Connor of this city, son of the late Thomas H. O'Connor, prominent in the world of finance in this city and San Francisco. Their wedding is to take place in May.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Gallagher of Summit, N. J., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marjorie Gallagher, to Captain R. P. White, U. S. A., now stationed at Camp Stuart, Newport News, Va. Captain White is the son of Dr. and Mrs. J. Campbell White of Wooster, Ohio. Miss Gallagher's father is connected with the Bank for Savings, this city.

WED TO LIEUT. FORBES.

Miss Isabel N. Newton the Bride of Aviator in Grace Church.

The marriage of Lieutenant Howell Forbes of the aviation section of the Signal Corps, and a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Murray Forbes of Morristown, N. J., and Miss Isabel Ninon Newton, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Henry Newton of this city, was celebrated at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the chantry of Grace Church by Bishop Brewer and the rector, the Rev. Dr. Charles L. Slattery. The chantry was filled with relatives and intimate friends, and a reception for 400 guests was held at 14 East Sixtieth Street.

The bride, in white satin, wore her mother's bridal veil of lace and tulle, and was attended by Miss Bessie Russell of New York, in pink taffeta topped by a pink poke bonnet faced with blue. Lieutenant Forbes's best man was his brother, Gordon Forbes. Ranson Noble and Irving Kingsford were the ushers.

Lieutenant Forbes was graduated from Princeton and was one of the Secretaries of the American Embassy in London when war was declared. He resigned and joined the Morgan-Harjes Ambulance Corps and served in it two years in France, but when the United States declared war he returned to this country and took a course in aviation at Ithaca, and has been stationed as an instructor at Mineola, L. I.

Mrs. Forbes made her début two years ago and is a member of the Junior League. Her mother, Mr. Newton's first wife, was Miss Sarah Mansfield. No announcement of the engagement had been made and the marriage was hurried because of war conditions.

Miss Albertsen Weds Lieut. Lyon.

Miss Vera Mae Albertsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Albertsen of 440 West End Avenue, and Lieutenant John Vincent Lyon, U. S. N. A., son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Lyon of Goshen, N. Y., were married yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride.

Miss Erma Albertsen attended her sister and F. Murray Lyon acted as best man for his brother.

The bride's father is a Vice President of the Mechanics and Metals National Bank. Lieutenant Lyon was formerly connected with the Munson Steamship Company.

LEONIDAS DAVIS FREED.

Indictments Against Brother of Slain Burglar Dismissed.

On the motion of District Attorney Harry E. Lewis, in Brooklyn, yesterday, Justice David H. Manning, in the Supreme Court dismissed indictments of assault and burglary pending against Leonidas Davis, who was acquitted last week on the charge of murder. Davis was charged with having been a party to the scheme of his brother, Hughes Davis, to rob the cigar and stationery store of Harry Regensberg at 636 Park Place last Fall.

In the carrying out of the conspiracy, Regensberg and his brother Samuel were shot and killed and Mrs. Harry Regensberg badly wounded. Hughes Davis was killed by detectives while attempting to escape. Paul Chapman, his co-conspirator, is in Sing Sing prison under sentence of death. The District Attorney declared that all the evidence he had against Leonidas Davis had been offered at his trial for murder and that it was not advisable to try him on the other indictments with the same evidence.

AID SHIPPING BY TRUCKS.

Merchants' Association Establishes Return Load System.

The Merchants' Association, at the request of the Highways Transport Committee of the Council of National Defense, the Connecticut State Council of Defense, and the Highways Traffic Association of the State of New York, yesterday appropriated $3,000 for the purpose of creating a Return Loads Bureau in New York City to facilitate the movement of merchandise by trucks.

The function of the Return Loads Bureau is to bring together shippers and truck owners by supplying information, thus acting as a clearing house. The Return Loads Bureau system has been installed in England, where it has proved successful. It has also been started in Connecticut by the State Council of Defense.

Under the plan approved, shippers and truck owners are left to make their own agreements with regard to the rate to be paid for hauling, the liability of truck owners or drivers for the safety of goods, insurance, and the like. The Return Loads Bureau assumes no liability or responsibility. Its chief function will be to gather and disseminate information.

A "NIGHT OFF" AT ALBANY.

Patriotic Air Prevails at Dinner of Correspondents.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 4.—Patriotism took precedence over politics tonight at the annual dinner of the Legislative Correspondents' Association. While the political writers at the State capital roasted officialdom in the usual fashion, there was a serious note underlying it all and party differences were forgotten as the partisan praised the patriot.

This was strikingly shown when Governor Whitman proposed the toast to the President of the United States and immediately afterward ex-Governor Glynn paid a like tribute to the man who succeeded him in the executive office of the State. The Governor was the guest of honor, while among the other principal guests were ex-Governor Glynn, ex-Speaker Smith, and ex-Representative Fassett.

More than 400 persons were in the dining room when Frank A. Tierney of the Albany Times Union, the President of the association, made his speech of welcome. Immediately a surprise was sprung, as, at a bugle call, a morning gun was fired and a detachment of men from the 10th Regiment, New York Guard, hoisted the American flag to the top of the pole erected in the banquet hall while the national anthem was played and the soldiers presented arms.

Governor Whitman then arose and asked the diners to drink to the President, praising his conduct in the war and pledging fealty to the cause of the Allies, after which ex-Governor Glynn toasted the man who defeated him in 1914.

A parody on "Tammany" was sung, after which a huge cat made its appearance on the stage, and, looking the audience over critically, proceeded to the place where Senator Robinson sat and began rubbing against his knees in recognition of the action of the Senator in introducing a bill to require the belling of all cats in the State. To square himself Senator Robinson had to tie a huge bow and bell around the cat's neck.

Because of the legislative agitation for a return of the party State Convention the correspondents went ahead themselves and produced a new style Republican State Convention, at which the anti-Whitman men proposed Governor Whitman to succeed himself, while the Whitmanites urged the nomination of Speaker Sweet. When the vote was taken it was discovered that the delegates were unanimous for the selection of William Randolph Hearst.

GIVES VERDI'S "REQUIEM."

New Choral Society Sings with Zest at First Concert of Its Own.

The New Choral Society prefaced with "The Star-Spangled Banner," artistically sung, its performance of Verdi's "Manzoni Requiem" last evening at Carnegie Hall, where this organization made its first appearance in a concert of its own. Louis Koemmenich led the 300 singers, including the usual two-thirds majority of women's voices, some trained choristers who had followed Mr. Koemmenich's baton before, and a fair share of new material showing exceptional discipline in a single year. The introductory Latin sentences of the "Requiem" were delivered with beautiful tone and phrasing and with even more of the spiritual and prayerful quality suggested by the text.

Alfred Lindquest was the admirable tenor of the solo quartet in place of Arthur Hackett, who was ill, while Marcella Craft and Arthur Middleton brought to the music something of Verdi's strong dramatic feeling from their own operatic days, and there was a new contralto, Alma Beck. These also sang in the ensemble numbers with instant response to the conductor. The "Tuba Mirum" of the great "Dies Irae" built up a fine climax from the start with trumpets played off-stage. The performance had a fresh zest throughout that was appreciated by a large audience.

RECRUITS GET BIG SENDOFF.

Justice Collins and a Band Take One Contingent to the Ferry.

The ranks of the recruits at Camp Upton were strengthened yesterday by the addition of 894 men from Manhattan who had been certified by twenty-six local boards to make up the quota called for. Many of the contingents made the start for Yaphank as early as 7 o'clock, and from that hour until 9 the East Thirty-fourth Street Ferry and the Pennsylvania Terminal were thronged with drafted men and their relatives and friends. More than 600 men went from the other boroughs.

Local Board 143, with headquarters at 304 East Eighty-seventh Street, carried off the honors of the day in point of numbers in the ranks. When William Sennett, Chairman of the board, called the roll, shortly before 9 o'clock, sixty-three young men answered to their names. Hundreds of men, women, and children crowded on the sidewalk in front of the board rooms, and flags in profusion waved from the windows of adjoining houses.

The contingent from Amsterdam Avenue and 11th Street, in one of the buildings of Columbia University, numbered thirty-nine men, and was in charge of Professor F. G. Moore and Professor Richard Gottheil, who accompanied them to the ferry. An abundance of cheering and embraces marked the departure as the men boarded automobiles which had been loaned for the occasion by residents near the university.

Local Board 122, at 240 East Thirty-first Street, marched to the ferry, under the command of Justice Cornelius J. Collins of the Court of Special Sessions and accompanied by a brass band, which had been provided by the residents of the district, in which the majority of the young men had been born. Justice Collins delivered a stirring speech before the order to march.

The men who went away under the auspices of Local Board 130, at 336 Lenox Avenue, of which J. W. Savage is Chairman, prided themselves upon the presence as a comrade of Gus Kevarus, a Greek wrestler, who has gone to the mat with the best men in his class. He came from Los Angeles in order that he might be drafted close to the Atlantic seaboard, and thereby enjoy a better chance of being sent "over there." Kevarus said before taking his place in line that he hoped to face the Turks in Saloniki before the war is over, so that he might avenge the wrongs they had inflicted upon his beloved Greece.

SCHOOLBOYS MUST DRILL.

Those Who Disobey Training Law Will Be Disciplined.

Hereafter schoolboys between the ages of 16 and 18 years who remain away from military training will be expelled from their school or will not receive their diplomas. The rule carrying these penalties for disobedience of the State military training law went into effect yesterday. When the law first went into effect many of the boys refused to take part in military training, and as there was no penalty the State Military Training Commission could not compel them to attend drill. It was to remedy this that the Board of Education made the rule.

The enforcement of this regulation is in the hands of Dr. C. Ward Crampton and Abner P. Way, who have been appointed to co-operate with the State Military Training Commission. Dr. Crampton said yesterday that there had been a meeting of the twenty-two co-ordinators appointed from the various schools, and the entire question of enforcement had been gone over. It is proposed not only to compel compliance on the part of boys who are already in the age limit, but each schoolboy as he reaches 16 years must report to his Principal as ready for military training. Failure to report at drill the second time will mean expulsion unless a satisfactory excuse is furnished.

Mrs. Belmont Ill; Not to Speak.

Mrs. August Belmont, who was to have spoken this afternoon at the Stage Woman's War Relief Headquarters, 366 Fifth Avenue, will not be able to do so on account of a severe cold. After an extended visit to France and England, she has been speaking before relief organizations urging people to special effort in preparing surgical dressings for the Red Cross.

RICHARD MANSFIELD DIES IN TEXAS CAMP

Son of the Actor a Victim of Meningitis at Fort Sam Houston Aviation Field.

ENLISTED AS A PRIVATE

Lad, Who Was Only 20 Years Old, Had Appeared in Theatrical Performances Here.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., April 4.—Richard Mansfield 2d, son of the late Richard Mansfield, died here yesterday from meningitis at the base hospital at Fort Sam Houston. Young Mansfield's death followed an illness of several weeks. He was a member of the Aviation Section, Signal Corps, stationed at Kelly Field. His body will be sent to his home in New London, Conn.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., April 4.—Mrs. Beatrice Mansfield, mother of Richard Gibbs Mansfield, who died at Fort Sam Houston today, heard of her son's illness a few days ago and hurried to his bedside. On her arrival at the camp she telegraphed for Mrs. Rosemary O. Anderson of this city, who left here early Tuesday to join her.

Young Mansfield was in his twentieth year. He received his early education in France, and when the war began the boy expressed a wish to enter the French army. So strong was his desire that with the consent of his mother he enlisted in the French ambulance service.

Soon after the United States entered the war young Mansfield tendered his services to this country, and a few weeks ago he enlisted in the regular army at the recruiting station in New Haven. He was assigned to duty in the aviation section, and a few days later went to Texas.

Richard Gibbs Mansfield, who was a private in the aviation section of the United States army, was in his twentieth year. He enlisted in the army on Feb. 1 last. Before patriotism prompted him to become a soldier he had essayed to be an actor. He ran away from a private school and came to New York and joined a company here. His mother, who was Beatrice Cameron, found him and took him home. He was christened Gibbs Mansfield, but several years ago he assumed the name his father made famous, and since that time he has been known as Richard Mansfield.

The young man appeared on the stage for the first time in June, 1915, playing the rôle of Robin Hood in a production here of Alfred Noyes's "Sherwood" by the children of Christodora House. His performance was much praised.

He was then 17 years old and had come to New York as a schoolboy on a visit. It was said of him at that time that all his ambitions were for the stage, and he hoped to succeed his father as a great actor. In this bent he was never encouraged by his father. It was said that Mr. Mansfield would never allow his son to be brought into a theatre by the stage door.

It was in December, 1916, that young Mansfield decided the time had come for him to leave school and take up his career on the stage. Taking advantage of the Christmas holidays he left school at Short Beach, Conn., and came to New York, obtaining a place with the Provincetown Players. He played there for two nights, and his mother then induced him to return home.

BROKERS IN HOSPITAL DRIVE

Ambulances Bring In $4,000—Total to Date $127,000.

The American Women's Hospitals hope to complete the $200,000 for which they are working in the two days which are left of their drive. Twenty stock brokers yesterday contributed $3,500 to the fund following an address made by Dr. Rosalie Slaughter Morton, Chairman of the American Women's Hospitals, in the reading room of the Stock Exchange.

Two ambulances, stationed in Fifth Avenue have brought in $4,000. One of these ambulances is a gift from Mrs. Ledyard Stevens, and it is to be used in Macedonia for Serbo-American volunteers. Crowds gathered to hear Mrs. Edward Cross and Mrs. Frank Cobb, who sang from the ambulance tailboards.

Returns of $16,000 for the previous twenty-four hours were announced at the daily luncheon at the Biltmore yesterday, bringing the total to $127,000. Dr. Gertrude A. Walker, Chairman of the committee, announced that pledges would undoubtedly bring the amount to more than the $200,000. The largest single gift announced yesterday was $1,200 from John McE. Bowman of the Biltmore. One of the special guests at the luncheon, Mrs. Olivia A. Herbert, was so touched by Dr. Morton's description of the great need for medical service that she drew a check for $1,000.

Mrs. Robert Lansing, wife of the Secretary of State, who is aiding the drive through the wives of Cabinet officers, telegraphed yesterday a renewed pledge of support, and other telegrams were received from Mrs. Breckenridge Long and Dr. Smith Ely Jelliffe. Miss Helen Cannon, daughter of "Uncle Joe" Cannon, is assisting Mrs. Lansing.

Today the women will have a "poppy" drive in the financial district.

FREE BOY SCOUT MAPMAKER

Military Authorities Decide Saas Had No Pro-German Purpose.

Isador Saas, the boy of 16 who wished to qualify as a Boy Scout of the first class, and, in pursuance of this object, drew ten maps of the aqueduct district, for which he was arrested and held as a suspect, was freed yesterday after a grilling by Military Intelligence officers at 302 Broadway. Saas, when not scouting, is a student at City College. One of the requirements to qualify for the first grade is to make a fourteen-mile "hike" alone, describe the terrain and all buildings, and map the territory covered.

Saas started on the walk last Thursday. He chose the aqueduct because of the many things possible to put into a description. Near 180th Street, when busy making a map, he was seen by a sentry and taken to Valhalla. There Major Hart decided that the boy was innocent, and permitted him to go about freely but not to leave camp.

Yesterday Lieutenant Frederick Gluck brought him down to the Bureau of Military Intelligence, where he was questioned, and his maps, said to be good enough for any military topographer, were confiscated.

Mass for Paris Church Victims.

Organized by the New York League of Catholic Women, a requiem mass will be offered at St. Patrick's Cathedral next Monday morning at 9 o'clock for the victims of the German bombardment in a Paris church on Good Friday. There will be present many of the allied Ambassadors or their representatives, heads of the Federal, State, and municipal departments, officers of the allied armies, members of the Alliance Française and of the French Institute, representatives of the French National Commission, of the High French Commission, the foreign Consul Generals, and their associates.

Flour in Two-Pound Sacks Now.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Regulations requiring licensed dealers to sell wheat flour in not less than twelve-pound sacks were rescinded today by the Food Administration, and a new two-pound minimum was prescribed. The purpose is to make it easier for the housewife to buy equal quantities of wheat flour and substitutes.

ORDERS GIFTS RETURNED.

Government Bars Donations from Those Not Liable to Tax.

Collectors Eisner and Edwards of the two Manhattan Internal Revenue offices yesterday received instructions from Commissioner Roper in Washington to the effect that all gifts of money tendered to the local officials by patriotic citizens who are not liable for taxes must be returned to the donors immediately. The Commissioner's letter said:

> All sums of money tendered to Collectors of Internal Revenue by taxpayers, or by persons not subject to tax, as contributions or gifts to the Government should be promptly returned to the donor, with a letter expressing appreciation of the patriotic spirit displayed. The letter should state that the Bureau of Internal Revenue is charged exclusively with the collection of taxes under the internal revenue laws, and should suggest that the purpose of the donor can best be accomplished by investing the amount tendered in United States Liberty Loan bonds, War Savings certificates, or thrift stamps, or by donation to the Treasurer of the United States, Washington.

Collector Edwards announced that he had opened in his office a place for receiving subscriptions for the Third Liberty Loan. One subscription for $5,000 was received yesterday.

Collector Eisner of the Upper Manhattan District yesterday gave notice that the time for persons or firms who are required to pay war tax on admissions and dues, and also for ticket brokers, to register with the Collector had been extended to April 15.

TO OPEN CULVER LINE SOON.

Service Board Hopes It Will Be Running in Three Months.

The Public Service Commission announced yesterday that the new Culver rapid transit line in Brooklyn would be put into operation within three months and that bids would be opened on April 15 for an extension of the line from Avenue X to Coney Island. It was at first proposed to carry operations only as far as the express station at Kings Highway. Under the urgings of Commissioner Kracke the extension has been planned.

The Chief Engineer of the commission was instructed yesterday to change the crossovers connecting the express and local tracks from Kings Highway south to Avenue X, so that additional stations might be placed at Avenues U and X. Residents in the vicinity of these two points have frequently asked for the extension because of the accommodation it would afford a large area that is growing rapidly in population.

$1,000 FOR A VON BREMEN.

"Hour for Rest" Brings Top Price at Sale of 93 Paintings—Total $9,970.

Meyer von Bremen's "The Hour for Rest" brought the highest price at the first evening's sale of modern paintings belonging to different estates sold under the auspices of the American Art Association in the ballroom of the Plaza last evening, going to Otto Bernet, agent, for $1,000. The picture is 14¾ inches high by 11½ wide, and shows a cottage interior, a young girl with a mischievous expression on her face and dancing eyes. She is seated in a chair, her head leaning against the wall, looking to the front of the picture, one arm over the arm of the chair, and the right hand resting on a book in her lap. There is a coffee pot, creamer, and cup and saucer on the table at her side, and a vase of flowers in the window. This picture belonged to the estate of the late Henry Hoyt.

Another picture by the same artist, belonging to the estate of Mary L. McMillan, widow of United States Senator James McMillan of Detroit, "Sleep, Baby, Sleep," brought the second highest price of the evening. This was also a cottage interior, a picture somewhat larger than the other, and showed two children leaning over the cradle of a sleeping baby. It went to R. Deutsch for $380.

Other pictures bringing prices of $150 and over, with names of pictures, artists, buyers, and prices, are as follows:

5—On the River—Sanchez-Perrier; J. W. Charles	$200
9—Bachi-Bazouk—Gerome; Fred'k J. Blanch	160
14—A Gentleman in His Park—Charles Leo-Hermann; Prinz Bros	150

The returns for the ninety-three pictures were $9,970. The sale will be concluded at the Plaza this evening.

OLD BRONZE FIREDOGS, $235

Sale of Antique Furniture at American Galleries Brings $6,479.

Old Italian Renaissance bronze firedogs, surmounted by the figures of Neptune and Amphitrite, three feet six inches tall, which were among the interesting pieces at the sale of the furniture, antique and after antique models, from a New York City mansion, which opened at the American Art Galleries yesterday afternoon, brought $235, going to a buyer giving the name of Mrs. Cooper. To the same buyer went a carved mahogany stand with a sliding candle tray for $180; a pair of Queen Anne mahogany folding card tables for $200, and a Hepplewhite settee with arched top and shaped front for $190.

Two satinwood corner closets with bow front and inlaid oval portrait medallions went to Mrs. C. C. Hoyt for $470, and to the same buyer a set of wall candelabra for $240. An arched-back sofa with high rolled arms, upholstered in green silk cut velour, in a floral pattern, went to J. T. Jelina for $160, and a silver bronze chandelier with angel torsos at the top to C. F. Caldwell for $175.

The returns for the day were $6,479. The sale will be concluded today.

Jusserand to View French Paintings

French Ambassador Jules Jusserand and Mme. Jusserand will come from Washington tomorrow to visit the New York Salon of Modern French Paintings which is being shown in the former residence of Colonel and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, 677 Fifth Avenue. This was announced last evening by Mrs. Newbold Le Roy Edgar and Mrs. Robert Bacon, who are the Executive Chairmen in charge of the exhibition. Governor and Mrs. Whitman are also to be in New York tomorrow and are expected to be present. Ambassador and Mme. Jusserand will make their visit at 3:30 in the afternoon. Hundreds of invitations have been extended to prominent New York people to meet the Ambassador. There will be music by Maurice Dumesnil and Jacques Thibaud, and tea will be served. The pictures are now under the direction of Jules Ratskowski, representing the Société des Artistes Français and the Société des Beaux Arts of Paris, and for the benefit of the Sandoz Mission, which is collecting funds in America for the invalided soldiers of France.

Women Painters' Exhibition April 9.

An association medal for painting and sculpture will be a feature of the twenty-seventh annual exhibition of the National Association of Women Painters and Sculptors to be held from April 9 to 13 inclusive at 6 West Fifty-seventh Street. There will be a private view from 3 to 6 P. M. Monday, April 8. The National Arts Club prize presented by John G. Agar for the best work of art will be awarded as usual. This will be the first time of the presentation by the association of its own medals.

EQUAL FRANCHISE DINNER.

Women Participate with Men in Democratic League's Celebration.

Women had an equal share with the men at the third annual dinner of the Young Men's Democratic League of New York at the Hotel McAlpin last night. It was the first time the league had invited women to take part in its dinners, and they held the stage most of the time. One of the chief speakers was Miss Elizabeth C. McCrystal, President of the Young Women's Democratic League. She was received with enthusiasm.

"I always was a Democrat, but never thought I would be a full-fledged political speaker," she said. "I believe that the men were perfectly capable of governing. I believe that they were fair to women. But a new burden has been laid upon our shoulders by the Legislature, and the men of the State have given us the vote. It is our duty, as I see it, to promote the doctrines of Jefferson, Jackson, Lincoln and Woodrow Wilson, to try to make the women realize that it is necessary for all of us to exercise the right of franchise.

"For years Socialism and super-Socialism have been infesting this nation as a cancerous growth. The Socialists will see to it that every woman who supports their cause registers her vote. Our league should see to it that every one of us who believes in the principles of liberty for which our country and our party stand goes to the polls on Election Day."

FINDS 3 DEAD FROM GAS.

Bodies of Wife and Children Discovered by Husband.

John Larkin, a mechanic, returned from work yesterday to his apartment, 1,354 Fulton Street, Brooklyn, to find his wife and two children dead and their boarder overcome in the gas-filled rooms. All the windows had been closed, and every gas jet in the apartment turned on. When Larkin opened the door he was nearly overcome by the outrush of gas. He crawled in and opened the windows. His wife, Margaret, was dead on the floor, and the bodies of his son John, 10 years old, and his four-months-old daughter, Edna, were on the bed in the same room. In a small room off the living room he found Joseph Bronenia, the boarder, unconscious.

When the police and Dr. McMannus from St. Mary's Hospital came they found evidence to show that the woman had begun preparations for ending her own life and those of the children just after Larkin left home for work. The boy was not dressed for school, and the baby had been laid in bed beside him.

After two hours work with a pulmotor Bronenia was sufficiently revived to be hurried to the hospital. The police say that Mrs. Larkin suffered from a nervous malady that deranged her mind.

BOMB KILLS DE SADELEER.

Belgian Minister of State, Now Here, Hears of Son's Death.

Louis de Sadeleer, Minister of State for Belgium and a member of a special Belgian Mission to America, now at the Hotel Touraine in this city, has received word from the Belgian Government that his son, Etienne de Sadeleer of the Belgian army, was killed by a bomb dropped from a German airplane during a violent bombardment of Amiens on the night of March 26, at which place he was serving.

Louis de Sadeleer, who was only 28 years old, was First Marechal de Logis of the Belgian Interpreters, and had been stationed in Amiens for several months, where he acted as Commissaire Militaire in conjunction with the British forces.

Marechal de Sadeleer received his education in Belgium and was graduated from the ill-fated University of Louvain with the degree of Doctor of Laws. At the beginning of the war he was an attaché on the staff of the Belgian National Guard, but at the request of the Belgian Relief Commission was later transferred to the commission to serve as a secretary interpreter for the American delegates, and was instrumental in organizing the National Relief Committees in the Belgian provinces.

Marechal de Sadeleer had been to America several times, and at one time was a member of his father's mission. About a year ago, desiring to get into active service, he left America and entered the Belgian Army as a volunteer.

R. B. CUTTING DIES IN FRANCE

New Yorker Was a Y. M. C. A. Officer Worker in War Service.

PARIS, April 4.—Robert Bayard Cutting of New York, a Young Men's Christian Association worker, died at an American base hospital on Monday after an operation. The burial took place Tuesday, the funeral service being conducted by the Rt. Rev. Charles H. Brent, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of the Philippines. Mr. Cutting was an associate organizing secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and was charged with opening new areas in an advanced section of the front.

Robert Bayard Cutting was a son of Robert Fulton Cutting of this city, and a member of an old American family which has been prominent here for several generations. He was graduated from Harvard with the class of 1897. Mr. Cutting was a member of the Tuxedo, University, City, and Harvard Clubs.

LIEUT. FRASER-CAMPBELL.

British Officer Killed in France Was a New York Banker.

Word of the death in action in France on March 23 of Lieutenant William Baillie Fraser-Campbell of the British Army was received in this city yesterday. Lieutenant Fraser-Campbell had been a member of the firm of Brown Brothers & Co., bankers, before he left for service in the Argyle and Sutherland Highlanders in January, 1916. He had been at the front continuously for eight months, and took part with the British forces in the fighting around Ypres.

His father, the late Evan J. Fraser-Campbell of this city and Dunmore, Scotland, was a British subject, and it was his wish that his sons should retain the same allegiance.

Lieutenant Fraser-Campbell was graduated from Harvard in 1911, and while in college he was Captain of the university tennis team. He had been with the firm of Brown Brothers for a year before going to France. In April, 1916, he married Elizabeth Hare Powell, daughter of Robert J. Hare Powell of Ardsley-on-Hudson.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Are Quiet, but Strong—New Liberty Issue Terms Please.

Yesterday's stock market was broader, but little more active, with transactions only slightly exceeding 200,000 shares. For the first four days of the week the total sales have constituted less than one good day's business. The public is not discouraged over the outlook, as shown by the fact that prices are gradually but steadily working to higher levels, but there is an almost entire absence of speculative operations which usually furnish a large share of the day's turnover. The combination of Government control over railroad operation and over prices of leading industrial lines has removed much of the speculative possibilities of stocks, and the new interpretation of the tax on shares transferred has served to narrow still further professional operations.

Although the activity was limited even in the leading issues yesterday, a number of the industrials scored substantial gains. Several issues moved up from 2 to 8 points on sales of from 100 to 500 shares, and General Motors, with a total of 2,000 shares, looked relatively active in such a quiet market. Some of the railroads sold off fractionally, but the old industrial favorites such as Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies, Central Leather, and Mexican Petroleum came back with substantial recoveries. The war news is still inconclusive, although each day serves to strengthen confidence in the ability of the Allies to meet the enemy's offensive at any point chosen for a demonstration. There has been a noticable lack of interest in the ill-timed effort of Count Czernin to reawaken peace discussions in France and the United States. Bankers feel that his good faith would have been less open to question had he made the substance of his recent address before the launching of the great offensive rather than after it had been halted with such disastrous results to the attackers.

For the most part comment in the financial district on Secretary McAdoo's decision to make the new Government loan a straight ten-year issue was favorable, although here again he perpetrated a surprise. Mr. McAdoo has evidently been actuated by the belief that a decade is a reasonable allowance of time for readjustment in money conditions after the conclusion of peace. The failure of the outstanding Liberty bonds, which are convertible at par into the new issue, to approach closer to a parity of yield is difficult to understand. The second 4s were again very active yesterday and slightly weaker, no less than $480,000 selling at 96.34, with smaller lots down to 96.30. There is naturally a difference of opinion as to the ethics of a purchase of these bonds for the purpose of conversion with funds set aside for subscription to the new issue, but there is general agreement on the proposition that the 4s logically should be selling nearly three points higher in view of the approaching issue of the higher yield, shorter term bonds at par.

Call money continues easy, most loans yesterday being effected at the previous day's ruling rate of 3½ per cent, with a stronger tone prevailing at the close.

LONDON MARKET CHEERFUL.

Strength of War Loan Indicates Confidence of the Traders.

LONDON, April 4.—The strength and activity of the war loan, which led the rise in gilt-edged securities today, indicated the confidence prevailing among the public and in the stock market generally. The other sections were quiet, but cheerful.

The chief interest was centred in Cornish tin mines, in which there was a large turnover at rising prices. Argentine rails were firm, but Russian issues were easy.

Money was in fair demand, and there was a good supply available. Discount rates were dull.

Trading Quiet on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, April 4.—Trading was quiet on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes, 57 francs, 50 centimes for cash. Exchange on London, 27 francs 20 centimes. Five per cent. loan, 88 francs 35 centimes.

MAY OPPOSE ROPER RULING.

Order Making Borrowed Stock Tax Retroactive Expected Here.

Brokers in securities were not surprised to learn yesterday afternoon that Commissioner Roper had decided that the tax on the borrowing and returning of stocks should be made retroactive to Dec. 1, 1917. They said it would complicate the situation in respect to taxation on short sales, and would entail a great amount of clerical work. Members of the Stock Exchange assumed that they would have to begin the collection of the taxes immediately on the short sales in speculative accounts, running back through the full period since the war tax law went into effect.

It is predicted that much opposition would come from customers, especially those who have made small profits, or none at all, this year. Governors of the Exchange said they would not be surprised to see one or more suits started against brokers who sought to collect the back taxes. Such legal action as an injunction to restrain a broker from collecting the tax would not be unwelcome to the Stock Exchange members as a whole, because of the possibility that it would lead to a complete review of the Attorney General's ruling on the borrowed stock impost.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Money in Circulation.

Money in circulation in the United States on the first of April amounted to $5,240,261,501, which compares with $4,702,130,941 a year ago and $5,092,530,682 a month ago, according to estimates made public yesterday by the Treasury Department in Washington. The general stock of money in the country on April 1 totaled $6,480,181,525, as against $5,812,272,109 this time a year ago. Based on the estimated population of the country of 105,437,000, the Treasury announces that the per capita circulation on April 1 was $49.70, as compared with $45.34 on April 1, 1917, and $48.37 on March 1, 1918.

Standard Oils Rise.

A quiet upward movement of considerable size has been in progress among the Standard Oil stocks for the last ten days. On top of a 15-point gain last week, Standard of New Jersey showed a rise in yesterday's final bid price of 22 points since Monday. Standard Oil of Ohio has advanced in the bid quotation about 40 points this week, and lesser gains are displayed by several others of the group. Oil shipments have expanded substantially since March 15, and concerns which were forced by the severe Winter weather to curtail refining and production in January and February are returning rapidly to a normal condition. Now that sufficient time has passed for a survey of the oil situation during the Winter, it is found that at some important centres comparatively little finished products were moved from the refineries for several weeks when the railroads were tied up the worst. This condition has been eliminated, and earnings, where they were cut down, are increasing.

Investment Buying.

Brokers who follow closely the investment buying of stocks on the Stock Exchange said yesterday that the buying and removal of stocks from Wall Street had continued steadily through the uncertain period which followed the start of the German advance. It was asserted that the purchases which brought the advances yesterday and the day before came from outside investment sources. Odd lots are reported in consistent demand from localities where industrial prosperity has increased the incomes of the people.

The Cotton Advances.

The sharp upward turn in cotton prices on the New York Cotton Exchange this week has been sensational enough, from the ordinary observer's point of view, and, in fact, has made the week one of the most exciting in cotton this season. But from the point of view of the big commission dealers, the men who actually handle cotton, as distinguished from those who merely speculate in it, this latest rise has merely been something they have expected, a belated but welcome assertion of the stability of the cotton trade as a commercial, rather than as a speculative, proposition. The reason is that this rise has already brought local cotton prices into something like parity with the big Southern spot cotton markets, where real bales of cotton changed hands at prices determined by actual trade conditions.

What Speculation Has Done.

The point is, that all through this unprecedented season in the cotton world, the local speculative element has been persistently and incurably bearish in cotton. Basing their calculations simply on the obvious fact that cotton never was so high before in history, they have persistently sold for a reaction. They have been fooled month after month and have paid for their mistakes, but none the less their united efforts have succeeded, temporarily, under ordinary market conditions, in keeping local cotton prices, and particularly futures, considerably lower than was justified by actual conditions in the Southern commercial markets, where the real cotton price is made by the ability of the seller to hold for his price, and the willingness of the buyer to pay it—not by speculation in New York. As a result, the New York cotton market has been all along in a condition of unstable equilibrium. The relatively low price here has been of no real value to cotton commission men, and they are well enough pleased to see it advance to a figure which affords some real proportion to Southern prices, based on the cost of transportation here. It was bound to happen, for so long as the Southern grower can hold for his price he is the ruling factor in the cotton market, and the exchanges can only register his decision.

Three New Reserve Bank Members.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York announced yesterday the admission of three new members, namely, the People's Trust Company of Binghamton, N. Y.; the Trust Company of Wyoming County of Warsaw, N. Y., and the Commercial Trust Company of New Jersey of Jersey City, N. J.

Central Leather Shows Strength.

Central Leather began to show a strong tone early yesterday afternoon, and the net gain of more than 2 points contained the full extent of the forward movement. At 67¼ the stock showed a gain of about 5 points from its recent minimum figure, which was reached shortly after the quarterly dividend was declared. There has been no particular news to account for the recovery outside of references made by statisticians to the company's strong position in regard to working capital and inventories. The opinion seems to be gaining ground that, with better transportation conditions, the Central Leather Company, like many others, is likely to make a better showing in earnings in the current quarter than was considered probable a month ago.

ORDERS AN EMBARGO ON MANY IMPORTS

Director Peterson Announces a New Rule Affecting South America and the Orient.

MOVE TO SAVE TONNAGE

Shipments Forbidden of What Were "Restricted Imports"—Hint of Further Extension of Regulations.

Frederick B. Peterson, Director of Imports of the Federal War Trade Board, addressing 1,000 importers yesterday at the Hotel Astor, announced that the list issued on March 23 of restricted imports for which licenses would be required would be changed to an absolute embargo on and after April 15 as to all countries of the world except European countries, Mexico and Canada.

A list of eighty-two articles, mostly in the nonessential class, is affected by the latest action of the War Trade Board. Director Peterson said that he had authorized the announcement of the embargo through the Bureau of Information before leaving Washington on Wednesday, but that, as the bureau had not given the matter publicity, he would take advantage of his visit to New York to do so.

"The embargo as to these articles on this list after April 14—that is, from April 15 on—as to all countries of the world except European countries, Mexico and Canada will be absolute," Mr. Peterson said. "That is to say, the Bureau of Imports will have no authority to issue a license for any of these commodities on the restricted list for importation from South America or Australia or the Orient after April 14. There are many licenses outstanding for these articles on the list from these countries, and such licenses will be ineffective for shipment from abroad after April 14. A general order has been issued revoking all those licenses."

After reviewing the successive steps in import control undertaken by the Government, all for the purpose of conserving tonnage, Mr. Peterson said:

"The vital need of the Allies today, as you all know, is ships, ships, ships, to carry men and supplies to Europe, and this import restriction is one means of carrying that out. Ships cannot be built in time; it is essential that we should devote every ship to the most essential trade, into the most essential lines, and that can be done by prohibiting the importation, the transportation of certain articles.

"Hence this list of restricted imports—this first list of restricted imports was announced on March 23. It does not include a great many articles. There are eighty-two articles mentioned. Of course, these classify into a numerous amount of others, but it is an entering wedge. We can save some tonnage by the restriction on that list, and while I haven't the knowledge, and would not be in a position to announce it if I had the knowledge, still it is conceded, it is admitted, that there will be other lists out, which will still further restrict imports and conserve more tonnage. What articles will be placed on these other lists, as I say, I don't know. I can't tell you if I could."

The Director said there was ample tonnage coming back from Europe. The necessity, however, for speed in the transportation of troops and supplies was so great that it was deemed wiser to have the boats come back in ballast, or with a small cargo, rather than to take the few days that were required to load on the other side and discharge here.

"As you can see," Mr. Peterson continued, "the saving of time is the same as putting more ships into the trade. However, it is necessary that there should be some ballast, some cargo for these boats, so it is permitted to bring in articles on the restricted list from Europe provided they can be shipped from convenient ports and without delay."

Following Mr. Peterson's address, many merchants asked for information on phases of the embargo. It was brought out that the embargo after April 14 is absolute on all restricted commodities from Cuba and the West Indies. Fruits on the restricted list coming over from Havana by the car ferry, thence by rail, are not restricted. None can come by steamer.

Among the articles mentioned in the restricted list issued by the War Trade Board were agricultural implements, art works, all breadstuffs except wheat and wheat flour, including imports from Europe, manufactures of cotton, natural and artificial feathers, explosives, except fulminates and gunpowder, all fruits except pineapples and bananas, gold and silver manufactures, including jewelry, nickel, musical instruments, confectionery, and a miscellaneous lot of other articles.

NEW CUT IN IMPORTS TO RELEASE TONNAGE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—In the effort to obtain, as quickly as possible, all available shipping for carrying soldiers and supplies to France, the Government will insist that there shall be no delay in the movement of tonnage in carrying cargoes of commodities not considered essential to the conduct of the war.

Under a recent order of the War Trade Board a long list of imports will be excluded on and after April 15, in order to use for military purposes the tonnage necessary to carry them. It has been ruled that ships which carry troops and supplies to European ports must return in ballast and not wait to take on cargoes of so-called nonessentials if the loading of these cargoes would lengthen the trip.

It is believed that approximately 250,000 tons will be made available for war service as a result of the first order restricting imports, and it has been intimated that further restrictions would be made until the tonnage thus withdrawn from non-essential trade aggregated 1,000,000 or more. No official figures are available.

Vessels returning from Europe will be licensed to bring cargoes if it is shown that this does not cause delay and thus lessen the efficiency of the available fleet in transporting men and necessities to France. The British and French Governments, it is said, are in full accord with the program and are ready to make further sacrifices in connection with exports to America in order to meet the crisis confronting the allied cause.

The Government, it was reported today, would use as many as possible of the vessels obtained by the seizure of Dutch tonnage and agreements with other neutral nations in carrying soldiers to France. Only a few of the Dutch ships are suitable for use as transports for soldiers, but they will release other tonnage, most of it under British registry, which it has been necessary up to this time to use for carrying food instead of men.

It is believed that at least 250,000 of the 450,000 tons of shipping which will be made available for the transatlantic service by Japan, either by sale or charter to the United States, will be ready in time to aid in combating the Germans this Summer. Some of the additional 350,000 tons which are still to be constructed will be ready by Fall, and, if circumstances demand, tonnage now built but which Japan has as yet withheld for other trade, may be substituted to meet an emergency.

PUBLIC SERVICE EARNINGS.

Jersey Corporation's Net Income $2,377,400, a Loss of $564,468.

The report of the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey for the year ended Dec. 31, 1917, shows a net income of $2,377,400, a decrease of $564,468, as compared with the showing for 1916. As dividends amounting to $2,399,068 were paid during the year, the surplus would have been drawn upon had it not been for credit adjustments adding $99,677, and other credits, not ordinarily carried as income, amounting to $17,485.

The gross operating revenues of the subsidiary companies of the corporation were $47,291,342, against $42,548,775 in 1916, but operating expenses increased proportionately, so that their operating income was practically stationary, amounting to $16,751,973, against $16,684,921 in 1916. The loss in net income of the corporation was due to the drop in the income of the Public Service Corporation's own directly operated properties.

The report alludes to the enormous increases in all expenses during 1917, for material, labor, &c., and the difficulties in the way of keeping the working force of the company up to standard in the face of the disturbed conditions in the labor market, enlistments in the army and navy, the draft, &c. In this respect the Public Service Corporation merely repeats the experience of practically all other public utilities and railroad companies.

ORDERS TO SPEED STEEL FOR SHIPS

Mills Now Required to Give Preference to Fleet Corporation Needs.

WAR BOARDS CO-OPERATE

Investigation Is Begun as to Shortage at the Hog Island Yards.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Sufficient steel for the building program of the Emergency Fleet Corporation of the United States Shipping Board is to be provided at all costs in view of the charges that there has been delay as a result of a lack of co-ordination of effort.

This much was made evident today, following an exchange of views by officials of the Shipping Board, the War Industries Board, and other legislative and administrative bodies of the Government. Coincidentally, orders went out by telephone to all steel mills to meet the situation and give preference to Emergency Fleet Corporation orders.

How the so-called nonessential industries which have asked for steel will fare under these conditions is another question. It was said that the mills are voluntarily refusing to deliver steel to these industries, and are giving practically their entire output to Government needs. The steel rejected by the Government will be available to the other industries for some time.

Intimations made before the Senate Commerce Committee that shipbuilding was being seriously delayed served to bring the matter to the front again when representations were made before the Requirements Division of the War Industries Board, and reports were put in circulation that an appeal might be made to President Wilson. The War Industries Board countered with the statement that for three months enough steel had been shipped from the mills to carry on a shipbuilding program of 550,000 tons a month, and if there had been delay it was caused by improper allocation of the orders, the general transportation congestion and the long hauls from the mills to fabricating plants and shipyards. These faults, it was said, were blameable upon conditions before the present Shipping Board regime went into office.

Officials of the Shipping Board stuck to the contention that much of the delay was due to the fact that Emergency Fleet Corporation orders which were made through the War Industries Board had at times been placed with mills which were overworked, and that the necessary preference orders had not been given.

An investigation is being made to determine whether some shipyards were oversupplied with steel while others lacked a sufficient quantity to carry out their contracts at top speed.

The Shipping Board is determined to co-operate in every way with the War Industries Board and if necessary to place men in the steel yards to see that its needs are filled according to the orders placed through the Industries Board. The army and navy departments now have men at the mills, while the Shipping Board is represented by the Industries Board.

Attention will be paid immediately to the charges that there is a shortage of steel at the great Government-owned fabricating yard at Hog Island, Philadelphia. The War Industries Board has asked for full information, asserting that a shortage, if any exists, must be due to a lack of information in the past.

A survey of the situation by the War Industries Board and the Shipping Board has indicated that the steel mills of the nation are able to turn out all of the materials necessary to the essential manufactures. The problem of supplying the essential industries first has been one of the big ones which has received thorough study since President Wilson reorganized the War Industries Board a few weeks ago and made Bernard M. Baruch the Chairman.

Information which Chairman Hurley of the Shipping Board obtains as a result of the telegram which he sent to all shipbuilders on Tuesday asking why the March program had not been met, will be of the greatest use in determining whether steel shipments are being made on a satisfactory basis.

WHEAT.

News on the outlook for the new Winter wheat crop continues of a most promising nature. A member of the local Exchange who was recently in the Southwest said that the crop in that locality is in splendid condition. The Ohio State report makes the condition of wheat in that State 83 per cent., compared with 89 per cent. last year and 88 per cent. last June. Reports from the Spring wheat belt were also of an optimistic nature, as seeding operations are making rapid progress and a large acreage seems assured. Advices from Canada said that last year's price of $2.21 for wheat is believed to be a suitable figure for the next crop. Receipts at primary points continued light, although private advices point to a prospective improvement in the movement, as the Food Administration is endeavoring to induce farmers to sell more freely in order to keep up with the schedule of exports.

RYE.

The local rye market was again dull and nominal. In the West prices were irregular, with Chicago 1 cent lower, at $2.81, while Minneapolis was 2 cents higher, at $2.92.

CORN.

Prices in the corn market were firmer, reflecting a more bullish interpretation of the smaller movement at primary points. Receipts were 995,000 bushels, which compared with 1,432,000 a week ago yesterday and 571,000 for the corresponding day one year ago. Cash prices were also firm and higher in the West, with gains of 5 to 10 cents. In the local cash market kiln-dried No. 3 yellow was quoted at $2.02½; No. 4 yellow, $1.95¼; No. 3 white, $2.20¼, cost and freight New York; Argentine corn, $2.50, free on board cars.

OATS.

The oats market was firmer early on further evidences of export buying, which caused shorts to cover. Prices advanced ¾c from the previous close, but subsequently eased off under profit taking, and final quotations were net unchanged to ⅛c higher. Sentiment in some quarters was inclined to lean to the bear side on the large stocks in the country and the very favorable outlook for the new crop. When export buyers appear, however, prices invariably advance, and these conditions keep the market moving feverishly within a range of about 2c a bushel. The local cash market was steady; natural quoted at $1.04½@$1.05½; clipped white, $1.05@$1.08, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market was easier under scattered selling, prompted by a slow demand for live hogs and a quiet spot trade. Stocks are large, but a considerable proportion of the supplies are owned in Europe and are awaiting transportation, and on this account some authorities believe that the situation is not as weak as appears on the surface. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 22,000 head; estimated for today, 30,000 head; Kansas City received 9,000 and Omaha 15,500 hogs.

COFFEE.

The coffee market was less active yesterday. No official statement has yet been received regarding rumored Government measures in aid of imports, and there was evidently a disposition to wait for developments in that connection. If anything, indeed, there was less confidence manifested in the talk of larger shipments from Brazil, owing to the emphasis which is now being placed upon the rushing of troops and war materials to Europe. Scattering liquidation was still in evidence, however, and after opening unchanged to 2 points lower the market closed unchanged to 5 points under Wednesday's final figures. A better supply of offers was reported in the cost and freight market, including Santos 4s at 10.40c by sail and at 10.80c by steam, London credits. The spot market was dull and unchanged at 9⅛c for Rio 7s and 11⅛c for Santos 4s. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

There was no change in the local sugar situation, and some anxiety still seems to prevail in regard to supplies. Enough tonnage has been promised to carry sugar here for the early canning season, but whether or not, with the necessity for ships to carry troops and supplies abroad, this tonnage will remain in the sugar-carrying trade is still an open question. Already the committee has made fairly liberal purchases for shipments this month and, in addition, 262,400 bags of Cubas were purchased, together with 7,500 tons of Porto Ricos and 51,400 bags of Santo Domingos, all for April shipment. In refined complaint is still heard of irregular arrivals, although these are expected to improve next week. Deliveries are being made from day to day wherever possible and business on the whole promises to soon show improvement. All prices remain unchanged at a fixed level of 4.985c for Cubas, cost and freight, equal to 6.005c for centrifugal, with refined listed on the basis of 7.45c for fine granulated.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday 9,304 packages, including 829 packages in transit for export. Prices show further decline of fully 1c and at the reduced figures buyers are still operating very cautiously and the market has an unsettled tone. The weakness extends to all grades of creamery, both fresh and held. Renovated has also dropped ½@1c, but ladles and packing stock show no further change. Creamery, higher than extras, a pound, 42@42½c; extras, (92 score,) 41@41½c; firsts, (88 to 91 score,) 40@40½c; seconds, (83 to 87 score,) 38@39½c; thirds, 36@37½c; creamery, unsalted, higher than extras, 43@43½c; extras, 42@42½c; firsts, 40@41½c; seconds, 38½@39½c; creamery, held, as to quality, 35@40½c; State Dairy, tubs, finest, 41@41½c; good to prime, 38½@40½c; common to fair, 35@38c; renovated, extras, 39c; firsts, 37½@38½c; lower grades, 34@37c; imitation creamery, firsts, 36@37c; ladles, current make, firsts, 35@35½c; seconds, 33½@34c; lower grades, 31@33c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 34c; No. 2, 33c; lower grades, 28@32c.

EGGS.—41,942 cases. Arrivals continue excessive, stock is accumulating rapidly, and demand is only moderate and prices rule lower and unsettled. A good deal of the best stock arriving from favorite sections is under higher cost than is present selling value here, and is under orders to store rather than force sales on the present market. Some of the finer qualities cannot be bought at our present quotations, but to do any important business outside figures are rather extreme and offerings within the ranges quoted are ample for all needs. Nearby white eggs are in liberal supply, current distributing trade is light and receivers are depending upon storage to take care of the surplus. Market is unsettled. Only very fine qualities can be sold at top quotations, a large part of the trading being in range of 35½@39c. Fresh gathered extras, a dozen, 38c; storage packed firsts, 36@37½c; regular packed extra firsts, 35½@36c; regular packed firsts, 33½@35c; seconds and poorer, 32@33c; fresh gathered dirties, No. 1, 32½@33c; No. 2 and poorer, 31@32c; fresh gathered checks, ordinary to choice, dry, 30@32c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western hennery whites, fine to fancy, 39@40c; ordinary to prime, 37@38c; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 37@39c; Western and Southern, gathered whites, 37@38c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby hennery browns, 37@38c; gathered brown and mixed colors, 34½@36c; duck eggs, nearby Indian runner, 40c; Long Island, 58@60c; Baltimore, prime to choice, 55c; Western and prime Southern, 52@54c; goose eggs, per dozen, 60@75c.

85 MEMBERS JOIN CHAMBER.

Largest Number Ever Taken Into Body in Single Day.

The routine monthly meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York was held at noon yesterday in the Chamber's hall, 55 Liberty Street. As a special meeting, commemorative of the Chamber's one hundred and fiftieth anniversary, is to be held today the meeting yesterday was held only to dispose of routine business, and a comparatively small number of members was present.

The chief feature of the occasion was the election of eighty-five new members of the Chamber, the largest number ever taken into the body in a single day since it was founded in 1768. Resolutions regarding the needs of the American merchant marine and the shipbuilding program, and also advocating and suggesting plans for the wider adoption of trade acceptances, were passed.

SPOT COTTON 36 CTS.

All Deliveries Make New High Records for the Fourth Time in as Many Days.

Another wave of trade buying, with notable bidding from houses with Liverpool connections, marked a continuance of the sensational advance in prices on the local cotton market yesterday. For the fourth time in as many days all deliveries made new high records for the season, while spot cotton was officially quoted at 36 cents a pound. The tone of the market was firm to the close, which was only a trifle off from the best, at net advances of from 60 to 70 points.

There was slightly more irregularity noticed during the advance than on preceding days, this apparently being largely due to realization by speculative longs, who, like the purely speculative element generally, have repeatedly underestimated the strength of advances founded on trade demand and restricted supply. Such offerings were absorbed, however, with no more than a momentary flurry, and prices immediately went forward again.

One large dealer characterized the session as "purely a scarcity market." Short covering played little part in the advance, as the short interest had been pretty thoroughly squeezed and scared out by previous days' rises. The opening was firm and from 15 to 26 points up. All reports from the South told of favorable crop prospects for next season, but at the same time of vain efforts on all sides to obtain white cotton of any grade, and resulting expectation of the smallest carry-over in years. Southern spot quotations were generally higher, and local futures quotations went forward accordingly during the entire session, reaching their highest point just before the close. The amount of Southern offerings brought out by the advance was significantly small. No exports were reported yesterday.

American Gas & Electric Company
Three-Year 6% Secured Convertible Gold Notes
Due March 1, 1921
Callable as a whole, or in amounts of not less than $500,000 by lot, at 100½ and interest. Principal and interest payable in New York and Chicago in Gold. Total authorized $3,500,000. The Northern Trust Company, Chicago, Trustee.

The following is summarized from a letter from the President of the Company:

The notes are the direct obligation of the American Gas & Electric Company, specifically secured by deposit of $2,048,500 First Mortgage 30-year 5% Gold Bonds of the Indiana General Service Company, which owns and operates electric light and power properties, the bonds being thus pledged at 70% of par.

Earnings applicable to fixed charges for the 12 months ended Dec. 31, 1917, were $1,479,298, with total interest charges of only $631,021. Dividends are paid on the common stock at the annual rate of 10% in cash and 4% in common stock.

Appraised values of the property covered by the lien of the pledged bonds, are placed at approximately $7,460,000, with only $3,227,500 bonds outstanding, including those pledged.

Notes are convertible at par into the pledged bonds (a) at 86¼ and interest, or approximately a 6% basis, up to March 1, 1919; (b) at 88 and interest, or about a 5⅞% basis, thereafter to March 1, 1920; and (c) at 89¾ and interest, or approximately a 5¾% basis, thereafter to maturity.

Price 95½ and Interest. To Net about 7¾%

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Fractional net gains were registered in an active close yesterday on the Consolidated Stock Exchange. Prices eased off from the day's high in the final hour of the session, traders on the long side failing to absorb the freely offered supply of stocks brought out by the advancing market. The result was considerable profit taking. Despite the price recession the market closed steady.

BANKRUPTCY NOTICES.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, Southern District of New York.—In the matter of EDWARD H. JEWETT, CHARLES H. JEWETT, GEORGE W. JEWETT, ALPHEUS REHBEIN, and JAMES G. MARSHALL, individually and as members of the firm of JEWETT BROS., and the firm of JEWETT BROS., Alleged Bankrupts.—In Bankruptcy.—No. 25,377.

To the Honorable Judges of the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York:

The petition of Allen R. Memhard respectfully shows and alleges:

1. That he is the duly qualified and acting receiver in bankruptcy herein. That he was appointed such on December 14th, 1917.

2. That the bankrupts were engaged in the brokerage business and were members of the New York Stock Exchange.

3. That there has come into petitioner's possession assets of the bankrupts consisting of stocks, bonds, and other securities. That because of uncertain business conditions, petitioner deems it advisable that such assets be sold. That he is informed certain of them have increased in value since the date of the bankruptcy. That the bankrupts have made an offer of settlement to creditors, which has been approved by a creditors' committee and has been accepted, petitioner is informed, by a great many of the creditors. That no adjudication has been entered herein. That said committee has recommended such sale of such securities. That a list of those securities desired to be sold has been filed with the Clerk of this Court.

Wherefore, petitioner prays for the granting of the annexed order, for which no previous application has been made.

Dated, New York, March 28th, 1918.
ALLEN R. MEMHARD, Petitioner.

Southern District of New York, City and County of New York, ss.:

ALLEN R. MEMHARD, being duly sworn, deposes and says, that he is the petitioner herein; that he has read the foregoing petition subscribed by him; that he knows the contents thereof; that the same is true to his own knowledge, except as to the matters therein stated to be alleged upon information and belief, and as to those matters he believes it to be true.

BANKRUPTCY NOTICES.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT, Southern District of New York.—In the matter of EDWARD H. JEWETT, CHARLES H. JEWETT, GEORGE W. JEWETT, ALPHEUS REHBEIN, and JAMES G. MARSHALL, individually and as members of the firm of JEWETT BROS., and the firm of JEWETT BROS., Alleged Bankrupts.—In Bankruptcy.—No. 25,377.

Upon reading and filing the annexed petition of Allen R. Memhard, the receiver herein, verified the 29th day of March, 1918, it is,

On motion of Hays, Hershfield & Wolf and Rosenberg & Ball, attorneys for said receiver,

Ordered that all creditors of the bankrupts and all other parties in interest show cause before this Court at a Stated Term thereof, to be held in and for the Southern District of New York, in Room 225 of the Federal Post Office Building, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 22nd day of April, 1918, at 10:30 o'clock in the forenoon, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard, why an order should not be made authorizing the receiver herein to sell the stocks, bonds, and securities described in the list filed herein free and clear of all claims and liens, and why the rights or claims, if any, of all parties in interest should not attach to the net proceeds thereof, and why such other and further relief should not be granted as to the Court may seem just and proper. And it is further Ordered that due, sufficient, and timely service of this order to show cause shall be made by mailing on or before April 8th, 1918, a copy of this order and the annexed petition of each of the creditors and other parties in interest known to the receiver, at their respective addresses appearing in the books and records of the bankrupts, and by publishing a copy of the same in The New York Times, on or before April 20th, 1918.

Dated, New York, March 30, 1918.
AUGUSTUS N. HAND, United States District Judge.

U. S. DISTRICT COURT, SOUTHERN District of New York.—Bankruptcy No. 23623.

Notice is hereby given that CHARLES WOLINSKY has applied for discharge from all his debts. Creditors and parties in interest are ordered to attend before this Court in Post Office Building, Manhattan, New York, on Monday, May 6th, 1918, at 10:30 A. M., there to show cause why discharge should not be granted.

NINE BILLIONS SPENT ON THE WAR TO DATE

Represents Total for First Year, of Which $4,743,000,000 Has Been Loaned to Allies.

LESS THAN THE ESTIMATES

Disparity Attributed to Sluggish Shipbuilding and Delay in Flow of War Supplies.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Nine billion dollars is the approximate cost to the United States of one year of war. More than half of this has gone in loans to Allies, and will be repaid eventually. More than a third has been spent for the army and military establishment, one-tenth for the navy, and one fifteenth for shipbuilding.

Just one-sixth of this big war cost has been raised by taxation and other ordinary sources of revenue. The balance has come from sale of Liberty bonds and certificates of indebtedness.

Enormous as these war expenditures may seem to a country whose government in peace times costs between $700,000,000 and $800,000,000, they are less than Great Britain's and are only about two-thirds of the estimates made by officials less than a year ago. Slow progress of the shipbuilding program and the retarding of the outpouring of war supplies are regarded by officials as the chief reasons why expenses did not equal estimates.

Government expenses now are running about a billion dollars a month, with somewhat less than half going to Allies, who spend the greater part of their loans for war supplies in this country.

Since the declaration of war April 6, 1917, the Government's actual expenditures have been more than $9,300,000,000, but about $2,000,000,000 of this sum would have been spent for normal activities even if the United States had not entered the war.

Ordinary expenditures, under which the Treasury classifies all outlays for operation of the Governmental machinery and war enterprises, since the declaration of war have been approximately $5,084,000,000. Actual payments to Allies amounted to about $4,743,000,000.

Income from internal revenue, most of which is represented by war taxes, and from customs and miscellaneous sources, was run up to about $1,535,000,000, and the two Liberty Loans have brought to the Treasury a little less than $5,800,000,000. Collections from War Savings and Thrift Stamps in the last four months amount to $140,000,000.

About $5,200,000,000 of certificates of indebtedness are now outstanding and will be redeemed at various times within the next few months. This means that the Treasury has received this amount to cover running expenses, but will have to repay it soon out of receipts from taxes due in June and from the third Liberty Loan.

Financial experts of the Government calculate that the war has cost in dollars even more than the formal Treasury figures show, taking into account the increased expenditures of many State and local governments under war conditions. They do not venture to estimate the aggregate of these expenses. On the other hand, the war has resulted in innumerable economies, public, private, and personal, enforced partly by rising costs and partly by organized economy movements.

APPRECIATE WHEAT SAVING.

France, England, and Italy Wire Hoover Their Thanks.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Cablegrams were received today by Food Administrator Hoover from the French, English, and Italian Governments thanking the American people for the additional steps taken to conserve wheat. The messages were in reply to one sent last Friday after 500 hotel men had pledged themselves to abolish the use of wheat products in their hotels until the next harvest.

Victor Boret, the French Food Controller, cabled: "The news that you announced to me could at no other moment be more agreeable. I ask you to express to your fellow-countrymen my hearty thanks."

Lord Rhondda, Food Controller of Great Britain, sent this message: "Such self-sacrifice and whole-hearted effort inspire us with renewed determination."

Silvio Crespi, Italian Food Administrator, cabled: "In the name of the Italian people, who retain their whole strength of courage in the face of the direst privation, I express to you their heartiest gratitude for your admirable concerted attitude."

Central Foundry Earns $1,228,441.

The Central Foundry Company had a gross income of $2,203,911 in 1917, an increase of $1,232,805 for the year. Federal war taxes absorbed $558,562, and the sinking fund and depreciation account was more than doubled, as compared with 1916, being $286,289, against $112,463. The net profit, as disclosed in the annual report yesterday, was $1,228,441, a gain of $552,782. President de Courcey Cleveland said in his statement that the excellent results of the year were largely brought about by the demand for the output of the Central Iron & Coal Company, a subsidiary, and for special castings made by the steel plants.

JAPAN TRANSFERRING SHIPS TO AMERICA

Nine Commandeered from One Company and Two from Another for War Use.

SEATTLE, April 4.—The Seattle office of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, a Japanese steamship company, announced today that it had received a cablegram from Tokio stating that the Japanese Government had commandeered nine of the company's steamers, to be turned over to the United States.

The company announced that the commandeered ships would total approximately 60,000 deadweight tons. According to Lloyd's register, the ships are of 38,820 gross tons.

The vessels are to be turned over to the United States Government in exchange for steel plates to be used in the construction of new Japanese ships, according to the agreement providing for the exchange reached recently by the two Governments. They are the Penang Maru, Yeboshi Maru, Totomi Maru, Rangoon Maru, Benten Maru, Kirin Maru, Yetorofu Maru, Jinsen Maru, and Tosa Maru. All are freighters and have been plying between Japan and India.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—The steamers Persia Maru and Seiyo Maru of the Toyo Kisen Kaisha have been commandeered by the Japanese Government for the use of the United States Shipping Board, officials of the company announced here today. The Persia is of 4,000 and the Seiyo 8,000 tons.

YARD FOR CONCRETE SHIPS.

Government to Establish It in a Southern City.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—A new shipbuilding yard solely for the construction of concrete ships will be established soon by the Shipping Board. It will be located in some Southern city where frost will not handicap the work, probably in Wilmington, N. C., or New Orleans, with the chances favoring the former.

The new yard will have three ways, each of which will be utilized immediately in the building of a 3,500-ton concrete vessel, as plans for ships of that size have already been prepared. Upon completion of these vessels the plant will construct only 7,500-ton ships, which are now being designed.

With the Government yard added, five yards will be turning out concrete ships, the others being private plants at Jacksonville, Fla.; Brunswick, Ga., and Redwood City and San Francisco, Cal.

FAVORS BILL TO CURB CATS.

Senate Committee Acts Favorably on Robinson's Measure.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 4.—Senator Theodore Douglas Robinson's perennial bill providing for restrictions on the hunting habits of cats, was reported favorably by the Committee on Conservation today and takes its place on the Senate calendar for action whenever the lawmakers get around to it. The measure provides that any person over 21 years of age who owns a hunting license may, and any peace officer or any game protector must "destroy in a humane manner cats discovered hunting or killing birds protected by law, or cats found with such birds in their possession."

The bill as introduced by Senator Robinson first provided that cats when they roamed abroad should be required to wear bells. This provision met strenuous opposition not only at the hands of cat lovers, but also from persons who were unwilling to have the clangor of bells added to the clamor which puss and tom are able to produce with their vocal cords. The measure was therefore amended to its present form.

Last year, the same Senator introduced a bill by which all cats should be licensed and required to wear a tag. It is believed that the fate which overtook that measure will be meted out to its successor. It was laughed to death.

MUST GIVE CORRECT AGES.

"Upward of 21" Will Not Entitle Women to Vote at Option Elections.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 4.—Women registering for the local option elections to be held on Tuesday, April 16, must give their correct ages, Attorney General Lewis decided in an opinion made public today. The question was raised by election officials who wanted to know whether it would not be sufficient for a woman to give her age as "upwards of 21." Attorney General Lewis held that any statement failing to indicate the correct age would constitute an evasion of the provisions of the election law covering this subject.

Under this opinion it becomes the duty of the inspectors of election to refuse to register any person declining to give his or her correct age.

TO COMPENSATE GUARD.

Assembly Passes $3,000,000 Appropriation for Men Who Served on Border.

ALBANY, April 4.—A bill by F. A. Wells appropriating $3,000,000 to pay members of the National Guard of the State who served on the Mexican border in 1916 the difference between the pay received from the Federal Government and the State pay for service within the State, was passed by the Assembly today.

The Donohoe bill reducing from eighteen to seventeen years the minimum age for chauffeurs or motor vehicle operators also passed the Assembly after a longe debate.

The annual appropriation bill providing for nearly $53,000,000 for the support of the State Government became a law today with the signature of Governor Whitman.

FAVORS NEW SERVICE BOARD

Bill to Consolidate Commissions Is Passed by the Assembly.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 4.—Senator Thompson's bill consolidating the two Public Service Commissions into one body passed in the Senate today by a vote of 26 to 20, 7 Democrats joining with 19 Republicans in favor of the bill, while 5 Democrats and 14 Republicans voted in the negative.

The opposition to the bill condemned it as a poor substitute for existing conditions. Those in favor declared that under the provisions of the Thompson bill a broader administration of the laws governing public service corporations would be possible.

Rockefeller Sends Valet to Hospital.

James Quinn, valet for John D. Rockefeller, who enlisted in the navy and was taken ill with pneumonia, was brought to this city yesterday from Pocantico Hills. As soon as Mr. Rockefeller learned that Quinn was seriously ill he ordered that he be taken at once to the Rockefeller Institute in an ambulance.

Reinstated by Stock Exchange.

Governors of the Stock Exchange yesterday reinstated Louis S. Kerr to membership. Mr. Kerr's suspension was the automatic result of the assignment made by his firm, Kerr & Co., on Jan. 9 last. Since then the difficulties of the firm have been straightened out. The Stock Exchange membership owned by Walter C. Stokes was posted for transfer to Louis Sternberger, the price being $55,000. This quotation was the same as at the last preceding sale.

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday ....6 p. c. for the best names

Wednesday ....6 " " " "

The quotations are for six months' paper.

Tulle Is Popular.

It is said that tulle is being used this year more than has been the case for some time past. In evening gowns and semi-formal afternoon frocks, it is employed as trimming and as drapery to subdue the effect of very bright colors underneath. It has also become very popular for use as a scarf wound around the neck and shoulders, sometimes even including the hat, and hanging down almost to the knees. It is used chiefly in white, though some very pale colors are also taken as well as some rainbow color effects.

Shoppers Still on the Job.

Despite the excellent Easter business that was reported by the leading local shops and stores, the crowds of shoppers that thronged them yesterday indicated that a good many persons had not yet filled their needs as to Spring merchandise. While a good bit of the buying was being done on special offerings, "regular" goods were by no means being overlooked. The millinery departments appeared the busiest in some of the stores, with the ready-to-wear sections next. The warmer weather was said also to have stimulated the demand for lighter-weight underwear for women. Men appear to be less anxious to rush things in this respect. Special offerings in some stores of men's shirts, ties, and other furnishings were very freely bought.

Raw Silk Prices Still Advancing.

The Yokohama raw silk market has scored an unusual advance of 100 yen ($50) per picul of about 133 pounds, according to cables received by H. L. Gwalter & Co., accompanied by excited trading on the Silk Exchange there. The last rise has brought prices back to the high point reached at the end of last September. Sinshiu No. 1 is firmly held at 1,400 yen, and trading, both for American and European account, has been checked for the time being. Stocks are much reduced, with the better grades especially scarce. Canton silks are somewhat higher, but Shanghai continues quiet and firm. Little that is new is heard from Milan. The rise in the primary markets has stopped local buying of future deliveries for the moment, but spots and nearbys continue to move freely and command premiums.

Men's Silk Shirts Selling.

Silk shirts for men are said to be having a ready sale this season, and in some quarters it is held that the volume of business so far this Spring is ahead of the same period a year ago. Shirts with a design whose background is some color such as light blue, light green, pink, or orange, instead of the conventional white, are reported to be particularly popular. Wide checks brought out by very delicate hair stripes also seem to be well taken, and there is the usual call for stripes in varying widths of two and three colors.

Women's Sports Shoes.

Though the high French heel seems to be very much in vogue in the general Spring buying in women's shoes, it is said that at least for sports wear the lower and more comfortable military heel is proving to be very much the favorite. The combination of black or tan leathers in these sports shoes with white buckskin or canvas is said not to be as popular this year as it was last, though there is still a fairly substantial demand for it in some sections. These two-leather combinations are largely being replaced, it is said, by shoes which are all white and of but one kind of leather.

Medium-Priced Coats Sell Best.

There is a pronounced tendency throughout the country away from the very high and the very low priced coats and toward the medium priced lines, according to reports from manufacturers and jobbers in this city. Sales of those garments which combine smartness, quality, and durability with a price that is not prohibitive are said to constitute the great bulk of the Spring trade thus far. Many retailers, it seems, who formerly took only the cheaper grades of merchandise, are now buying the better lines as well, and in some cases almost to the total exclusion of the very cheap coats. Likewise there are a number of buyers turning to the medium priced garments who customarily bought only the most expensive coats.

Fur Sale Will Be Interesting.

Aside from the quantity and the quality of the furs to be offered, the annual Spring auction that begins in the Masonic Temple here on Monday next will be of more than usual interest. A drive for subscriptions for the third Liberty Loan will be carried on at the opening of the sale under the direction of the Liberty Loan Committee of the fur industry, of which Samuel Ullmann is Chairman. The active solicitation of subscriptions will follow an address by Charles E. Mitchell, President of the National City Company. During the course of the sale there will be put up two silver fox skins, shipped from Oshkosh, Wis., which will be sold for the benefit of the Oshkosh Chapter of the Red Cross. The donor's bid is $500. Also to be auctioned for the Red Cross is the skin of what is said to be the largest muskrat ever caught in North Dakota. The donor's bid in this case is $2, which is a high price for a muskrat pelt. A natural freak in the form of a gray fox that can scarcely be told from a silver one will also be disposed of in the course of the sale.

Do Not Know Their Credit Rating.

A number of persons who apply for charge accounts in the local stores do so, according to the credit manager for one of them, with more or less uncertainty because they feel they have nothing tangible on which a credit man can base his judgment as to whether they should be given an account. "Some persons," this man said yesterday, "apparently feel that, because they pay their neighborhood tradesmen cash, they have no credit rating. Nothing could be further wrong than this. If a man or a woman has a fair-sized account in a good commerical bank, and has a steady job, there is a basis for opening an account. Then again, knowing how many persons regard physicians as men who can get along indefinitely without money, credit men are often eager to find how promptly the applicant pays the family doctor, and ask his name for the purpose of finding out. Often this decides the question."

Serges Are Much in Demand.

Two things of interest stand out in the Buyers' Wants and Offerings to Buyers that have been published in The Times in the last few days. One of these is the continued call for all kinds and colors of serges, especially navy, and the other is the number of "jobs" in various lines of women's ready-to-wear that are offered to the retail trade. Few serges appear in the Offerings to Buyers, but there are thousands of coats at special prices, ranging from infants' to women's and made of practically all kinds of silk and wool cloakings. Silk, gingham, and wool dresses are also offered "special" in quantities, and "chicken," misses' and women's suits of silk and wool also can be had as "jobs" in no mean quantities. Waist "jobs" are few. Buyers, at least one being a mail order house, but most of them jobbers, are now advertising for Fall garments, and there is some call by the latter for seasonable dresses. Broadcloths, plushes, velours, poplins, and pom poms are among the other fabrics wanted. Of these poplins are offered most freely.

Gray Goods Prices Stiffen.

The sharp rise in cotton yesterday caused further advances in the local gray goods market, in spite of the fact that business could easily have been more active. Sales of 39-inch 68-72s were made for nearby delivery at 19½ cents, and toward the close of the day some sellers were said to be asking 20 cents for them. In some quarters it was said that 17¼ cents had been refused for 38½-inch 64-60s, largely because of the inability to supply the delivery wanted, and that it had been paid in others for spots. Further reports said that this construction was still to be had here at 17¼ cents. Prices on several of the lower-count constructions also were higher, including 27-inch 64-60s, which went to 13 cents. Sheetings again were apparently without special feature. Printcloth prices averaged this way at the close:

39-inch, 80-80s....23c	38½-inch, 64-60s..*17¼c
39-inch, 72-76s....22c	38½-inch, 64-56s....17c

ACQUIRES RUSSIAN SHIPS.

Government Charters Seven Now in American Ports.

After negotiations with the owners the United States has chartered seven steamships of the Russian Volunteer Fleet. These vessels are now in American ports. They will continue to fly the Russian flag and will be engaged in the transatlantic trade, it was said yesterday.

At the Federal Shipping Board office all information was refused except that the steamships had been chartered and that there was no truth in the report that they had been requisitioned.

The vessels that will enter this Government service under this arrangement are those which were detained in American ports when the Bolshevist Government came into power. Recently one of the Russian vessels was held at a South Atlantic port after a Bolshevist mutiny on board and the removal of her crew.

The Russian Volunteer Fleet is a corporation in which the former Czar was the chief stockholder. The vessels were built by Government subsidy and used as transports in time of war. During the present war some ships of the fleet have been engaged in carrying supplies between America and Russia.

MAKE PLANS TO FOSTER DYE INDUSTRY HERE

Manufacturers' Association Organizes Against German Aggression After the War.

Following several preliminary meetings the Board of Governors of the American Dyestuff Manufacturers' Association met yesterday at the office of its counsel, Benjamin M. Kaye, 149 Broadway, to elect officers, execute the certificate of incorporation issued by the Secretary of State at Albany, and adopt the constitution and bylaws.

The officers elected were: President, Morris R. Poucher of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., Wilmington, Del.; First Vice President, L. A. Ault of Ault & Wiborg, Cincinnati, Ohio; Second Vice President, Frank Hemingway of Frank Hemingway, Inc., New York; Secretary, C. Cyril Bennett, manager of the Color Trade Journal, New York, and Treasurer, Charles Jenkinson of the National City Bank, New York.

Within a short time the association will start an intensive drive in propaganda work in order to acquaint the American public with the enormous strides made in the color industry in this country since the start of the European war. One of the undisguised objects of the new association is to prevent German aggression in the dyestuffs industry in this country after the war.

According to the incorporation papers, now ratified, the objects for which the American Dyestuff Manufactures' Association are:

To promote the welfare and business interests of those engaged in the dyestuff manufacturing industry in the United States of America.

To promote and encourage the manufacture and use of American dyes; to cooperate with Congress, the Tariff Commission, the Federal Trade Commission, the Department of Commerce and all other governmental agencies in order to secure adequate protection against unfair competitive methods employed by foreign producers.

To co-operate with the United States Bureau of Standards and other similar bureaus and departments for the purpose of establishing proper trade standards of dyestuffs in the United States.

In adopting its constitution, special consideration was given by the new association to eligibility to membership; and the first section adopted says:

All persons, firms or corporations engaged in the business of manufacturing dyestuffs or intermediates in the United States shall be eligible for membership in the association. No concerns having affiliations with concerns doing business in those countries now at war with the United States or its allies shall be eligible to membership.

The fact that a representative of the du Pont interests was elected President of the new association was regarded in dye circles as indicative of the strength of the movement to put the American industry on an independent basis. Mr. Poucher's selection was also taken to mean that when the war ends, the du Ponts will convert many of their war plants for the production of dyes and chemicals on a colossal scale.

Curb on Shipments to Canada.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The War Trade Board today announced that the authority heretofore given Collectors of Customs along the Canadian border to accept shipments without the required number of declarations is being withdrawn, and that clearances will be refused to any shipment destined to Canada or Newfoundland made on or after April 8, 1918, unless accompanied by four copies of the Shipper's Export Declaration as prescribed in a recent Treasury decision.

Standard Gas & Electric Earnings.

The Standard Gas and Electric Company earned a net income of $1,666,051 last year, a decline of $310,000 from the total in 1916. The company derives most of its income from securities held in subsidiary concerns. The gross earnings of the subsidiaries amounted to $19,341,587, an increase of 12.9 per cent., while their net was $8,523,325, an increase of about 2.3 per cent. The annual report yesterday said that it was unlikely that the preferred stock dividend rate would be increased above 6 per cent. this year, because of war conditions.

SWIFT & CO. DEFEND SALE PRICE OF EGGS

Maintain That Only Profit Recognized by Food Administration Was Taken.

FOOD BROKERS SUSPENDED

Macaroni Maker Charged with Using Too Much Flour—Glass Cases to be Investigated

In an effort to have the recommendation of the Federal Food Board set aside in the case of Swift & Co., accused of profiteering in eggs through its New York branch, George Redington of the law firm of White & Case will represent the company at a review of the case before officials of the United State Food Administration at Washington today.

On Wednesday John Mitchell, New York State Food Commissioner, and Arthur Williams, Federal Food Administrator, in a telegram to Herbert Hoover, recommended that Swift & Co. be prohibited from buying or selling eggs through its New York branch for a period of thirty days and be required to refund through a contribution to the Red Cross $6,000 obtained through excess charges on eight carloads of eggs. It was also recommended that Zinn & Co., the brokers who acted for Swift & Co., be prohibited from doing any egg business in New York for thirty days.

Counsel for Swift & Co. are said to consider that a marked divergence is to be found frequently between the laws of supply and demand and the regulations of the Food Board. In support of this they contend that the packing company would have faced a distinct financial loss in selling twelve carloads of eggs, which it had purchased at 48½ cents a dozen, for 47 cents a dozen, the price fixed by the Food Board when the sale was made. The eggs were sold at 51 cents, which, they maintain, allowed only for the rate of profit permitted by the Food Board.

The recommendation of the Federal Food Board in the case of Mesh & Co. of 358 Greenwich Street, dealers in eggs, has been sustained by Herbert Hoover, who revoked the license of the company yesterday on the complaint of Sigourney & Fardon, commission merchants of Richmond, Va., who charged that on Feb. 22, 204 cases of eggs were shipped by the firm to Mesh & Co. at 54½ cents a dozen, and that Mesh & Co. refused to accept or pay for them. Mr. Hoover sent the following telegram:

Mesh & Co., Inc., 358 Greenwich Street, New York City:

United States Food Administration License G-04452, issued to you Oct. 27, 1917, as wholesalers or jobbers and commission merchants in butter and eggs, granted by the undersigned under the provisions of Section 5 of the Act of Congress of Aug. 10, 1917, known as the Food Control Act, and the proclamation of the President of the United States issued thereunder, is hereby revoked until further notice. This revocation to take effect April 6, 1918, at 12 P. M. HERBERT HOOVER, United States Food Administration.

The first instance of a violation of the Food Administration's rule that a manufacturer using flour must use only 70 per cent. of the amount he employed in the corresponding season last year came before the Federal Food Board yesterday. Carmelo De Gennaro, a macaroni manufacturer of 2,290 First Avenue, was ordered not to manufacture macaroni for two months. He is permitted, however, to sell what macaroni he has on hand. It was found that he used 11,340 pounds of flour in the month of February, 1918, while if he had used one-sixth of 70 per cent. of the flour he employed in making macaroni from February, 1917, to July, 1917, he would have used a little more than 5,000 pounds.

Charles Robinson, counsel of the Food Board, yesterday cautioned manufacturers against a violation of the flour regulation, saying that it would result in the temporary closing of their establishments.

In connection with the employment of enemy aliens at food storage and manufacturing centres, the Federal Food Board yesterday emphasized that no regulation had been issued suggesting discrimination against the employment of any citizens of the United States, whether foreign or American born.

"In connection with its efforts to protect the food supply of the city against destruction," says the statement, "the board's Food Protection Committee recommended a rule that enemy aliens should not be employed at important points where food is manufactured or stored, and thus given an opportunity to aid in, or accomplish, its destruction. It was suggested that employers of labor of this class should see that employment was given at other than such critical points of control.

"The Food Board indorses the position of the Food Protection Committee in this respect, and further feels that any one who employs enemy aliens assumes full responsibility for seeing that such employes are not given an opportunity to destroy food, or, in the producing and manufacturing of food, to introduce any foreign element, or any deleterious substance (broken or powdered glass) which would endanger human life or health."

Eighteen distinct cases of manufactured food products containing glass or other foreign substances have been reported for investigation to the Department of Justice by the Federal Food Board, it was announced. Agents of the Department of Justice will conduct an examination of the plants where the products were manufactured.

FIND MORE GLASS IN FOOD.

Several Cases Reported to Federal Authorities in Brooklyn.

United States Marshal James M. Power, in Brooklyn, yesterday received complaints from several persons who declared that they had found glass in candy and in sugar. In each case the Marshal turned the complaints over to the Department of Justice. Dr. H. S. Rasi, a dentist of 157 Clinton Street, told the Marshal that one of his patients had brought him some sugar in which fine pieces of glass were found.

Miss Violet Peck of 88 Clark Street reported that she bought a bottle of salted almonds in a candy store and found a small piece of glass imbedded in one of the almonds and thought nothing of it. The next day she found another piece of glass in another almond and decided that she should report it. Examination of the bottle showed that it had not been chipped or broken.

Mrs. S. H. Woodward of 3,705 Chichester Avenue, Richmond Hill, reported that she found a piece of glass about the size of a pea in a piece of bread she was eating.

MINEOLA, L. I., April 4.—While cutting bread this morning Helen Shenake, a domestic in the home of Donald Wilson, at West Hempstead, found several pieces of ground glass. Mr. Wilson notified District Attorney Charles R. Weeks, who turned the matter over to the Federal authorities in Brooklyn for investigation. The bread is said to have been made by a well-known baking firm in Brooklyn.

SWIFTS TO ISSUE NEW STOCK

Will Offer $25,000,000 Worth to Shareholders at Par.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 4.—Swift & Co. have applied to the Chicago Sub-Committee of the Capital Issues Committee for permission to offer to their stockholders $25,000,000 of new stock. This contemplates an increase from $100,000,000 to $125,000,000, and it is presumed the new stock will be offered to shareholders at par, thus giving them valuable rights when measured by the present market quotations for the old stock, at the ratio of one share of the new for every four shares now held.

While the Sub-Committee of the Capital Issues Committee has not yet approved of the new stock, no doubt exists in the minds of bankers that consent will be forthcoming. It is known the demand upon the packing industry has made it imperative for more working capital. To provide this the companies have been forced to borrow more liberally at the banks.

MAY MAKE POWER AT MINES.

New Plan to Do Away with Transportation of Coal.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 4.—Transmission of electrical power over high voltage wires to the great industrial plants at New York and other seaboard cities to do away with necessity of transporting coal from the mines to the industries may prove to be the beginning of a revolution in industrial power when a survey authorized today by Fuel Administrator Garfield is completed. This may lead to the establishment of central generating plants at the anthracite mine centres as feeders to communities within a radius of 150 miles.

It was announced today by the local Fuel Administrator that the project probably will be financed by the Government and definite plans are to be drawn up on Saturday, when prominent experts from New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania will meet here.

A large saving in coal would be effected by generating the electrical energy at the mines rather than at the generating plants of the individual industries. Low grades of coal now going to waste could be employed for the creation of the electrical power at the mines.

Main feed wires will reach out to all the industrial communities which will come within the radius of the transmission system which has not yet been fully determined upon. It is planned to link the system up to New York and other vital centres.

REPORTS ON LABOR POLICY.

Secretary Wilson Submits Conferees' Findings to the President.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Formulation of a national war labor policy based on the recent recommendations of the War Labor Conference Board was recommended to President Wilson today by Secretary of Labor Wilson.

The Conference Board, comprising representatives of capital and labor and having as members ex-President Taft and Frank P. Walsh, representing the public, drew up a program calling for arbitration of labor difficulties to prevent strikes during the war and setting forth a basis of relations which it recommended should govern employers and employes.

NAMES DOCK APPRAISERS.

Ex-Gov. Fielder and Edmund Wilson to Fix Value of Hoboken Property.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Ex-Governor James F. Fielder of New Jersey and Edmund Wilson, formerly Attorney General of New Jersey, were appointed by President Wilson today to appraise the German-owned docks at Hoboken, recently taken over by A. Mitchell Palmer, Alien Property Custodian.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

Bronx Parcels Traded—Bank Sells on Murray Street—Residence Deal Pending.

Quiet prevailed in the real estate market yesterday, although a few deals were closed involving small properties.

L. E. Ohlweiler sold, through Nehring Brothers, to Laura F. Leddy, the three-story dwelling at 599 Walton Avenue, Bronx, on a lot 17.6 by 100, near 150th Street. The house was held at $10,000. In exchange, the buyer gave a vacant, free-and-clear plot on East 217th Street, near White Plains Avenue, which has been held at $6,000.

Murray Street Buyer.

David Foreman has purchased from the Bowery Savings Bank the four-story building at 61 Murray Street, northeast corner of West Broadway, covering a lot 25 by 87.6. The property is assessed at $55,000.

The bank took back a mortgage of $42,000 on the property, for a five-year term, at 5 per cent.

Deal On for West Side Dwelling.

Negotiations are pending for the sale of the five-story American basement residence at 46 West Fifty-fourth Street, on a lot 22 by 100, in what is known as the Rockefeller block. The house, which is assessed at $75,000, is owned by S. Reading Bertron. It is expected that contracts will be signed in a few days.

Sale of West Side Garage.

The Sixty-eighth Street Realty Company has sold to the newly formed 302-304 West Sixty-eighth Street Company, Directors G. Hahn, C. B. Plante and F. Scheuer, with a capital of $120,000, 302 and 304 West Sixty-eighth Street, a four-story garage, 50 by 100.5, adjoining the southwest corner of West End Avenue.

Congregation Buys School.

Adolph Frankel is reported to have sold to the congregation of the Temple Rodeph Sholom the three-story dwelling at 157 East Ninety-fourth Street, on a lot 18.9 by 100.8, adjoining the northeast corner of Lexington Avenue, which the congregation rented several years ago for use as a kindergarten and for sisterhood activities. The seller has owned the property since 1889.

Dwelling Sales.

Porter & Co. sold for the estate of John F. Flood to an investor the three-story brownstone dwelling 236 West 127th Street.

B. W. Smith sold for Mrs. E. Craig to an investor for all cash the private house 244 West 137th Street, on a lot 18 by 99.11.

Bronx Taxpayer Sold.

Carlo Alfarano bought from the estate of John J. Brady the taxpayer property at the northwest corner of Arthur Avenue and 184th Street, on a plot 45 by 100. Angelo L. Frugento was the broker in the sale.

Brooklyn.

Theodore Frost sold to a client of James Watters, for occupancy, the new two-family dwelling at 343 Eighty-third Street.

The Meister Builders, Inc., sold 8,423 Seventeenth Avenue, a three-story frame cottage, on a lot 19.6 by 87, to an investor for occupancy.

The Alco Building Company, associated with the Realty Trust, sold the one-family semi-detached dwelling, with garage, 2,115 Sixty-third Street, in the Mapleton Park district, Brooklyn, to Emenuel Frischman for residence purposes; also the adjoining similar house 2,118 to Amalia Kiefer.

Queens Borough Sales.

The Melba Estates Corporation, associated with the Realty Trust, has sold the property known as Stonehenge, on the North Drive at Malba, overlooking the Sound near Whitestone. The house is a hollow tile and stucco residence, half timbered, in the Elizabethan style. The purchaser is Joseph M. Gates of Manhattan, who will occupy it as his residence.

Commercial Leases.

George W. Breitell has leased for Charles B. Squier the loft building at 129 East 124th Street to Deutsch Brothers, furniture dealers.

The Cross & Brown Company leased the entire building at 141 Duane Street for the United States Rubber Company to A. H. Ginsberg Gordon, Inc. The building will be remodeled and occupied for the sale of boots and shoes. Also the store, basement and sub-basement at 31 Warren Street and 27 Murray Street, containing 12,000 feet, to Blumberg & Co., hardware dealers, now at 90 Chambers Street.

Toni Landau, dealer in rare paintings and pictures, has leased through John N. Golding the store, basement and part of the first floor in the building at the northeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Forty-fifth Street.

Ernest A. Logan of Wright & Logan leased a store in the new apartment house on the southeast corner of Madison Avenue and Seventy-eighth Street for a term of years from the estate of Charles Gulden. After extensive alterations he will open a restaurant and catering establishment.

John N. Golding has leased for William J. Daniel the store and basement at 1,481 St. Nicholas Avenue to the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company; also, to the same tenant, the store at 490 Tenth Avenue for Mrs. Ida Stose, and the store and basement at 4,244 Broadway and Alonzo P. Kight.

Recent Buyers.

The Ulster Court Corporation, Joseph G. Abramson, President, is the buyer of the five-story flat at 533 Trinity Avenue sold recently by Frederick Brown.

Katherine L. Minifies is the buyer of the dwelling at 133 West 130th Street sold recently by E. M. Berrian.

Realty Notes.

Justice Hotchkiss of the Supreme Court has appointed William T. Van Alstyne receiver of the rents of 33 Union Square West, an eleven-story office building, pending the suit brought by the Mutual Life Insurance Company against the 33 Union Square Corporation, Gertrude A. Venderbeck, and others to foreclose a mortgage of $225,000.

B. Altman & Co. took title yesterday from the Downtown Realty Company to the plot at 215 to 223 East Thirty-sixth Street and to 204 East Thirty-seventh Street, adjoining their big stable. Plans were also filed in the Building Department for the erection of a five-story garage, 88 by 97, on the newly acquired Thirty-sixth Street site. The estimated cost was placed at $75,000.

Chester Fullwood, who has been connected with Alexander J. Roux & Co. for the last nineteen years, is now associated with the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company, having his headquarters at their new east side offices, 102 First Street.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—The snowstorm which has prevailed for the last three days in the middle Rocky Mountain region has finally ended and the temperature is rising tonight in that region and the upper Missouri Valley. In eastern districts the weather has cleared north of Virginia, but there have been scattered rains and thunder storms in the South Atlantic States and along the Gulf coast.

Temperature is rising west of the Mississippi, but it has become much cooler in the Middle and South Atlantic States and Tennessee.

Unsettled conditions with scattered rains are probable in the Carolinas, Florida, and the East Gulf States Friday. Elsewhere in the Washington forecast district the weather will be fair during the next forty-eight hours.

Temperature will rise slowly in the Ohio Valley, the lower Lake region, the Middle Atlantic States and New England Saturday.

Winds for Friday and Saturday along the North Atlantic coast will be fresh north to northwest, fair; Middle Atlantic coast, moderate, north, fair; South Atlantic coast, fresh and variable, thundershowers.

FORECASTS TODAY AND SATURDAY.

Eastern New York, New Jersey, New England, and Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair Friday and Saturday, slightly warmer Saturday.

Western New York—Fair Friday and Saturday, warmer Saturday.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

	1917.	1918.		1917.	1918.

Education Notes.

The City College announces two thirty-hour courses in Gregg shorthand for teachers to be given at the Commercial Building, Twenty-third Street and Lexington Avenue, beginning Friday and Saturday, April 5 and 6. An elementary course for teachers, who have no knowledge of the subject, will be given on Saturday mornings from 10 to 12:45. An advanced course for those who have completed the principles of the system will also be given Saturday morning at the same hour.

In order to steer the efforts of the community centres under the auspices of the Board of Education into line with the plans promulgated by the Council of National Defense a general conference will be called today at 4:15 P. M. in the auditorium of Public School 59, Fifty-seventh Street, near Second Avenue. The general topic of the meeting is "Win-the-War-Work in the Community Centres." Various sections will be presented as follows: "The Organization of War Savings Societies," E. G. Houtzahn, War Savings Society Bureau of National War Savings Committee; "Liberty Loan Sales and Red Cross Work Through Community Centres," Charles A. Bohlen, Southerland Community Centre; "Win-the-War Rallies," C. A. Bill, the Flying Squadron; "Wartime Activities with Girls," Miss Jean Hamilton, New York Association of Women Workers. The 120 community centres will be given a city-wide program that will enable them to throw their entire weight into win-the-war work. Other individuals and associations desiring to attend are cordially invited. Every worker in the centres is urged to be present.

The Women Principals' Eligible List Association will hold a meeting at 4:15 P. M. today in the Martha Washington Hotel.

The faculty of the Morris High School will receive alumni and former students today from 3 to 5 P. M. in the library of the school.

President Somers of the Board of Education returned yesterday from Washington, where he attended the conference on Americanization called by Secretary Lane of the Department of the Interior. "It is apparent," he said, "that New York and Massachusetts are in the lead in this work. The plan is to extend the work done here to other cities throughout the country. New York City has much to offer by way of suggestion."

Acting City Superintendent Straubenmuller has designated Associate Superintendent John H. Walsh to investigate the matter of school principals' reports, with a view to reduce their number and to suggest better and quicker methods of making them.

The Civil Service.

United States.

The commission announces for May 7 an examination for estimator of building materials for men. Twenty or more vacancies in the Cantonment Division of the War Department, Washington, D. C., at salaries ranging from $3,000 to $3,900 a year, will be filled from this examination. The duties will consist of making accurate lists from plans of buildings of the materials required for their erection, accepting plumbing, heating, electric and mechanical equipment. Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on physical ability, 10; education, training, and experience, 90. Applicants must have had at least three years' responsible experience in estimating building construction materials. They must have reached their 21st but not their 50th birthday on the date of the examination. Further information may be obtained from the commission, Washington, D. C.

DANGEROUS ENEMIES GO TO PRISON CAMP

German Nobleman Is Among Twenty-one Ordered Interned at Oglethorpe.

2 ARE REGULAR ARMY MEN

Government Order Indicates That Parole Privileges Will Be Curtailed.

The Government gave instructions yesterday for the internment for the period of the war of all enemy subjects in the United States whose past activities had caused them to be listed as "dangerous enemies." Twenty-one of these enemy aliens, among them a German nobleman, a German newspaper editor, two who formerly wore the uniform of the regular army of the United States, a chemist who is a close friend of Dr. Muck, the Boston Orchestra leader, and a prominent statistician, will leave for the prison camp at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., at 1 o'clock this afternoon, and others will follow in the next few days.

The order yesterday was taken as a sign that the old order of "arrest and then parole" had ended so far as the enemy residents of the United States were concerned, and that from this on every enemy subject detected aiding the German cause in this country would be promptly interned. The enemy subjects who go South today will be guarded by a platoon of United States regulars from Governors Island, and will travel in special coaches attached to the regular Southern Express.

The enemy aliens who are booked for the trip, in the order of their importance, are the following:

Twenty-one on the List.

STRAUS, Dr. ISAAC, former editor of The Jewish Chronicle, of which he was the founder; one of the secretaries to Dr. Dernberg, the chief German propagandist in this country during 1914 and a part of 1915.

KASBERG, Baron GUSTAV VON, son-in-law of the late Commodore McVickar, who was one of the founders of the New York Yacht Club.

BRUCK, JOSEPH VON, agent in this country of a great Dusseldorf metal concern; made a complete report to certain authorities in Germany concerning conditions in the United States, in which he recommended the purchase of a newspaper printed in the English language.

BERTLING, Dr. KARL O., is said to have been ordered to the United States in 1914, and charged with the direction of pro-German propaganda in American colleges and schools. Friend of Bernstorff, von Papen, and also of Dr. Muck, the Boston Symphony Orchestra conductor.

FICK, Dr. ALFRED, Reported to have had knowledge of certain plots against allied shipping engineered in New York in the first year of the war.

SEEBECK, MAURICE VON, a former soldier in the regular army; was with American expeditionary forces in France as a headquarters interpreter; returned to the United States by order of General Pershing; no charges involving treachery to the flag.

KREISEL, FRANZ, until his arrest a Sergeant in the Coast Artillery arm of the regular army, stationed at Fort Strong, one of the main defenses of Boston Harbor.

KELMKAMPF, JOHANN W.; arrested in Boston as dangerous enemy.

RAU, OSCAR ADOLPH; arrested in Boston.

BREWER, GUSTAV O.; arrested in Trenton, N. J.

BAUER, WILHELM O.; arrested in Trenton, N. J.

QUITZMANN, CHARLES; arrested in Brooklyn.

TACHLENBERG, WILHELM; arrested in Boston.

MILBERT, KARL; arrested in Boston.

TUMMLER, HERMANN; arrested in Boston.

BENNE, OTTO ADOLPH JOHANNES; arrested in Newark.

HOHOAGE, WILHELM; arrested by Army Intelligence Service in Hoboken.

LUHRMANN, HERMANN; arrested in Brooklyn.

JOCHHEIM, KARL E.; arrested in Brooklyn.

BADIO, LAZZARI; arrested in Trenton.

PEREZ, ERNEST, Claims he is a Spaniard; arrested on his arrival at New York from Spain a few days ago.

Of the twenty-one men the most important, in the opinion of the Federal authorities, is Dr. Straus. He was arrested several weeks ago by agents of the Army Intelligence Service and has been under investigation ever since. He came to New York in the first weeks of the war, being in the same party of propagandists as was Dr. Bernhard Dernburg, the most notorious German propaganda agent who has ever operated in the United States.

Dr. Straus Regarded as "Crafty."

Assistant United States District Attorney Robert P. Stephenson, in his report to the Attorney General, in which he gives the result of the Secret Service investigation of Dr. Straus's activities, says that in addition to being a "dangerous enemy alien" he is individually dangerous because of his having by "crafty means" obtained an important formula used in connection with the manufacture of gas masks for the use of American soldiers in Europe. Government agents have been working on the theory that Straus obtained these formulas in the hope of finding a way to transmit the information to Berlin, in order to make possible experiments by German chemists with the purpose in view of developing a gas that would penetrate the masks.

The report also points out that Straus was identified with an organization in Germany known as the Committee for the East, which had as its object the spreading of German propaganda among Jewish citizens of various countries. In May, 1916, Dr. Straus started the publication of the Jewish Chronicle, of which he was the editor. The purpose of this magazine was to further the cause of Zionism, Straus said.

It is alleged that Straus's work in the United States "received the approval of Bernstorff" and other Germans who were prominent in the propaganda and plot organization. Dr. Heinrich Albert, the German plot paymaster, made one payment of $85,000 to Dr. Straus, while the Government is in possession of evidence that he received $30,000 from another source. Dr. Straus says that the $85,000 represented money deposited to his account in Germany and that it was not of German official origin. As for the $30,000, he says it was handed to him by a man whom he does not know.

Baron von Hasperg was prominent in certain social sets in this city. When he was arrested in his Central Park West apartment it was said that he had been visiting Camp Upton and other military reservations, often in the company of women, and that when opportunity offered he sought information regarding the progress of training troop movements and other matters, the knowledge of which would be of value to Germany.

Joseph von Bruck arrived in New York from South America in the latter part of 1913 as the representative of the Mannesmann Tube Manufacturing Company of Dusseldorf. On his arrival in New York he opened offices at 30 Church Street, and suspicion was first attracted to him a few months ago, when he placed an order for 12,000 copper water meters, which were to be shipped to Buenos Aires. The order was not filled. Bruck's intention was to get copper into Germany through neutral countries.

When his office was searched the Government found a report on the situation in New York, in which, among other things, the enemy agent recommended the purchase of a newspaper printed in the English language. In that report he referred to each of the New York dailies, and gave what in his opinion was the reason for the pro-Ally attitude of those papers. He assigned sordid reasons in every instance but one for the policy of the newspapers. The exception was a well-known morning and afternoon paper of the same ownership. He said that the attitude of the owner of these papers was an "enigma" in some respects, but added that more German propaganda was printed in them than in any others published in New York.

He Pleased von Bernstorff.

Dr. Bertling, who was arrested in Boston a few days ago, was intimately associated with the propagadist activities of Bernstorff, Dernburg, von Papen, and other German agents, and there is on file in the Government archives a letter written by Dr. Edler, who was Bernstorff's Secretary, in which he said that "Count Bernstorff rejoices exceedingly over your activity and wishes you continued good success." In another letter, also a matter of record, Edler wrote that "Count Bernstorff would like to be informed of your plans for the future, as the Imperial Government has, of course, a financial interest in them."

Kreisel, until a few days ago, a Sergeant in the regular army, despite his ten years of service, never saw fit to become an American citizen. When he was taken to the Tombs yesterday he still wore his uniform as an American regular. Seebeck also wore his uniform.

It was reported yesterday that the Government is considering ordering all enemy subjects, resident on Staten Island, to move to some other part of the city. It is said that at the present time there are about 1,000 male enemy subjects living on Staten Island, and now that great troop movements are in prospect, it is believed that they will be ordered to move.

Colonel Pierkowski, the former Krupp agent, and intimate friend of Boy-Ed, is one German who is still at liberty. It is rumored that his day of internment is drawing near. He is now reporting once a week to his custodian, Supreme Court Justice Hotchkiss.

A general cleaning out from the ranks of British and American merchant crews of insidious trouble makers has greatly increased the efficiency of war service vessels transporting troops and supplies, according to an observation of the American Seamen's Friend Society, 76 Wall Street, which maintains a large sailors' home on the North River waterfront. In the course of last year the society was informed of a practice of the theft of papers and passports of bona fide British and American sailors, evidently the work of the German espionage system, and by this means it was possible for agents of Germany, in some instances, to obtain passage on ships transporting war necessities. The introduction of new means for tracing missing seamen and improving the records, which include the placing of the sailor's picture on his papers, has, it is said, hampered, if not entirely done away with, the German espionage practice in this line.

STATE INQUIRY TO AID FRANCE.

Attorney General to Get Facts Concerning Humbert's Activities.

Deputy Attorney General Alfred L. Becker announced last night that the State of New York, acting at the request of the French Government, had started an investigation of the American activities of Senator Charles Humbert of the Department of the Meuse; Pierre Lenoir, the Paris capitalist, and William Desouches, also a wealthy Parisian, the purpose being to ascertain whether Humbert and his co-defendants, all of whom are under arrest in France, entered into a conspiracy to spread German propaganda in France.

"The French Ambassador," Mr. Becker said, "today transmitted to Governor Whitman a request for an investigation by Attorney General Merton E. Lewis in connection with the prosecution in France of Senator Charles Humbert, the editor of the Paris Journal. Attorney General Lewis will immediately undertake the investigation.

"The request includes an investigation of Senator Humbert's deposits of money with J. P. Morgan & Co., his dealings with the Bethlehem Steel Company while in America in September, 1914, as a purchasing agent of war supplies for the French Government, and in general all matters connected with the prosecution of Humbert, Desouches, and Lenoir."

In the investigation of the activities of Bolo Pacha, now under sentence of death in France for treason, Attorney General Lewis discovered that Senator Humbert had assets of $324,148 in the United States. Of this amount $128,232.38 represented cash deposits. The investigation also indicated that Bolo Pacha, who received about $1,700,000 from Count Bernstorff, had transferred to Humbert about $1,000,000 for an interest in the Journal of Paris, of which Humbert was then the owner and editor.

Mr. Becker said last night that the investigation of Humbert's activities and holdings in this county will be as complete and thorough as the State can make it. A further statement with regard to the investigation will probably be given out in the course of the next few days.

To Make a Bonfire of German Books.

CLEVELAND, April 4.—A German propaganda bonfire—the flames fed by German school books, literature, war screeds, music, phonograph records, and pictures—is being planned in this city for either Saturday or Monday night. Huge boxes for the collection of material for the bonfire will be placed in downtown sections by those in charge of the movement.

Pettigrew's Office Daubed Yellow.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., April 4.—A crowd of citizens today daubed the offices of Richard Franklin Pettigrew, former United States Senator, with yellow paint. Pettigrew is under indictment in a Federal court here, charged with violation of the Espionage act.

DISLOYALTY BILL DENOUNCED AS GAG

Would Muzzle the Press and Smother Criticism of Government, Johnson Declares.

WATSON ATTACKS CREEL

Reads Denver Editorials He Wrote and Characterizes Them "Foul Slanders" on Government.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 4.—Severe criticism today followed an effort to have the Senate pass a bill designed to punish severely attempts to obstruct the Liberty Loan campaigns or to hamper the military and naval forces of the nation.

Senator Johnson of California condemned the measure as "a bill to suppress the freedom of the press in the United States of America and to prevent any man, no matter who he is, from expressing legitimate criticism concerning the present Government."

Senator Watson of Indiana denounced George Creel, Chairman of the Committee on Public Information, as a "snivveling sneerer," and declared Creel would be the subject for prosecution under the proposed law if his writings in former years were taken into account.

The bill provides that whoever, when the United States is at war, shall utter, publish, print or write any disloyal, profane, scurrilous, contemptuous or abusive language about the form of government of the United States, or the Constitution, or the soldiers or sailors of the United States, or the flag, or the uniform of the army or navy, or any language calculated to incite or inflame resistance to any Federal or State authority, or who shall by words or act favor the cause of Germany or her allies, shall be imprisoned for twenty years, or fined $10,000, or both.

Fashion to Charge Disloyalty.

"I take it," said Senator Johnson, "that there is no member of this body who would not go the limit in enacting legislation which would punish most condignly disloyalty and treason. But, yielding to no man in my desire to punish the German propagandist, fundamentally I never could and never would vote for a measure such as is proposed here today.

"Tomorrow I go away to do what I can for a day or two in behalf of the Liberty Loan, and I beg my colleagues, when they discuss this bill and refer to its opponents possibly as men who would wish to retard the war, in my favor to give me at least the small meed of praise of saying that I am aiding the Liberty Loan, while opposing a measure of this sort.

"Again and again, not only in this Chamber, but over the entire land, any man who did not subscribe instanter to any doctrine and principle presented to him, by that token and by that very fact his disloyalty was demonstrated and he was shown to be an enemy of his country. Of course, such a doctrine is absurd, and ought to be met only with scorn, but it is the fashion, and has been the fashion, for some time past with every man and every representative in this Congress who did his duty and courageously expressed his opinion.

"I say the language of this bill demonstrates the fact that it is a bill not for the punishment of disloyalty or treason but it is a bill to suppress the freedom of the press of the United States of America and to prevent any man, no matter who he is, from expressing legitimate criticism concerning the present Government, the present Administration, or the administration in respect to the war. It is not only a bill designed to suppress the press of the nation and make it subservient to those in power today, but it is a bill that seeks to make one refrain from discussion or criticism, and it even purports to prevent one thinking as he wishes to think.

"The ultimate construction of this bill would be that if any man says anything substantially in opposition to any department of this Government, or anything which will cause opposition or resistance to any particular administrative part of this Government, then he is guilty of a crime punishable by twenty years in prison."

Quotes Creel's Editorials.

Saying he agreed fully with what Senator Johnson had said, Senator Watson immediately launched into his attack on Mr. Creel.

"I want to find out whether or not George Creel would be subject to the provisions of this law himself—he, the man whose hand can altogether write, or the man who has the power to alter, or change, or even to manufacture, as we well know, the news that goes to the people respecting the purposes and the events and the transactions of the war."

Senator Watson then quoted at length from editorials written by Mr. Creel while he was in newspaper work in Denver. The first of these was headed, "Ballots or Bullets," and appeared in The Rocky Mountain News of Denver.

"I am wondering whether or not, if George Creel were to write that article and this law were enforced, he could not be sent to the penitentiary," said Senator Watson after reading the editorial, which was construed as attacking the American system of government.

"Undoubtedly he could, and he ought to be," said Senator Borah in reply.

"I agree to that," said Senator Watson. "And then, if that be true, ought George Creel to be placed in a position of responsibility, where he can censor all the news in regard to war provisions that will go out to the people, because through his mental processes are to be filtered the intellectual and moral pabulum to feed the people of the republic in a day of peril and in an hour of storm?"

Senator Reed interrupted to say: "Disagreeing with every word that is contained in the article written by Mr. Creel, believing that it indicates an intellect and a character utterly contemptible, I nevertheless assert that in a free republic men have the right in the exercise of free speech to write even as scurrilous and abusive and untrue articles as that just read."

Senator Watson then read other editorials from the pen of Mr. Creel which had appeared in The Rocky Mountain News. They all criticised certain features of the American Government.

Called a "Foul Slander."

"We are in a war at this time, so we are told, to make the world safe for democracy," Mr. Watson went on. "What kind of democracy? The democracy we enjoyed at the beginning of this contest, not the kind that George Creel describes, because I denounce that as a foul slander upon the United States at the time it was uttered by George Creel, whatever purpose may have animated him when he penned it."

Another editorial, headed "Popery and Politics," drew from Senator Watson this comment:

"This charges a diabolical conspiracy between the President of the United States and the Supreme Court and the leaders of the Catholic Church to oppose the very democrac ywe are supposed to be mobilizing our soldiers to defend over yonder on the blood-soaked soil of France. I am wondering whether, if George Creel should write that sort of article now, he would not be subject to the provisions of this bill."

"I think he ought to be," said Senator Thomas of Colorado.

"And yet, in a war to make the world safe for democracy, he is the chosen spokesman of the Administration, with power to give the news to the people," said Senator Watson. "This sniveling sneerer is holding absolute power over the news service, as far as he can hold it, writing that sort of stuff. Ought this man to be permitted to hold this place, and ought not the Senate to ask for his removal because of these seditious utternnees? Is he longer worthy to hold that position of trust and responsibility and power?"

Senator Overman answered Senator Watson by saying that in Indiana men who made pro-German speeches and otherwise offended have gone free "because there is not enough law in Indiana to hold them." He cited two cases.

The bill then went over until tomorrow.

KENTUCKY AFTER SPIES.

Judge Denounces Horse Poisoners in Charge to Grand Jury.

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 4.—Judge George C. Webb told the Fayette County Grand Jury here today he had reliable information that many emissaries had been sent into Kentucky to injure the horse industry, as part of the German propaganda. He charged the jury to do its utmost to uncover any activities of German spies, and either indict them for treason or furnish the Federal Government with evidence to deal with them.

"Men of this ilk," said the Judge, "who sow seeds of dissension or work against the United States Government and its people, should be prosecuted, imprisoned, and shot if necessary. There is not a State in the Union that is not infested with German spies, and they do not hesitate at anything to spread German propaganda, which is the most villainous, barbarous, and extensive menace that the country has to cope with."

The statement, which follows the recent poisoning of a large number of Government-owned horses at Covington, was greeted with cheers.

CURBS GERMAN PROPAGANDA

Nicaragua to Banish Offenders—Denies Telegraph to Blacklisted Firms.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 4.—Pro-German propaganda against the United Staten and other allied countries has become so marked in Nicaragua that President Chamorro has issued a decree prohibiting such activity. All offenders will be banished to the Island of Solentiname in Lake Nicaragua.

The President also has ordered that all firms on the American blacklist be denied the use of the national telegraph and telephone lines.

MARRIED, THEN INTERNED.

Dr. Bertling Goes to Fort Oglethorpe After Wedding Miss Glotz.

BOSTON, April 4.—Dr. Karl Oscar Bertling, who was sent from Berlin to this country in 1914 to uphold the German cause in public lectures, was taken to Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., today, to be interned for the duration of the war as an enemy alien.

He was arrested at Lexington last week by agents of the Department of Justice, and was married yesterday to Miss Helen Glotz of New York City.

Minneapolis Editors Arraigned.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., April 4.—James A. Peterson, candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator, and Paul F. Dehnel, publisher of the Minneapolis and St. Paul American, a weekly newspaper, were arraigned here today for obstructing recruiting and enlistment. Both pleaded not guilty.

As to Service

Men who buy their clothes, hats and haberdashery here, put such dependence on Wallach Service that we believe a lot of other men will be glad to know more about it.

For "Service" takes on a very real and very definite meaning at all our Stores—a very valuable meaning, too, we think.

To some men, it is best summed up in a satisfactory purchase that was delivered on time.

To others, it means an intelligent interest in their needs, and the willingness and ability to serve them.

Another sees it through the medium of a very special Suit or Topcoat value, that made quick friends with his pocketbook.

And while each regards Wallach Service in the light of their own experience, each spell their Satisfaction with it with a capital "S."

This is exactly as we would have it, for the object of every Wallach Salesman, in every Wallach Store, is to satisfy rather than to sell.

And it is a Service that does not end with your satisfaction at the time of the Sale, but which is merely sealed then by the Wallach Guarantee—for all time.

Very wisely, more and more men who think now is no time to run risks in the purchase of clothes, hats and haberdashery are putting great dependence on this guarantee.

It is so simple—and so easy to remember. And whether it applies to the fit and wear of a Hart Schaffner & Marx Suit, your satisfaction in a Stetson Hat, a Manhattan Shirt, a pair of Socks, or a Silk Cravat, it means one and the same thing always:

"If for any reason you are not satisfied with the goods bought of us, we will be glad to refund your money without question—at any time."

New Spring Clothes and War-time Savings

When you buy your Spring Clothes, one way to save labor, materials and money—to help win the war—is to be sure you are buying good clothes.

And you're sure of the kind of Clothes that do this, when you buy our Hart Schaffner & Marx Clothes, because that is the only kind they make.

Hart Schaffner & Marx Spring Clothes

There's a style variety and pleasingness about our new Suits and Topcoats that make this particular war-time economy a pleasant duty.

But, if you remember, we've said repeatedly that the best way to economize on Clothes is to wear good ones. The saving is in the longer wear and satisfaction they give.

It's surprising what we can show you for $25. At $30, $32.50 and $35 there are no end of remarkable values. The Suits range to $65 for the season's choicest fabrics — the Topcoats to $40.

Campaign Workers Prepared for a Gentle but Firm "Conscripting" of Subscriptions.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Competition for the honor flag in the race among cities and communities to complete the subscription for allotted quotas of Liberty bonds of the third issue began today. The County of York, Penn., telegraphed Secretary McAdoo that its quota had been finished and asked to be recorded as having anticipated the start in the race which will begin at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. The town of Glen Ridge, N. J., also telegraphed that it had completed its quota, and laid claim to first honors.

The telegram from Glen Ridge explained that the percentage of individual subscriptions based on population had been absorbed before noon. Forty-three per cent. of the total population of the town, or 1,788 out of 4,100 persons, bought bonds. The total number of houses in Glen Ridge is only 1,025. The town also pointed out that with a quota of $102,000, it sold $500,000 worth of bonds. If this average were maintained in the coming loan, there would be more than 40,000,000 subscribers in the entire country.

As the race for the flag does not start officially until 9 o'clock tomorrow morning and records are to be filed according to the filing time mark on the telegrams reporting the completion of quotas, dispatches received today will not be accepted as official. The first honors will apparently depend on a slight element of chance according as the telegraph companies make quick time with their dispatches.

Knights of Columbus Subscribe.

D. J. Callahan, Supreme Treasurer of the Knights of Columbus, informed Secretary McAdoo today that the Supreme Board of Directors of the order had authorized him to subscribe for $500,000 worth of Third Liberty Loan bonds. This is the largest authorized subscription to the third loan that has been reported by any organization.

The campaign for the sale of the third bond issue of $3,000,000,000 will start with great demonstrations of patriotism in every large city in the country. Reports to the Secretary of the Treasury indicate also that in hundreds of cities and in rural communities there will be similar patriotic support of the campaign.

Four of the largest meetings will be held in Baltimore, St. Louis, Philadelphia, and Cleveland, where President Wilson, Vice President Marshall, Secretary McAdoo, and Secretary Daniels, respectively, will speak. The Baltimore speaking engagement is the only one that the President has made for the campaign, but the three other officials will make additional addresses. Secretary McAdoo is to be booked for another four weeks' swing around the country in behalf of the loan.

Three of the biggest features of the campaign will be the special war exhibit trains that will be run in the St. Louis, Dallas and Atlanta districts. The nucleus of these exhibits, obtained from the French Government, has been supplemented by other exhibits furnished by the War Department.

The trains will be provided with speakers of national reputation and soldiers who have seen actual service either in the French, British or American armies in the theatre of war. Each district will have two trains, and they will tour throughout the campaign.

Arrangements have been made for dividing the Great Lakes Naval Station band, of which John Phillip Sousa is the leader, into several different sections and utilizing them throughout the campaign in the Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Cleveland, Philadelphia, and New York districts. Mr. Sousa will lead a unit of 250 pieces at the St. Louis opening, and later he will lead other units at different times and in different cities.

American Sergeant Wins Five Duels in the Skies

WASHINGTON, April 5.—An official dispatch from France today says that one of the American aviation pilots recently sent to the French front, Sergeant Putnam, has already to his credit four victories, and a fifth which has not yet been certified.

NEWTON, Mass., April 5.—Sergeant David E. Putnam, who is officially credited with downing four German airplanes, is 19 years old and is a direct descendant of General Israel Putnam, revolutionary war hero. He was a student at Harvard University in the class of 1920 when the United States declared war. He tried for two months to enter the army, but was held back by some minor physical trouble. Then he shipped on a cattle steamer as cabin boy, and, finally reaching Paris, succeeded in joining the Lafayette Escadrille.

ASSERTS AUSTRIA SOUGHT A PARLEY

French Official Statement Charges Czernin Reversed Story of Peace Inquiry.

MEETING IN SWITZERLAND

Paris Envoy Told to "Listen and Say Nothing"—Vienna Defends Czernin Version.

PARIS, April 5.—In an official statement issued by the Government today Premier Clemenceau's denial of the truth of the assertion of Foreign Minister Czernin, that a conversation concerning peace had been held between Austria and France, was given confirmation. The note follows:

"Premier Clemenceau, upon assuming the duties of President of the Council, found that conversations had been entered into in Switzerland, upon Austria's initiative, between the Count Revertata, a personal friend of Emperor Charles, and Commandant Armand of the Second Bureau, French General Staff, designated for that purpose by the French Minister at the time.

"M. Clemenceau did not wish to assume the responsibility of interrupting conferences which had yielded no results but which might furnish useful sources of information. Commandant Armand thus was allowed to continue his journey in Switzerland, upon the request of Count Revertata. Instructions were given M. Armand in the presence of his chief by M. Clemenceau as follows: 'Listen and say nothing.'

Quotes Austrian Admission.

"Count Revertata, becoming convinced that his attempt to bring about a German peace was doomed to failure, in order to fully characterize his mission, gave Commandant Armand a letter written in his own hand, dated Feb. 25, 1918, the first sentence of which reads:

"'During the month of August, 1917, with a view to obtaining from the French Government a proposition to Austria which might lead to future peace and be of such a nature as to be susceptible of being indorsed by Austria and presented to the German Government, conferences have been entered upon.'

"Count Revertata, being himself the solicitor, acknowledges it in the following terms: 'That the purpose was to obtain from the French Government propositions of peace, under cover of Austria, for tranamission to Berlin.'

"Such is the fact established by an authenticated document which Count Czernin has dared to refer to in the following terms: 'Clemenceau, shortly before the beginning of the offensive on the western front, had me asked whether I was ready to enter upon negotiations, and upon what basis.' In speaking thus he not only did not tell the truth, but told the opposite of truth, which in France is termed 'lying.'

Says Czernin "Reversed" Story.

"It is but natural that Premier Clemenceau should be unable to restrain his indignation when Count Czernin, justly anxious as to the final consequences of the western offensive, reversed the roles with such audacity, representing the French Government as begging for peace at the very moment when, with our Allies, we were preparing for the infliction of a supreme defeat upon the Central Empires.

"It would be too easy to recall to what extent Austria has importuned Rome, Washington, and London with solicitations for an alleged separate peace which had no other aim than to slip upon us the yoke which she professes to find to her taste. Who does not know the story of a recent meeting (in Switzerland, of course,) of a former Austrian Ambassador and a figure high in the councils of the Entente Allies?

WAR CORRESPONDENTS' HEADQUARTERS, Friday, April 5.—Heavy attacks by the enemy are in progress north of the Somme, from Albert to Aveluy Wood. So far as my knowledge goes, up to the hour of writing, when there is not such certain news, their only gain this morning was to bits off a small salient opposite the village of Dernancourt, across the railway from Amiens to Albert. The British are now counterattacking them at this place.

The enemy's attack was in considerable strength. I believe it may be reckoned as something like six German divisions on a battlefront of some 9,000 yards, or one regiment to every 600 yards, which is rather formidable odds against the British.

It became clear this morning that they had used the last few days of comparative inactivity to get many of their guns over the bogged ground of the Somme battlefields, for their barrage fire which preceded the attack was heavy and deep.

The Attack in the North.

Again the spilling of German blood goes on apace. Further north there is separate fighting in progress today round about the village of Ayette—such a wretched little place of brick-dust and broken walls when I saw it last on the way from Arras to Bapaume—and the enemy is trying to recapture this, his fire reaching to villages several thousand yards behind the British front.

The British troops in this district are defending their positions resolutely, and the first reports indicate that the German storm troops are suffering under their machine gun fire, after being shelled in their assembly places by heavy and field artillery.

South of the Somme yesterday most of the fighting was against French troops, so that I knew very little about it because the army of the French is outside my province. English troops fought shoulder to shoulder with "the forget-me-nots" and the action was very fierce.

The enemy had a prodigious number of men engaged there yesterday, and from twelve to fourteen German divisions can be identified, including three Guards divisions. These are the Third, commanded by Prince Eitel Friedrich, who commanded the attack on Fort Douaumont in the battle of Verdun; the Guards Reserve Division, the Fourth Guards Division, and elements of the famous Brandenburg corps.

Trying to Straighten Their Line.

The main result of the day's fighting, which was of extreme severity, was the enemy's gain of the village of Hamel, southeast of Corbie, on the Somme, somewhat straightening the line of his advance in the direction of Amiens. It is quite obvious that, if his intention is to strike for Amiens itself along the Valley of the Somme, challenging another great battle with the British forces in liaison with the French, he must at all costs push forward his line across the little River Ancre, north of Albert, in order to avoid an acute salient. I have no doubt that this is the object of his attack in that neighborhood today, for already his salient south of the Somme is so dangerous to him that British field guns are shooting his men in the back.

From what I could gather today—and, needless to say, in the beginning of an action information can seldom be very definite or precise—the present action is merely a straightening-out process of the enemy and is not another great drive, which I believe he will certainly attempt later if his object is attained in these manoeuvres for positions.

Meanwhile the British keep him pinned across the Ancre and hold their flank firmly on the north bank of the Somme. East of Amiens their troops are fighting with most dogged resolution to foil his plans. The New Zealanders and other troops in sharp actions, with the initiative on their side, this morning in two assaults on his lines captured 120 and 130 prisoners, respectively, not including several officers. These troops are full of spirit, and the enemy is having a bad time from their activities.

AT LEAST 14 DIVISIONS HURLED AT THE ALLIES

Heavy Guns Slow to Come Up and Foe Used Mobile Artillery to Start Fight.

LONDON, April 5.—The Germans have made a formidable effort, probably aimed at getting astrids of the Amiens-Paris Railways, says Reuter's correspondent at British Headquarters in France.

Thanks to the stubborn resistance, the only success attained was the driving of a salient of about 7,000 yards wide to an extreme depth of 2,000 yards.

Among the fourteen German divisions (approximately 168,000 men) which are believed to have been engaged were some of the best corps, including the 1st Prussian Guard, commanded by Prince Eitel Friedrich, and two other guard divisions.

Another Reuter dispatch from headquarters, describing yesterday's attack on the British lines, says that the infantry advanced at about 7 o'clock in the morning after a heavy bombardment from a great concentration of his mobile artillery. The usual principle of attacking in dense waves was followed by the Germans. This assault was over a wide front, and appeared to have had for its object a converging movement on the town of Corbil, (nearly four miles northwest of Hamel.)

Along a greater part of the front the Germans were held and lost heavily through machine-gun and rifle fire, the dispatch continues, but in the neighborhood of Hamel a little salient in the line was straightened out under heavy pressure by the enemy. The first counter attack delivered by the British troops was not in sufficient weight to restore the position.

Among the German units fighting on the Somme the famous Brandenburg Corps has been identified, the correspondent adds. Although the enemy has used all the artillery he could concentrate, his fire has not been particularly heavy as bombardments go nowadays. He has trusted mainly to a preponderance of numbers.

Prisoners report that owing to bad communications and the harrassing fire of the British guns the Germans are experiencing great difficulty in bringing up heavy batteries and necessary ammunition.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, April 5, (Associated Press.)—During most of Thursday the main weight of the enemy thrust was against the French on the right of the British.

No less than fourteen German divisions were employed in this drive between the Somme and Montdidier, and three of these were guard units. The Fourth Guards Division was opposite the British on the south bank of the Somme.

The official report of the French War Office yesterday stated that men from fifteen German divisions had been used on "this part of the front," seven being fresh ones.

HINDENBURG ASSERTS VICTORY IS CERTAIN

Says "Entente in the Last Few Months Has Convinced Us" of This.

LONDON, April 5.—"The Entente in the last few months has convinced us that the victory which we require to insure Germany's political and economic future cannot now be taken from us," said Field Marshal von Hindenburg in a telegram to the Essen Chamber of Commerce, according to a dispatch to the Central News from Amsterdam.

"We must suffer still for a short time the present anxistice in order to insure our good future," the Field Marshal is quoted as having added.

New German Supergun Moving Toward Coast?

AMSTERDAM, April 5.—According to Les Nouvelles of Maastricht, another long-range gun similar to those already bombarding Paris passed through Belgium from Essen on Monday. The length of the barrel is from 20 to 25 meter, (65 to 80 feet,) and the calibre from 20 to 25 centimeters.

PETAIN IN COUNTERATTACKS

Germans Unable to Resume Drive, and French Regain Ground.

TAKE NEW GRIP ON CANTIGNY

Foe Suffered "Cruel Losses" in His Offensive, Says Paris Bulletin.

AIMED TO SEIZE RAILWAY

But Failed Utterly, Despite the Reckless Waste of Men in Their Efforts.

PARIS, April 5.—German forces on the front north of Montdidier failed to resume today their very heavy offensive of yesterday, according to tonight's bulletin of the French War Office. Taking advantage of the lull in the enemy's operations, Pétain's troops, by vigorous counterattacks, succeeded in improving their positions at several points, notably in the regions of Mailly-Raineval (south of Moreuil) and Cantigny, (northwest of Montdidier.) The northern and western outskirts of Cantigny, which was taken by the Germans several days ago, are now in French hands.

To the eastward of Montdidier the artillery fire today between Lassigny and Noyon has been violent, as it was all day yesterday.

Fifteen divisions (about 180,000 men) were used by the Germans in their terrific blow of yesterday, seven of these being fresh ones.

They aimed to reach the Amiens-Paris railway, but, despite their superior strength, says the day report of the War Office, they failed in this, although they pushed back the French at one point—Castel, (on the west bank of the Avre and about three miles north of Moreuil.) Elsewhere, it is stated, the French regiments held and "inflicted cruel losses on the enemy."

At two points in this area, indeed, the French won some ground. They also gained a success near Orvillers, in the Lassigny region.

The night statement of the War Office is as follows:

The Germans did not resume their attacks on the front north of Montdidier during the course of the day.

Our troops have vigorously counterattacked the enemy and have succeeded in improving their positions at several points, notably the region of Mailly-Raineval and Cantigny, the north and west outskirts of which town are in our hands.

The activity of both artilleries between Lassigny and Noyon have been continuously violent. A further gain of ground was realized this afternoon north of Mont Renaud.

Aviation.—On Wednesday we brought down five German airplanes and one captive balloon was destroyed by fire. During Tuesday night and Wednesday our bombing squadrons made numerous sorties and 23,000 kilograms (twenty-five tons) of projectiles were dropped on cantonments, stations, and enemy establishments. Fires were caused, notably in the stations at Laon and St. Quentin. It is confirmed that from March 31 to April 3 five other enemy airplanes were destroyed by our pilots.

The day bulletin of the War Office reads:

The Germans continued their attacks during the night with undiminished violence, throwing fresh forces into the battle. We have identified fifteen divisions on this part of the front, seven of them fresh ones.

Notwithstanding the marked superiority in the strength of the enemy forces, which the Germans used up recklessly, they did not obtain their objective, which was the railway from Amiens to Clermont, as is shown by documents found on prisoners. French regiments, re-

"All Is Going Well," Says the Allied Commander, Who Adds That German "Tidal Wave" Is Broken

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, April 4, (Associated Press.)—General Foch, the new Commander-in-Chief, in welcoming The Associated Press and other war correspondents tonight, said that he hoped they would continue to work for the interests of the common cause of the Allies as they hitherto had done. Pointing to a map, General Foch said:

"All is going well. Look at the small advances made by the boche—to call them by their real name—during the 27th, 28th, 29th and 30th.

"It is now the 4th of April, and it is clearly evident that the great tidal wave of the German Army has been broken on the shore, evidently because it met an obstacle. Now they are against an embankment and completely stopped.

"The future will show the full measure of our success. We are going to try to do better and to get the upper hand of the boche. I cannot say what will happen, but all is going well."

General Foch then wished the correspondents success in their work. He spoke with cool confidence. Every action, every glance portrayed a strong man, fully alive to his task, and prepared to deal with it.

SMASHED BIG GUN, PARIS BELIEVES

Concentration by French Artillery Probably Destroyed German Super-Cannon.

THEORY IT RUNS ON RAILS

And Hides in a Tunnel Between Shots—Can't Muffle It by Firing Other Heavies.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 5.—German long-range guns which have been bombarding Paris continue to excite a great deal more curiosity among the public than they. The belief is growing that the statement that one of these guns has been destroyed by an explosion has really been deliberately set afloat by the Germans themselves to conceal the fact that the French artillerymen have succeeded in putting one of the long-range weapons permanently out of business.

It should be noted that the statement of the accidental destruction of the gun originally came from German prisoners taken on the French front, and was embroidered with circumstantial detail to the effect that five of the gun's crew were killed by the explosion. This means of concealing the facts would be quite in accordance with boche methods, whereas it is quite unlikely that they would have allowed a word to leak out if the gun really had been destroyed as they say it was. The rigid secrecy successfully preserved hitherto in regard to these guns makes it quite unlikely, especially so soon after the event that the boche soldiers would be able to give such detailed facts.

It is now thought possible that the 15-inch guns which bombarded Nancy and Dunkirk, these guns may be mounted on railway carriages and take refuge in a tunnel after each shot. The nearest suitable French heavy guns are probably at least eleven miles from the emplacement of the German weapon, at which distance so small a mark is very difficult to hit. The guns never fire after dark, hence it is impossible to locate them by the flash, which is one of the commonest means of getting similar information, and photography from airplanes can be of little help in such circumstances for many reasons.

Experts here suggest that the most practical method of silencing the cannon would be to concentrate a large number of heavy guns dropping high explosives over a wide area and to freely deluge the ground at the same time with gas shells which would make use of the gun impossible for the time being.

Charles Nordman, in The Matin, suggests that French artillerymen concentrate their fire on the region where the gun is supposed to be as soon as the report of its discharge is heard. The impossibility of preventing the report of the gun being identified seems to be its weakest point. The Germans are trying to meet this by firing other heavy guns at the same moment, but this does not prevent the voice of the monster being easily identified. Nordman asserts that the gun is not now in the same place as originally, but a mile and a half further back.

The much less frequent fall of shells in Paris during the last few days is proof that the French artillery work is having a serious effect on the efficiency of the Boches' latest invention, and that at any moment a lucky shot may finally silence the German weapon.

BERLIN REPORTS 'LOCAL' FIGHTING

That and Artillery Duels the Only Activity on the Somme, It Is Stated.

RECOUNTS THURSDAY GAINS

Two Towns Taken from French and One from British—Counts 90,000 Prisoners.

BERLIN, April 5, (via London.)—There were only local infantry engagements on both sides of the Somme today, according to the official communication issued from headquarters this evening. The statement adds that the Germans repulsed French counterattacks during the day along the Avre River.

The day bulletin told of successes won in yesterday's drive south of the Somme. The capture of Hamel and the woods southeast and northeast of Villers-Bretonneux from the British, and of Castel (northwest of Moreuil) and Mailly, both on the west bank of the Avre, from the French troops was recorded.

The allied prisoners taken in the offensive since March 21 now exceeds 90,000, it is stated, and the number of guns taken more than 1,300.

The night bulletin reads:

There have been artillery duels and local infantry engagements on both sides of the Somme.

Strong French counterattacks failed on the western bank of the Avre.

There has been lively artillery activity before Verdun.

The day communication of the Headquarters Staff is as follows:

After a hard struggle we have taken, between the Somme and the Luce rivers, Hamel and also the wooded districts northeast and southeast of Villers-Bretonneux and the castle (town of Castel) and Mailly, on the west bank of the Avre.

We attacked yesterday south of the Somme and on both sides of Moreuil and threw the enemy out from his strong positions. English and French reserves advanced against our troops. Their storming attack broke under our fire.

The enemy showed desperate resistance on the whole of the front. His losses are consequently unusually severe. We took several thousand of prisoners.

According to a completed calculation, the number of prisoners brought in by the army of General von Hutier in the period from March 21 to March 29 amounts to 51,218 and the captured guns to 729. With these captures the whole booty up to the present has risen to more than 90,000 prisoners and more than 1,300 guns.

By way of reprisal for the continual bombardment for some days of our shelters in Laon we have taken Rheims under our fire.

In Champagne and on the east bank of the Meuse successful thrusts have brought us prisoners.

Before Verdun the artillery battle, which had increased during the day, was also lively during the night.

MOVE ON THE BRITISH FRONT

Turn from Direct Amiens Drive to Strike Haig North of Somme.

MAKE BUT SLIGHT PROGRESS

They Reach the Albert-Amiens Railway, but Are Driven Back by British.

THURSDAY'S GAINS COSTLY

Pressed Forward in Hamel Region by Sheer Weight of Repeated Assaults.

LONDON, April 5.—Giving up for the time, at least, their assaults on the British front south of the Somme, the German forces today delivered heavy attacks on Haig's lines from the Somme northward to a point above Bucquoy, (a distance of approximately twenty miles.)

Trench mortars and other artillery served to give prelude to a series of infantry drives, but, according to the night report from General Haig, the Germans gained "virtually no success anywhere" and suffered heavy losses.

While these operations were going on the British on the same front attacked near Hebuterne and captured machine guns and about 200 prisoners.

The fighting of yesterday on the British front south of the Somme (where today the enemy attempted nothing) was of a very severe character, the official reports issued today and tonight reveal. In the conflict, which lasted far into last night, the Germans threw large forces at the line and compelled the British to fall back a little to new positions east of Villers-Bretonneux, (about three miles southwest of Hamel and nine miles east of Amiens.) Here they held their ground against renewed assaults.

Field Marshal Haig's report of right reads:

This morning the activity of the enemy's artillery and trench mortars increased north of the Somme and was followed by a series of strong infantry attacks along all of that portion of the battlefront which lies between the Somme and Bucquoy.

The latest reports indicate that these attacks met with virtually no success anywhere and have resulted in further heavy casualties to the enemy.

On the same front our troops carried out a successful attack in the neighboorhood of Hebuterne. They took some 200 prisoners and a number of machine guns.

South of the Somme there were no further attacks made on the British front by the enemy today.

It is confirmed that the fighting yesterday on this front was of a most severe and persistent nature, the enemy making repeated assaults on our positions east of Villers-Bretonneux.

A War Office communication issued this evening says:

Since dawn this morning the Germans have delivered heavy attacks north and south of Dernancourt, southwest of Albert, and in the region of Moyenneville.

At Dernancourt and southwest of Albert they succeeded in getting a footing in our defenses. The situation at Albert was restored by a counterattack.

In the region of Mesnil and Beaumont-Hamel our line has been heavily shelled, and some infantry fighting has taken place near Mesnil, but without advantage to the enemy. Enemy attacks on Moyenneville were repulsed.

An attack carried out by our troops southeast of Gommecourt resulted in the capture of 120 prisoners.

On the British front south of the Somme the situation has been quiet.

The day bulletin of the War Office is as follows:

Between the Luce River and the Somme heavy fighting continued yesterday during the afternoon and evening till a late hour. The enemy employed strong forces and delivered repeated assaults on our positions. These attacks were beaten off with loss to the enemy, but our troops were pressed back a short distance to positions east of Villers-Brettonneux, (about nine miles east of Amiens,) which they now maintain.

North of the Somme the enemy's artillery has been active during the night in the neighborhood of Hucquoy and in the Scarpe Valley.

Hostile concentrations early this morning in the neighborhood of Albert were engaged by our artillery.

The aviation report, issued by the War Office tonight, reads:

Rain and mist greatly interfered with aerial operations Thursday. Our airplanes, nevertheless, reported activity during the battle south of the Somme and fired into the enemy troops.

Of the German machines which appeared on this part of the battle-front, six were brought down by airplanes and one was shot down by anti-aircraft gun fire. One of our machines is missing. Two machines reported missing during the last two days have returned.

About mid-day Friday our airplanes dropped twenty-two heavy bombs on the railway and a very large fire was caused. Anti-aircraft gun fire was considerable, but all our machines returned.

ALBERT ATTACK STRONG.

Germans Get to Railway Only to Lose Ground Again.

LONDON, April 5.—Dispatches from the western front emphasize the strength of the attacks made by the Germans on the allied lines yesterday and today.

A dispatch from The Associated Press correspondent with the British Army in France says:

"Hard fighting was proceeding today north and south of Albert as the result of a heavy attack by the Germans on the British lines along a front of 9,000 yards between Avsluy and Dernancourt.

"About the time of the assault delivered against the British on the Albert sector, the Germans also sent strong forces against the defenses north of Ablainzeville. This offensive move was short-lived, however, for the British threw the enemy back with heavy losses.

"It is believed that the German operations about Albert were undertaken mainly for the purpose of getting hold of the railway running southwest to Amiens, but that it had the additional object of straightening the enemy's lines in this zone.

"The attack was launched at 8 o'clock, after an intense bombardment of the defending position. Six enemy divisions were employed in the early hours of the fighting, which was exceedingly bitter. North of Albert the British clung tenaciously to their line, but just to the south the Germans pivoted out from Albert and swung their front westward from Dernancourt until it reached the railway on which the defenders were making a gallant stand. [The official report from Haig shows that a counterattack won back the British position here.]

"Both these attacks today, and those delivered below the Somme yesterday, appear to have been merely forerunners of what may be termed the second phase of the offensive, when the Germans will strike another great blow with vast forces against some portion of the long battle front."

CALLS OUR AIRMEN BRILLIANT.

British Writer Praises Them—300 Allied Planes Seen Aloft at Once.

LONDON, April 5.—A tribute to American aviators with the British Army in France who are "numerous and always brilliant" is paid by the correspondent of The Daily News. He says that American aviation mechanics also have rendered splendid aid.

Describing the air fighting on the western front, the correspondent says that never before in any army have airplanes been used in such great concentration.

On one sector of the battle front as many as 300 machines are in the air at one time. The use of machine guns on enemy troops, guns, and transports by low-flying machines has been carried to a point far beyond anything in previous experience.

GERMANS FELL BY COMPANIES.

Wounded in Hospitals in Paris Tell of Great Slaughter.

PARIS, April 5.—The accounts of carnage in the German ranks, wrought by the fire of the Allies, as given in official communications and by correspondents at the front, are confirmed by stories of the wounded in French hospitals.

"We cut down the Germans as a harvester cuts down wheat," said a wounded Lieutenant, back from Lassigny. "We went on cutting them down until we emptied our cartridge boxes. Then our dragoons, on their mounts, came right up to the firing line and brought us more cartridges."

A Corporal, horribly burned by gas, but not downcast, said:

"Yes, they fixed me up this way, but that does not matter. I am revenged. It is almost incredible—the way they fell in groups, in companies. I shall survive my burns, but the thousands and thousands of Germans whom I saw fall will never be seen again."

ENGLAND WATCHES ON MAPS.

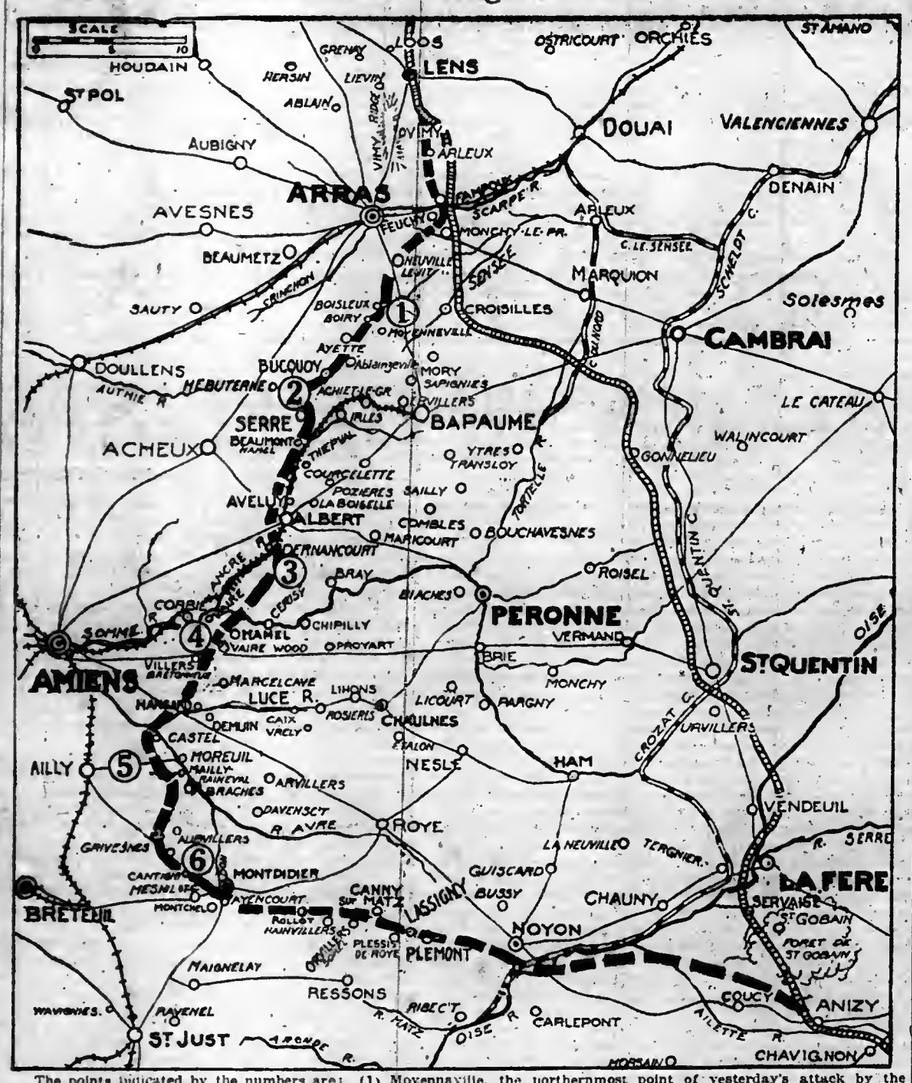
Reserves Won't Be Used Prematurely, Says One Paper.

LONDON, April 5.—England is calmly watching on the maps the result of this latest offensive, and every scrap of news about it is read eagerly.

"Our difficulties and those of the enemy are fairly obvious," says The Standard. "We are suffering from a very heavy blow dealt to General Gough's army. The enemy on his side finds that the salient, created through that local success, is too narrow for his purpose.

"A good many people no doubt experienced a certain disappointment that no great reaction on the part of the Allies followed the exhaustion of the German effort. It should be remembered that the battle is only in its earliest stages, and nothing would please the enemy commanders better than a premature employment of the reserves."

Latest Points of Interest Along the Somme Battle Front



The points indicated by the numbers are: (1) Moyennaville, the northernmost point of yesterday's attack by the Germans on the British front above the Somme; (2) Hebuterne, where the British made a successful assault; (3) Dernancourt, near which the Germans made practically their only gains of the day; (4) Villers-Bertonneux, the centre of Thursday's terrific drive at the British; (5) Castel, which was wrested from the French by the Kaiser's troops, but at fearful cost, and (6) Cantigny, on which Pétain's troops have taken a grip after being driven out several days ago.

The War Situation

BY THE MILITARY EXPERT OF THE NEW YORK TIMES

The reports of yesterday have brought the details, more or less complete, of the German attack which began on Thursday. This attack was of exactly the same general character as that which was launched in the opening days of the offensive. There was first the hurricane of artillery fire before the infantry went forward, a fire from massed guns with a great weight of shell. The infantry followed this fire closely, and apparently moved toward Amiens from three general directions. One attack came from the northeast from the general direction of Albert, a second from the east along the line of the Amiens-Roisères railroad, and the third along the Valley of the Avre River, where the French hold the line. The first two attacks were delivered on Thursday, the last began on Thursday and continued all night.

The object of all of these attacks was the same—it was to clear away the northern defenses of the Montdidier salient and to widen it out. A salient is dangerous in the extreme only when its neck is narrow; when the opposing artillery can reach from one leg to the other, or when a sudden attack against one leg is liable to close the neck and cut off the troops which occupy the apex. When, through a widening process, this point has been passed, the salient, although it may be troublesome, is not necessarily a source of immediate danger.

The situation at Montdidier, with the thickening of the French line due to the steadily arriving reserves, was fast becoming dangerous. A break in the southern leg meant trouble if not disaster. Therefore the Germans have been struggling all week to clear the atmosphere by widening out. This they have to some extent accomplished, although the danger is still present, even if not in the same accentuated form.

In Thursday's fighting against the British the Germans attempted to clear the way for an attack direct at Amiens by hewing their path between the Ancre and the Luce. Albert is the northern bastion which supports this part of the British line. But the attack on Albert broke down completely, leaving the battle lines exactly where they were. South of the Somme the Germans were more successful. They pushed their lines westward about 1,000 yards to a point east of the village of Villers-Bretonneux on the Amiens-Rosières road, but here were checked and held.

On Friday this section of the front was absolutely quiet, the German attacks dying out. This is worthy of note because it is a peculiarity not before noted in the German attacks. There seems to be no way to account for this sudden break in the fighting at a most vital point in the line unless it was because the German losses were so great as to discourage any immediate attempt to gain their object.

The British have now a great advantage in the question of ammunition and supplies. While the roads are under fire continuously, they are nevertheless within short distances of their supply depôts and can readily and quickly over short lines of communication, maintain their necessary flow of ammunition. The opposite is true of the Germans. Their transportation is not only being impeded by the condition of the avenues over which it must be brought up, the destroyed Somme region, but this condition was greatly aggravated by the fighting of the past ten days. Moreover, the German bases are far behind their lines and there has not yet been sufficient time to provide for others. The great mass of material needed for the continuation of fighting on the scale of the past weeks does not permit of the storage of such material in advance bases. Moreover, there is not sufficient time for such a process. German success depends upon speed more than upon any other factor. Delay cannot but operate in favor of the Allies. There is no opportunity then for the suspension of operations pending the accumulation of large reservoirs of material near the battlefront. The flow of munitions is used as it comes.

Further south on the French front between the Amiens-Roye Road and Montdidier, the French front was struck with one of the heaviest concentrations seen since the war began—nearly 20,000 men to the mile. Here the intent was to drive up the valley of the Avre straight toward Amiens. This is the most dangerous ground into which the Germans have endeavored to break. But in spite of the great numbers opposed to them the French broke up the attacks, permitting only insignificant gains.

The French are evidently present in great force, and knowing now the point of attack were ready to meet it. Whether the reserve army was used in this defense is not known. But the French certainly showed greater strength than at any other time since the offense began to affect them. Not only were the French able to hold the Germans in check, but they still had sufficient force to counterattack locally themselves, making small headway, but denting the German lines in several localities.

The net result appears to be a thorough German check and a very costly one. There can be no doubt that when troops—particularly German troops with their attacking tactics—move in such densely packed masses, their losses are terrific. That this attack, as in the case of the attack on the British, they were compelled to desist after less than twenty-four hours of fighting, is sufficient evidence that this was the case.

As the Germans drive toward Amiens, centring all of their efforts against this objective, the contour of the battle line is undergoing a noteworthy change. The apex of the salient is changing from Montdidier to the valley of the Avre, approaching the angle between the Avre and the Somme. As the base of this angle which is formed by the battle lines becomes smaller, the difficulties of the Germans will increase because of the difficulty of close co-operation between armies which are separated by river courses.

REDS SEEK NEWS OF BLACK SEA FLEET

Naval Commissary Admits He Does Not Know Who Holds Odessa and Other Ports.

GERMANS INVADING KURSK

Province Is Outside of Ukraine and Bolshevist Government Protests —Great Booty Captured.

LONDON, April 5.—The Bolshevist Government is anxious to learn the whereabouts of the Russian Black Sea fleet, according to a wireless statement sent out from Petrograd Thursday. The statement, which is signed by Naval Commissary Bukasliovitch, follows:

"To Sablin, Fleet Commander, Sebastopol: Wire us position Black Sea navy, especially as concerns Odessa, Nikolayev, Batoum and Trabizond. We have no recent information as to who is in possession of those places."

A Petrograd dispatch to The Daily Mail, dated Wednesday, says that German steamers have arrived at Odessa.

German banks, the dispatch adds, are reported to have offered the Russian Government a loan of 1,000,000,000 rubles to be guaranteed by the revenues of the Northern and Siberian railways.

MOSCOW, April 4. (Associated Press.)—A press dispatch from Kiev says the Ukrainian Rada has passed a resolution favoring the continuation of military operations against the government of the Soldiers' and Workmen's Deputies, although the President of the Rada, Professor Grushevski, urged that peace be concluded because of widespread dissatisfaction among the peasants with the Rada's policy. Repeated requisitions of grain by the Germans are being resisted violently by the peasants. One village was destroyed by artillery because its inhabitants offered armed opposition to the third requisition.

The Rada passed the resolution after a German military representative, Colonel von Kulberg, had made an address pointing out the successes of the German and Ukrainian troops, saying that the capture of Kharkov and Ekaterinoslav was imminent and giving assurance of Germany's support in the future against the Bolsheviki.

The Bolshevist Foreign Minister, M. Tchitcherin, has made a protest against the invasion by German and Ukrainian troops of Kursk Province, which is indisputable Russian territory. Germany did not include this province in her definition of Ukraine, and even the Ukrainian delegation at Brest-Litovsk did not claim it.

Peter Petroff, the Russian emissary who yesterday returned from Berlin with the ratified peace treaty signed by Chancellor von Hertling and Emperor William, tells the Izvestia, the Bolshevist organ, that the provisions of the ratified treaty confirm the declaration of Foreign Secretary von Kühlmann during the Reichstag's debate that the provinces of Livonia and Esthonia, lying east of the new Russo-German frontier, are to be under Russian sovereignty.

A map accompanying the treaty shows the frontier running west of the provinces in question, which fact, at M. Petroff's suggestion, he says, was specifically stated in a special document drawn up when the treaty was ratified.

M. Petroff reports that only the peace treaty with Germany has been ratified, the representatives of the other Central Powers being absent. They have been officially notified of the ratification of the German document, however, and the exchange of ratified treaties with them will be made soon. The treaties become effective from the moment of the exchange of the documents.

RUSSIA WANTS HANDS FREE.

Needs Help from All Sides for Her Recuperation.

By ARTHUR RANSOME.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, April 5.—Russia's foreign policy at present, as outlined to me by persons well qualified to know, is one of free hands. She needs recuperation and is willing to take help from all sides so long as that does not mean tying her hands again. She has in the Soviet organization in the long run a more dangerous one to Germany than any other that could arise here. It is to England's interest and Germany's detriment that the Soviet government should be strengthened.

Negotiations between the Russian Soviet government and the Ukrainian Rada for the establishment of mutual frontiers begin tomorrow. This does not affect the struggle inside the Ukraine between the Rada and the Ukrainian Soviets.

The Rada, seeing the growing hostility to its power among the peasantry, owing to the introduction of German troops, were inclined to try to come to terms with the Soviets, but on the insistence of the German officers decided to continue civil war.

The events in Ukraine have proved that without the German troops the bourgeoise Rada could never have imposed itself on the population.

A similar story is being played out in Finland, where the Germans have landed near Hango. If the Finnish Soviets are overthrown, as seems inevitable, the Finnish bourgeoise government like that of Ukraine will be dependent on Germany.

JAPANESE IN VLADIVOSTOK.

Small Armed Force Lands Following Attack on Subject of Mikado.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—For the purpose of protecting life and property a small armed force has been landed at Vladivostok from Japanese cruisers in the harbor at that port. The State Department made official announcement late this afternoon that it had been so advised under date of April 4 by the American Consul at Vladivostok.

"This action," said the announcement, "was taken following an invasion of a Japanese office by five armed Russians, who, upon being refused money which they demanded, opened fire, killing one Japanese and seriously wounding two others."

The incident is not regarded by the American Government as possessing political significance. It is customary for all civilized powers to land forces wherever it is considered necessary by actual events to do so for the purpose of protecting nationals and their property.

TOKIO, March 30. (Associated Press.)—At the Japanese Foreign Office today it was said that no confirmation had been received of the statement published by the Nichi Nichi that the situation at Vladivostok, while not immediately critical, was becoming worse. Telegraphic communication with the Russian seaport has been virtually suspended. The Nichi Nichi claims that the Bolshevist authorities have occupied the Government offices and banks at Vladivostok. The Entente Powers, it adds, have accepted the promise of the Bolsheviki to protect life and property, especially the immense supplies destined for the Russian Army.

Private advices received here allege that anarchy is on the increase throughout Russia. The propertied classes are said to be gradually losing their rights, and their property is being confiscated.

RUSSIAN FLEET IN PERIL.

PETROGRAD, April 4. (Associated Press.)—Two German warships and several torpedo boats have landed troops in Finland and occupied the town of Ekness, southwest of Helsingfors. Several Russian warships, including four submarines, were powerless to prevent the entry of the Germans into the harbor of Hango, and the sailors sank three of the ships in the harbor to prevent their capture.

The arrival of the German fleet off the Finnish coast threatens the safety of the Russian fleet at Helsingfors, which, for lack of an icebreaker, has been unable to reach the naval base at Kronstadt.

PETAIN OPENS IN COUNTERATTACK

sisting step by step and counterattacking energetically, maintained their line in its entirety and inflicted cruel losses on the enemy.

Meanwhile in the north the French withdrew their positions to west of Castel. They ejected the Germans from Arrière Cour Wood, west of Mailly-Raineval. Southeast of Grivesnes a brilliant counterattack gave the French the St. Aignan Farm, which they held against all assaults.

Between Monldidier and Noyon the artillery fighting became very intense. French troops attacked the German lines and obtained possession of the greater part of Epinette Wood, 600 yards north of Orvillers-Sorel. All efforts of the Germans to dislodge the French were vain.

FRENCH TROOPS EXPECT ANOTHER GREAT PUSH

Poilus Full of Confidence and Believe Americans Will Figure at the Great Crisis.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, April 4, (Associated Press.)—Orders found on German prisoners show that their objective for March 30 was an advance of over ten miles towards Compiegne on the way to Paris. Not only had they not accomplished this, but they had also left an enormous percentage of their effectives killed, wounded, or prisoner.

The opinion is general among the allied forces that the Germans will attempt another great push before giving up as a failure their effort to make a break in the allied lines. The utmost confidence is felt regarding the final outcome of this gigantic battle, the first phase of which has been completed.

The spontaneous offer to send American troops to the battle line to fight side by side with the other Allies has aroused the greatest enthusiasm among soldiers at the front, who express the certainty that the Americans' help will have considerable weight in the struggle.

Although calm reigned generally over the French front last night, owing to unfavorable weather conditions, which prevented flying, a sharp little engagement was fought in the vicinity of Piemont, near Lassigny, where a few days ago the Germans made determined efforts to break through.

The correspondent went all over the front line trenches in this sector during the afternoon and saw evidences of terrific fighting. Hundreds of bodies of Germans were still lying among the broken barbed-wire defenses and woods and in the park surrounding the Castle of Plessier de Roye.

A German reserved division by a flank movement through almost impassable marshes, obtained a footing in the park, where after a severe combat they took 100 prisoners. At the same moment the 103d Division managed to get a footing on the top of Piemont, but overlooked a French observation post beneath their feet, where four men were stationed, as well as a Major's command post nearby. The Major, with servants, telephone operators, and runners, made a dash for the observation post and defended themselves there. They kept their comrades from whom they were cut off informed regarding the enemy's movements.

Soon afterward counterattacks were made on both places by the French, who made a clean sweep of all occupants of the park, taking 700 unwounded and large numbers of wounded prisoners.

GREAT OPTIMISM IN PARIS.

Satisfaction Caused by German Reversion to Verdun Methods.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 5.—The renewal of the German attacks despite unfavorable weather caused no surprise in well-informed circles last night. On the contrary, the news was greeted with satisfaction as justifying the theory—emphasized in previous dispatches to THE NEW YORK TIMES—that the enemy's position is such that he is forced to seek a "decision" at all costs.

The nature of the battle is considered another reason for optimism. As the leading military writers point out this morning, the Germans have reverted to the tactics of Verdun—massed assaults on a narrow front instead of the huge sweeping movement of the opening days. M. Bidou, in the Journal, says:

"The Germans have attacked with that vigor and disregard of losses which is their custom in great blows whereby they hope to reach a decision. Let us congratulate ourselves on the enemy's obstinacy, since it leads him to use up in barren sacrifices effectives which might be employed more fruitfully. Nothing could be more agreeable than to see the Germans return to the tactics of Verdun. The last three years have proved there are no real gains save by manoeuvrs. Verdun, the Somme, the Yser, and Artois all tell the same story—an advance that cannot be exploited immediately is not worth its cost."

M. Pichon's newspaper, the Petit Journal, states that the attack of eleven German divisions, whose objective evidently was Ailly-sur-Noye, on the Paris-Amiens railroad, was repelled by only three French divisions. The only point where the Germans gained ground was at Mailly-Raineval, over four miles from the railroad, where French reinforcements hold strongly the surrounding hills.

In the Chamber lobby optimism was undiminished. It is suggested that the Germans have practically abandoned hope of taking Amiens itself and now have two objectives—the Franco-British armies at the point of juncture. The former is in a sense a confession of weakness and the latter not seriously to be feared, since the fusion of the two armies is now perfect.

Contrary to what appears to be thought in America and England, French opinion is tending daily more strongly to the view that if the American effort is brought to bear with sufficient force the war will be over this year, perhaps before the end of Summer. The desperation of the German efforts is considered proof that the enemy leaders cannot prolong the war without a victory.

DENIES AUSTRIANS ARE THERE.

LONDON, April 5.—A statement in The Evening Standard tonight concerning the Somme battle says:

"No Austrian or Bulgarian troops are engaged on the western front, but an examination of shell fuses shows that a few Austrian guns are being used. It is known that some German troops were brought from Saloniki, which may have given rise to the report that Bulgarians and Austrians are fighting in France."

URGE FULL UNITY AGAINST GERMANS

Many in Paris Say It Should Be Political as Well as Military.

WANT OUR AID IN ITALY

American Observers There Say We Should Send a Contingent, However Small.

By CHARLES H. GRASTY.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Friday, April 5.—It is generally conceded that the Germans profited greatly by the lack of unity between the British and French armies when their offensive was launched March 21. They thrust straight at the joint between the two armies, where a certain amount of confusion was inevitable.

It is no secret that this disadvantage was clearly foreseen, and that the British Government labored earnestly to reach the goal of military unity at the last meeting of the Versailles Council. Military pride and prejudice blocked the way which broad-minded statesmanship had opened up. Thanks to American insistence, measures were adopted which had the effect of framing an organization ready for the emergency which afterward arose.

There are those who believe that if the plan proposed by the French and conditionally acquiesced in by the British civil authorities had been adopted at the last Versailles meeting, the German drive would not have got so far. Retrospects are not profitable, however, except for their bearing on the future. There is a large body of opinion which finds an analogy between the military situation two months ago and the political situation today and says: "We must unify allied action eventually—why not now?" During these next months statecraft and generalship must make common cause immediately behind the front of battles which will rock every foundation of civilization. The questions arising from day to day will brook no delay.

One decision that must be made immediately is whether America can send soldiers to Italy. All Americans returning from that country say the same thing: "Hurry a contingent of American troops, however small, to Italy. Make the Italians know that we are in the war and will stay till the finish, and that all they need do to realize their hopes is to stick."

FOCH'S CONFIDENCE IMPRESSES

All Who Visit Him at French Headquarters Bring Good Reports.

By CHARLES H. GRASTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 5.—I have talked today with high authorities who returned from headquarters.

They bring good reports and say that General Foch is confident.

The Generalissimo impresses all his colleagues with his mastery of the situation.

PARIS, April 6.—Replying to Baron Uehara, Chief of the General Staff of the Japanese Army, who sent a telegram congratulating the French Army, General Foch has sent the following message:

"In the name of the French Army, I thank you for the congratulations and best wishes sent by the Japanese Army. In close union with all our allies, we will stop everywhere the enemy's rush and gain a victory which will affirm the triumph of our great cause."

Premier Clemenceau telegraphed Lieut. Gen. Oshima, the Japanese Minister of War, as follows:

"The French soldiers are proud of the praise which you addressed to them. They will continue to show themselves worthy of it and will repulse victoriously the supreme assault of the German coalition."

FOE'S SUPERGUN OUTDONE.

American Gun Said to Throw a Bigger Shell 60 Miles.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 5.—With a range of approximately sixty miles, what is believed to be a tremendous advantage in mobility, and the use of a projectile of greater diameter and weight than that of the German super gun, which has been bombarding Paris, the giant, long range cannon now under construction "somewhere near Philadelphia" is called a greater military asset than the Browning machine gun.

Its points of superiority have convinced military experts that the new weapon, once in use, will stop the long range German bombardments of cities and hamlets in France.

How Germany fears this new weapon was shown when it was announced that German agents already had attempted to learn the secrets involved in its manufacture and have failed.

Only one man may talk officially about the gun. He is Samuel M. Vauclain, ordnance expert of the Council of National Defense. Mr. Vauclain is expected in this city tomorrow. He attended a conference of munition officials in Washington today, after announcing the fact last night that the gun is under construction.

CATHOLICS HERE PROTEST.

Cardinal Farley Sends a Message of Sympathy to Paris Prelate.

The Catholics of New York, through a message sent to France yesterday by Cardinal Farley, gave voice to their indignation over the killing, by means of the German long-range gun, of innocent persons gathered at religious services in a Paris church on Good Friday. The message, which also pledges unfaltering allegiance in the war for liberty and justice, follows:

His Eminence Cardinal Amette, Archbishop of Paris, France:

Shocked by the brutal killing of innocent victims gathered at religious services to commemorate the passing of our blessed Saviour on Good Friday, the Catholics of New York join your noble protest against this outrage of the sanctuary on such a day and at such an hour, and, expressing their sympathy to the bereaved relatives of the dead and injured, pledge their unfaltering allegiance in support of the common cause that unites our two great Republics. May God bless the brave officers and men of the allied armies in their splendid defense of liberty and justice!

JOHN CARDINAL FARLEY,
Archbishop of New York.

ROMANOFFS PUT TO WORK.

Even Former Princesses Toil in Gardens Under Armed Guards.

MOSCOW, April 4. (Associated Press.)—Members of the former Russian Imperial family living in the Crimea have been greatly restricted in their movements. They are not permitted to visit one another. All of them, even former Princesses, are working in the gardens under armed guards.

All the members of the Romanoff family living in the Petrograd district have been ordered exiled to Perm and Vologa, to the Ural Mountain region. According to the Ikeanneye Outro, the Council of Soldiers' and Workmen's Delegates of Vologda has refused to admit them to the city.

ITALIANS' FAITH IN ALLIES STRONG

Sure That the Big German Drive Will Be Checked by French and British.

EXPECT NEW ONE IN ITALY

Belief That Austria-Hungary Wants One Now Because of Internal Conditions—Italians Troops Ready.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ITALIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS, April 3. (Delayed.)—The German offensive in France has impressed, even more, if possible, than the retreat from Caporetto, the minds of Italians with the absolute necessity of the Allies standing together against what is regarded as Germany's last desperate effort. On the Piave front I heard from officers and soldiers numberless expressions of abiding faith in the ability of the Anglo-French armies to check the advance of the Germans after the latter had exhausted their first reserves.

One Italian Colonel said to me:

"Why should we not have faith in them? We have seen them fighting side by side with us on our front, especially the French, who with unequalled dash and spirit reconquered Monte Tomba for us. Now that they are fighting for the safety of their own country you see what marvels they have accomplished."

Every one here is firmly convinced that Austria is preparing as big a drive against the Italian front as Germany prepared in France. In fact, it is believed that the Dual Monarchy is even more eager for a decisive thrust than Germany, as her internal conditions are much worse than her ally's. Everything denotes that the Italian military authorities have taken all possible measures to check the new offensive.

We motored from Bologna to Headquarters, through mile upon mile of flat, intensively cultivated country, every now and then passing a group of white houses with green shutters, above which the usual Venetian campanile rose straight and graceful against the deep blue sky. To the north rose a chain of snow-capped mountains, those which with so much sacrifice of blood the Italians wrenched from the grasp of the Austrians, who today hold them again—a continual reminder to every Italian that he cannot lay down his arms so long as his country's hereditary enemy occupies part of its territory.

The sun shone upon the peaceful, unmolested country, and if one had not heard the distant roar of cannon one would never have imagined that such a thing as war existed. In passing the peasants' cottages I missed the usual groups of happy, laughing women chattering in the sun with their children rolling about among the pigs and chickens. Women were working in the fields, while children, even those of 10 and 12, were employed in mending and watering the roads, which are kept in wonderful condition, as smooth as a billiard table, while the nearer one gets to the front the better they become.

As we approached Headquarters the peaceful aspect of the countryside changed into one of turmoil and action. Journeys to Jorties driven by English and Italians, automobiles and motor cycles whizzed by at phenomenal speed. There was a kaleidoscopic movement of colors—English officers in khaki uniforms, French in theirs of sky blue, and Italians in grey-green.

The population of ——— has come to consider air raids as a necessary evil of the war. Those who are able to leave town shut their shops and houses at twilight and then go to the country, where they hire quarters in some country house, a whole family sleeping in a single room. Those who are unable to go spend hours in their cellars, comics up after each bombardment with a philosophical shrug of the shoulders as if it were the most natural thing in the world to spend the greater part of one's nights in damp, draughty caves.

Everywhere we stopped we were surrounded and assaulted by anxious queries about the situation in France, which were followed by enthusiastic signs of rejoicing at the good reports. We heard many such remarks as these: "The French and British are fighting splendidly. They'll lick those barbarians, and so shall we when they attack us. I wish we had some Americans here, too, for the Red Cross ambulance drivers have shown us the stuff they are made of."

THEATRES TO CLOSE WHILE SHELLS FALL

None in Paris Allowed to Open Their Doors During Big Gun Bombardment.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 4.—The authorities evidently think that the German super-gun is still a source of danger, for, in order to avoid all responsibility for a possible disaster, they have ordered that theatre matinées and afternoon performances of concerts and entertainments of all descriptions are to be discontinued. This measure is, of course, only temporary, but it has aroused a lot of discussions. In general, Paris holds that the bombardment is not such a terrible thing, at leas for the present, as to justify the closing of places of amusement.

A strong impression prevails that people should be allowed to use their own judgment and to take risk at their own discretion. Theatrical managers are against the official measure. They declare they will be forced now to suspend the evening performances, too, for receipts have been so bad of late that they counted exclusively on the matinées to cover their running expenses.

Nine theatres have already closed, and thousands of theatre employes and players are faced with a hard situation. Stars and prosperous members of the profession, however, are coming forward splendidly to the help of their less fortunate comrades. The Opéra is about to give a special benefit performance.

Paris Theatre Order Modified.

PARIS, April 5.—The Paris police authorities have decided to allow matinée performances in the theatres as usual on condition that the doors shall not be opened when a bombardment of the city by the German long-range gun begins before the matinée hour, and also that the place of amusement be immediately evacuated if the shelling begins during the performance. This is a modification of an order issued yesterday, when the entire prohibition of matinées was announced.

PARIS, April 4. (Delayed.)—General Pershing sent Brig. Gen. Lowis, commander of the American troops in Paris, to represent him personally at the funeral services today for the four American women killed in a church during the German bombardment on Good Friday. Ambassador Sharp attended the services in the American Church, and various depnitments of the French Government were represented. After the services General Lewis said:

"I received telegraphic instructions from General Pershing to be present with my staff as the representative of the Commander in Chief to honor the memory of the noble women who had done so much for the sufferers in the present war, and whose relatives and friends are still actively engaged in helping the cause of the Allies."

The women were Mrs. Mullen and Mrs. Edward D. Ladon and Mrs. Landon's daughters, Mrs. Ralph Speed and Miss Ruth Landon.

Ingraham's Daughter a Victim.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The name of Mme. Dutrell, daughter of ex-Justice George L. Ingraham of New York, was added today to those of Americans injured when a church in Paris was destroyed by fire from German long-range guns. Both of Mme. Dutrell's legs were broken, according to a dispatch from Ambassador Sharp.

The Ambassador's dispatch said that the President of France, members of the Ministry, and allied and neutral diplomats attended the funeral of the Counselor of the Swiss Embassy and his wife, killed in the church, and heard a funeral oration denouncing the German methods of warfare.

Mme. Claude Dutrell, the wife of a French artillery officer and herself a staff nurse at a French war hospital at Rheims, is the daughter of former Presiding Justice George L. Ingraham, who is now Vice Chairman of the Draft Appeal Board in this city. Ex-Justice Ingraham lives at 247 Fifth Avenue. He had not received official notification of his daughter's injury last night.

Mme. Dutrell has been living in France since her marriage. Her husband, who has taken part in many actions at the front, was wounded some months ago and after a long convalescence in a French hospital returned to duty recently. Mme. Dutrell has two daughters, aged 5 and 7 years.

ITALIAN TROOPS IN FOCH'S RESERVE

Washington Hears That Large Contingents of Them Are Behind the Western Front.

HOPES RISE AT CAPITAL

Doubt as to Counterblow, but Experts Confident Germans Will Be Held Back.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—It was definitely ascertained tonight that the reserve army of the Allies, which was decided upon by the Entente War Council at Versailles, is composed of units from the armies of all the allied nations represented along the western front.

It not only embraces many thousands of British and French soldiers, but contains large Italian contingents, and American troops also have been placed at the disposal of General Foch for use in the reserve army. It is obviously impossible to give any information relative to the employment of the reserve forces or of the special destinations to which General Foch has ordered them to be sent, but there is the fullest confidence that General Foch will make the best use of the forces at his disposal and that the apparently determined effort of the Germans to win a decision on the western front this Summer will fail of accomplishment.

The fact that large Italian contingents are being placed in the Entente army is not only looked upon here as further evidence of the rapidly developing solidarity of the military strength of the Allies that General Foch will use against the Germans, but is interpreted as meaning that Italian reserves will be used in France, just as British and French reserves have been utilized in Italy.

It is another indication likewise that the Western front from the North Sea to the Adriatic is more than ever regarded as one front in which the man power of England, France, Italy, and the United States will be pooled under a single high command. It was intimated today that General Foch's extended to the higher control of the Italian as well as the French and Flanders fronts.

Foch's Plans Secret.

Nothing is disclosed here regarding General Foch's plans. It is doubtful if the War Department is aware of them. Those who know General Foch assert that he is not in the habit of taking persons into his confidence regarding his strategy outside of those most intimately identified with his plans, and in a military contest so vital and colossal as that of the campaign of 1918, the first stage of which was over when the German thrust across Picardy was halted, it would be both dangerous and important for the Generalissimo's plan of action to be known to the armies under his command.

General Foch has been credited with the statement that the Germans would never take Amiens. The operations during the past week indicate that whatever else the German General Staff may have in mind, the immediate objective is Amiens.

Call 150,000 Men This Month.

WASHINGTON, April 5. (Associated Press.)—Development of the second phase of the German drive in Picardy was watched closely here today, army officers apparently feeling that the critical point of the great struggle is rapidly approaching. Meagre reports gave little information on which to base definite opinions as to the trend of the fighting, although it seemed evident that the Germans were trying to force a foothold in strategic positions before Amiens, and at the same time to increase pressure against the junction point between the French and British armies.

The War Department is forging ahead with its efforts to speed additional American forces across the water to back up the beleaguered lines. One element of the speeding up plans was learned authoritatively. The first increment of the second draft, to be summoned this month, will be 150,000 men, instead of 50,000 as previously planned. They will be the first considerable force mobilized of the 800,000 drafted men to be called to the colors this year. The remaining 650,000 will be called out in monthly increments, the size of which will depend to some extent upon availability of shipping to transport men already in training to the front.

LONE AMERICAN DIVERTS GERMAN RAID

Sergeant's Fire Turns Attacking Force from Our Own to French Trenches.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

From a Staff Correspondent.

CORRESPONDENTS' HEADQUARTERS, AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCES, April 4.—French officers today are telling the story of an American Sergeant who tried to halt a boche raid by himself. He was in a French dugout on an errand from a neighboring American dugout. He had just started back along the trench on his hundred-foot trip when he saw the Germans coming. Though running rapidly, he fired a hundred rounds into the Germans before getting to the American dugout, diverting the raiding party, which got into the French front line trench instead of the American trench, where they would have gone had not the Sergeant been well supplied with ammunition.

The conferences lasted only a few minutes. Here again it was not our ally who sought the interview. It was the Austrian Government.

"Does not Count Czernin remember another attempt of the same sort made in Paris and London only two months before that of Count Revertata by a person of much higher rank? That again, as in the present case, is authentic, but much more significant proof exists."

VIENNA TELLS OF PARLEY BY ARMAND

Names Count as French Agent in Peace Negotiations in Switzerland.

AMSTERDAM, April 5.—An official announcement made in Vienna today reiterates the assertion of Foreign Minister Czernin, which was subsequently denied by Premier Clemenceau of France, that a conversation concerning peace had been held between Austria-Hungary and France.

An official telegram from Vienna says that Count Armand, a confidential agent of Premier Clemenceau, had an interview with Count Revertata, counselor of the Austrian Legation in Switzerland, at which the question of peace was discussed. Count Revertata declared on behalf of Austria that Foreign Minister Czernin was prepared for a discussion with a representative of France and that he believed it would be possible to carry on negotiations with success as soon as France renounced her plans for the conquest of Alsace-Lorraine. Count Armand replied, the telegram says, that M. Clemenceau was not in a position to accept the proposal for such a renunciation.

"On instructions from the Foreign Minister," says the Vienna statement, "Count Revertata, counselor of the legation in Switzerland, repeatedly had discussions in Switzerland with a confidential agent of M. Clemenceau. Count Armand, attached to the French War Ministry, who was sent to Switzerland to interview Count Revertata. As a result of the interview of these two gentlemen in Freiburg, Switzerland, on Feb. 2, the question was discussed whether and on what basis a discussion concerning the bringing about of a general peace would be possible between the Foreign Ministers of Austria-Hungary and France, or between official representatives of these Ministers.

"Thereupon Count Revertata, after obtaining instructions from the Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister, toward the close of February declared on behalf of the Minister to Count Armand, for communication to M. Clemenceau, that Count Czernin was prepared for a discussion with a representative of France, and regarded it as possible to hold a conversation with the prospect of success as soon as France renounced its plan for the conquest of Alsace-Lorraine.

"Count Revertata received a reply in the name of M. Clemenceau to the effect that the latter was not in a position to accept the proposed renunciation by France of this disannexation, so that a meeting of the representatives at that time would, in the view of both parties, be useless."

ZURICH, April 5.—Austrian Parliamentary circles believe that negotiations have been opened between President Wilson and Count Czernin. A telegram from Vienna to the Neueste Nachrichten of Munich says:

"Count Czernin's speech has created a profound impression in Austrian Parliamentary circles, where it is believed that communications have been opened between Count Czernin and President Wilson, which already have reached further than Count Czernin's statement shows."

CZERNIN ASTONISHED GERMANS

Suggestion That His Peace Manoeuvres Also Embraced Britain.

By GEORGE RENWICK.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, April 5.—The Frankfurter Zeitung, regarding Count Czernin's speech as a "highly satisfactory event," describes his statement concerning a French feeler as an "astounding declaration." The journal does not think that the matter merely consisted of a question from Paris and an answer from Vienna, and goes on to say:

"Count Czernin announced with great emphasis that God was his witness that everything had been done to avoid an offensive. That permits it to be believed that there was rather more negotiation than the Minister thinks fit to make public. Later in the speech he pointedly says: 'We,' by which we may understand Berlin and Vienna, 'came near to negotiation with the Western Powers.' How could we be near to that when everything was completed by a question and an answer, which might have been known beforehand?

"When Count Czernin refers to the Western Powers he shows that he means that not only France but England was behind the French question."

The Zeitung is greatly pleased with Czernin's criticism of the annexationists, and equally delighted that the general tone of his speech shows "unchanged readiness for a just peace, a desire which Germany shares," but regarding the realization of which she is not so hopeful. In conclusion, the paper emphasizes the statement that Czernin made his speech after a long association with von Kühlmann in Bucharest.

Several papers are angry regarding Czernin's courteous words to President Wilson. The Cologne Volkszeitung is sarcastic about the Count's "studied politeness" toward the President, and tells Czernin not to forget that there is war between the United States and the Dual Monarchy.

The Hamburger Nachrichten thinks that Czernin showed indecent haste in "butting in" with words when deeds were being done. It scorns his courtesy toward the head of the United States Government, and sneers about Austria being more favorable ground for the seeds of peace than Germany. It then makes this interesting remark:

"Wilson's four points were so wordy and unreal that the agreement as to them which Count von Hertling signified on Feb. 25 could only have been meant to be ironical."

HYPOCRISY, REJOINS CECIL.

Says Czernin Is Now Disclosed as Standing for Prussianism.

LONDON, April 5.—Lord Robert Cecil, Parliamentary Under-Secretary of Foreign Affairs, told The Associated Press today that, "whatever doubt about Count Czernin might have existed before his latest declaration, there can be no doubt now that he stands for Prussian ideals and Prussian policy."

"I must confess," Lord Robert added, "that I prefer Prussian brutality to Austrian hypocrisy. If you are going to rob and strangle your neighbor it is better not to talk of your moderation."

"Count Czernin claims with the greatest audacity that he and his allies have just made proposals that are moderate, and even guided by the principles of self-determination, no annexations and no indemnities. As far as self-determination is concerned, in every one of the new States they have set up they have done so without the slightest regard to the wishes of the peoples and no serious attempt was made even to follow racial boundaries or racial antecedents.

"The province of Dobrudja (Rumania,) which has been handed over to Bulgaria, has only 18 per cent. Bulgarians and 50 per cent. Rumanians, and Southern Bessarabia, which apparently is offered to Rumania, is the part of Bessarabia having the fewest Rumanians. As for no annexations, Count Czernin claims that all he has done is to carry out slight frontier rectifications. What he really has done is to take an important part of the Danube and all the passes between Austria-Hungary and Rumania. Not only this, he has driven back the Carpathian frontier eight or ten miles.

"But the most hypocritical part of Czernin's peace terms, while affecting not to demand a war indemnity for the Central Powers, is the fact that they have imposed one of the heaviest war indemnities ever levied. It is a curious provision which applies to the new States that they are to be under no obligation whatever toward Russia arising from former relations with her. The result is to concentrate on the remainder of Russia the debt which hitherto was spread over the whole of Russia.

"From the Ukraine particularly Czernin claims there is to be secured all food obtainable. No doubt this will be not a question of purchase, but of seizure. All the cost of requisitions made by the Central Powers will be written off in Rumania. It will amount to £50,000,000. Beyond that they claim the exclusive right to exploit the petroleum fields, and any disputes arising from this are to be settled by a tribunal set up in Leipsic.

"No wonder that Count Czernin, in a moment of candor, says that both in the conclusion of peace with the Ukraine and Rumania the first thought was to furnish Austria with necessary foodstuffs and material. That has been the object of this peace, and it has been accomplished by giving to Austria-Hungary such economic and strategic advantages as to place these two countries at the mercy of the Central Powers."

NEW YORK ON TIPTOE FOR LOAN CAMPAIGN

Drive Started at Midnight with Celebrations in Times Square and the Bronx.

CITY PLANS TO RAISE HALF

First Anniversary of Our Entrance Into Great War Will Be Marked with Patriotic Exercises.

Patriotic demonstrations, unfurling of flags, parades, and public meetings will mark today the opening of the campaign for subscriptions to the third Liberty Loan. The fact that today is the first anniversary of America's declaration of war against Germany is expected to stimulate enthusiasm not only for the cause of the Allies, but also for the flotation of the three-billion-dollar Government loan which is so necessary for the financing of the great war. In the four weeks of the campaign the public will be appealed to do its utmost in the way of filing generous subscriptions. The New York Federal Reserve district, to which has been allotted by the Treasury Department $900,000,000, or 30 per cent. of the loan, has set as its goal $1,500,000,000, or one-half of the total amount. Just as in the two previous campaigns it has been successful in furnishing one-half of the whole country's subscriptions, so in this drive all efforts will be directed to attain the desired result. Subscription blanks will be available at all the banks this morning, and everywhere will the signing of applications be solicited.

Although the campaign officially starts at 9 o'clock this morning, in many quarters of the city it began at midnight. Likewise, the patriotic demonstrations were begun at the stroke of 12.

Celebration in Times Square.

The loan campaign was launched in Times Square last night at midnight with an enthusiastic rally, during which there was a large sale of bonds to a crowd of more than 2,000. When the clock showed that it was just 12 o'clock sharp a spotlight was flashed from the Times Building to the foot of the subway construction building in the square, and, as the first attraction of the meeting, Lillian Leitzel of the Ziegfeld Follies, in her stage costume, climbed up, hand over hand, to the top of a seventy-foot rope dangling from the top of a derrick on the roof of the building, and performed several feats. Then the Liberty Loan speakers took the crowd in hand. Sergeant Guy Empey, John Spargo, the former Socialist leader; Manatonho, a New York State Mohawk Indian, and others made fervid appeals to the crowd.

"On the outcome of the struggle in France, on the fighting spirit of the American people at home, as measured by their response to this call for $3,000,000,000," Mr. Spargo said, "depends whether the world of the future is to be ruled by the gentle, fraternal spirit of Lincoln or the brutal, oppressive spirit of Bismarck."

Mr. Spargo was cheered when he said that the pacifist and pro-German Socialists who still existed were the Socialists who had deserted their ideals. America's entrance into the war, he added, was an occasion which would go down in history by the side of the signing of the Magna Charta, the Fall of the Bastile, and the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Mr. Spargo was cheered when he asserted that President Wilson was a greater exponent of the true principles of socialism than any man living in the world today.

A midnight demonstration was also held in the Bronx.

Billposters Work All Night.

In preparation for the campaign's spectacular opening this morning, billposters worked all of last evening and through the night pasting Liberty Loan posters on various public buildings and in numerous conspicuous places in the city. Members of the old Home Defense Guard, assisted by volunteer workers labored all the evening in hanging pasteboard "Independence Bells" on door knobs, and early this morning small boys will exercise their privilege of ringing door bells without being subject to police interference for so doing.

From the moment the people of this city arise, or even before, they will be constantly reminded of today's anniversary and of the launching of the Liberty Loan campaign. Beginning with the ringing of their door bells, their attention will be continually directed to the loan, for on the streets the Stars and Stripes will wave from buildings, windows, and vehicles in greater number than ever before, and it will be impossible for any one to walk any distance without seeing innumerable posters. The uniformed messenger boys will wear badges, reading "Invest in Liberty Bonds," all the electric clocks controlled by the Western Union will bear similar mottoes, and even transfers issued by the B. R. T. will betar appeals for subscriptions.

Parades will be held in Manhattan and in Brooklyn. The former will start from Liberty Loan Headquarters, 120 Broadway, at noon, and the marchers will consist of members of the main committee and Liberty Loan workers. They will walk up to City Hall, where Mayor Hylan and Assistant United States Treasurer Vogel will speak. Lincoln's Gettysburg address will be read; and the Liberty Loan choir of sixty voices will render patriotic selections. Military color will be added to the occasion by the presence of 100 soldiers and 100 sailors.

The Parade in Brooklyn.

Those taking part in the Brooklyn parade will gather at 1 P. M. at enry and Remsen Streets. From there they will march to Borough Hall, accompanied by the Navy Yard Band, 200 motor service girls, thirty-two Red Cross nurses, uniformed members of the National League for Woman's Service, including thirty-two canteen girls, and detachments from the 47th, 13th, and 14th Regiments. Borough President Edward Reigelman will review the parade. After a cannon salute the American flag will be formally raised over the Hall, the band playing "The Star Spangled Banner." The exercises within the Hall will be conducted by Edwin P. Maynard, Chairman of the Brooklyn Liberty Loan Committee. Addresses will be made by the Borough President, by the Rev. Dr. Nehemiah Boynton, Captain E. P. Dalmasse, and Sergeant Jenkins. Prior to the parade and exercises the 47th Regiment Band will give a Liberty Loan concert.

Noonday meetings on the steps of the Sub-Treasury in Wall Street will start today, and will be continued every day until the close of the campaign. An allegorical war painting, the work of Henry Reuterdahl and N. C. Wyeth, will be unveiled today. The painting is ninety feet wide and twenty-eight feet high. It will cover the whole upper part of the front of the building and form a background for the meetings. At each side of the building will be a bronze figure of heroic size, supporting an indicator. One figure will be Uncle Sam, pointing out the subscriptions from the whole nation. The other will be Columbia, showing what this district has done for the loan.

At 2:30 P. M. seven American airplanes from Mineola, Long Island, will circle over Manhattan, and drop 20,000 pieces of literature containing a strong opening day appeal to New Yorkers for the support of the Liberty Loan.

Governor Whitman Speaks Tonight.

Under the auspices of the Veterans' Association, an opening day meeting will be held in Mount Morris Park, 124th street and Madison Avenue. Governor Whitman will deliver an address tonight in front of the Bank of United States, 77 Delancey Street, which will mark the opening of the Liberty Loan campaign on the east side.

Mayor Hylan issued the following proclamation last night regarding the beginning of the Liberty Loan drive today:

> On April 6, 1918, the United States Government will offer its people an opportunity to lend their funds to help win the war. This is the anniversary of the day upon which the United States entered this world-wide struggle for freedom. The strength of America is being mobilized and organized to bring victory to our arms and to establish throughout the world a lasting peace. Now, therefore, I, John F. Hylan, Mayor of the City of New York, do request that at noon, on Saturday, April 6, 1918, the citizens of this city, together, give solemn thought to the fundamental importance of this occasion, and do highly resolve to consecrate themselves to this great war service which is immediately at hand. I call upon all organizations to emphasize the opening of this Third Liberty Loan campaign in a solemn and auspicious manner. I suggest to all citizens that they display flags on this day, and that during the four weeks of the campaign they devote themselves in every way possible to co-operate with the United States Government through its accredited representatives in this city, the Liberty Loan Committee.
> With the full co-operation of all our citizens, New York will continue to set an example to the American people in generous contribution of the sinews of war. Let the result be as impressive and emphatic as to hearten our soldiers and sailors as well as our allies, and to carry a new message to our enemy of our unalterable determination to carry through to a victorious conclusion the task to which we have set our hand.
> In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the City of New York to be affixed.
> Done in the City of New York, this 5th day of April, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and eighteen.
> JOHN F. HYLAN, Mayor.

"Liberty Bell" on City Hall Door.

At the request of Liberty Loan Committee officials, the Mayor tied a Liberty Bell emblem on one of the front doors of the City Hall during the afternoon.

Benjamin Strong, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and Chairman of the Liberty Loan Committee of this district, spoke yesterday at a luncheon of the Bond Club, held at the Bankers' Club. He defended Secretary McAdoo for fixing the rate of the Third Liberty Loan at 4¼ per cent., instead of at 4½ per cent., as had been expected by most bankers. He said he believed the Government could heve successfully sold a 4 per cent. bond.

"You are going to find," he declared, "that the very great majority of the people of this country are those who would finance this Government in time of war regardless of rates of interest. I do not believe that the people of this country today are going to submit to having their patriotism measured by premiums or discounts on their Government bonds."

The Liberty Loan campaign was started with great enthusiasm in Hoboken last night with the "launching" of the "battleship" Liberty in front of the City Hall, with 50,000 people gathered about the wooden vessel. Rear Admiral N. R. Usher of the Brooklyn Navy Yard was the guest of honor, and the ceremony was carried through with as much formality as though the ship would go across the sea against the German Navy. Miss Margaret Reymond named the "battleship."

SUBSCRIBES FOR $10,500,000.

Metropolitan Life Takes That Amount and Penn Mutual $1,500,000

Although subscriptions to the Third Liberty Loan cannot be officially filed until this morning, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company announced last night that it had transmitted an application for $10,500,000. Of this amount $10,000,000 is credited to the New York Federal Reserve District and $500,000 to the San Francisco district. From Philadelphia word was received of the announcement of $1,500,000 subscription by the Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company.

The local Liberty Loan Committee received yesterday from four up-State cities claims for honor flags, which signify that they have obtained subscriptions for their full quotas of the loan. Three of the four cities reported that they had obtained double the amount of their allotments. This oversubscription before the bonds have actually been placed on sale has resulted from the competition to win the first honor flag awarded in this State, and, if possible, to win the first one awarded in the nation. To prevent confusion the Liberty Loan authorities have adopted a rule that no claims for honor flags may be filed before 9 o'clock this morning.

The Treasury Department at Washington will determine the award of the first honor flag for the nation, and the Central Liberty Loan Committee will decide the awards for the Second Federal Reserve District. The committee will settle the question as to which town in New York State is entitled to receive an honor flag. It will also award honor flags to the New Jersey and Connecticut towns of the district. The awards will be reported to the respective State capitols, Trenton and Hartford. These towns will have their full chance to win the first flag in their own States.

A special department, called the Honor Flag Division, has been created to handle the flag awards under the Central Committee. R. G. Page is in charge of it. The following rules for the flag contest have been formulated:

> Records of subscriptions for the purpose of awards will be based on:
> (a) Actual subscriptions filed by an incorporated bank with the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, or
> (b) Certificates as to amount of actual subscriptions secured, attested by the Chairman of the local committee, and filed with the Honor Flag Division.
> Reports of the local committees may be rejected by the Honor Flag Division if there is reason to believe the full subscription was underwritten by banks or individuals so that an honor flag might be obtained without the actual sale of the bonds to the people of the community.

Governor Strong of the Federal Reserve Bank has informed the Chairmen of local committees that they should endeavor to raise $1,500,000,000 in this district. This is two-thirds in excess of the official quota assigned to the district by the Treasury Department. Governor Strong's statement follows:

> The campaign to place the third Liberty Loan is now launched. The organization has been greatly improved and perfected; the spirit of the country is aroused and ready to support the Government, and particularly the army in France, and all that is now needed is four weeks of hard work.
> The Second Federal Reserve District has set its standard in past loans and should maintain it in this loan, taking one-half the sum asked for by the Government. In order to do this, every committee in this district is requested to continue its efforts without relaxation until the subscriptions close on May 4. Nothing will so encourage the men of our army, the people of our own country and our Allies as a huge oversubscription.
> Although the New York banks and trust companies have not yet agreed upon a uniform policy in respect to the rates of interest to be charged on loans secured by Liberty Loan bonds—some institutions having made up their minds to require 4½ per cent., while others expect to charge only 4¼ per cent., the coupon rate—it was reported yesterday from Chicago that the Clearing House of that city had adopted a resolution recommending to banks that loans made for the purpose of facilitating Liberty bond purchases bear 4½ per cent. interest for the first ninety days and 5 per cent for the succeeding ninety days. It was said yesterday that the New York Liberty Loan Committee was considering the subject of interest rates and that an official announcement would be made in a few days. The so-called Money Committee is scheduled to meet on Tuesday.
> Among the pledges received at the Liberty Loan Headquarters yesterday was one from the Pawn Brokers Association for $1,000,000. Forty members of the committee have subscribed $75,000.

SUBSCRIPTION URGED BY CABINET MEMBERS

No Freedom for America Unless Germany Is Beaten, They Warn the Nation.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Unless Germany is beaten, America can hope for no freedom—this is the note running through statements by Cabinet members given but tonight in support of the Third Liberty Loan.

Benedict Crowell, Acting Secretary of War, said in part:

"We realize the enormous task before us, and we are confident of winning, but it will take the combined punch of the whole American people, and will require an immense expenditure of men and money. Did it ever occur to you to think what would happen if we failed? If we are beaten in France the struggle will probably be transferred to American soil. Plans for the invasion and subjugation of the United States are now on file in the office of the German General Staff. This we know definitely. I strongly urge you to buy all the Liberty bonds that you can afford and then a few more. Remember that the Germans issue no bonds for the money they extort from conquered peoples."

Daniels Calls for Sacrifice.

Secretary Daniels of the Navy said:

"Our men in the trenches and on the ships are counting their lives as nothing and are maintaining the highest standards of American manhood and heroism. It is our privilege at home to sacrifice and sacrifice and sacrifice to provide the Government with the means to carry on the war. No man who values his freedom and loves the principles upon which our Government was established can afford not to contribute to the limit to the Third Liberty Loan."

Secretary Lansing of the State Department said:

"The United States has been at war for a year. The first enthusiasm which followed the declaration that we would take up arms in the cause of liberty and justice has passed, but in its place there has come to the nation a spirit of determination and self-sacrifice. Under the influence of this spirit the Republic is pressing forward to the accomplishment of the mighty task which this war has imposed upon it. Let there be the same patriotic response to the Third Liberty Loan that was made to those which preceded it."

Secretary McAdoo of the Treasury said:

"The least duty we can perform—and we should be eager and happy to perform it—is to lend our money, every available dollar we have or can save, to our Government, in order that our gallant sons may be supplied with all they need to save America."

Every Power Needed Says Gregory.

Attorney General Gregory:

"To save the lives and liberties of ourselves and our children we have been forced unwillingly to take up arms. To prevail we must dedicate to the farthest limit our every power. Shall we give or sacrifice less for freedom than our enemy gives for despotism? What shall a hoarded penny profit us if we may spend it only as slaves?"

Secretary Houston of the Department of Agriculture:

"If we do not win this war we shall indefinitely face the interference of the Prussian autocracy or bear permanently the intolerable burdens of militarism. To win this war we must have both men and money. It is the duty and privilege, therefore, of every citizen who is in a position to do so to participate in the Third Liberty Loan campaign."

Postmaster General Burleson:

"One year ago we took up the gage of battle flung in our faces by Germany. It is a righteous war, waged by our people. No more inspiring exhibition of patriotism was ever made than the response to them to the requests of President Wilson that they contribute to its support by purchasing our Government's obligations. He knows us not who doubts that the response will be far beyond the amount required."

Secretary Redfield of the Department of Commerce:

"Buying Liberty bonds makes our homes safer, our business more secure, helps maintain America against enemies who mock at our power and think us weak because we respect the rights of others."

Secretary Wilson of the Department of Labor:

"The Third Liberty Loan has an even greater significance than the first two. They were the expression of instant and responsive patriotism. This serves a grim notice on the foe that America is in the fight until the lives of its people are safe from the assaults of barbarism, its institutions secure against the attacks of autocracy, and the nations of the earth, including our own, are assured the opportunity of living their own lives undisturbed by the power of militarism. The Third Liberty Loan is in a way the first in which unmistakably we tell the world that America is steadfast in the battle and enlisted for the war."

WASHINGTON, April 5, (Associated Press.)—Campaign workers of the third Liberty Loan, which opens tomorrow, will come near to drafting subscriptions in accordance with the respective financial ability of individuals or businesses. For months the local committees have been working on a system of gauging the capacity of prospective subscribers for Liberty bonds. These records are the powder stores of the campaign. Big business men whose subscriptions do not measure up to the size expected of them may be confronted with concrete figures on their own earnings, together with the urgent suggestion that they raise their subscriptions.

This procedure will be gentle, but firm. Organizers have adopted the attitude that they are not beggars on behalf of the Government loan, but solicitors of what is due the nation. Methods will be businesslike, for business men are running the campaign. The harvest of Liberty bond dollars will be systematic and the gleaning thorough. This is not talk-stuff or the product of national war enthusiasm, for the success of the third Liberty Loan probably will depend less on hurrah methods than did either the first or second campaigns. Organizers have been at work drilling the army of nearly 800,000 volunteer workers.

THIEF GOT LIBERTY BONDS.

Self-Possessed Stranger Beguiles a Wall Street Messenger.

The theft of $15,000 in Liberty bonds from a Stock Exchange firm's messenger boy has revealed the presence of thieves below the old crooks' "deadline" at Fulton Street. The bonds, which were the property of Mabon & Co., 54 Wall Street, were stolen on Thursday afternoon and announcement was made yesterday, when efforts to trace the thief had failed. As a result of the robbery, and numerous others of smaller amount in recent weeks, the Cashiers' Section of the Association of Partners in Stock Exchange firms sent this warning to the houses with Stock Exchange memberships:

> Since the Liberty bonds have been issued, there have been innumerable cases where the bonds have been stolen from messengers making deliveries. The similarity of the methods employed in various cases where the thefts have been detected makes it appear that these thefts are the work of an organized ring.
> It is the practice of the members of the band to follow messengers who are delivering Liberty bonds, accosting them and intimating that they will make the delivery. In self-protection to the members, therefore, the following recommendations are strongly urged: That easily negotiable securities be entrusted only to tried and proved messengers; that for such deliveries messengers be instructed to obtain checks on delivery, or receipts if checks are not ready; that cashiers be requested to have checks ready and signed in advance.

Mabon & Co.'s messenger, a boy long in the firm's employ, took the $15,000 of the second Liberty 4s to the office of Alexandre & Burnet, 7 Wall Street. As he was about to tap at the cashier's window, which is at some distance from the main part of the office, an elderly man of good appearance came along.

"Give me the bonds, son," he said. "I will look after them."

The boy surrendered the package, planning to return later for his check. In order to remove suspicion, the messenger said afterward, the man walked casually with him down the hall, stopping at another broker's to open the door and call to some one within by name. The boy went on, convinced that the man was an employe of Alexandre & Burnet, and it was not until Mabon & Co. sent for the check an hour later that the theft was discovered.

NATION TO LAUNCH LOAN DRIVE TODAY

cities are turning over all of their forces to celebrate the entrance of America into the war. Aside from gathering up campaign pledges it is expected that the sales forces will do little until next Monday. They will then go into the field better prepared to make a quick and active canvass.

The opening of a war exhibit in the Fifth Regiment Armory at Baltimore, which has been in course of preparation for more than two months, will be the occasion for the President's address there. He will speak at 8 o'clock in the evening.

St. Louis has declared Saturday a legal holiday. Vice President Marshall will make the only address at a big patriotic meeting. A parade of 30,000 persons, headed by the Great Lakes Naval Station band, and including many military and civic bodies, will precede a mass meeting in an amphitheatre holding 150,000 persons. It is expected that all available space will be taken.

Secretary McAdoo will speak at the unveiling of a large Liberty statue in Philadelphia. A parade in which 7,000 marines and soldiers, 1,200 young women singers, and several bands will participate will mark the occasion. After the unveiling at 3 o'clock, Mr. McAdoo will speak in the Academy of Music. Every city in the district has arranged a parade and mass meetings for the opening day.

Chicago will observe the opening of the loan drive with a demonstration which begins shortly after midnight tonight with the firing of guns and the singing of songs in all public places. A large military parade will precede a mass meeting tomorrow in the Billy Sunday Tabernacle. In the afternoon Mr. Sunday will deliver a Liberty Loan address to soldiers from surrounding camps and sailors from the Great Lakes Naval Training Station. Jacob M. Dickerson, former Secretary of War, will preside at the meeting. It is estimated that 50,000 persons will march in the various parades.

Huge Parade in Cleveland.

Cleveland has declared the opening day of the loan a holiday. All business will be suspended, but banks will remain open to receive subscriptions to Liberty bonds. Twenty thousand persons are expected to march in the parade. Eighteen bands, led by the Great Lakes Naval Training Station unit, will participate. Mayor Davis will preside at the meeting, which Secretary Daniels will address. There will be a flag raising in the public square, a dedication of a tank, and a patriotic song festival.

While the New York district has no speaker of national note to participate in its celebration, it will be alive to the occasion. Parades and patriotic meetings will be held. New York City has planned a big demonstration. Seven airplanes from the Mineola field will "bomb" the city with Liberty Loan literature. The Liberty Bank, a reproduction of the Sub-Treasury, will be opened in Madison Square Park. An immense patriotic parade will start from the Liberty Loan Headquarters and proceed to the City Hall, where it will be received by Mayor Hylan. The Mayor and others will make addresses. A huge push ball will be started down Stats from Buffalo.

Volunteer billposters will start at midnight tonight to post Liberty Loan posters in all parts of New York City. Ten thousand boys, including Boy Scouts, will hang pasteboard Liberty bells on approximately a million door knobs. By special arrangement with the police the boys will ring the doorbells to call attention to the Liberty Loan campaign.

Reports indicate that the South is alive with interest. A telegram from Richmond, Va., tonight said:

"The spirit animating Liberty Loan workers throughout organizations from central committees down through county sub-divisions is splendid."

Rallies and other patriotic meetings in practically every city in the Richmond district will mark the opening of the campaign.

The Atlanta district reports that the campaign will be opened with "unprecedented demonstrations in every city and town." Keen interest is being displayed in the rural regions.

Legal Holidays in West.

Saturday has been declared a legal holiday in Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Wyoming, Colorado, and New Mexico. All the principal cities have scheduled mass meetings and parades. They also will observe a patriotic Sunday on April 7. The Kansas City Liberty Loan army will fire opening guns to signalize the start of the campaign. Special Liberty Day parades have been arranged for Oklahoma City, Tulsa, Wichita, Kansas City, Topeka, Denver, and Colorado Springs.

The Dallas district reported that between 4,000 and 5,000 organizers and committeemen and several thousand salesmen would enter the campaign tomorrow. Airplanes will bomb various cities with literature. Many rural counties have planned to raise their quotas within a few minutes after the opening gun is fired at 9 o'clock.

Twelfth district organized and ready for Saturday smash on scale unthought of in former drives," San Francisco telegraphed tonight.

The Governors of Nevada and Oregon have proclaimed Saturday a legal holiday. The Governor of Idaho has summoned the people to meet in schoolhouses for patriotic demonstrations. All other Governors in the district have issued suitable proclamations. It is estimated that there will be parades and demonstrations in 200 towns. Community song services will be held Sunday. Fifty towns in the district, it is reported, will qualify on the first day of the drive for the right to fly the honor flag.

Eighty thousand persons, including 20,000 women, are expected to march in a patriotic parade in Boston. One large division will include citizens of foreign birth representing twenty-five nationalities. The float of the woman's service section will be headed by a woman with six sons in the service. Mrs. W. Dabrow, the first New England widow of the war, will carry a service flag bearing a single gold star.

Nine days of oratory and celebration before the beginning of the actual selling of bonds on April 15 is planned by the Minneapolis district. It is in keeping with the plan followed in the district in the last campaign.

Movie Stars to Speak.

The campaign in the District of Columbia will open with public addresses by Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford, Cherlie Chaplin, and Marie Dressler, all motion picture stars. They arrived in Washington today. After talking here tomorrow they will start on campaigns in different parts of the country.

Immediately upon the signing of the Bond bill yesterday by President Wilson, the Bureau of Engraving and Printing began turning out completed bonds. Deliveries of bonds will be made as rapidly as possible.

WANTS ALL TO AID LOAN.

Must Do Our Part in Fight Against Savagery, Says Governor.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 5.—Governor Whitman issued a proclamation tonight in which he calls on every citizen of the State to do his duty by subscribing to the Third Liberty Loan and prove to the men at the front that "we are doing our part in this world fight against savagery." In urging support of the loan the Governor said:

"On the battlefields of France, the frontier of civilization, our men are today fighting that this country may endure as a great nation. They are fighting for us. On us is the sacred obligation to meet sacrifice with sacrifice."

Big Collection of Historic Flags.

A collection of 100 flags, copies of the banners carried by American troops since the Revolution and through the history of America since the landing of the Norsemen, is exhibited in the windows of the James McCreery & Co.'s department store as part of the campaign to aid the Third Liberty Loan. Some of the models are done in embroidery and others are oil paintings. Many of the old Colonial flags are represented as well as the first flags of the new Republic. There are also the flags of the Pilgrims, Hudson, Marquette, and many other explorers, as well as the banners carried by men under Perry, Taylor, Grant, and other soldiers and sailors.

Michigan Town Exceeds Quota.

MARINE CITY, Mich., April 5.—Although the third Liberty Loan campaign will not be formally opened until tomorrow, it was announced today that Marine City already had exceeded its quota of $70,000.

City of Chicago Subscribes.

CHICAGO, April 5.—The City Council today voted to subscribe to $3,000,000 of the third Liberty Loan.

PRAISES PERSHING FOR AID.

Daily Mail Says His Opinion Decided Secretary Baker.

LONDON, April 5.—The recent visit of Newton D. Baker, the American Secretary of War, The Daily Mail says, was a historic one, and will leave a lasting impression on Anglo-Franco-American relations, as it was while Mr. Baker was in France that it was decided that American regiments should be brigaded with British and French troops on the western front.

Premier Lloyd George, The Daily Mail says, acquainted Secretary Baker with the situation and expressed the lively desire of the British Government for the immediate employment of the American fighting forces. The Secretary was much impressed and went to France the next day and saw General Pershing.

"The American Commander in Chief," adds The Daily Mail, "in that spirit of soldierly generosity and sportmanship which characterized him in his subsequent pronouncement to General Foch, assented unhesitatingly. To General Pershing belongs the credit for the prompt adoption of the scheme now in effect."

In conclusion The Daily Mail says: "It only remains to be said that the American troops at the disposal of General Foch are seasoned veterans of the regular United States Army. They are troops of the same hardy fibre as the immortal British First Hundred Thousand."

HENEY RESIGNS POST WITH TRADE BOARD

Said to Have Come into Disfavor of Food Administration by His Actions.

SAYS HIS WORK IS DONE

Packing Inquiry Will Be Continued by Murdock—Heney May Run for Governor.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Francis J. Heney, who was retained at $100 a day as special counsel for the Federal Trade Commission during the recent investigation of the packing industry, has resigned that post and has started for his home in California. It is reported here that he will shortly announce his candidacy for the Governorship of that State.

The only statement made by officials here was to the effect that Mr. Heney had completed his work and that a report was being compiled for the President by the experts of the Trade Commission. The report will be ready soon.

There were reports afloat that Mr. Heney's work as investigator for the Federal Trade Commission was not entirely to the liking of the United States Food Administration. For one thing it was reported that Mr. Heney, when he sought certain correspondence which had passed between the Food Administration and the packers' interests did not ask the Food Administration for it, although that organization was ready to turn it over, but made his demand upon the packers.

On March 26, without waiting for the report of the Heney investigation, the Food Administration asked President Wilson to create a board, including the Secretary of Agriculture, the Chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, the Chairman of the Federal Tariff Board, the Secretary of Labor, and the Food Administrator, to make a survey of the packing industry and determine what steps were necessary to place it under proper restriction and control. To this the President assented, and it is probable that he will soon set the wheels in motion.

There had been reports that Mr. Heney, because of the work he had done, would be engaged as special counsel in making the survey. There was some surprise, therefore, when Mr. Heney dropped out of the situation and started for the West. It was said tonight that no special counsel would be retained.

The information which Mr. Heney obtained during his investigation will be turned over to the new board, it is understood, and be used by them in prosecuting the inquiry. Certain phases of the investigation will be continued under the direction of Commissioner Victor Murdock.

The Heney investigation was brightened each day by more or less sensational scenes. In getting at facts, Mr. Heney put aside all thought of diplomacy. There has been no intimation as to the recommendations to be made in the report as a result of the disclosures during the hearing.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 5.—Francis J. Heney, who arrived in Chicago today, when told of the report in Washington that he had resigned his position with the Federal Trade Commission, said:

"I was specially engaged by the commission to conduct the investigation into the operations of the packers," he said. "I am making up my report, and that will take some time. I can't tell how long it will be. When that is turned in I shall be through."

BLOCKED PEACE DELEGATES

British Crews Refused to Take Labor Men to This Country.

LONDON, April 5.—Joseph Havelock Wilson, Secretary of the Seamen's and Firemen's Union, asserts that the union has frustrated two attempts recently made by three British labor delegates to sail for the United States. One attempt was made by an American boat and later one by a ship from France, but the crews refused to sail with the peace delegates.

KING GEORGE MARKS OUR YEAR IN WAR

Sends Greetings to Wilson on Anniversary of America's Participation.

ASSERTS FOE'S HOPE VAIN

Queen Mother Alexandra Forwards a Cordial Message to American Women.

LONDON, April 5.—King George has sent greetings to President Wilson on the anniversary of the entry of the United States into the war. The King's telegram follows:

"On the occasion of the anniversary of the momentous decision of the United States to enter into this war for the safeguarding of international right and justice, I desire to convey to you, Mr. President, and through you to the American people, the friendly greetings of the entire British nation.

"At this critical hour, when our enemies are sparing no sacrifice and are counting no cost to achieve victory, the French and British troops stand united, as never before, in their heroic resistance to these endeavors. They are buoyed up with the thought that the great democracy of the West, in the same spirit, and with the same objects as their own, is putting forth every effort to throw its supreme force into the struggle, which will once for all decide the destinies of the free nations of the earth.

"The gallant deeds of Americans on land and sea have already indicated to the enemy that his hope is vain. Every day that passes, as American troops pour in ever-increasing numbers into France, diminishes the chances of his success.

"The American people may rest assured that the British Empire, now tried by nearly four years of war, will cheerfully make yet further sacrifices. The thought that the United States, under your leadership, are with us heart and soul emboldens us in the determination, with God's help, finally to destroy the designs of the enemy and to re-establish on the earth the rule of right and justice. GEORGE R. I."

Commenting on the anniversary, Lord Robert Cecil, Minister of Blockade, said to The Associated Press today:

"The entry of the United States into this war was the greatest event in the history of the world for a century, and longer, perhaps. Much already has resulted from it, and far more is expected in the future.

"'I always expected that there would be cordial relations between the Governments of Great Britain and the United States,' but it is no exaggeration to say that the cordiality of our cooperation has exceeded even what we foresaw. There have been criticisms. There always are, but I firmly believe that when the history of the war comes to be written a just view will be taken of the immensity of the efforts of your country and ours."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The Earl of Reading, Ambassador of Great Britain, has received the following message from Queen Mother Alexandra to the women of America for communication through the press:

"As President of the British Red Cross Society, I wish to send to the women of our great ally, the United States of America, a message of greeting upon the first anniversary of America's entry into the war. It is my earnest prayer that God in His merciful providence may guide and guard our righteous cause. ALEXANDRA."

SEE RUSSIA COMING BACK.

T. W. Lamont and Colonel Thompson Predict Return to War.

The opinion that Russia would again be in the field against Germany was expressed last night at a dinner of the Phillips-Exeter Alumni Association of New York in the Harvard Club by Colonel W. B. Thompson, who went to Russia with the Red Cross Commission, and Thomas W. Lamont of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. There were about 300 members of the association present and they cheered the speakers, and especially the prediction that Russia would again have a fighting army in the field. Mr. Lamont paid a tribute to Lord Reading and to Lloyd George, whom he hailed as England's "live wire."

"I am certain," said Mr. Lamont, "that the Russian affair is not ended. I believe that something great will happen to bring her back into the fold. I was told by some British officers that Germany was gathering men to give us a box on the ear. They said she was going to push us pretty hard, but she is not going to break through. So, while my heart has been in my mouth in the last two weeks, I have taken comfort in the prediction of those British officers made weeks ago."

Colonel Thompson said that while there had been things to criticise there might not be a France, or perhaps an England, if it had not been for Russia. "As I look at it Russia will come back," he said. "There are only a few Americans there now. The Allies practically left a month ago. Only our seven Red Cross men remain. I feel we will again see a fighting army in Russia."

A feature of the evening was the presentation to the Board of Trustees of a life-size three-quarter portrait of S. Sydney Smith, for twenty-five years President of the Board of Trustees. The presentation speech was made by Frederick S. Duncan, President of the association. Other speakers were Major August Belmont, Principal Lewis Perry, Judge C. M. Hough of the Federal District Court, and Professor James Arthur Tufts, for forty years connected with the academy.

GERMAN PEOPLE NERVOUS.

Which Leads the Press to Issue a Warning Against News.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—An official dispatch from Switzerland says that the German press of all shades of opinion betrays the concern and disillusion of the public beyond the Rhine upon the subject of the great offensive. The Frankfurter Zeitung is quoted as saying that contact has been preserved between the French and English, thanks to the intervention of Foch's army, and it appears doubtful if the hope of an eventful occupation of Amiens may be still maintained.

The following is quoted from the Lokal-Anzeiger:

"No one can say what the outcome of the present battle will be. We are full of hope, but it must not be forgotten that our adversaries, with an invincible courage, are resolved not to let us pass. It is our duty as Germans within the country not to let ourselves be governed by our nerves."

TIMES WAR REPORTS ARE USED IN SCHOOL

Newark High School Teacher Finds Philip Gibbs Dispatches Stimulate Interest.

GIVE WIDE VIEW OF BATTLE

"With Freshness and Truth and in a Style That Could Hardly Be Surpassed."

THE NEW YORK TIMES dispatches from Philip Gibbs, at the British battle-front, are daily used in the "discussion of current events," a part of the history course in the South Side High School at Newark, whose pupils number between 1,000 and 1,500. Miss Helen G. Stevenson, the instructor, said yesterday that since the great battle began the dispatches had stimulated an especial interest in the students, though for the last two years Mr. Gibbs's correspondence had been employed in the history class, for the information of the students and as a basis for exercises.

Miss Stevenson added that in her opinion other teachers of history should employ the dispatches for class-room use, as through them a better realization of the magnitude of the world struggle might be had.

"Yesterday we talked about the 51st Division," she said, "and the day before we discussed the conduct of the New Zealanders and Australians. Through these articles we can appreciate the real character of the whole British people, holding to their purpose with a grim tenacity. Mr. Gibbs's sympathy and understanding of the great war has an added value; it serves to discourage impressions formed in the minds of American children about the British—misinformation engendered through incomplete textbooks. This prejudice, which amounts in many cases to an active anti-British feeling, has not been inculcated through a desire on the part of the authors of American histories to spread a propaganda of hatred, but in an ill-conceived attempt to glorify ourselves.

"The American public school student is too immature to realize the many factors that entered into our diplomatic differences with other nations in times past. The routine accounts of the battles in the wars are read with avidity, but there is no ability to read between the lines. Enthusiasm thus stimulated in the youth often renders them oblivious of the remote or immediate causes of these battles. The corrective element is to be found in Mr. Gibbs's dispatches, because his detailed accounts, especially when they bring out some notable shade of British conduct or character, ring true.

"The British are our allies in this war. Sympathy, strict accord, and affection for our allies are essential to success. My history class, the seniors in the high school, to the number of 160 have been vitally interested in Mr. Gibbs's dispatches since last Spring. Copies of THE TIMES we have had in the classroom for two years. Now that we are fighting side by side with the valiant men of whom Mr. Gibbs writes, the class, evenly divided as to sex, I feel sure, has this sympathy. The articles furnish just what the students need to feel the war at home. The news is brought home in its freshness and truth in a style that could hardly be surpassed.

"American history, more so now than ever, is a most important branch of study. The study of American history in its especial bearing upon other nations is now an essential part of the school curriculum. American history, now an elective course in many schools, and too readily overlooked by the youthful student in favor of some more specialized form of study, should be made a requirement for every high school graduate."

Miss Stevenson is a native of Pennsylvania. She was graduated from Syracuse University with the class of 1906. Before going to Newark three years ago she was an instructor in the Ossining High School.

WOULD BAR STATE ROADS TO ARMY TRUCKS

Bill in Albany Suddenly Advanced to Final Passage in the Senate.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 5.—A bill to deny use of the State roads to army motor trucks and other five-ton trucks has been introduced in the Legislature by Senator Hewitt at the request of the State Highway Department. Constant use of the roads in the last two or three months, during which time hundreds of new army trucks have passed through New York on their way to France, has resulted in tearing up the roads, the department asserts.

Opponents of the measure believed it would be quietly killed and were greatly surprised today when it was suddenly advanced to the order of final passage in the Senate. It will come up for passage Monday night or Tuesday. Charles G. Bond, counsel to the Motor Truck Club of America, spokesman for the opposition, declared that the bill is a menace to the war preparations of the country and the children of the State.

"New York City, Buffalo, and other big cities will be confronted with a milk famine if this bill passes," declared Mr. Bond.

ASK PARDON FOR DYNAMITER

Commutation of F. M. Ryan's Sentence Recommended to President.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Investigators for President Wilson have recommended immediate commutation of the sentence of Frank M. Ryan, formerly President of the International Iron Workers, serving a seven-year term at Leavenworth, Kan., for conviction in the dynamite case.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 5.—Frank M. Ryan, with thirty-two others indicted in the dynamite conspiracy case, was convicted in the United States District Court here before Judge A. B. Anderson in December, 1912. Ryan, who was sentenced to seven years at Leavenworth, and Michael J. Young, a board member of the union, from Boston, Mass., are the only two of the thirty-three sentenced who are now in prison. Young was sentenced to six years.

Ryan has served approximately three years and ten months of his seven-year sentence.

ARMY APPRAISAL BOARD.

New Body Appointed to Facilitate War Department Business.

WASHINGTON, April 5. A board of appraisers for the War Department, to determine compensation for property already taken over or to be taken over later by the Government, and to assist in the drawing up of War Department contracts, was appointed today by President Wilson.

Lieut. Col. John S. Dean and Lieut. Col. R. H. Montgomery were named on the board, but it is provided that additional members may be appointed.

The board is authorized to render services, upon approval by the Secretary of War, for any department, bureau, or official of the Government when its services are formally requested. Upon the board's request the Judge Advocate General of the army will assign a Judge Advocate to act as legal adviser to the board.

National Campaign Against Colds.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—A publicity campaign to protect the soldiers and the general public against spread of respiratory diseases caused by promiscuous coughing, sneezing and spitting was announced today by Surgeon General Gorgas. A series of slogans urging people to use handkerchiefs during the processes of coughing, sneezing and spitting will be published in newspapers and by means of other advertising mediums.

TREASURY CALLS FOR INCOME TAX FIGURES

Internal Revenue Commissioner Orders Estimate Based on Returns Filed.

$800,000,000 IN NEW YORK

Financial District Prospects Drop, but Brooklyn and Upper Manhattan Show Increase.

Acting under telegraphic instructions from Daniel C. Roper, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, all activities in the New York Revenue Office were devoted yesterday to figuring out the approximate total amount of income and excess profit taxes shown by returns received up to the close of business yesterday.

Similar instructions were sent to all other internal Revenue Collectors throughout the country, of whom there are sixty-four. Commissioner Roper advised the Collectors that the forecasts must be telegraphed last night so that they would be in Washington the first thing this morning. He said the information was urgently needed by Secretary McAdoo in arranging to meet fiscal requirements of the Government. So urgent was the demand that Collectors were authorized to employ temporary clerks and rent any equipment that might be needed.

Late last night four telegrams were sent by the New York Revenue Collectors that will tell as nearly as can be figured out at this time what New York City's income and excess profit tax collections may be expected to approximate. While the Collectors were instructed by the Commissioner not to divulge this information, it was thought in well-informed circles that this city's total would be close to $800,000,000, the estimate made last Tuesday after the returns had been scanned.

The reports sent to the Commissioner last night were said to show a sum considerably in excess of the $100,000,000 previously estimated for the Brooklyn district, while an additional $25,000,000 in apparent taxes was credited to the previously reported $100,000,000 from the upper Manhattan district. There seemed to be doubt whether the Second District, covering the territory below Fourteenth Street, would come up to the earlier estimates of $900,000,000. Commissioner Roper was advised, it was reported, that the downtown district could be counted upon for between $600,000,000 and $650,000,000.

Commissioner Roper's desire for a complete estimate was frustrated to some degree by the many extensions granted for the filing of returns. It was learned yesterday that 5,000 such extensions were granted in the Second District and nearly as many in the Third. Many of these extensions cover returns to be made by the very largest taxpayers.

Commissioner Roper is expected to tell the country today what the estimated grand collection of income and excess profits taxes is expected to be.

REPUBLICANS CHARGE DRAFT BILL IS HELD UP

Kitchin Denies It and Reiterates Congress Can Adjourn by July 1.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Representative Claude Kitchin, Democratic floor leader, reassured the House today that Congress could enact the necessary legislation and adjourn by July 1, if the members would shorten debate and speed up the passage of appropriation measures.

Representative Gillett, one of the Republican floor leaders, said he welcomed early adjournment, but characterized the prediction of Mr. Kitchin as "rainbow suggestion."

During the debate it was charged that the Selective Draft bill was being held up by the Democratic leaders. It was brought out that Republican members objected to the continued delay because the War Department had sent word that action should come promptly. Representative Madden of Illinois, Republican, informed the House that the present delay was due to the absence of two Democratic members of the Committee on Military Affairs.

"The Committee on Military Affairs," said Representative Anthony of Kansas, Republican, "is still waiting for some figures and statistics from the Provost Marshal General's office, which have been delayed."

"I am very glad the gentleman stated that," Mr. Kitchin said. "I do not want the House and the country to believe we are putting anything ahead of that. The War Department is doing its best to get such figures and facts as the committee desires, and the committee is doing its best to get the bill in shape for passage."

"You Never Pay More at Best's"

SENATORS FAVOR SHOOTING TRAITORS

Lodge Declares Dynamiters and Incendiaries Should Be Dealt With by the Military.

BORAH DENOUNCES BERGER

Calls Him a "Despicable and Contemptible Creature" in Debate on Anti-Sedition Bill.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—After a stormy session in which the death penalty was demanded for traitors and German propagandists, and Victor Berger, late Socialist candidate in Wisconsin for United States Senator, was branded a traitor, the Senate today failed to agree on a time for final voting on the bill to punish seditious and treasonable utterances regarding the war and the Government. The debate will continue tomorrow, with Administration forces eager to get a vote.

Senator Borah declared that Victor Berger had advocated for America just what Lenine and Trotzky did to Russia—a surrender to Germany.

"That is treason," said the Senator. "I cannot think of a more despicable and contemptible creature under the protection of the American flag. Mr. Berger enjoyed all the privileges of a representative republic. He was allowed to run for office, and was given all the rights of a free citizen to acquire a place in the Government, a Government he stood ready to surrender to the Hohenzollern dynasty."

"I am glad he ran and was defeated," said Senator France of Maryland. "I know that thousands of the men who voted for him were not disloyal, but they voted for him because they held a theory of government which they think, if adopted, might mitigate some of the unnecessary evils we have allowed to exist in this Government."

Borah Rebukes Him.

"I trust," shot back Senator Borah, "that upon reflection the Senator from Maryland, out of respect to the Senate of the United States, will strike out part of his language."

"What part would the Senator wish to see stricken out?" asked Senator France.

"When the Senator says he is glad that a man ran for the Senate upon the platform on which Mr. Berger ran and received 100,000 votes," replied Senator Borah, "I think it is not creditable to this body."

Senator France then explained that he meant Mr. Berger's defeat at the polls was a better way of dealing with him than simply forcing him to withdraw from the race, without a test of sentiment regarding his candidacy.

Senator Hardwick then engaged in a long colloquy with Senator Borah, followed by a speech tinged with considerable bitterness. Senator Hardwick, a consistent opponent of the war and all war measures, declared nobody could tell him when to talk peace and when not to.

Senator Lodge took up the Berger platform.

"Mr. Berger advocated withdrawing American troops from France, and I think in the present situation that is an absolutely disloyal proposition."

"It is not only disloyal," Senator Borah added, "but in my opinion it ought to be brought within the purview of treason in this country."

Senator Lodge then addressed himself to the activities of German agents, spies, and propagandists in the country and to the Berger candidacy.

"Whoever cherishes the hope of splitting the Teutonic allies asunder cherishes the merest delusion," he said. "Under the circumstances, the Berger candidacy was unfortunate."

Senator Lewis interrupted to ask whether Senator Lodge thought the Senate would seat a man with the views held by Mr. Berger, and elected on such a platform as his.

Lodge Wants Them Shot.

"I think it very unlikely that the Senate would grant him a seat," said Senator Lodge. "The worst offenders in this country are those who have been engaged in dynamiting factories, putting bombs on ships, starting fires, poisoning food, and such things. They have been treated altogether too gently, too deliberately by the courts. They get some short term in prison—punishment for which they care nothing. The only way to put an end to their activities is to try them by court-martial and shoot them. Other nations do it. Germany does not hesitate to do it."

Senator Chamberlain here said he was glad Senator Lodge favored turning such offenders over to a military tribunal.

"If the military code isn't broad enough to take care of this, it ought to be amended," said Senator Chamberlain. "I include men, yes, and women if you please, who are guilty of these crimes."

Senator Lodge resumed. "Undoubtedly these crimes increase in number and violence because of the tender way we treat the criminals. And I am of the opinion that if we do not enact laws to handle this situation adequately, it will be handled by popular justice or injustice, through mob courts and lynch tribunals."

Senator Borah then read to the Senate the account of the hanging of the German miner Frager at Collinsville, Ill.

"This is an example of what I have just mentioned," said Senator Lodge.

Senator Shields of Tennessee said: "Of course, I would rather not have mob law, but if we can't take care of them any other way, popular justice will do it. I do not say this ought to be, but—well, it will be, that's all."

"ACID TEST" LETTER UNDER FIRE IN HOUSE

Frear of Wisconsin Resents Wilson's Support of Davies—Heflin Would Oust La Follette.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 5.—In a speech in the House today Representative James A. Frear of Wisconsin denounced the "acid test" letter which President Wilson wrote to promote the candidacy of Joseph E. Davies for the Senate and the speech of Vice President Marshall in behalf of Mr. Davies. The speech brought Representative Heflin of Alabama to his feet, and he assailed the patriotism of several Republican Congressmen, including Congressman Britten of Illinois.

Mr. Frear said that one-third of the members of the House would be unseated if the "acid test" proposed by President Wilson were applied. He included Messrs. Kitchin, Mann, Cannon, and many others in the list.

"The Democratic Senatorial whip declared in the New Hampshire special election last Fall that a vote for the Republican candidate for Congress was a vote for the Kaiser," said Mr. Frear. "This statement was repudiated by an intelligent electorate and a Republican member from New Hampshire was added to those on this side of the aisle, all of whom are loyally supporting every war measure in the present world conflict. The same Democratic Senatorial whip has recently presented his unusual arguments to the people of Wisconsin in the Senatorial election, with like results—the election of a Republican.

"Democratic Governors, Democratic Senators, and heads of bureaus from Washington joined in this drive to make Wisconsin safe for partisan Democracy. The partisan methods are to be deplored, but the result is a triumph for the American spirit of fair play and high ideals, even in politics."

Representative Heflin answered the attack made yesterday by Mr. Britten of Illinois upon the War Department for not permitting marines to go in France. He said that Mr. Britten had given the German spies information which they could not have obtained otherwise, and that such an attack upon the military authorities came with bad grace "from a man who offered a resolution at the outbreak of the war to prevent troops going abroad without their consent."

In the course of his speech Mr. Heflin called for the unseating of Senator La Follette and the internment of Victor Berger.

War Anniversary Service at Trinity.

A service marking the first anniversary of the United States' entry into the war will be held at noon today in old Trinity Church. It will be of a patriotic character. The Rev. Dr. William T. Manning, who is voluntary chaplain with the 302d United States Engineers at Camp Upton, will deliver an address. Every initial step of the United States in the war has been marked by Trinity with a special service at the time.

EDGE IS OUT FOR FULL SENATE TERM

New Jersey's Governor Declares for a "100 Per Cent. Military Policy."

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., April 5.—In a formal statement issued today, Governor Edge announced himself a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States Senator for the full six-year term, beginning March 4, 1919. He says he stands for a hundred per cent. military policy and pledges himself to support the Federal war program with "no taint of puny partisanship."

The Governor's candidacy is the third to be announced in the Republican ranks, Colonel Austen Colgate of Essex County and George L. Record of Hudson County having previously thrown their hats into the ring. As yet, Alexander Simpson of Hudson County is the only avowed Democratic candidate. Mr. Edge's action is regarded as making it certain that former Governor E. C. Stokes will not get into the fight.

TRAPPED FORGER ENDS LIFE

Arizona Man Who Got $28,000 Shoots Himself in Providence.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., April 5.—John H. Frye, wanted in New York on a charge of embezzling $28,000 from a bank on forged checks made out in the name of the Prescott National Bank of Prescott, Ariz., shot and killed himself here today when detectives called at his apartment to arrest him. He had been employed in the Prescott bank as a stenographer, the police said.

Frye came here on March 1, and the next day opened accounts in four local banks, after requesting that he be permitted to send deposits by mail, because, as he explained, he worked at night. He deposited $100 a week at each institution until he had more than $4,000. His actions aroused the suspicion of bank officials, and detectives were put on the case. They got a picture of the missing Arizona man, but could not make sure of the identification, for Frye had dyed his hair and otherwise altered his appearance. The police were called in to talk to Frye today. At first he denied all knowledge of the Arizona case, but later admitted his identity, and directed the police to a bureau drawer, where he said they could find the money. As soon as their backs were turned he shot himself.

On the strength of letters he had forged, John H. Frye obtained $28,000 in cash from three banks here on Feb. 19, four days after his arrival in this city from Prescott, Ariz. He had written to the three banks with which the Prescott bank was doing business, saying that John A. Frye, a customer of the Prescott bank was leaving for New York and that it would be a favor if the New York institutions would honor his check for $5,000.

Frye was represented as carrying a draft on the Anglo-London and Paris Bank of San Francisco for $15,000, which he would like to have cashed. He had forged the Prescott Bank cashier's name to his letters. He raised $11,000 on the draft, stating that he would not require the balance, or $4,000, for several days. Through a forged letter he raised an additional $17,000, and left this city. Before going, however, he mailed a draft for $600 to a bank in Seattle, Wash., where he had been employed before going to Prescott.

The Pinkerton Detective Agency, which was in charge of the case through its Providence branch, learned that a young man known as "Charles Bantum" was spending money freely in Providence. A photograph of the missing Frye was forwarded.

We Fight Again For Liberty

Washington led our first fight for liberty and fought seven anxious years before winning. His victory gained freedom for our forefathers, ourselves and for our children.

It is only a little over 140 years since, in the words of Lincoln, "our fathers brought forth on this continent a new Nation, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal." Fifty years ago this pledge was renewed. In fancied security these later years have passed in peaceful progress. We believed the battle for human liberty had been completely won.

Devastated and ravished Belgium and thousands of other bloody deeds of a misguided people proved the error of this belief. Again in the world's history a crafty, selfish, ambitious ruler has threatened to destroy freedom and world peace forever, and, as we now know, had planned to make of America another Belgium.

Again came the call "To arms!" The citizens of the great Republic which first lighted the way to individual freedom, changed themselves from a people of peace a year ago today to a vast, united, determined army—"that this nation under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and that government of the people, by the people, and for the people shall not perish from the earth."

We stand before the world dedicated to a holy cause. Each man, each woman, and each child in this land has a task to perform, something to do to help his country. If we cannot fight with our boys in France, we can stand behind them here, presenting a solid, cheerful, unwavering front to our enemies abroad and to their agents here.

If we, collectively or individually, falter in any effort to further our Country's cause, just in the same degree do we prove recreant to the trust placed in us by our brothers, our fathers, our sons, who have gone forth to fight—to bleed—to die, on the battle fields of France.

This is the Platform of Every American:

THEREFORE

I, as an individual, do solemnly promise I will constantly support our boys by every means in my power:

By my Faith; by hard, daily, thoughtful work and thrift, that I may earn more, have more and give more; by Cheerfulness in the face of war news of any character; by Confidence in our Government, our Army, our Navy, our future; by taking upon myself a personal responsibility for the success of the Liberty Loans, the War Savings Stamps, American Red Cross, Food and Fuel Conservation and all other national service movements; by helping others to know how to be TRUE AMERICANS and by thinking of these Duties when I talk of our country and the war.

INDICT ROTHENBERG AS COHEN'S SLAYER

District Attorney's Dragnet Brings In New Evidence in Murder of Gambler.

CASE READY FOR TRIAL

Parallel of Rosenthal Killing Grows as Tenderloin Characters Reveal Workings of Gang.

Morris Rothenberg was indicted by the Grand Jury yesterday for the murder of Harry Cohen, known as "Harry the Yot," who was shot dead Monday morning in the hallway of the apartment house at 7 West Ninety-second Street, in which he lived, two hours after he had telephoned to Assistant District Attorney Smith, making an appointment at which he promised important disclosures about several of the principal gambling houses in New York City. Mr. Smith said that the case against Rothenberg was strong enough for trial today.

One of the new witnesses against Rothenberg who came to light yesterday said that he had seen the man at 12:30 o'clock on Monday morning, less than seven hours before the shooting, and that Rothenberg had said:

"I am going to get a wad of money today, and I expect to take quite a trip."

Several other witnesses were found yesterday who said that they had seen Rothenberg and another man between 8 o'clock and 9 o'clock on Monday morning, a short time after the shooting, walking up and down Seventh Avenue and Broadway between Forty-fifth and Fiftieth Streets, dropping into saloons and restaurants, and eagerly inquiring after a man who had, they said, failed to keep an appointment with them.

Police Captain McKenna and several detectives were busy yesterday looking for this same man. He is alleged by District Attorney Swann to be the "paymaster" who was to deliver the price of silencing Cohen to the man who dispatched him. According to District Attorney Swann, there was some red tape connected with the payment of this money, and the representative of the alleged conspiracy of big gamblers failed to make his appearance at the place agreed upon in Times Square early on Monday morning. Later, it was asserted, the red tape, which was principally concerned with the question of proof that Cohen had been murdered, was cut and the money paid.

The testimony on this subject which was obtained yesterday was considered interesting by the District Attorney's office, because it tended to make the Cohen case more and more like a ghost of the Rosenthal murder. In the latter case, the actual murderers had agreed to meet "Jack" Rose in a restaurant at Seventh Avenue and Forty-ninth Street after the murder, but they missed connections and wandered about for two hours before they met.

Six tenderloin characters, who were arrested because they knew Rothenberg and had been in close touch with him before the killing, were questioned at the District Attorney's office yesterday and gave other information indicating that those implicated in the Cohen murder were the successors of the east side gangsters who figured in the Rosenthal murder. The Assistant District Attorney who questioned them said:

"Morris Rothenberg and his associates used to be Second Avenue men, and changed their habitat because the police went after gangs in that vicinity with too much energy after the Rosenthal case. In successive migrations most of them came uptown and made their headquarters in saloons and restaurants along Seventh Avenue from about Forty-sixth Street to Fiftieth Street, putting in a good deal of their time along Broadway. A number of them still call themselves 'The Boys of the Avenue,' the name which the members of the Hester Club, Herman Rosenthal's old place, adopted after the club closed its doors."

ACTS IN CARPENTIER WILL.

Court Appoints Administrators Pending Contest of a Nephew.

Pending a contest of the will of General Horace Carpentier, who gave the bulk of his $3,500,000 estate to Columbia University and Barnard College, Surrogate Fowler has appointed the Lincoln Trust Company, Caroline F. Crocker, and Cortlandt S. Van Rensselaer, the executors named in the will, as temporary administrators. The contestant is Edward Carpentier, who alleges that he is a nephew, and contends that the will cutting him off was the result of undue influence.

The contestant has been involved in matrimonial litigation, in course of which his wife is alleged to have written to the late General Carpentier threatening to create a scandal involving the Carpentier name unless General Carpentier induced her husband to withdraw proceedings brought against her. Counsel for the Carpentier estate objected to an application by the contestant to be appointed one of the administrators and the Surrogate refused to appoint him.

RED CROSS PREPARES HOME

Women Relatives of Wounded Will Find Shelter on Staten Island.

The American Red Cross announced last night that when the American wounded from the battle of Picardy and other parts of the French front arrive from France and are transferred from the hospital ships at Quarentine to the new Military Base Hospital at Fox Hills, Staten Island, they will find their women relatives waiting to greet them. This has been made possible by the women of the Richmond County Chapter of the Red Cross, who have fitted up an old stone mansion, near the quarantine station, for this purpose.

Certificates for Women's Law Class

The Woman's Law Class of New York University will hold its twenty-seventh annual commencement exercises this afternoon in the University Law School, Washington Square. Twenty-three young women will receive the Chancellor's certificate, and two of them the University Prize Scholarships, valued at $360 each, in the form of three years' free tuition in the School of Law. The awards will be made to members of the morning and the evening classes who pass the best examinations for the Chancellor's Certificate. The Woman's Law Class is in no way a part of the School of Law, except as it is the stepping stone conducive to the further study of law, and carries the two free tuition scholarships.

BERNSTORFF'S SON SUED FOR ALLEGED SLANDER

Baron Radek Brings Action in Berlin Against Husband of His Divorced Wife.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, April 4.—A remarkable scandal involving members of the highest Berlin society is revealed in an action in the civil courts of the German capital, where Baron von Radek, a retired Prussian officer, is bringing an action charging slander and calumny against Count Gunther von Bernstorff, a son of the former German Ambassador to the United States.

Radek, who lived in England for some years, joined the German Army on the outbreak of the war and did distinguished service at the front. While the Baron was fighting Count Gunther, it is alleged, sought to induce the Baroness, formerly Miss Marguerite Vivian Burton of Philadelphia, to divorce her husband.

The scandal came to the ears of the Baron, and, as an outcome of the inquiries he caused to be made, he sued for a divorce. This was granted by the court on the ground that, during her husband's service on behalf of his country, the Baroness von Radek had been guilty of improper conduct.

Shortly after the divorce Count Gunther married the Baroness, and, subsequently, at a chance meeting in a Berlin hotel, there arose a violent quarrel between the Baron and the Count, in the course of which the former tore the epaulettes from Count Gunther's uniform. To this assault the Count replied with the remark:

"I refuse to cross swords with you. You are known to have been a German spy in England."

This observation led to Radek's retirement from the army and to the suit against Count Gunther for calumny.

The action is causing enormous interest in Berlin, where the Bernstorff-Radek marriage made a great stir a few months ago, and it is announced that about a hundred witnesses are to be heard. As some extremely unsavory revelations will be made, it is believed that the case will be heard in camera. Not the least remarkable aspect of the affair is that this is said to be the first time a Prussian officer has ever declined to settle a quarrel of this kind by means of a duel.

Count Christian Gunther von Bernstorff and the former Miss Marguerite Vivian Burton were married last Dec. 8. He is 26 years old, and in 1913 was a clerk in the offices of Speyer & Co., New York bankers. The Count entered the German diplomatic service shortly after the outbreak of the war.

Countess von Bernstorff is about 30 years old. Her first husband was an American carriage manufacturer named Bisch, from whom she was divorced, after which she married Baron von Radek. She was born in Stroudsburg, Penn., of English parents, and was adopted by E. J. Thomasen of Burlington, N. J.

After her first marriage she met Baron von Radek in New York, and they were married in London in 1911. Four years ago the Countess fell heir to an estate of $100,000 from her foster mother.

Baron von Radek was formerly an Attaché of the German Embassy in London. His father was a General in the German Army.

INCREASE FOR TEACHERS.

President Somers Says Higher Salaries Will Come Soon.

The salaries of the lower paid teachers in the elementary schools of the city will soon be increased. President Somers at the meeting of the Board of Education yesterday said that these teachers received less pay than a common laborer. The schedules submitted by the Teachers Council would add more than $12,700,000 to the school budget. Another plan proposed would make the added cost about $4,000,000. Many teachers, he said, received only $16 a week. The board, he said, would soon take up the matter and come to a decision about the salaries that would be somewhere between the two amounts named. The teachers were doing excellent work. He did not take any stock in the complaint that they worked over ten months in the year. They did the work they were asked to do and very few of them watched the clock, being too intent in the instruction of the pupils.

There may be a change in the time at which these teachers receive their maximum salary.

WAR PLEA BETWEEN ACTS.

Gov. Whitman Commends Mrs. Duryea, Who Urges Woman to Knit.

Mrs. Chester B. Duryea, who organized the Duryea War Relief, which has clothed more than 73,000 persons since the war began, made an address between the acts of "The American Ace" at the Casino last evening, being introduced by Governor Whitman, who spoke highly of the work and urged the people to patriotic endeavor.

Mrs. Duryea told of the seventeen villages in the devastated part of France that had been taken over by her society at the request of the French Government, and of the clothing, garden implements, and seeds distributed among the people. Mrs. Duryea made a strong appeal to the women to knit. "Since returning to this country," she said, "I have heard an American woman of intelligence and sympathy criticise the incessant knitting she sees and remark that no woman between 16 and 60 should waste her time knitting. I would remind that woman that while machines do the work quicker, there are not enough machines, and a woman can often knit by hand when other things are going on. If every woman between 16 and 60 would knit an hour a day our forces and those of the Allies would be kept in warm socks."

The Duryea War Relief besides the central depot in Paris has sixty-five branches in this country, the headquarters here being at 9 East Thirtieth Street.

Tailoring—That Meets War-time Demands for Service

There is a great deal left to your imagination in the tailoring of a garment. Fully 60% of the tailoring, the most vital parts, is entirely hidden.

There are many garments that to all outward appearances are beautifully made, but which prove to be disappointing after wear because all the tailoring was on the outside and the hidden parts were slighted.

The parts that give a garment its permanence, its style, and service are the parts that are not seen, and no garment can be better than its inside tailoring.

That every Best & Co. garment shall be fully as good in the INSIDE as the OUTSIDE is why Best & Co. tailor their own garments. No risks will be taken with this vital feature of our clothes. So important is this that the tailoring has always been under direct supervision of members of the firm.

MAY SEND DR. BUENZ TO U. S. PRISON TODAY

German Sea Raider Conspirator Ordered Into Court for Health Examination.

21 ENEMY ALIENS INTERNED

Question of Moving Germans from Staten Island and South Brooklyn Still Undecided.

Dr. Karl Buenz, former German Minister to Mexico, and at the time of the entrance of this country into the war the highest official of the Hamburg-American Line in the United States, who is under sentence to serve eighteen months in the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta for conspiring to make New York a supply base for German ocean raiders, was ordered yesterday to appear before Judge Harland B. Howe in the Federal District Court this morning. Dr. Buenz has been at liberty, under $25,000 bail, because of the alleged condition of his health. On his appearance in court this morning the question of his health will be the subject of inquiry by the Federal authorities, on the outcome of which will depend whether or not he is to be taken to Atlanta to begin serving his term.

Two other Germans, both underlings, who were convicted at the same time as Buenz, are now serving their sentences. Buenz for some months made his home in the German Club, which was closed ten days ago following a somewhat thorough inspection of the club by agents of the Department of Justice. Recently Buenz, according to information in possession of the authorities, has been spending much time automobiling about the city.

The twenty-one enemy aliens, among them Baron Gustav von Haspers, Dr. Karl O. Bertling, the propagandist, and Dr. Isaac Straus, former Secretary to Dr. Dernburg, who have been ordered interned in a Georgia prison camp as dangerous enemy aliens, left for Fort Oglethorpe yesterday afternoon. The prisoners were in charge of a platoon of soldiers of the Twenty-second United States Infantry from Governors Island. They are due at Oglethorpe early tomorrow morning.

Two important arrests are known to have been made within a few days. One is said to be among the most important since this country entered the war. It was said yesterday that details of the two cases may be made public today.

No decision has as yet been made on the suggestion to order all enemy subjects resident on Staten Island and along the South Brooklyn waterfront to move to other parts of the city. There are several thousand enemy aliens living in these parts of the city, every one of whom is in a position to keep track of naval and transport arrivals and departures. With great troop movements in prospect, it has been pointed out that it would seem to be a wise precaution to order these people into a part of the city where they would not be subjected to temptation to keep track of military and naval movements in New York Harbor.

Wilhelm Bergher, a graduate of the University of Göttingen, who says he came to this country six years ago "to perfect himself in office management" and to do "newspaper work on the side," was questioned by Captain Roger B. Hull, U. S. A., on duty with the Enemy Alien Bureau, yesterday. Bergher was recently released from the White Plains jail, where he was held as an enemy alien.

"I suppose you know this country is at war?" said Captain Hull.

"Yes, I know New York is at war, but I don't know whether Chicago and Cleveland are," he replied.

"Are you a German subject?" he was asked.

"I refuse to answer; you have no right to ask that question," was his reply.

The man finally admitted that he was a loyal German.

Captain Hull ordered his examined at Bellevue to determine whether or not he is feigning insanity.

Charged with using seditious language while addressing a crowd in Madison Square, Robert Hamoviz of 3,741 Third Avenue was sentenced to serve twenty days in the Workhouse by Magistrate Brough in Yorkville Court yesterday afternoon. Two witnesses testified that Hamovitz said that after this war there would be a bigger war between capital and labor and also that after this war "there would be no more Kaisers, Emperors, Kings or Presidents."

Michael Kosgel, a Russian, in this country four years, of 185 East Third Street, was held by United States Commissioner Samuel M. Hitchcock yesterday afternoon in $2,000 bail for the Federal Grand Jury for refusing to sign his draft questionnaire. Kosgel has recently been working at the Remington Arms plant in Bridgeport, Conn.

GERMAN EX-OFFICER IN JAIL.

Ritter, Boston Book Dealer, Held for Circulating Propaganda.

BOSTON, April 5.—Theodor J. Ritter, a bookseller, with a shop in Boylston Street, who is said to have been formerly an officer of a Prussian Guards regiment, was arrested as an enemy alien by John J. Mitchell, United States Marshal, tonight. According to Department of Justice agents, the prisoner is suspected of extensive circulation of books and pamphlets in support of German propaganda.

In a search of his house at Newton Centre, the agents found a Prussian guardsman's uniform. Ritter was removed to the east Cambridge jail. He is 50 years old and unmarried. He has been in this country about ten years.

MUCK TO BE INTERNED FOR PERIOD OF THE WAR

Washington Orders the Orchestra Leader Confined as an Enemy of the Country.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Internment of Dr. Karl Muck, former leader of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, for the period of the war, was ordered today by the Department of Justice. Dr. Muck, held to be an enemy alien in spite of his claims to Swiss citizenship, supported by the Swiss Legation, will be turned over to the military authorities, who will decide where he shall be imprisoned.

The Department of Justice, after an extensive investigation of Dr. Muck's record of pro-German sympathies and utterances and his close associations in the past with State leaders in Germany, decided it would be dangerous to permit him to remain at large. His claims of Swiss citizenship, based on the fact that his father was naturalized in Switzerland after moving from Germany, were overruled under the Espionage act, which permits the interniment of a "denizen" of an enemy country.

Dr. Muck was arrested about two weeks ago and held on a Presidential warrant while the Department of Justice reviewed reports of secret agents who had followed his movements for several years since he obtained special permission from Emperor William to remain in this country. Since his arrest he resigned his leadership of the orchestra.

WINS FROM INTERBOROUGH.

Shoemaker Gets Verdict for False Arrest Following Flag Dispute.

Raffacle Patrone, a shoemaker and owner of a chain of repair shops, living at 4,039 Lowerre Place, Bronx, obtained a verdict for $300 yesterday for false arrest from the Interborough Rapid Transit Company after a trial before Justice Mitchell and a jury in the Bronx County Supreme Court. He sued for $5,000.

Patrone on May 15 entered the Grand Street station of the Third Avenue elevated line with an American flag and an Italian flag, each attached to six-foot sticks. When he attempted to pass the ticket chopper he was stopped and told he could not ride because the flag poles were cumbersome and dangerous to passengers. He appealed to the ticket seller, Morris Weisman, who, he said, declared: "I don't care a damn about the Stars and Stripes or the Wop flag either." A fight followed in which Weisman was cut on the wrist. Patrone was arrested and charged with assault. He was held for the Grand Jury, but was not indicted.

At the trial yesterday Weisman denied making the remark about the American and Italian flags.

TRY TO KILL FAMILY OF CONGRESSMAN

Unexpected Arrival Home of John G. Cooper's Eldest Son Saves Six from Death.

ALL SENSELESS FROM GAS

Wife, Four Children, and Maid Believed to be Victims of I. W. W. or German Spies.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Advised today that his family had been gassed in Youngstown by plotters who evidently were trying to kill him for attacks on the I. W. W. and German spies, Representative John G. Cooper of the Nineteenth Ohio district immediately laid the facts before the Department of Justice.

A. Bruce Bielaski, Chief of the Bureau of Investigations, who has charge of the national hunt for German plotters and disloyalists, notified Mr. Cooper that instructions would be sent without delay to Cleveland representatives of the Department of Justice to proceed to Youngstown at once for the purpose of running down the guilty parties.

Although the attack on Representative Cooper's home was made Wednesday night, when it was believed he was there for a visit with his family, he knew nothing of the plot which nearly killed his wife, four of his children, and the maid until he received a message this morning from his nineteen-year-old son, Lawrence, who found them all unconscious at 11 o'clock that night. The telegram read:

"Dad, watch what you eat and drink and where you go. I. W. W. workers got in cellar last night, thinking you were home, and took off the flue pipe from the furnace. We were all gassed, but are all O. K. now. No worry or danger, but watch yourself. I think it was because of your part in the Wisconsin campaign."

Mr. Cooper communicated with his son over the long-distance telephone and learned that when the six persons were found in the gas-filled home the children were in convulsions and it took six hours' work to bring some members of the family back to consciousness.

After the Youngstown Congressman had laid the facts before the Department of Justice, he made this authorized statement:

"I have been expressing myself pretty freely about the I. W. W. and German spies, and have never hesitated to say that, if I had my way, they would face a firing squad. In my speeches last week in Disconsin, where I campaigned for the election of Irvine L. Lenroot to the United States Senate, I made similar statements.

"When I got home Wednesday from my speech-making trip through Wisconsin, Mrs. Cooper told me that she was a bit worried about a man who had been hanging around the house for two or three nights. She said they had seen him looking in at the windows.

"I had planned to stay at home over Wednesday night, but my secretary in Washington telegraphed me that the House was preparing to amend the draft law, and as we had had considerable trouble in Youngstown about the draft act, I thought I ought to be present to vote.

"As a result I left Youngstown at 7:30 Wednesday night instead of staying until Thursday as I had intended. That night the cellar was broken into. We have a natural gas furnace there, and the escape pipe that runs from the furnace to the chimney was taken down. One part of it was hidden in the cellar and the other carried away. The gas was turned off to extinguish the light, and then both burners were turned on so as the gas would fill the house in short order.

"My oldest boy had not been sleeping at home for three weeks on account of his work, but that evening he was calling in the neighborhood, and at 11 o'clock he decided he would stop in at home for a minute to see how the family was. Finding the house filled with gas, he rushed upstairs and found his mother, four boys and the maid all unconscious. The little fellows were in convulsions vomiting blood. The gas was so heavy in the house that one of the neighbors, Mrs. Hughes, who came in to help with the rescue, became very ill and is quite sick as a result of the gassing."

Because Mr. Cooper comes from the labor group and was a locomotive engineer until elected to Congress, it is believed that the I. W. W. is especially antagonistic to him.

CLOTHED BY GOVERNMENT.

Workers Get Even Thread from Imperial Distributing Board.

Clothes, stockings and thread now are being distributed to the workingmen and women of Germany by the Imperial Clothing Distributing Board. According to new measures announced by the board in the German press in February, it will supply workmen engaged in war industries with working garments. All such clothing for women and men will be withdrawn from the open market and distributed only by the Imperial Board.

It was announced also that stockings would be supplied and that about 80,000,000 pairs of undyed stockings were being made. The order says that under the new distribution of sewing thread large communities will be supplied with 200,000 spools of thread.

A new method, the papers say, has been discovered for the manufacture of "linen" from paper. Such cloth may be boiled and washed, it is said, "without danger of falling apart."

C. de Florez will give a descriptive talk, illustrated with pictures recently taken at the fighting front, at the Plaza Hotel tomorrow evening, for the benefit of the two ambulances provided by the de Florez Fund, for the Hospital Chir. Saint Paul. Frederic R. Coudert will deliver an introductory address.

LINCOLN ARMY LAUNCHED.

Major Gencral Wood Accepts Recruits for Patriotic Service.

Major Gen. Leonard Wood, Honorary Commander in Chief of the Lincoln Patriotic Army, launched a new campaign for recruits at the Waldorf-Astoria yesterday afternoon. The first batch, which had been enlisted by young women of society working for the project, were "sworn in" by the General.

The Lincoln Patriotic Army has begun an intensive campaign to enlist Americans of all ages from 15 and those over draft age for patriotic work of all character. Lincoln's principles and ideals will guard the new army, which demands permanent patriotic service to the Government and the people. Its slogan is "Lincolnize America." Lieutenant General Coleman du Pont is Commander in Chief of the Lincoln Patriotic Army, which is organized and directed by the Lincoln Memorial University at Cumberland Gap, Tenn.

WHITMAN TO NAME JUSTICE.

Nathan Ottinger Believed to be Successor of Justice Scott.

Governor Whitman, who came to the city yesterday to attend the celebration of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the Chamber of Commerce, will send to the Legislature on Monday the name of a successor to Justice Scott of the Supreme Court, who recently resigned. Governor Whitman would not say whom he had selected for the place, but it is understood that he is favorably inclined to Nathan Ottinger, a brother of State Senator Albert Ottinger.

The Governor is scheduled to spend a busy time today. At noon he will attend a luncheon given to M. Tardieu, the French High Commissioner, at the Ritz-Carlton. At 3 P. M. he will address a delegation of Jewish women at the Hotel McAlpin. At 8 P. M. he will take part in a Liberty Loan demonstration at the East Side Bank, and afterward attend a meeting of Rumanian Jews at the Madison Square Garden.

T. W. Eaton of Wilmington In Fatal Collision at Key West.

KEY WEST, Fla., April 5.—Student Aviator Thomas W. Eaton of Wilmington, Del., was killed, and student J. W. Mitchell, Jr., was seriously injured in a collision of airplanes which they were piloting here today.

The machines were flying 100 feet from the ground.

Duke Seeks Citizenship.

Arturo de Majo, Duke Durazzo, of Italy called at the County Naturalization Bureau yesterday and made a formal declaration of his intention of becoming a citizen of the United States. He said he was unmarried and was 33 years old, which makes him three years the junior of the Italian nobleman of the same name who marries Elizabeth F. Hanan on Oct. 7, 1914.

He gave his residence as 601 Madison Avenue, and said that he arrived in this country in 1910.

REVISION OF DRAFT BEFORE PRESIDENT

Radical Changes in Classification Urged to Put Labor Slackers to Work.

IDLERS MAY BE HUNTED OUT

Gamblers and Other Followers of "Harmful" Pursuits Also to Lose Deferred Status.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Drastic modification of the draft classification lists which would affect in one way or another the status of every one of the millions of registered men is proposed in a plan submitted to President Wilson today by officials of the Provost Marshal General's office and the Department of Labor.

While the primary purpose of the new program is the "purification" of the second, third and fourth classes of registrants who are not engaged in any productive industry, attention also would be given to lower sections of Class 1 and the effect, its framers believe, would be to solve the nation's labor problem and largely increase the output of the necessities of life.

The proposal would utilize the draft machinery for putting industrial slackers to work. Every registered man who has got deferred classification would be given to understand that such deferment was not a legal right, but a privilege, and that if unfair advantage was taken of that privilege it would be summarily revoked.

It is proposed to make a most careful survey of the lower section of Class 1 and of other classes to identify those man who are idlers or who are gaining a living through undesirable or "harmful" pursuits. Under the latter head, officials suggest, might be listed gamblers, bookmakers for races, poolroom touts, and others. Formal notification would be served upon these men that unless within a specified time they obtained employment in some useful industry they would have their classified status changed so as to send them into military service immediately.

Two Benefits Claimed.

The plan is not designed to interfere in the slightest with the so-called non-essential industries. These may be affected to some slight degree, but officials say such injury would be offset many times over by the resulting national good to be obtained from the augmented labor supply and the greatly increased production of essentials.

Administration officials who have participated in the preparation of the plan declare that the next step would be to obtain authority for the industrial classification of the man power of the country up to the age of fifty years.

To make the program fully effective, it is intended to utilize the existing local boards virtually as employment agencies for their districts. Accurate reports would be kept as to the vacancies existing in the neighborhood, and when a man was informed that he must seek a useful occupation he would be told where just such a man as his questionnaire shows him to be was needed.

The status of men on the classified lists, both in Class 1 and in the deferred classes, in the opinion of the Provost Marshal General's office, would be improved. Delinquents who did not heed the warning would be inducted in the military service, reducing the number of men to be called from Class 1. This would operate to delay still farther the date when the services of men in Class 2 might be needed. This fact is expected to draw to the aid of the "purification" relatives and friends of boys who are about to be called.

That determined opposition to the plan will develop in some quarters has been foreseen. The effect on the labor market of the addition of many thousands of able-bodied workers might be to reduce the present wage scales. The economic balance will be kept even, according to the champions of the program, by the reduction in the cost of life's necessities through increased output and in the improved situation of the dollar in international exchange. No indication has been given of the attitude which President Wilson will take, though army officials are confident he will give his approval.

Call for 400 Photographers.

A call for 400 photographers registered in the draft to mobilize at Madison Barracks, Sackett's Harbor, N. Y., April 15, was sent out to fifteen States today by Provost Marshal General Crowder. They will be put in the air service. The photographers will be asked to volunteer for the work, but if enough registrants do not come forward some will be inducted into the service.

A call also was issued for 2,825 registrants to receive a two months' course in automobile driving and repairing, and other mechanical work. Local boards of Connecticut, Massachusetts, Michigan, Kentucky, Missouri, and Texas were directed to furnish these men. The States called upon for men for mechanical training were directed to send the following quotas to the institutions named:

Connecticut, 230 men to the Parker Memorial School, Boston; 250 to the Wentworth Institute, Boston.

Massachusetts, 250 to the Wentworth Institute.

Michigan, 200 to the Sears Roebuck Y. M. C. A., Chicago; 190 to the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

Kentucky, 440 to the Hotel Metropole, Indianapolis.

Missouri, 125 to Washington University, St. Louis; 300 to Iowa State Agricultural and Mechanical College at Ames; 275 to the Jai Alai Building, St. Louis.

Texas, 350 to the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College.

OWEN'S FEELINGS NOT HURT

Senator Says He Thought Murphy Gloried in Being a Boss.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Senator Owen of Oklahoma today replied to the criticism of him by Charles F. Murphy, Tammany leader, in leaving the dinner in New York last night of the Young Men's Democratic League. Mr. Murphy's refusal to remain after he found Senator Owen's name on the list of guests was based on the fact that during the last Mayoralty campaign in New York the Senator advocated the re-election of Mayor Mitchel and denounced the methods of Tammany Hall.

"I have no right to complain of Mr. Murphy's disapproval of my political views," said Senator Owen today. "I am hostile to machine politics, and occasionally I say so, and use Mr. Murphy and Mr. Barnes as bad examples. I would not leave the room, however, if Mr. Murphy were an invited guest.

"I am not angry with Mr. Murphy for spurning the mention of my name. He does not know me and, possibly, I do not know him. If he feels seriously angry at being designated a typical machine boss, it would argue that he regards the charge as a calumny. I have taken it as confessed. I thought he gloried in it."

Senator Owen also commented on Murphy's threat that he and other organization Democrats would not attend a dinner to be given by the National Democratic Club on April 13, when Senator Owen is to be a guest of honor.

"The threatened absence of Mr. Murphy and his large host of organization men would make the dinner a failure," he said. "I cannot let my New York friends be embarrassed by Mr. Murphy's threatened absence. My presence there is inconsequential, and I shall be glad to dine elsewhere for the sake of my friend Murphy's digestion."

Politicians discussed with interest yesterday the action of Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, in refusing to attend the dinner of the Young Men's Democratic League at the Hotel McAlpin on Thursday night because the name of Senator Robert F. Owen of Oklahoma was in the list of guests. Senator Owen did not attend the dinner, but as soon as Mr. Murphy saw his name he explained to Frank D. Shelley, President of the league, that Mr. Owen's presence would be objectionable to him. Mr. Shelley said yesterday the Senator was not invited to the dinner.

"We invited Representative Scott Ferris of Oklahoma," he added, "and received a telegram from him on April 2, informing us that he could not be present, and suggesting that we have Senator Owen in his stead. He asked that we communicate with him and with Senator Owen, but because of the short space of time intervening we took no action. When the printing of the menu and place cards was taken up, Representative Ferris's name was stricken out and that of Senator Owen substituted."

Charges Army Favoritism.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The House today passed the resolution of Representative Anthony of Kansas asking the War Department for information regarding the commissioning of Herbert A. Meyer, formerly secretary to Secretary Lane, as a Captain in the aviation service. Mr. Anthony said there had been political favoritism in army appointments and that the War Department had told Congressmen that men of draft age would be commissioned only after they enlisted.

AMERICANS' THROATS CUT.

Salvation Army Officer Heard Germans Murdered Three Americans.

CHICAGO, April 5.—A ghastly illustration of German hatred of American soldiers is given in a Salvation Army letter made public here today by Adjutant Fletcher Agnew. It was written in France by Adjutant R. C. Starbard, who has charge of a Salvation Army hut, to Commander Eva Booth, who turned it over to Adjutant Agnew.

"I visited a base hospital recently," says the letter, "and had this story from a Sergeant who had passed through one of the raids. The Sergeant was horribly wounded by a grenade, and was passed by the Germans as dead. Before the Sergeant lost consciousness, however, he saw a dozen Germans overpower three American boys and cut their throats from ear to ear. The Sergeant said the murder of the third American was the most horrible. Four Germans held him while a fifth fairly severed his head from his body.

ENEMY CAPITAL FOR SHIPS.

Palmer Suggests Its Use in the Building Program.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—With the suggestion that it would be an effective stroke for the Government to use available enemy capital in this country to build ships, A. Mitchell Palmer, Alien Property Custodian, wrote today to Chairman Hurley of the Shipping Board, offering for this use the total timber supply of the German-American Lumber Company of Millville, Fla. This company is enemy-owned and recently was taken over by the Custodian.

Mr. Palmer said in his letter that near the plant of the lumber company was the Gulf Shipbuilding Company's yard, where one small ship has been built, and where five more wooden ships of 5,000 tons each could be constructed in a short time.

Bolo Loses His Last Appeal.

The Last Stand of Humanity and Civilization Against Autocracy and Barbarism

The names of two Americans, PRESIDENT WILSON and COLONEL HOUSE will stand out in history for the powerful, beneficent, world-wide influence they have exerted in this great world war.

The publication at this time in the NEW YORK EVENING POST of the life story of Colonel House, the most powerful private citizen in the world, is of extraordinary interest to Americans and their Allies.

The Real Colonel House

By Arthur D. Howden Smith

is more than a biography. It is a fascinating, important, historical document. It proves conclusively Germany's responsibility for the war and shows why America, France and England are allied against the Central Powers.

In it is rewritten the entire diplomatic history of the war.

It solves diplomatic riddles.

It tells who Col. House is, his relationship with the Wilson Administration, his activities in National and International affairs.

It answers the questions you have been asking.

It proves the World leadership of our President.

Every American will read it with amazement, pride and profit.

This Biography Explains:—

The international complications brought about in 1912 by the Balkan War, which made this year the most momentous since 1815, and culminated finally in the World War.

Germany's schemes for embroiling the United States with Mexico in 1913.

Warnings issued by the United States to Germany, Great Britain, and France before the war started.

How Wilson became the Democratic candidate for President in 1912.

Wilson's foreign policy.

The complete dominance of the military clique over all Germany and the Kaiser.

Peace propinquity in 1916, just before the outbreak of the unrestricted submarine warfare.

The origin of the new doctrine of the freedom of the seas.

How Germany refused again and again to make peace, although her enemies were willing to make reasonable terms.

ONE SON IS KILLED AS ANOTHER IS FREED

Soldier Shot as Escaping Murderer Dies on Day His Brother Is Paroled.

Young Vreeland Enlisted After Pardon in Jersey—Parole Board Then Rewarded Elder Brother's Devotion

A few hours after she had received a telegram from her son Perry in the New Jersey State Prison, that he had been paroled by the State Board of Pardons, although his name was not on the list of applicants, Mrs. Elizabeth Perry Vreeland of 117 West Thirteenth Street received a telegram from the War Department that another son had died in an army hospital at Waco, Texas, from wounds inflicted by the military police while he was trying to escape after he had killed Herman Stolte, a merchant, in attempting to rob a store.

Albert Vreeland was 16 years old when he was sent to the New Jersey State prison on March 22, 1912, upon conviction of robbery and burglary. His term was for an indeterminate period between nine and sixty-three years, and under the minimum sentence he would not have been released until April 2, 1921. While Albert was still in prison his brother Perry, two years older, was sent to prison on similar charges for a period of five to fifteen years.

When the two boys met in the prison the heart of the older one was touched by the condition of his younger brother, who was then only 18 years old, and he said that he would confess to the Warden that it was through his influence that Albert had committed the crimes that resulted in his long prison sentence. The older boy notified his mother in Paterson of his intention to get the younger boy out of prison by taking the burden of blame for the crimes upon himself. Through counsel retained by her the papers were drawn up and the application for a pardon was sent to the Board of Pardons at its meeting in Trenton last November.

The result of the applications was favorable, and the members of the board commended the self-sacrifice of the older brother who took the blame for the waywardness of the younger boy. The prison term of the younger boy was ended in December, and immediately he enlisted in the army and was enrolled as a private in the 20th Field Artillery at Waco, Texas. For several weeks his letters were cheerful, and he wrote that he liked the new life.

When the Board of Pardons met again in Trenton yesterday 284 applications for clemency were laid before it, and after a long discussion ninety-eight pardons and paroles were granted. No application for a parole was received from Perry Vreeland, but at the end of the meeting one of the members recalled that he was still in prison after taking the blame for his brother's acts. An order for his parole was made out by unanimous vote, and he was to join the army with his brother.

On Tuesday the mother had received a telegram from the War Department that Albert had been shot accidentally. She received another message on Thursday saying that his condition was worse, and late yesterday afternoon his death was announced by the War Department. Then she received a telegram announcing the parole of her son, and dispatches saying that Albert had been killed by military police who were trying to arrest him on a charge of killing a storekeeper while trying to rob the store.

BAY RIDGE TO HAVE LARGE ARMY DEPOT

Government Takes Over the Langley Estate as Site for Military Warehouses.

The War Department completed negotiations yesterday for taking over the property of the Langley estate on the South Brooklyn waterfront, comprising approximately ten blocks of realty between Fifty-ninth and Sixty-fourth Streets, and extending two blocks to First and Second Avenues. The Government will erect military warehouses and large piers on the property.

Government storehouses and plants are already in operation in the vicinity and the new site will consolidate a long section of the waterfront under Government control. Adjoining the new site on the north side, the Morse Dry Dock and Repair Company is now working on Government contracts, and to the south of that is the Bush Terminal, which is in use for military stores and shipping. On the south side, at the point where the Bay Ridge section begins, is the Brooklyn Connecting Railway, owned by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. This entire chain of Government warehouses will be under the jurisdiction of the Quartermaster General. The property is near and convenient of access from the headquarters of the Department of the East on Governors Island and the Navy Yard.

War Department officials have not announced the estimated cost of the property and the proposed improvements, but Senator Calder said the property, piers, and warehouses would probably require an expenditure of $25,000,000. It is understood that the Government will take the property as a permanent investment.

While this site, including the Bush Terminal, will have the largest military stores and warehouses in the country, a chain of similar depots will be established at other deep water shipping points. It was the suggestion of Major Gen. Goethals that the speeding up of storing and shipping military supplies to keep pace with the needs of the fighting forces required a series of great depots along the Atlantic Coast. It is intended to maintain at all times a thirty-day supply of everything needful for military service, and it is expected that better service, speed, and more economic operation will result from this plan.

The Langley estate is the largest individual holding of commercial property on the Brooklyn waterfront. It is part of the property formerly known as the Langley farm, which then extended west to Seventh Avenue.

AMERICA'S OLDEST & LARGEST PRODUCERS

AMERICAN PAINTERS LEAD IN SALE OF ART

Inness's "Looking Over River" Brings $3,900—A Murphy, $3,800—178 Paintings, $57,270.

Paintings of American artists again took first place in the sale of valuable modern works from different estates which were sold last evening at the Plaza under the auspices of the American Art Association, Thomas E. Kirby in the auctioneer's chair. A pleasing Inness, "Looking Over the River," brought the highest price of the evening, going to Seaman, agent, for $3,900. It was a picture which in composition suggested "The Wood Gatherers," which at the Hearn sale brought the record-breaking price of $80,000. J. Francis Murphy's "A Cloudy Day" brought the second highest price, going to E. H. Bernheim for $3,800. The third highest price of the evening was brought by a Wyant, "The Bridge in the Meadows," which went to Knoedler & Co. for $2,800.

Three pictures were withdrawn—Millet's "La Bergere," a pastel and crayon, the property of the estate of Mary L. McMillan, widow of United States Senator James McMillan; George Morland's "Selling Fish, Fresh Water Bay, Isle of Wight," property of a private collector, and Jules Dupre's "Caught in a Storm."

A Ziem, "Venice at Sunset: Entrance to Grand Canal," which brought one of the higher prices of the evening, going to Knoedler & Co. for $1,025, belonged to the estate of the late Miss Mary E. Garrett of Baltimore. Miss Garrett was a very wealthy and prominent woman of Baltimore, a friend of Miss M. Carey Thomas, President of Bryn Mawr College, to whom she left the greater part of her wealth.

The returns last night were $47,300, making a total for the sale of 178 paintings of $57,270.

SUSPECT PLOT IN BIG FIRE.

Kansas City Fire Warden Believes $2,000,000 Blaze Was Incendiary.

KANSAS CITY, April 5.—The fire which destroyed about three city blocks in the wholesale and manufacturing district in the western section of the city last night, entailing a heavy financial loss, was of incendiary origin, according to James E. Marvin, fire warden. He added, however, that no clew had been found to establish the theory definitely. He placed the loss at between $2,000,000 and $2,500,000.

"I grew suspicious when it was called to my attention that the fire had burned 'against the wind,'" Marvin declared. "Almost as soon as the fire was discovered other fires began to break out in adjacent buildings. That would indicate the fires were deliberately started as they were not situated so that sparks from the first fire could have been thrown upon them."

Several of the larger warehouses in the vicinity of the fire area contained food and those inclined toward a plot theory, used that fact to prove their claim that enemy agents may have been responsible for the fire.

WALKS ROPE IN WALL ST.

Circus Star Wins Many Orders for War Savings Stamps.

Appearing under the auspices of the War Savings Stamp Committee Bird Millman, one of the stars of Barnum & Bailey's circus, walked a tight rope stretched from the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. to the Sub-Treasury Building yesterday, and after pirouetting up and down the rope several times, a throng of financial district workers showered her with contributions. Boy Scouts, delegations from the Women's Overseas Hospital, and members of other patriotic organizations made their way through the crowd selling the stamps.

During Miss Millman's performance a naval band played martial airs. Without the accustomed parasol or balancing stick she danced along the rope at a height of 100 feet, starting from a platform placed at one side. The War Savings Stamp Committee did not announce what sum had been realized by the exhibition, but Postmaster Patten, who headed a delegation of postmen working in the interest of the War Savings Committee, said that the amount was large.

OVER HERE

THE STORY OF A WAR BRIDE

Months at Plattsburg made him a soldier; months of wifehood made her a woman. And when the time came, it was she who put courage in his heart, who waved him a smiling farewell, who bravely faced the long silence between over here and over there. What happens to him over there and what comes into her life over here make a drama of national significance and appeal.

By Ethel M. Kelley. Frontispiece by C. D. Gibson and jacket with War Bride Flag in color. $1.50.

LAURETTE TAYLOR IN SHAKESPEARE

Three of the Great Heroines in Dramatic Tabloids for Friday Matinees.

THE SHREW, JULIET, PORTIA

Vary Interesting and Promising Results in an Experiment Ill Conceived.

To the great public of her admirers and beneficiaries, Laurette Taylor is an actress of cherry gamin parts—Peg, 'Aunted Annie, Happy Jenny. To the few who have known and admired her from her now forgotten origins—notably as the Hungarian imp in "Seven Sisters" and the wild little Kanaka heroine of "A Bird of Paradise"—she is an artist of wide versatility, touched with color, passion, and indeed with poetry. Foremost in this latter class is Miss Taylor herself. "Have you ever seen a yellow pup who thought he was a bloodhound?" That is Jenny's actress even more than it is Jenny. And with actresses quite as much as with milliners' slaveys, 'tis thinking makes it so.

Some of the thinking that resulted in yesterday afternoon's performances was misdirected. Those who have shone in the great Shakespearean characters have approached them through small parts in "support." Since this was impossible to Miss Taylor, it would, perhaps, have been the part of caution to attempt a single leading character, and preferably one of those which are not associated in the public mind with the performances of great actresses of the past. But to Miss Taylor caution is a thing unknown. So she has leaped, with more than a bloodhound's impetuosity, upon three of the most familiar and famous—Kate the Shrew, Juliet, and Portia.

To do this she has been obliged to reduce each play to a dramatic tabloid, or rather to select a single scene or a group of excerpts. The result is a series of portraits without background perspective. More than anything else, it is great plays that make great acting. The leading performance rises as it were on the crest of a wave, the consummation of a dramatic impulse that is elemental, cosmic. Without the inner impulse of great drama, even the most masterly performance seems self-willed and lacking in deep significance.

Miss Taylor's shrew was especially distorted. In the first meeting with Petruchio her anger was so intense as to transcend any possible motive. It was superhuman, diabolic. Her mask was that of a classic fury, frozen in insensate rage. From this mood to the ultimate mood of submission, no transition was possible, only a blank contrast. In the scene of her repentance she was quite cold, apathetic. If the part had been created with reference to the play as a whole, in sustained and even development, it could not have failed to gain a more lifelike modeling, a deeper sincerity and humor. For, crude as the performance was, it revealed powers that are, potentially, of the highest order. The error was one, not of poverty, but of superabundance of energy. Only the more experienced technique, the more leisurely process of creation, was needed to transform the performance into one of true originality and power.

The two poetic parts were marred by lack of experience in speaking blank verse. It was not that the measure was slurred or ignored. At times it was almost painfully insisted on, especially in Portia's "quality of mercy" speech. Nor was there any lack of an attempt at least at simple and natural speaking. But Miss Taylor has apparently not yet learned that for the proper utterance of Shakespearean verse it is necessary to fuse the most colloquial tone with the iambic rhythm which, though infinitely varied and flexible, is yet exquisitely musical.

Histrionically, this Juliet was girlish, impassioned, poetic—touched even with a sensitive, wistful humor. The true spirit of the balcony scene was there. The Portia was surprisingly manly, authoritative. One could quite imagine that Bassanio did not recognize the mistress of his heart. In both parts, as was the case with Kate, a surer technique, working in the inspiration of sustained drama, would have resulted in a highly distinct characterization and in a performance of genuine originality and force.

It cannot be said that Miss Taylor is already a Shakespearean actress—far from it. Yet beneath the surface of her many shortcomings it is already evident that she has powers which, with experience and study, will carry her to the heights. In her modest little curtain speech, which was much applauded, she spoke of her performances as a crucifixion. It was—both to her and to Shakespeare. But in a deeper sense it did them both rare honor. Nothing could be more beautiful than this, that in every generation the rarest spirits should lay at the feet of the master the little bouquet which, however humble, is yet their best. In this present generation there is no one who, by virtue either of ambition or of native genius, is as likely to make the heroines of Shakespeare live again for us.

The supporting company was quite surprisingly capable. Shelley Hull as Petruchio; Lynn Fontaine as Bianca and Nerissa; José Ruben as Romeo; Leonard Mudie as Bassanio, and O. P. Heggie as Shylock, all coped with their parts on fairly equal terms. First and last there is a great deal of nonsense talked about the disappearance of Shakespearean acting. The Shakespearean parts are always there, and they are the best in the world. Actors who have intelligence, as all these actors have, need only experience to interpret them adequately, beautifully.

CARTER SHOWS HIS TRICKS.

Magician Gives Legerdemain of Familiar Sort at the Belmont.

The erstwhile Norworth Theatre, being the house that Jack built in Forty-eighth Street, was reopened last night as the Belmont with an exhibition of legerdemain as the attraction. The performer was Charles J. Carter, an American magician, whose black art is said to be highly regarded abroad, but who has not revealed his wares in this part of the world in recent years.

Mr. Carter's illusions, for the most part, run the familiar gamut—handkerchiefs which fly from bottle to bottle, a card torn and put together again, valuable rings chopped to bits and then found safe within a nest of boxes, astral hands, bottles from which come any beverage desired, and later a guinea pig, card tricks, trunk tricks, and tricks of disappearance. There was also a lion trick, none too expertly performed, which had for its climax the disappearance of the lion.

The entertainment as a whole was rather suggestive of Town Hall at 7:30, and could not but inspire the thought that Mr. Carter would have done better to have remained in Europe. A city grown accustomed to Houdini and disappearing elephants is unlikely to marvel greatly at the Carter illusions.

Signs Bill to Bar Alien School Teachers.

ALBANY, April 5.—The Amos bill, providing that only citizens shall be allowed to teach in the public schools, was signed by Governor Whitman today. Teachers who are not citizens may continue in their positions on condition that they apply for naturalization within a year after the act becomes effective.

CITY BREVITIES.

A series of lectures on international and constitutional law will be given in the theatre of the Commerce Building, at Twenty-third Street and Lexington Avenue, beginning on April 11 at 8 P. M. Arthur K. Kuhn will deliver the first lecture on treaties; on May 8 and 15 Maurice Leon will talk on Alsace-Lorraine, and on May 22 Laurence Arnold Tanzer will lecture on "Local Government."

I. F. Ayusawa will talk on Japan at the meeting of the University Settlement Forum to be held at 184 Eldridge Street at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening.

MME. MATZENAUER SINGS.

Gives Our Anthem Amid Patriotic Decorations in Carnegie Hall.

Margaret Matzenauer, the Metropolitan contralto, paused half way in her recital at Carnegie Hall yesterday afternoon to sing a popular war song, "Dear Lad of Mine," and after it "The Star-Spangled Banner," to a big audience already interested in novel decoration of the hall with banners and posters of the national war savings campaign, and presently stirred by a speech from Mrs. Slade of the Women's Committee and by others who sold the war stamps during intermission in the hall. Mme. Matzenauer, who was in excellent voice, sang her entire program of songs in English, French, Italian, Russian, Norwegian, and after the patriotic interruption, many others in French and English again, including American composers, Marion Bauer, John Carpenter, and the accompanist, La Forge.

The versatile and statuesque contralto, after a season in French and Italian opera exclusively for the first time in her career, was mistress of the varied languages and styles in which she sang at this matinee. At a time when all things German and all persons formerly identified with the art of Teutonic peoples are affected by the war, she opened her house, so to speak, in wholehearted fashion to a patriotic cause. At the outer doors the audience saw color posters of Uncle Sam greeting a woman volunteer with the words "She's good enough for me," while inside were a dozen others bearing the legend "Joan of Arc saved France—Women of America, save your country." Over the stage was a huge battle picture of great guns and fighting men, inscribed, "These boys are giving their lives—will you lend your quarters?" The Benefit Committee sold a large sum in War Savings Stamps before the crowd left the hall.

MME. OBER, SINGER, WINS.

Court Upholds Her Right to Sue Metropolitan Opera Company.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court decided yesterday that Mme. Margaret Ober, the Metropolitan Opera mezzo-soprano, whose contract with the opera company for the present year was canceled when the Directors decided to give no German operas, may press to trial her suit against the Metropolitan company for $250,000 damages for breach of contract. Counsel for the opera company contended that Mme. Ober was an alien enemy, and as such her suit must be held in abeyance during the war.

The Appellate Division based its ruling on the fact that while it is against public policy for a resident subject of an enemy country to prosecute an action in our courts during the war, an entirely different question is presented when the plaintiff lives in this country. "In the case of a resident the right to maintain an action in our courts is clearly established, both in principle and by authoritative decisions," said the court. Justice Shearn, writing the decision, says that under the language of the President's proclamation Mme. Ober is not an alien enemy, but even if she were "she would be entitled under that proclamation to maintain a suit here so long as she was guilty of no misbehavior during her residence."

Mme. Ober is the wife of Arthur Rudolf Arndt, and lives at 840 West End Avenue with her husband and two-year-old child, William, born in the Adirondacks. Both Mme. Ober and her husband are subjects of the German Empire.

"Shanewis" and "L'Oracolo" Sung.

Cadman's American opera, "Shanewis," and Leoni's "L'Oracolo," American in scene, were performed at the Metropolitan last evening before a sold-out house, even without the ballet in Gilbert's "Dance in Place Congo," which had been announced and canceled owing to the illness of Rosina Galli. Miss Braslau for the third time sang and acted the Indian heroine of "Shanewis," with Mmes. Howard and Sundelius, Messrs. Althouse and Chalmers. The Chinese characters of "L'Oracolo" were for the fifth time in the hands of Miss Easton, Messrs. Scotti, Didur, Althouse, and others. Mme. Mattfeld was new as the nurse in the picture of San Francisco's Chinatown, and Mr. Moranzoni conducted the entire evening.

Yvette Guilbert Sings Songs of Poets

Yvette Guilbert gave the second of three farewell recitals at the Maxine Elliott Theatre yesterday afternoon, assisted on this occasion by Elizabeth Moffat and by Virginia Fox Brooks, a daughter of the late Joseph Brooks. The program included a talk in English on the works of Francis Jammes and also of Charles Peguy, the latter recently killed in the war. Mme. Guilbert sang songs of both poets, to music by Gustave Ferrari. Miss Moffat was heard in Jammes's "J'Allais à Lourdes," and Miss Brooks in Peguy's "Jesus, l'inspirateur de Jeanne d'Arc."

The Flonzaley Quartet Plays.

The Flonzaley Quartet gave the closing concert of the People's Symphony series last evening at Washington Irving High School, a wartime season, with the orchestra programs of former years replaced by twelve leading organizations in chamber music. The Flonzaleys played David Stanley Smith's manuscript quartet in A major, Op. 37, with that of Mozart in D major, and Dvorak's in F major, Op. 96, known as the "American Quartet."

Reinald Werrenrath in Concert.

Reinald Werrenrath, who may be the next American artist of distinction to go into grand opera, sang the "Pagliacci" prologue at his concert last evening in the Hall of Fame at New York University. The baritone, assisted by Harry Spier, gave his favorite old Italian and English airs, some modern French and American, including a cycle of "Chinese Mother Goose Rhymes," by Bainbridge Crist.

TWO HELD IN STOCK FRAUD.

Promoters of Film Concern Accused of False Financial Statements.

The District Attorney's investigation of stock promoters in the financial district resulted in the arrest yesterday of R. S. Davidson, a broker, at his home, Ninety-first Street and West End Avenue, on the charge of making a false financial statement concerning the stock of the Standard Film Industries Corporation.

Louis B. Jennings, President of the corporation, was brought here yesterday from New Orleans, where he had been arrested on a similar charge. They were held for trial in $25,000 bail each by Judge Mulqueen. Davidson was bailed out by a surety company and Jennings was sent to the Tombs.

Lord & Taylor Employes Begin Movement to Mobilize All "Behind the Front."

INSPIRED BY BORAH SPEECH

They Will Sell Bonds and Stamps, Visit Families of Men at Front, and Aid All Relief Organizations.

Two thousand employes of the firm of Lord & Taylor pledged themselves yesterday to devote a certain number of hours of their spare time to work of a nature which will contribute to America's fighting strength. They formed an organization to find for each person the employment in which he or she can help most efficiently. The organization was inspired largely by the recent speech in the Senate of Senator Borah, in which he said:

"This conflict is distinctly a war between nations. It is one people pitted against another. It calls for the resources and energies and the powers of the people as a whole. No man in this contest can be indifferent to the situation upon the theory that he is not geared up to some activity in connection with the war. It is incumbent upon us to see to it that we do not break down industrially and agriculturally, as much as it is to see that we do not fail to supply the proper men at the front in France."

The incidental duties of war-making which the organization outlined for members to spend their spare time in doing were outlined by S. W. Reyburn, President of Lord & Taylor's, at a meeting of the employes which took place yesterday afternoon when the store doors were closed an hour before the usual time. Patriotic speeches were made by W. Bourke Cockran, Private E. Starkhouse, a Canadian, who was wounded at Vimy Ridge; Sidney Storey and several others. Mr. Reyburn said:

"We are initiating this movement and we hope and expect that the idea will spread and the movement grow, until every loyal citizen of the United States is enrolled in this army of personal civilian service until every group of Americans, whether associated for business, religious or cultural purposes has been mustered as a company or regiment of this 'behind the front army' one hundred million strong. And this, we verily believe, the people of this land, by adding unit of service to unit of service, as bricks are laid in the building of a wall, can provide a platform of solid masonry on which our brave fighting men can find strong and sure footing till that day comes which we all know will come, when their arms shall have made the world safe for democracy. Among the practical ends to which we are consecrating ourselves are the following:

1. To aid and co-operate in the sale of Liberty bonds and to assume personal responsibility for the success of the next and for any Liberty Loans for which our Government may ask.
2. To aid and co-operate in the sale of War Savings and Thrift Stamps and to assume personal responsibility for the success of this form of Government support.
3. To aid the Red Cross, the Knights of Columbus, the Jewish War Relief, and the Y. M. C. A. by our giving and our personal service.
4. To aid the war work of every patriotic American organization without distinction of race or creed, by our giving and personal service.
5. To procure the records, by name, age, and unit of service, of all members of the Lord & Taylor organization now in the army, navy, Red Cross or other active war work.
6. To compile similar records of any members of the families of Lord & Taylor employes who are now with the colors or in war relief work on the other side.
7. To call for volunteers to visit the families of these soldiers, sailors, &c., and report the condition of their health and finances. Blank forms for distribution to these visitors will be placed in the hands of the store executives.
8. To render such aid as the report of the visitor shows to be necessary to any family of our soldiers or sailors.
9. To allow these volunteer visitors time, at certain intervals, to make their visits, which can also be made in part on Sundays.
10. To call for volunteers to write letters to our soldiers, sailors, &c.
11. To transmit copies of our records to the Paris office of Lord & Taylor, which will be asked to keep in touch with our soldiers, sailors, and others in Paris, and, through the Red Cross, to keep in touch with our men and women in service elsewhere in France.
12. To provide funds to buy gifts and comforts for our boys in service.
13. To "save hours" by each agreeing to devote so many hours weekly to the purposes of our organization.
14. To appoint a committee to study and analyze conditions here at home, changed by the war, so that they may be in a position to give helpful advice.
15. To dispel the fears of the timid regarding the outcome of this war and our future.
16. To be hopeful, cheerful, and fearless, no matter through what dark days we must pass before our ultimate victory brings peace to the world.
17. To ascertain, each of us, in what special personal way we are prepared to render aid more directly bearing on military undertakings.
18. To be ready, should the call come, to give our talent, whatever it may be, fully and freely and devotedly to our country and its cause, which is the cause of all humanity.
19. To affiliate with all others who are willing to join in our pledge of service in the work for which this organization is formed.
20. To render any and all other services which further study of conditions or the trend of events indicates to be useful or necessary.

Mr. Reyburn asserted that every man, woman, and child in America would be called upon to do more and harder work because of the withdrawal of young men from every occupation for the army and because of the demand for more men and women for agriculture and for war industries, a demand which could be supplied only by drawing them from other pursuits.

GIVE THOUSANDS TO AID "BATTALION OF LIFE"

Women's Hospitals Report Fund Up to $151,000, with Many Liberal Gifts.

Subscriptions for several thousand dollars were made at a mass meeting at Aeolian Hall last night for the "Battalion of Life," an organization of women physicians who will serve under the Red Cross abroad. Eight hundred of the four thousand women physicians in this country have volunteered for service, but supplies and funds have been lacking. Forty-five members of the Battalion have already taken up work among the wounded abroad and fifty others are ready to sail as soon as equipment and transportation can be arranged.

Dr. Rosalie S. Morton, who will command the new medical legion, spoke of the great need for women doctors to fill the gaps caused by the acute shortage of men surgeons in the Allied countries. Miss Helen Losavitch, daughter of a member of the Royal Serbian Mission to this country, told of her work at the beginning of the war. She was one of eight women who volunteered to nurse 1,200 wounded men, who were cared for by one surgeon.

Others who spoke were General Azgapetin, a Serbian, who served in the Russian Army Medical Division; Lieutenant Durant, French Consul; S. Stanwood Menken, President of the National Security League; Mgr. Lavelle, representing Cardinal Farley; M. Monceau of the French Official Mission, and John G. Agar.

Wall Street's Poppy Drive for the benefit of the American Women's Hospitals yesterday brought in $2,000. Mrs. Ledyard Stevens, Mrs. Edward Cross, and Dr. Emily Dunning Barringer spoke from the tailboards of the two ambulances, which have been presented to the women, and Miss Louise Homer sang "The Star-Spangled Banner."

The returns from Wall Street and the regular team work brought the fund up to $151,000, it was reported at the daily Biltmore luncheon yesterday. The teams turned in $14,025, and the Executive Committee additional contributions. Mrs. James N. Ross of Brooklyn, who assisted in the Wall Street drive, had a little drive of her own in the subway express on her way up to Forty-second Street. A hand of musicians on their way to play for the War Savings Stamp campaign was on the train, and she started an impromptu concert that brought $15.17 for the Women's Hospitals.

Among the larger gifts were: Members of India House, $6,000; J. J. Manwaring, $5,000; Felix Warburg, $3,000; Jacob H. Schiff, $2,000; Mrs. Emma Lewis, $1,500; Mrs. William Church Osborn, $1,000; Mrs. Mollman, $2,000; Charles A. Coffin, $2,500; William Mitchell, $1,000; Gilbert Colgate, $1,500; J. V. N. Door, $1,000; Gwathmey & Co., $1,000; Julius Goldman, $2,500, and Elizabeth Comstock, $1,000.

Mrs. Henry Clay Frick gave $500 to pay the expense of a hospital bed for one year in the name of her daughter, Helen, who is in active service in France; Mrs. S. G. Frankel gave $1,500 for an ambulance to be known as the "Frankel Ambulance in France," and seven gifts of $25 each were received for rolling chairs for hospitals.

Abbé Patric Flynn, the fighting chaplain of Verdun, addressed the women and told them he would go back to his boys in the trenches and tell them the women were coming. "They don't know yet that America is sending her women doctors to care for their poor wives and babies," he said. "I was at the side of my boys in the trenches at Verdun, and I know how troubled they were about their families and little ones."

ACT 'MACBETH' AT THE CORT

Walter Hampden and Helen Ware in a Tasteful Production.

The Shakespeare Playhouse continued its series of Shakespearian productions at the Cort Theatre yesterday afternoon with an artistically mounted and well-acted performance of "Macbeth," in which Walter Hampden and Helen Ware, players new to the rôles so far as New York is concerned, took the leading parts. These performances of the Shakespeare Playhouse are among the most tasteful Shakespearian productions which New York has been privileged to see. Gray curtains are used for "Macbeth," and by the use of only a few pieces on the stage an astonishing variety of scene is achieved. The curtains which suffice for the witches' cave later suggest, with only a slight rearrangement, the banquet hall. The method is a compromise with the Elizabethan, the only objections to which, and they are minor, being the waits of two or three minutes between scenes.

Performances in keeping with the production were given both by Mr. Hampden, as Macbeth, and Miss Ware, as Lady Macbeth. Miss Ware, in view of the fact that the performance marked her first Shakespearian rôle, probably was entitled to the greater credit; Mr. Hampden's Macbeth is well known in England. Howard Kyle was a rather declamatory Macduff, and others in the company included George Gaul, as Malcolm; Percival Vivian, as the porter, and C. Hooper Trask, as Duncan. The performance will be repeated at the Cort this morning.

Jewish War Refugees Leave Japan.

A cable message was received yesterday from Samuel Mason, representing the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society of America, in Yokohama, Japan, through Secretary of State Lansing, saying that more than 100 war refugees, women and children, accompanied by a special matron, have left Yokohama for Vancouver. They will be met by the representatives of the Seattle Branch of the society and sent to their relatives to whom they are destined in the United States.

NEW YORK, SATURDAY, APRIL 6, 1918.

THE THIRD LIBERTY LOAN.

Our ways with our war loans are not the ways of any other country. They are distinguishable in the first place from the ways of countries where the check system is little used. The result in Russia, Germany, and even in France, has been that they are deluged with floods of currency, unfunded loans which will long plague those countries. Our bitter lesson in that respect appears to have been taught and learned once for all. No one has ventured to suggest that we should print money to win this war. The comparison of our ways with the ways of England even increases our complacency. It used to be said that there were no American bankers of the first class. Now, at least, it can be said that we are not repeating the errors of English bankers in the flotation of our Liberty Loans. England began with the issue of 5 and 6 per cent. Exchequer bonds. There are nearly three billions of them, they clog the banks, and they begin to mature in 1919. There is a greater likeness of these short-term securities to currency than we like to associate with British practice. Our short-term issues are in anticipation of our loans, and they are retired almost as fast as they are put out. The loan offered today is for ten years, and few can think that it will be necessary to refund it before we are enjoying peace.

For the blessing of stability in our war finance we are indebted about equally to the wisdom of our bankers and the patriotism of our people. Our second loan was taken by almost one in ten of us. The organization has been so perfected, and the methods of approaching the people are so much better understood, that it will be a disappointment if this smaller loan is not distributed among a larger number of subscribers. Our largest popular vote for President was 18,538,248. Nineteen million bonds have been printed, and subscriptions against Kaiserism approaching that number would be the sort of referendum which the world would understand.

An appeal like that is not best made in the Wall Street manner. Decimals and yields are little talked of around the firesides which have sent the rising generation over there to make the world safe for liberty. The President has said that this is not a war for national profit. Neither is it a war for personal profit. The yield we want on these bonds is peace, and arithmetic will not show the rate of that yield. War talk is likely to be better "selling talk" than financial talk. The purpose of these bonds is to buy clothes, shoes, food, and fighting tools for our fighting men. To do that and get your money back, with safety for democracy, is all the argument these bonds need.

Nevertheless, there need be no shirking of the financial side of the investment. The shortness of the term reduces the prospect and the proportion of the discount on Liberty bonds which has perplexed so many. But the discount on the outstanding loans is an attraction to those who want more than the Treasury promises with the third bonds. The discount now existing would disappear with peace, and be replaced with a premium which would be smaller in the case of the short-term bonds, for the same reason that the discount would be smaller for the shorter term. The man who thinks most about the war cares little for such considerations. He is likely to prefer to buy from the Treasury rather than from the market, although it makes little difference how he gets his bonds. The man who buys in the market helps reduce the discount on the bonds outstanding. The man who takes his bonds from the Treasury helps the Treasury to end the conversion privilege, which becomes more objectionable with the total of the loans issued.

No one need fear taking too many bonds any more than he need fear having too much money in the savings bank. Where Government bonds are better appreciated than in the past they have been in the United States, it is thought hardly respectable not to be on the list of creditors of the Government. There are no heirlooms more popular than "Governments," and original issues direct from the Treasury to the holder have the same attraction as charter memberships in clubs or societies which are more revered as they grow more ancient. In a very few years the man, woman, or child who owns no Liberty bonds will be quiet about it, or explanatory. In cases where bonds are specially attractive it is customary to advertise that they are all gone, and the advertisement is published only as record. What a grand and glorious triumph it would be if the third Liberty Loan were closed long before the end of the month, with the explanation that there were not enough to go around!

A MESSAGE OF GOOD CHEER.

The end of the second week of the great and probably final German offensive brings the most cheering message that has come out of France since the British assault on Cambrai. It is from the new Generalissimo, FOCH, who saved the day at the Battle of the Marne, and now promises to save The Day, the great and final day. "All is going well," says General FOCH, surveying the field after the German assault of Thursday had been so badly broken that yesterday it could not be renewed on the Amiens front. "The great tidal wave of the "German Army has been broken on "the shore, evidently because it met "an obstacle. Now they are against "an embankment and completely "stopped. The future will show the "full measure of our success."

The German offensive was resumed on so wide a front and with such strong reinforcements that it would have been self-deception not to see that the German tactics meant nothing else than the splitting of the French and British armies in the south or the opening up of a gap in General HAIG's force broad enough for a drive straight at Amiens. In the north, between the Somme and the Luce, the British had to deal with a great concentration of men and guns, but the defense, while it had at first to yield some ground, proved to be too strong for the enemy, and in that quarter the second offensive failed.

In the south the French identified fifteen enemy divisions, seven of them fresh troops, and a stubborn and successful fight was made to save the railway from Clermont to Amiens. The Germans, attacking with a great force, cannot conceal from themselves the fact that they have suffered a stinging defeat.

The repulse of this second great assault will put the British and French in fine spirits. They hold a series of strong positions and are well supplied with ammunition, and, moreover, a reserve army under the command of the great French strategist.

In fact, it is not an unduly optimistic view that the beating back of the Germans Thursday with very heavy losses may leave the allied armies in a position to prepare for an offensive of their own. In that case the Germans would be in danger of a decisive defeat and rout.

SABOTAGE AND DISLOYALTY.

There are at present before Congress two highly important bills which are designed to give the Government really adequate weapons for dealing with enemy activities and the propaganda of pro-Germanism and disloyalty. Such instruments are not available at present; treason as defined by the fathers, still thinking in terms of the rebellion against the Stuarts, leaves out of account all but a little of the sort of work that has been and is being done by German agents and sympathizers in this country, and the present penalties of the Espionage bill are too light for the offenses.

But because the country wants workable laws care ought to be taken to see that the new measures do not fall between two stools, as one of them seems likely to do. The bill on which conference committees have just reached an agreement provides a penalty of thirty years' imprisonment and $10,000 fine for acts intended to injure or destroy war materials and utilities, among which are enumerated arms, munitions, live stock, clothing, food supplies, railroads, electric lines, canals, engines, machines, vehicles, vessels, dams, reservoirs, aqueducts, water and gas pipes, electric, telegraph, telephone, and wireless plants.

All of these are war materials or utilities as war is waged today. But this bill aims at results, and results in criminal cases have to be obtained through juries. Regarding the acts of a man who has set fire to a munitions plant there is not likely to be doubt; but if a man who has cut telephone wires, dumped a wagon load of wheat into a swamp, or tampered with the mechanical plant of a garment factory sets up the defense that he is a discharged employé actuated by personal malice, or a syndicalist performing the sacramental act of sabotage, a jury which is trying him for espionage will have to consider the question of motive. Motives in practice may have to be determined largely by past records, and the man who does this kind of work, whether for himself or for the Kaiser, is likely to have a record hard to get at.

Attention may be called also to the clause of the bill which legalizes strikes in war industries "when for "the bona fide purpose of obtaining "better wages or conditions of employ-"ment." Here the question of motive is written into the law. Fortunately, there are not many in this country who defend the morality of sabotage as an industrial weapon, but there are some; and convictions obtained over such a plea would be seized upon by our radicals, who are fighting their own war against the majority of the American people, as evidence that the capitalists were using the cover of patriotism for the suppression of industrial unrest. A law less likely to bring doubt and confusion to the juror's mind would produce more convictions.

Considerable opposition was aroused in the Senate by the other bill, which provides that > whoever, when the United States is at war, shall utter, publish, print or write any disloyal, profane, scurrilous, contemptuous or abusive language about the form of government of the United States, or the Constitution, or the soldiers or sailors of the United States, or the flag, or the uniform of the army or navy, or any language calculated to incite or inflame resistance to any Federal or State authority, or who shall by word or act favor the cause of Germany or her allies, shall be imprisoned for twenty years or fined $10,000, or both.

Here again the question of motive enters into the application of the law, but in this case the determination of motive is easier. For that reason there seems to be little point in Senator JOHNSON's declaration that "it is not "only a bill designed to suppress the "press of the nation and make it sub-"servient to those in power today, "but it is a bill that seeks to make one "refrain from discussion or criticism, "and even purports to prevent one "thinking as he wishes to think." It would not be difficult to determine whether a man thinks the things against which this bill is directed; you can tell what he thinks by what he says and does; and words and acts of the sort described are certainly not permissible while the United States is at war with Germany. The allegation of other motives than hostility to the Government in defense of such words and acts would not be easily sustained, and in most cases the recent behavior of the defendant would provide a measure for the accuracy of his allegation. Criticism of a department of the Government for errors or omissions in preparing for war would not expose its author to punishment under this bill.

THE COLLINSVILLE LYNCHING.

Speaking to the Muscogee Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday, ex-President TAFT declared that "those "who express treasonable sentiments "should be tried and punished" according to forms of law, and he added, with strong emphasis: "Mob vio-"lence, such as is practiced in certain "parts of the United States, should "be everywhere condemned, that the "United States may not sink to the "lawless savagery of the Germans." Within twenty-four hours a mob in Collinsville, a town of 4,500 people in Southern Illinois, elected to vie with the Germans in savagery by lynching one PRAGER, a registered enemy alien, after allowing him an opportunity to pray three minutes for his soul. Then his body was hauled ten feet into the air to the limb of a tree, and left hanging. The abhorrent deed is described as a manifestation of loyalty to the Government—at least that is the only palliation attempted.

A fouler wrong could hardly be done America, which, after protesting against German atrocities on land and sea, entered the war in the crusading spirit to save civilization. In the eyes of the enemy the lynching of a German subject in Illinois was a thing done in the name of America. We shall be denounced as a nation of odious hypocrites. This act will be distorted by organized rumor into a race war on helpless subjects of Germany. Propaganda, as conducted in that country, sticks at nothing. America came into the war with clean hands. They have been soiled by this evil deed of a few persons in Collinsville. The stain cannot be washed out unless the Governor and the officers of justice in Illinois seek out and punish the perpetrators. It must be done not only to vindicate the good name of America before the world but to stamp out lynching as a demonstration of patriotism.

They do things differently in the New England State of Vermont. There the Rev. CLARENCE H. WALDRON has been convicted of sedition, the indictment based upon public utterances urging young men not to register for the draft. WALDRON, a man of education, was sentenced to serve fifteen years in the Federal prison at Atlanta, and he has been taken there. But it would be futile to plead to our German accusers this instance of justice done under the law and in the case of an American.

TIME AND WOMAN.

Will the women voters of New York consent to be bound by the ungallant and, it may well be, unconstitutional view of the election law just set forth by Attorney General LEWIS? Must women who register for the local option elections of April 16 give their age definitely and correctly, or will it be enough for them to declare that they are "upward of 21"?

Certain election officials, whose courteous intention can't be lauded too highly, eager to avoid a superfluous, impertinent, and Chinese inquisition of the years of petticoated registrants, asked the Attorney General if the declaration, round and euphemious, of sufficient legal age wouldn't suffice. No, says Mr. LEWIS, heartlessly, no matter with what support from the frigid and formal statute, never meant for the gracious uses now coming to it. Not to give one's age correctly will be an evasion of the directions of the election law. Inspectors of Election mustn't register any person who refuses to state his or her age.

"His age" doesn't matter; but surely nobody but a verjuiced antifeminist will hold that any theory of equality of the sexes and their political rights or any solemn prosing can alter acts of the Legislature. The immutable and immemorial privileges of women, against whom no almanac can be drawn, are no less secure.

This privilege rests on ample grounds, not transcendental, a priori or of mere courtesy, but walled by precedent and protected by the instinctive feeling of the inferior and waning sex of "menfolks." Moreover, the Constitution of the United States forbids again and again the chronological impertinences of the election law. Ask a woman her exact age, make every Election Inspector repeat the favorite question of WU TING-FANG and LI HUNG-CHANG! Not much. Such pragmatical curiosity is a violation of the right of the people to be secure "against unreasonable searches." It exposes women voters to "cruel and unusual punishments." If we are not mistaken, in some more genial States, in Kansas, for example, women voters are not compelled to bring their birth certificates to the polls. Since "the citizens of each State "shall be entitled to all privileges "and immunities of citizens in the "several States," shall this privilege and immunity be denied in New York? And why plead the Constitution of the United States? It is more than enough to plead the Constitution of Women.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Hardly a Burning Question. When for a brief period Dr. GEORG MICHAELIS held the position of Imperial German Chancellor he was generally regarded as a person of the stop-gap order who would do whatever was wanted by the military and Junker classes. This theory of his character and quality hardly fits in with the news that just as he was starting from Berlin to assume the smaller, but not very small, post of President of Pomerania he made a speech which certainly cannot have pleased the Junkers or excited much enthusiasm among the war lords.

For he said, or at any rate is said to have said, that were he again in an office that authorized him to speak for the Government he would not ask the foes of Germany to indemnify her for her war losses. And the reasons he gave, or is said to have given, showed a sensitiveness to moral considerations that is almost as amazing in a Pomeranian as it would be in a Prussian. For the getting of indemnities, he declared, would throw the German people into "an abyss of materialism," and he considered it better that they should be poor, in order that they might learn to be "simple, sober, and economical."

Assuming that the speech was correctly reported, it is evident that Dr. MICHAELIS feels sure that Germany sooner or later will win the war, for only after that has been done will the question whether she should take indemnities from her present enemies become enough of an issue to demand an answer. Indemnities, as a matter of fact, are not asked for; they are taken in all cases except when a sinner of some sort or other has had a change of heart and wants to give practical proofs of repentance. The likelihood that the Allies will soon or ever be brought to that frame of mind—to confession, that is, of indebtedness to Germany for having resisted Germany's effort to take full charge of the world and run it in her own peculiar fashion—is so minute that the alternative of expected victory must in reason be accepted.

In the remarks of Dr. MICHAELIS, however, there is a curious implication—the implication that Germany was not benefited but injured by the indemnity she extorted from France after the war of 1870—an admission that hitherto has not come from a German source, though often from others.

A Case for Wise Evasions. As our Government is forbidden by law to receive gifts from anybody, Commissioner ROPER cannot be criticised for telling the Collectors in the Manhattan Internal Revenue districts that it is unlawful to accept on the Government's behalf money offered by persons who, though not liable under the income tax law, are yet desirous of contributing something toward meeting its present large need for money. Just the same, as there is no other reason than the existence of this law why, in existing circumstances, anybody who wants to serve or help his country in that particular way should not be allowed to do it as much as he pleases, one cannot but regret that the Commissioner did not show the ingenuity which not a few other high officials have displayed in "getting around" that estimable but somewhat inconvenient statute.

In Washington, and all over the country, for that matter, men who can afford it and have the inclination are doing for the Government valuable work for which the annual $1 they are to receive certainly is not "salary" or "compensation" in the plain and usual meaning of those words. So doing, the spirit of the law is violated, and even its letter is kept in a way that would be sternly condemned by any court that had to pass upon it. No court will be thus compelled, of course, and nobody cares, any more than anybody cares that the Navy Department is "paying" $1 apiece—or promising so to do, when it gets good and ready—for field glasses that are worth anywhere from $25 to $50 or more.

The motive for the law thus evaded was presumably to prevent the Government from ever being influenced in its actions by the receipt of presents from patriots expecting to receive in return benefits or advantages at least as valuable. That is all right in principle, but there are times when in practice the rigor of the law might well be mitigated in the exercise of a wise and honest discretion. Moreover, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue need not keep awake o' nights because of apprehension that people will be killed in a mad rush to pay taxes not demanded of them. The police reserves will never be called out to keep crowds of such taxpayers from interfering with other traffic.

Their Stern Object Achieved. As the men who are fighting so desperately to hold back the Germans on the road to Amiens and the sea find, according to the accounts of all observers, not infrequent reasons for laughter among themselves, those of us who only read the dispatches telling about their heroism and achievements can also be permitted to recognize the amusing features in the colossal combat. Among the episodes that have given what on the stage is called "comic relief," none has served the purpose better, perhaps, than that of the truck loaded with doughnuts and pies against which the deluded Germans for the better part of two days and nights kept up a fierce bombardment with heavy shells.

At last they succeeded in destroying it, thus illustrating anew a peculiarity of German efficiency that has been noted before with respect to more serious matters. They are efficient in doing, but strangely inefficient, often, in deciding what to do and in foreseeing the consequences when done.

In this case the cost of their mistake is only that of the ammunition they have wasted, and the amount hardly counts in the total expenditure now making. It is easy to imagine their solemn satisfaction in the accomplishment of their purpose—that of wrecking what they presumably supposed was a load of high explosives. And possibly they were not altogether wrong, in a way; for battlefield pies and doughnuts have large possibilities.

KERRIGAN'S OLD HOMESTEAD

Memories of a Passing Broadway Landmark.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your paper of March 28 you give a very interesting account of the old landmark at 1,641 Broadway, between Fiftieth and Fifty-first Streets. I like to read of the old landmarks and regret very much to see that they are fast disappearing.

Mr. Kerrigan, the proprietor of the Old Homestead, I know very well, having been introduced to him several years ago, when he was in the Assembly, by his close friend, Assemblyman Owen M. Kiernan of the Twenty-fourth Assembly District. To know John Kerrigan was a pleasure, he was such a fine character of the old school. Your friendship for him increased as your acquaintance lengthened.

I am pleased to see that you speak so highly of the respectable manner in which he conducted his business, in not serving ladies. Aye, and he went a step further—neither would he serve gentlemen when they showed a wild look in their eye. They were politely, but firmly, informed that no more "conversation glasses" would be served them.

RICHARD H. WALSH.

Palm Beach, March 31, 1918.

America and the Balkans.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Permit me to express the sentiments of warmest gratitude of 25,000 Epirotes in America for the bold editorial article in THE TIMES of Monday, April 1, on the Turkish atrocities and the decrepit policy of patience of waiting and pharisaic blandishments.

Why does not America raise her mighty protest against the Turks and against the Bulgars? Why does not a powerful America warn the Turks and the Huns of the Balkans that unless an end is put to crime, to persecution, abduction, and wholesale murders, America shall hold them strictly accountable, and that America shall voice the forfeiture by them of the rights of existing free and independent nations intrusted with the lives, honor, and properties of peoples of other races than those of their own?

Why does not America declare war against Turkey and Bulgaria? Have we not learned our lesson from the extreme indulgence of Great Britain in 1914 and 1915 with respect to the same two Balkan States? Had Great Britain been more determined and less forgiving the war might have been ended now, with victory for the Allies.

We cannot hearten our allies, Rumania, Serbia, and Greece, when we flatter their enemies and ours.

N. J. CASSOWITZ,
General Secretary Pan Epirotic Union in America.

New York, April 3, 1918.

The Reformed Suffrage Party.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As a somewhat interested observer of the idiosyncrasies of women in politics, the writer shared the amusement in noting the change of policy of the Woman Suffrage Party, which formally resolved to allow its members to join the real political parties the day after an "anti" cruelly exposed the former "nonpartisan" policy of holding the suffrage organization "intact" for campaign purposes. But, lest the hard-hearted "antis" take upon themselves too much credit for this reform of suffrage policy, I beg to cite the following paragraphs from The Call:

> The New York City Woman Suffrage Party has taken action which will permit every suffrage worker to accept positions in the Socialist, Democratic, or Republican Party—and maintain their full standing in the suffrage movement.
> The Socialists, who took such a prominent part in winning suffrage in this State, had given an ultimatum that so long as the suffrage movement remained nonpartisan their women would have to withdraw.

It now appears, for the further amusement of mere male cynics, that the suffrage leaders will have to explain whether the late reform was due to the "anti" criticism, or the Socialist "ultimatum" and threat to withdraw.

MERE MAN.

Washington, April 4, 1918.

America's Interest in Italy.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There are many points in connection with the presence of Italy in the war which have puzzled me. Wherever I go I see a happy combination of the flags of the United States, Great Britain, and France. Surely Italy is a factor of sufficient importance to have her national emblem included in the display. Thousands of loyal Italian citizens of the United States will be delighted to see their old flag associated with those of the countries by whose side they are fighting so valiantly. The malign influence of Germany in Italy was demonstrated too recently to make it necessary for me to go into details. The disaster which nearly placed Venice at the feet of her enemies is sufficient to show the strength of the Teuton propaganda.

Let us too have a bureau of information to teach our Italian allies the value of American friendship and let the first branch be opened in New York. Let us get to Italy, where German policies and German finance have cut to the heart of the Italian people and undermined their patriotism, their commerce, and their industries. Let us do something to expose the vileness of German methods, their utter selfishness and hypocrisy. We cannot do better than to establish some sort of propaganda at once and the Government should take charge of it.

FRENCH VIEW OF OUR PLANS

Delay Overlooked and Confidence in Our Preparations Expressed.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am inclosing a letter from a distinguished Frenchman to whom I had written, saying, among other things, that our war preparations were unfortunately proceeding slowly, and that in the meanwhile the valiant French and British armies must stand between horror and a return to primitive life and beauty and the preservation of the finest flower of civilization; and added that though we were slow in getting in motion, we hoped soon to be rapid and powerful in stroke.

ROBERT FERRARI.

New York, April 3, 1918.

[Inclosure.]

Whatever errors, if any, may have been committed by the United States in the period of organization, I persist in feeling unbounded admiration for them. They are the only true idealists in this war. All the other countries, France among them, were more or less drawn into it by the necessity of self-defense. You alone stepped in when you might, without immediate danger to yourselves, have stood aside or simply given comfort and assistance to the victims of the conflict. I don't think that any decision more free and generous than the one you took last year has ever been recorded in history.

Now, of course, being at a great distance, I look upon all the blunders and delays of your preparations, if any such have occurred, as trifling and perhaps inevitable things. They seem next to nothing when compared with the great results which you have already achieved—both from the military and from the economic points of view. I have heard of the hard sacrifices you are voluntarily undergoing in order to provide us Europeans with more food and fuel. These self-imposed restrictions are beyond all praise.

As to our state of mind, it is not very bright, nor can it be expected to be, since the Russian crack. It then seemed as if all our lights of hope had been put out at once, except for that very distant candle called American help. There is no exaggeration in saying that our only remaining prospect of victory rests in you. We trust we, together with the British, can protect our frontiers. But as to winning the war, it appears now more and more to be possible through you alone.

The Men in the Quartermaster Corps

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It was with great interest that I read in this morning's TIMES John Kendrick Bangs's defense of the Quartermaster Corps of the United States Army. No one knows better than the families of the men in the Q. M. C. what it means to these men to be assigned to office work instead of being sent "over there." As the wife of a Lieutenant in the Q. M. C., let me add my defense of the men who, as Mr. Bangs says, have given up their own business, gone through training camps and come out physically and mentally "fit" for "over there" and are now doing office work which is uninteresting and foreign to them.

What interest can a lawyer take in selling socks or inspecting warehouses? It is far harder to do that sort of thing uncomplainingly than to seek for glory on the battlefield, where the inspiration to great deeds of valor comes so frequently. Does it not take courage for a man to work day after day, often Sundays included, at tasks which are irksome and for which a promising career has been given up and then be called a "slacker" merely because the Government has seen fit to put him in the Q. M. C.?

Were it not for the Q. M. C. not a man in the army would be provided with food, clothing, or supplies. Let those who call the men in the Q. M. C. "slackers" give us some example of their glorious deeds in support of Uncle Sam's army and we will be glad to listen to them.

An Experiment in Americanization.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

An experiment is being tried in the evening schools of the city as the result of the insistent demands from the public—an experiment the success of which depends upon the response from the people themselves. Evening School 40, 320 East Twentieth Street, is one of the few schools where the experiment will be tried, mainly because of its active community interests. Since it is the only evening school covering the extensive district from Eighth to Thirty-fourth Street we expect to interest many of the students who attended other evening schools during the Winter session. We socialize and educate; in other words, Americanize, teach English to foreigners, give lectures, concerts, free use of the gymnasium, dances, and have a glee club and a school orchestra. Any legitimate request on the part of our pupils for group activity is immediately organized.

Director of Community Work.

WAIT NO MORE, AMERICA!

AN ANNIVERSARY ODE.

O land of proud, unfettered soul,
Whose questing vision sought the skies
As through the far empyrean flies
Thy native eagle—whose high goal
Was e'er through thought and word and deed
To give far wings to Freedom's creed—

Was this, America, said of thee?
Or ceased its truth, once being said?
Is that untrammeled spirit dead—
Can weak apostasy now be?
Has Mammon dulled thy righteous steel,
Or alien cowards cooled thy zeal?

Nay, nay, not thus! 'Tis but unused,
Thy tolerant mood to anger's heat;
Unwonted still thy careless feet
To tread war's wine-press; still confused
Thy trustful soul by treacherous tongue—
By sword in scales of Justice flung!

Steel thee, America! Thine hour
Of purging trial is at hand;
The gates of anguish open stand,
And Death's grim portals near thee tower!
But not for thee disaster's ill,
Let thou doubt's cerements but fall!

What if hid traitors plot and lie,
Or piteous cowards cringe and whine?
Is not stern retribution thine
And whips of scorn on these to ply?
As part of thy new priesthood's price,
That were but meagre sacrifice!

Up to thy highest potent self
In faith and works thou now must rise;
Uncompromising, must thine eyes
Beyond all paltry power and pelf
Bend steadfast through thy private pain
On all the centuries' menaced gain!

As erstwhile others, thy stern lips
Through suffering cry the spoiler's doom;
In vain his haughty blood shall fume
As thou and they spell his eclipse;
Thou'lt stoic smile through all thy throes,
When Freedom thus to new birth goes!

Zealot once more of lofty soul
At Liberty's new altars now
Repeat the olden Templar's vow!
The cataclysmic thunders roll—
Thou too must with thy fathers' might
For Life's imperiled sanctities smite!

HERMAN MONTAGU DONNER.

DAVISON TO VISIT DIAZ.

Will View Italian Front and Also Visit Venice.

ROME, April 5.—Cardinal Gasparri, Papal Secretary of State, today received Henry P. Davison, Chairman of the American Red Cross War Council, and congratulated him on the splendid development of the organization and the magnificent charitable work it was accomplishing everywhere.

Mr. Davison also talked with Archbishop Bonaventura Ceretti, Assistant Papal Secretary of State, who praised the response of the American people to the appeal for help from the belligerent populations.

Henry P. Davison, Chairman of the American Red Cross War Council, was received yesterday by General Zupelli, the Minister of War. Ambassador Page accompanied Mr. Davison in his call upon the Minister, who put himself at the disposal of the Red Cross representative for any facilities that might be required to enable him to fulfill his mission to Italy.

Plans have been made for Mr. Davison and Ivy Lee, also of the American Red Cross, who accompanied Mr. Davison to Italy, to visit the Italian front. They are expected to leave for the front Sunday night, accompanied by Robert P. Perkins, Red Cross Commissioner in Italy. The party will be received by General Diaz and will inspect both the Piave and mountain fronts, afterward going to Venice, where notable work is being done by the American Red Cross.

On returning to Rome Chairman Davison will set out again for visits to Bologna and the Adriatic Coast as far as the Ancona-Rimini district, where numbers of refugees are being assisted by the American Red Cross. He will afterward visit Naples and Sicily, and then proceed to Milan and on to Switzerland.

TO AID 50,000 CHILDREN.

Red Cross Will Care for French Infants During the Summer

PARIS, April 5.—The American Red Cross is making arrangements in coöperation with a committee of Parisians to send 50,000 children of this city to a provincial centre, where they will be cared for during the Summer school vacation.

The American Red Cross has just performed another record feat by preparing and shipping to a town behind the French front a tent hospital of 500 beds within twelve hours after receiving a request from the French Government. The hospital was needed to take care of patients suffering from fractured limbs who were being removed from a hospital in Eastern France menaced by German air raids.

The equipment supplied by the Red Cross consisted of twenty-five tents, 20 by 60 feet, and each containing twenty beds. Each tent has an inner and outer wall with an air chamber between so that it can be adapted to either cold or warm weather. When set up such a hospital covers an area about the size of a football field. The equipment weighs twenty-two tons.

$6,200 FOR OLD TAPESTRIES.

Two Aubussons Bring Highest Prices at American Galleries Sale.

Two fine old Aubusson tapestries brought the highest prices at the concluding sale of the furnishings, &c., of a New York mansion at the American Art Galleries yesterday afternoon, going to J. K. Johns for $6,200. These were eighteenth century, each with a Watteau medallion in the centre and without a narrow scroll border and festoons of roses and other flowers. They were in reds, browns, pinks, and yellows, the medallion of one showing a court lady and courtier, in a pastoral scene, under a tree and the other a mother and child with pet lamb and dogs. The first topestry was 6 feet by 8 feet 7 and the second 7 feet by 5 feet 10.

A sixteenth century Renaissance tapestry, somewhat larger, the scene showing a forest, a group of farm houses, the lord and lady of a manor, hunters, dogs, and game, in low toned, harmonious colors, went to A. Kimble & Son for $2,500. A petit-point tapestry screen, with floral branches, birds, and butterflies, done in silk and wool, the screen having a 9 foot 3 inch stretch, went to a buyer giving the name of Farr for $2,000. An oblong figure tapestry, Aubusson of the eighteenth century, showing a game of blind man's buff, went to Emil Pares for $1,625.

An old Queen Anne carved walnut, two chair settee, eagles' necks and heads forming the curving sides of the chairs, went to J. J. Fox for $400. An old Chippendale mahogany semicircular commode went to J. Robinson for $280, and an old satinwood inlaid secretary to W. E. Benjamin also for $280. Bernet, agent, paid $600 for a pair of bronze torchères and $300 for an old Chippendale carved mahogany settee. A pair of Irish Chippendale masked console tables went to P. W. Allen for $360, and H. Brenmer paid $400 for an old carved mahogany four post bedstead.

The returns for the afternoon were $30,360, making a grand total for the lot of 289 pieces of $36,941.

DEBT INCREASED 30 TIMES.

Bernhard Predicts Germany Will Owe 150,000,000,000 Marks.

AMSTERDAM, March 23.—Germany's debt after the war will be thirty times what it was at the beginning, Georg Bernhard, editor of the Vossische Zeitung, declared in a recent lecture in Berlin in connection with the campaign for the eighth German war loan. The editor's speech was hardly calculated to afford his hearers much cause for rejoicing. He said that at the end of the war Germany probably would be faced with a debt of 150,000,000,000 marks, as against 5,000,000,000 before the war.

Bernhard said that 14,000,000,000 marks would have to be provided annually after the war through taxation. He estimated the Empire's national wealth at 400,000,000,000 marks, a large part of which is State and communal property. He did not favor a single levy on capital, and said small capital should not be taxed too hard. This, he declared, would mean that the larger fortunes would have to pay as high as 50 per cent., which he thought was not a safe tax from an economic viewpoint.

The latest inducement to subscribe to the war loan is a device by which a man may mortgage his prospective savings for the next ten years by means of a special insurance policy.

LENROOT TO BACK WILSON.

Senator-Elect Pledged to Support Him in War Measures.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 5.—United State Senator-elect Lenroot said in a statement today that he would support President Wilson in the Senate as he did in the House in all measures helpful in the prosecution of the war. He said that Victor L. Berger, the Socialist candidate, received too many votes, and that the campaign of patriotic education must go on.

"But the combined loyalty vote demonstrates beyond all question the loyalty of Wisconsin as a State," he said. "I hope all Republicans and Democrats will work again together shoulder to shoulder and make the third Liberty Loan campaign the most successful of any we have had."

Mr. Lenroot will make two Liberty bond speeches and will return to Washington next week.

KING'S GREETINGS TO COMMERCE BODY

Message of Congratulation is Read at Chamber's Celebration of 150th Anniversary.

TWO GOVERNORS SPEAK

Whitman and Edge Felicitate Mercantile Leaders—President Butler Sees Fixation of War Purpose.

The 150th anniversary of the founding of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, on April 5, 1768, was observed at a commemorative meeting held in the hall of the Chamber, 65 Liberty Street, yesterday afternoon. Nearly 800 members of the Chamber and guests attended. Addresses were made by Governor Whitman, Governor Edge of New Jersey, President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University, and President Outerbridge of the Chamber of Commerce.

A warlike note predominated throughout the meeting, which in itself was substituted, by resolution of the Chamber a month ago, for a dinner which had been originally planned, because of the feeling that at this time rejoicing would be out of place. Each of the speakers, in turn, alluded to the war and to united effort for victory as the great need of the hour. A cable dispatch of congratulation, sent in person by King George V. of Great Britain, in reply to a message from President Outerbridge, was read to the meeting. Here is President Outerbridge's message to King George:

> The Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, which was founded April 5, 1768, and to which King George III. was graciously moved to grant a royal charter, and which is to celebrate its 150th anniversary by a special meeting of its members at noon April 5, expresses to your Majesty its grateful acknowledgement of the debt which the Chamber owes to those sturdy and courageous pioneers whose foresight, wisdom, and courage left an ineffaceable mark on our citizenship, and tenders to your Majesty our profound admiration of the heroic courage and steadfast determination of the armies, navies, and peoples of the British Empire and of their devotion to the cause of justice and freedom, in which, together with all the allies, our nation is now heartily joined, pledging the full measure of its man-power and resources. The Chamber respectfully extends to your Majesty its heartfelt wishes for your continued health and for complete victory of the allied arms in the great struggle for civilization. I have the honor to be,
> Your obedient servant,
> E. H. OUTERBRIDGE.

King George replied by the following personal message:

> It has afforded me great pleasure to receive the message you have addressed to me in the name of the Chamber of Commerce of New York, which I most warmly congratulate on celebration of its one hundred and fiftieth anniversary. I recall with special and personal interest the historical associations of your Chamber of Commerce with my illustrious ancestor. I rejoice to think that America's sons, who are today coming forward to join in the world struggle for the triumph of justice and freedom, are imbued with that self-same spirit which animated those sturdy and courageous pioneers to whom you pay so generous a tribute.
> The vast resources of life, treasure, and industry that your great nation has pledged in the cause of civilization must assuredly lead us to prevail against our enemies. Your words of admiration and of encouragement to the fighting forces and peoples of the British Empire will find a worthy response within our hearts. In their name and on my own behalf, I sincerely thank you.
> GEORGE, R. I.

Reviews Chamber's History.

Governor Whitman, the first speaker, reviewed the history of the chamber, with especial reference to the part played by its charter members and its first President, John Cruger, Mayor of New York, in the Revolution, and in the agitation before the Revolution, against the Stamp act. He spoke in terms of eulogy of the part played by the chamber in the growth and development of the city.

Governor Whitman concluded by reading, as applied directly to the present day, the words of the then President Port of the Chamber of Commerce at the meeting at which the news was received that Fort Sumter had been fired on:

"Our flag has been fired on. There can be no such thing as neutrality now. We are either for our country, or we are for its enemies."

Governor Edge of New Jersey, who devoted his speech largely to a consideration of the various measures in process of formulation for better intercommunication between New York and New Jersey, said:

"We need only point back to last Winter, with hundreds of cars of coal on the Jersey side consigned to New York, with conditions as regards fuel with which you are as familiar as I, to realize that with all our 150 years of progress we are still depending upon an antiquated and inefficient type of transportation between these two great States, and to realize what this means to our war efficiency.

"We believe that New York and New Jersey, in this partnership, have a great responsibility in addition to our own perhaps semi-selfish aims. This is the natural centre, when this war is over, of the civilized world, industrially speaking, and we must make the Port of New York worthy of its post."

Address by President Butler.

Dr. Butler began his address by drawing a historical parallel between the history of the Chamber of Commerce and that of Columbia University. "When this company of sturdy merchants met yonder in Fraunces' Tavern to organize this chamber," he said, "Kings College, out of which Columbia was to grow, was already fourteen years old. Together the college and the chamber have grown and developed as parts of the life of New York, as leaders in the life of New York, and as representatives of the life of New York, for 150 years.

"When this building was planned, and your artists and architects selected three typical representatives of New York, three leaders of opinion and action in its public policies and its public life, to stand over your portals, they selected Alexander Hamilton of the Class of 1774, John Jay of the Class of 1764, and De Witt Clinton of the Class of 1786.

"But one is indisposed, even at this hour of retrospect, to permit the mind to dwell exclusively or even mainly upon these historic incidences, for these things which make commerce possible, and those things upon which public life depends, are at stake in the mortal contest, which, as we sit in this room, is approaching, perhaps, its dreadful climax. As we sit in this hall, the guns of the enemy are trained upon the capital of France. What, gentlemen, must be our one consuming feeling, our one dominating thought at a moment like this?

"Commerce and trade also are at stake, for without order, without adequate transportation, without freedom of intercourse and exchange, without international security, commerce and trade are impossible, and each one of those foundations is at risk as the enemy marches upon us. But do not the American people remember that there was a Yorktown as well as a Valley Forge, and do they not remember that there was an Appomattox as well as a Bull Run?

"You might as well argue with a steam hammer as argue with the controlling Prussian oligarchy. But we have learned the lessons of history; our people have thought and pondered on these things; they have been patient; they have been, almost, overgenerous; but now their jaws are set; they recognize the meaning of the enemy within and they know the enemy without."

Among the guests at the celebration were Elihu Root, the President of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, the President of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce, the Vice President of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, the President of the Merchants' Association, and others.

WOULD DRAFT GIRLS TO ACT AS NURSES

Hospital Superintendent Suggests Drastic Plan to the Charities Commissioner.

SUFFRAGISTS FAVOR IT

But Leaders Believe That Women Readily Would Answer Calls for Volunteers in War Crisis.

Suffrage leaders in this city welcomed last night a proposal made by Louis J. Frank, Superintendent of the Beth Israel Hospital, to draft women to relieve the shortage of nurses. All said that women's obligations of service to the country in a crisis were as great as those imposed upon men, but they thought that the response of women to a call for volunteer nurses would exceed the numbers needed.

In a letter to Bird S. Coler, Commissioner of Charities, Mr. Frank suggested that women be drafted primarily to take the places here of the nurses who had responded in great numbers to the calls for volunteers in the military hospitals abroad, but he also proposed that these drafted women nurses should be sent to the military hospitals. His letter has been sent to Representative Isaac Siegel with the request that a selective draft law for women be passed by Congress. His letters says in part:

"The rights and privileges of the women are equal to those of the men in all respects. The women should be called upon to make sacrifices which in the end will inure to their personal benefit, besides rendering a patriotic duty to the country.

Sees Benefits in the Training.

"After our girls have taken the course in a training school for nurses and have served their two years, they will be better fitted to perform their duties as mothers, and I unhesitatingly state that infant mortality will be considerably reduced if the mothers have a practical knowledge of nursing. They will secure knowledge of a vocation that will assure them a livelihood in case of necessity.

"Many objections may present themselves to a procedure of this kind; the mothers might plead that having given up their sons their daughters should be permitted to stay with them; that they should not be deprived of their companionship so necessary in these trying times. But we are confronted with a serious situation and apparent unpleasant means must be employed to meet it."

Although Mr. Frank mentioned that his hospital had been seriously affected by the shortage of nurses, Charles H. Johnson, Secretary of the State Board of Charities, in discussing the proposal said that he thought the drafting of women as nurses would be a drastic measure. A. S. Downing, assistant to the State Commissioner for Higher Education, expressed a favorable opinion of the proposal.

Charles H. Grimshaw, Superintendent of the Roosevelt Hospital, whose letter to Dr. G. D. Stewart, Acting President of the Academy of Medicine, calling attention to the seriousness of the shortage of nurses and urging immediate remedies, was printed in THE TIMES on Thursday, is in favor of any step that will relieve the shortage and provide the needed number of nurses for the military and civilian hospitals. He described the shortage as extremely serious and suggested a reduction of the training period from three to two years and an overcoming of prejudices in the nursing division of the Red Cross.

Approved by Miss Hay.

Miss Mary Garrett Hay, Chairman of the New York City Woman Suffrage Party, said last night that she was in favor of drafting women for nursing service if they failed to volunteer in numbers sufficient to fill the estimated needs of the Red Cross for the first year, which is 35,000 nurses.

"I do think, however, it will not be necessary," she declared, "to draft American women for war service if a proper call for volunteers is sent to them, and if the proper agencies represent to them that their services are needed in the military hospitals. I have great faith in the American woman, and I am sure she would not shirk her duty to the country.

"Most women are engaged in some sort of war work now, and I think if some agencies made it less difficult for women to enter the service, if they made a proper call so that women could volunteer for service near their homes, without traveling long distances or making great efforts to find places to serve, no draft of women would be necessary, because they would volunteer in great numbers. But if they will not enlist they ought to be drafted, because a woman's obligations of citizenship are as great as those of a man."

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, President of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, could not be reached last night, but it was learned that her opinion upon the obligations of women to the country in a crisis was similar to that expressed by Miss Hay.

Miss Katharine Bement Davis, former Parole Commissioner and a Trustee of Vassar College aiding in the establishment of the Vassar Training Camp for 1,000 war nurses this Summer, said that she did not think a draft would be necessary to enroll sufficient numbers of women for the nursing service. She added that she was in favor of the law if voluntary enlistment failed. Miss Davis said that any draft law would have to be "specially selective" to get the women fitted by temperament and experience for work as nurses. She told of the plans for the Vassar Nurses' Training Camp, and said that the college graduates eligible for the camp were responding in great numbers. Mrs. John Wood Blodgett, the Chairman of the Vassar Committee aiding in arrangements for the camp, is seeking volunteers in the colleges, and the committee members believe they will have large numbers of volunteers for other camps.

Mrs. Harriot Stanton Blatch, Chairman of the Committee on Military Rank for Nurses and a director in the Woman's Land Army, said that it was an excellent idea to draft women for the nursing service.

"But I think we must give them military rank and adequate pay for their services," she added. "We must not draft them into subserviency. I think great numbers of women would respond to a call for volunteers, but I am in favor of a draft if it is necessary."

LIEUT. LITTLEFIELD MARRIES

Weds Miss Polly P. Damon at Her Home, in Newton, Mass.

The wedding of Miss Polly Pastorius Damon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph N. Damon of Newton, Mass., to Lieutenant W. Joseph Littlefield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Littlefield of 73 West Twelfth Street, took place at 7:30 o'clock last night at the home of the bride's parents in Newton. The Rev. Dr. Kirsopp Lake, a Radcliffe professor, performed the ceremony in the presence of a few relatives and friends.

The bride, whose father gave her in marriage, was attended by her sister, Mrs. Walter R. Nelles of this city, who acted as matron of honor. Miss Blanche Cutrer of Clarksdale, Miss., was the bridesmaid. Owing to the inability of Lieutenant Henry Littlefield of the Aviation Corps, to come on from the West, Leon Jeanneret of Bayonne, N. J., acted as best man in his place. The ushers were Major Atilio Caccini, U. S. A.; John Cronin of Washington, D. C.; Neil O'Hara of Cambridge, Mass.; Paolo Mario de Dominicis of New York, and S. Foster Damon, brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony a large reception was held. Lieutenant Littlefield, who is in the Ordnance Department, was unable to get a long leave, so he and his bride left at once for Washington, D. C., where they will live.

LIEUT. HIGGINS EXONERATED

Appellate Division Reverses Sentence of Dishonorable Discharge.

The Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn yesterday reversed the findings of the court-martial which sat in the case of Thaddeus Higgins, a Lieutenant in the 69th Regiment, National Guard, and automatically revoked the sentence of dishonorable discharge. Since the dismissal of Lieutenant Higgins the 69th Regiment has gone to France as the 165th Regiment with the Rainbow Division.

The court-martial tried Lieutenant Higgins in March, 1916, on two charges that he failed to carry out an order that he make up a muster roll of his company and that he conducted himself in a manner unbecoming an officer and a gentleman in knowingly making false charges that Colonel Louis D. Conley, then commanding the regiment, had threatened that unless he resigned he would be forced from the organization. The court-martial found him guilty on the first charge and sentenced him to dishonorable dismissal.

MISS PORTER BETROTHED.

Junior League Member and War Nurse to Wed Capt. H. E. B. Pardee.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Hobart Porter of 405 Park Avenue and Lawrence, L. I., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Dwight Porter, to Captain Harold E. B. Pardee, Medical Reserve Corps, son of the late Dr. Ensign B. Pardee and Mrs. Pardee of 74 West Forty-eighth Street and Lawrence, L. I.

Miss Porter is a member of the Junior League. She recently returned from France, where she worked in the American Ambulance Hospital at Neuilly, and afterward she nursed in a French field hospital at Cugny, near Ham, for which she had raised money to purchase and support a barracks kitchen.

Captain Pardee is a graduate of Columbia University and the College of Physicians and Surgeons, and is connected with the New York Hospital and Cornell Medical College. He is at present stationed at the base hospital at Camp Grant, Rockford, Ill., as cardiac specialist.

ZOLTAN DE HORVATH TO WED

Miss Cecile Ayres Bride-to-be of Well-Known Amateur Pianist.

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Cecile Ayres, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Edmond Ayres of Philadelphia, to Zoltan de Horvath, formerly of this city and now also a resident of Philadelphia. The ceremony will take place on April 20 at the Upland Baptist Church, Upland, Penn.

Mr. de Horvath, while a technical chemist by profession, is well known in New York and Philadelphia musical circles as a pianist of merit.

Bailey-Reynolds Engagement.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Eddy Bailey of 960 Park Avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Jeannette Fenton Bailey, to William R. Reynolds, Jr., of the 306th Machine Gun Battalion, Company A, stationed at Camp Upton. Mr. Reynolds is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Reynolds of Jamestown, N. Y., and was graduated from Dartmouth, class of '15.

Today's Weddings.

An interesting group of weddings have been announced for today.

Miss Marion W. Vanderhoef, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. Wyckoff Vanderhoef, and Harry Franklin Morse are to be married at 4 o'clock in St. Thomas's Church.

In Grace Church this afternoon Miss Irena Turnure, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Turnure, will become the bride of Rudolph H. Kissel, Jr., Assistant Paymaster, U. S. N., R. F.

The marriage of Miss Maud L. O'Brien, the daughter of former Justice Morgan J. O'Brien and Mrs. O'Brien, and Lieutenant Pierce H. Butler will be celebrated this morning in the Church of St. Vincent Ferrer.

Miss Alice Baldwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Baldwin of 405 Park Avenue, and Ensign Francis W. Murray, Jr., U. S. N. R., are to be married in the Cathedral of the Incarnation, Garden City, L. I.

In the Church of the Ascension, Miss Margaret Reeve, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney A. Reeve, is to marry Robert Nelson Kenyon, with a small wedding breakfast afterward at the Hotel Brevoort. Miss Reeve is a student of art.

JEWISH FUND IS GROWING.

Brooklyn Federation of Charities Sees $500,000 Goal Within Reach.

Many contributions to the $500,000 fund of the Brooklyn Federation of Jewish Charities were reported yesterday. The drive of the federation, which is to enable the society to continue in its support of numerous Jewish charitable institutions in Brooklyn, is confidently expected to be a success. Meetings were held in all parts of Brooklyn, in halls and synagogues. It was said that the entire Borough of Brooklyn was enthusiastically responding to the appeals of the team captains. In Williamsburg a meeting was held at the Beth Moses Hospital, at which Isaac Levin, the leader of that district, said that he was confident that the quota for Williamsburg of $30,000 would be obtained.

Among the team Captains who reported contributions were Morris Robinson with $2,000 and A. Lamberg with $500. Subscriptions were reported by A. H. Schwartz to the amount of $285; by Schlein & Opolinsky, $500; L. Nevins, $150; David Finkelbrand, $135; A. M. Phillips, $100, and Nathan Lewis, $265. Parades will be held in Bath Beach and Borough Park to stimulate contributions, and 3,000 children, organized by the Jewish Youth of America, will seek subscriptions.

CABINET DISCUSSES PRAGER'S LYNCHING

Holds Congress at Fault for Failing to Pass Pending Bills Against Sedition.

NO FEDERAL INTERFERENCE

German at Collinsville, Ill., Avowed Loyalty, It Is Said—Tried to Enlist in Navy.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The lynching of Robert P. Praeger at Collinsville, Ill., for alleged pro-German utterances and activities caused considerable concern among Federal officials in Washington and was the subject of discussion at the regular meeting of the Cabinet this afternoon. From what was said after the meeting it was apparent that the President and his advisers decided that the Federal Government had no warrant for interference.

After the Cabinet meeting Attorney General Gregory said that the Federal Government would be obliged to let the State of Illinois handle the case. The Department of Justice, it was indicated, probably would send some of its agents in the State to investigate, but this was as far as the Government could go.

Members of the Cabinet said that while the lynching was to be deplored the fact remained that the slowness of Congress in enacting pending legislation dealing with enemy aliens was in a measure responsible for such occurrences. One Cabinet officer said that if Congress would not enact the necessary laws similar attacks on enemy aliens would happen. Officials believe that other outbreaks against Germans are likely.

The lynching of Praeger is regarded here as an instance of an aroused feeling among the American people since the beginning of the German offensive in Picardy. This feeling is observed in occurrences all over the country.

INVESTIGATION WAITS ON INQUEST MONDAY

County and State Officials Ready to Press for Prosecution of Lynchers.

COLLINSVILLE, Ill., April 5.—Formal investigation of the death of Robert P. Prager, who was hanged last night by a mob which accused him of disloyalty, will not be made until next Monday, when Roy A. Lowe, Coroner of Madison County, will hold an inquest over the body. No arrests have been made by county officials, who spent the day in investigation, and none is anticipated until after the inquest Monday, according to Coroner Lowe.

Chief of Police Staten of Collinsville declared today that the identity of a number of members of the mob was known, but that the local police would not attempt to make arrests because the crime was committed outside the city limits.

Representatives of the State Attorney General and the Adjutant General will be present at the inquest prepared to carry forward any measures deemed necessary to apprehend those who participated in the hanging.

Mayor J. H. Siegel of Collinsville declared he would launch no investigation, but that he stood ready to co-operate with State and county officials. In a statement tonight he asserted he had telegraphed today to Senator Overman, Chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, urging the immediate passage of the law imposing a severe penalty on disloyalty. It was his opinion, he said, that the violence of last night was the result of neglect by the Federal Government to furnish this penalty.

"We arrested a man charged with disloyalty last Sunday," he declared, "but because of insufficient evidence under the present law we were unable to hold him. The crowd last night evidently believed that another disloyalist was about to escape and took the matter in their own hands. This deplorable act merely emphasizes the necessity for a drastic law to apply in such cases."

So far as could be learned tonight the action of the mob was precipitous and no person has stated concrete instances of disloyalty by Prager. He registered as an enemy alien in St. Louis on June 27, 1917, giving his occupation as a baker. He registered for the army draft on June 5, 1917.

The mob idea had its inception, it was said tonight, in a saloon on the outskirts of the city, where miners from Maryville and Collinsville gathered. Many of the men were foreigners, who understood little English, and it is believed the remarks of Prager were magnified.

Rumors that quantities of powder had been hoarded in a mine by Prager and that in his home were found numerous incriminating maps also were denied tonight by the authorities.

Prager was unmarried and so far as is known has no relatives in this country. He was born in Dresden, Germany, and came to the United States in 1905. Before the rope was placed about his neck Prager wrote the following note in German:

Dear Parents: Carl Henry Prager, Dresden, Germany: I must on this, the 4th day of April, 1918, die. Please pray for me, my dear parents. This is my last letter and testament.

Your dear son and brother,
ROBERT PAUL PRAGER.

In Prager's pocket was found a long "proclamation," in which he stated his loyalty to the United States and to union labor, and told of his difficulty in entering the miners' union. Prager yesterday afternoon put up posters at the Maryville mine, proclaiming his loyalty to the Government. When the miners left the workings they were incensed by the proclamations and began to hunt Prager.

ST. LOUIS, April 5.—Robert Prager, who was lynched at Collinsville last night, in April, 1917, caused the arrest and internment of John Pohl, who boarded at the same house as Prager. Pohl was arrested on a disloyalty charge. Soon after the United States entered the war Prager, then a baker in St. Louis, got a permit to enter all barred zones to seek employment.

Charles Otto, with whom Prager boarded, said today that Prager, though a radical Socialist, declared when this country entered the war that "he was all for the United States." Last Summer, Otto said, Prager attempted to enlist in the United States Navy, but was rejected because he had a glass eye.

LOWDEN URGES PROSECUTION.

Governor Demands Punishment of Collinsville Lynchers.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 5.—After long-distance telephone conversations today with Federal and county authorities at the scene of the lynching of Robert Prager at Collinsville, Governor Lowden today called a conference of Attorney General Edward J. Brundage and Assistant Adjt. Gen. Richings J. Shand in the executive offices to consider the crime.

Governor Lowden, in a statement declared he would use the force of his office to see that persons guilty of the lynching of Prager, were brought to punishment. Representatives of the offices of the Attorney General and the Adjutant General were dispatched to Collinsville.

If the regularly constituted peace officers in Madison County and vicinity were not able to maintain order, the Governor said there would be nothing left for him to do but declare martial law.

Before the conference Mr. Brundage said he had been in communication with State's Attorney Streuber of Madison County, and that instructions had been given to begin at once an attempt to identify members of the mob that hanged Prager.

District Attorney Charles Karch gave Governor Lowden details of the mob's activities by telephone. It was said that quiet prevailed, but that feeling against others suspected of being pro-German still was running high in the vicinity of Collinsville.

United States District Attorney E. C. Knotts in reply to charges of State's Attorney Streuber that no attention was paid to reports of disloyalty, said that every complaint had been "duly considered."

SEEK TO HALT ALARM OVER GLASS IN FOOD

Officials of Two Departments Find No Evidence of German Plotting Against Consumers.

BUT COMPLAINTS POUR IN

Candy Which Cut a Woman's Tongue to be Analyzed—Bread Complained of in 9 Bronx Cases.

Officials of the Department of Health and the Department of Justice joined yesterday in quieting the alarm caused by the Federal Food Board's recent notice that the public should be warned against the presence of bits of glass in bread and rolls. Scores of cases have been investigated both by the Board of Health and the Department of Justice and not one has produced evidence of glass in any form, much less any evidence that pro-German fanatics employed in the bakeries of the city were maliciously venting their hatred of America in this fashion. Charles F. De Woody, Superintendent of the United States Department of Justice said yesterday:

"There may be a few sporadic cases of glass in bread, but I haven't as yet heard of one that could be definitely traced back to German plotting. Unless there is more substantial basis for such reports than we have had thus far I think it is a serious mistake to alarm the public over the matter. I will investigate all such cases carefully, but personally I have little faith in them."

By direction of Dr. Charles F. Bolduan of the Department of Health 100 specimens of bread, rolls, and candy yesterday were examined for traces of glass in the city's chemical laboratory in East Sixteenth Street. Of the specimens examined one only was found to contain any foreign substance resembling glass and that was a piece of cheap candy. The piece of glass in this case was so minute, and its appearance in the candy so obviously accidental that no importance was attached to its presence.

Effect of Cheap Substitutes.

At the Department of Health it was said yesterday that the presence of foreign substances in bread was likely to occur now more than ever, not out of any malicious intent on the part of employes in the bakeries of the city, but because many bakers were trying to use cheap substitutes in making bread. One case under observation showed one hundredth of 1 per cent. of sand in a loaf of whole wheat bread. Dr. Bolduan pointed out that this was a one-pound loaf, and that the foreign matter amounted to one-tenth of one grain. It was enough, however, to make the bread taste gritty and make the person who ate it believe that he was eating some finely ground glass in his bread. Pieces of wood, sugar, and chaff in bread are also often mistaken for glass.

Even the officials of the Federal Food Board admitted yesterday that the public had become unduly alarmed over its warning. For fear of increasing that alarm, they maintained, they could not give out the details of the cases which caused them to raise the alarm. T. A. Johann, head of the Bureau of Complaints of the Federal Food Board, said:

"There is a lot of unnecessary hysteria over this matter, and the less said about ground glass the better. It would be a good thing if the public exercised care in eating cake, candy, or bread, but there is no ground for any undue excitement. If some enemy alien is resorting to this method of wreaking vengeance we will get him quick."

At the Department of Health it was said that the complaints of glass in bread were so few before the United States entered the war that they could hardly be recalled. The department indorsed the following paragraph which appeared in an article in the Journal of the American Medical Association on the "Ground Glass Obsession":

"No sane German spy or even a German diplomat would choose ground glass to kill a community. A meal of ground glass is considered harmless by some, and it has been reported that it has been used as a remedy among the peasants of Eastern Europe."

The alarm raised by the Federal Food Board continued to have its effect yesterday in all parts of the city. Women and children whose teeth encountered anything gritty in bread ran with their complaints to the nearest police stations or detective bureau. Mrs. Mary Newman, 34 years old, of 1,483 Second Avenue, cut her tongue in eating a piece of candy and had to be treated in the Reception Hospital. The candy will be analyzed. Alphonse Florentine of 330 East Nineties Street brought a loaf of bread to the East Eighty-eighth Street Police Station and complained that it contained glass. From City Island came a complaint that policemen in the squad room of the City Island Police Station ate ginger snaps that were purchased at a nearby grocery store and found slivers of glass in some of the snaps.

Nine Cases in the Bronx.

Nine complaints of glass in bread were made to District Attorney Martin in the Bronx yesterday, and he issued more than a dozen subpoenas for persons who are to appear today and explain why the bread complained of contained glass. Meanwhile the bread will be examined at a laboratory.

Twenty-one bakers were summoned by the Federal Food Board yesterday to appear for formal hearing next Tuesday morning to explain why they had failed to abide by the ruling of the board requiring the use of 20 per cent. substitutes in the manufacture of bread and rolls.

It was announced by the Federal Food Board yesterday that beginning on April 14 this country would have no more white bread or rolls, because after that date bread and rolls must contain at least 25 per cent. of substitutes for flour. This announcement was made after the Food Board officials had had a conference with a committee of 100 bakers, at which plans were arranged to put the new ruling into effect. The bakers decided to hold mass meetings in various parts of the city and form "service committees," whose duty it will be to instruct bakers in making the 25 per cent. substitute loaf as cheaply and as economically as possible.

WANTS WOMEN HOME AT 10.

Gibbs Offers Bill Barring Them from Theatres After That Hour.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 5.—Senator Leonard W. H. Gibbs, Republican, of Buffalo, handsome and tall, bids fair to become unpopular among the women folk. The Senator introduced a bill in the Senate today which would keep the women close to the fireside after 10 P. M. Of course, under his bill, it would be permissible for the fair sex to attend the theatre, see a part of the performance, but 10 o'clock would mean "exit" if the measure were read into the statute books.

On the bill as introduced, it is indicated that the Buffalo Senator offered it to the lawmakers "by request."

Subway Strike Avoided.

Chairman Oscar S. Straus of the Public Service Commission announced yesterday that the contractors on the new subways had granted an increase of 50 cents a day from Jan. 1 to the members of the Waterproofers' Union, and had thus prevented them from striking. Mr. Straus acted as arbitrator by request of both sides to the controversy.

Marriage and death notices intended for insertion in The New York Times may be telephoned to 1000 Bryant.

George Roberts Miner.

George Roberts Miner, editor, died early yesterday at the Hotel Monterey, Broadway and Ninety-fourth Street, in his fifty-sixth year. The funeral will be held at Manchester, Vt., his birthplace.

Mr. Miner was graduated in 1883 from Norwich University. Coming to New York, he became a member of the staff of The Herald, remaining here until 1896, when he went to Paris to take charge of the European edition of The Herald. He was an editor of The Cosmopolitan Magazine from 1898 until 1900, and during the next two years he was successively Sunday editor of The Philadelphia Press, editor and proprietor of The Bangor Daily News, and Sunday editor of The New York World. From 1902 until 1906 Mr. Miner was the London correspondent of The Herald, and while at London became manager of the Whitney Theatre, but he returned to this country soon after to become Sunday editor of The New York Sun, with which he remained until 1915.

TILDEN AND DONALDSON PUT OUT DOUBLES CHAMPIONS IN SEMI-FINAL OF TENNIS PLAY

CHAMPIONS BEATEN IN TENNIS DOUBLES

Alexander and Rosenbaum Are Forced to Abdicate by Tilden and Donaldson.

CONTEST STERNLY FOUGHT

Victory Within Their Grasp, Overconfidence Wrecks Game of the Defeated Players.

There was a championship flavor to the continuation of the national indoor tennis championships on the courts of the Seventh Regiment Armory yesterday. It was only natural to expect that the tournament, as it neared its final stages, would be marked by some spirited play, but it could hardly have been anticipated that it would climb to such heights of brilliancy as were attained.

Perhaps overshadowing all else is the fact that the national doubles team of Frederick B. Alexander and Dr. William Rosenbaum was defeated in a semi-final round match by William T. Tilden 2d and Cecil Donaldson with the score 6—4, 1—6, 12—10. This was an upset, according to the usual standards by which such are measured. Donaldson, a 15-year-old boy, gave such wonderful support to the hard-hitting Tilden that Alexander and Rosenbaum could not withstand the attack.

The other doubles team to come through the semi-final round was made up of G. Carlton Shafer and King Smith, a veteran combination which has taken part in many tournaments of the past. The victims in this case were Arthur S. Cragin and W. Dixon Cunningham, who fell before a score of 1—6, 6—3, 6—4.

Alexander Beats Tildea.

In the semi-final round of the singles event the fortunate ones were Frederick B. Alexander and S. Howard Voshell, the latter the present holder of the singles championship. Alexander earned his place by defeating W. T. Tilden in one of the finest matches ever played on the indoor courts of the armory, with the score 7—5, 10—8. Voshell also had no easy task in making his way to the final round bracket, for King Smith supplied the sternest sort of opposition, especially in the first set, but Voshell finally won at 10—8, 6—3.

The contest in which Alexander triumphed over Tilden will remain in the minds of many as one of the great exhibitions of tennis skill. Handicapped by a sprained ankle, the result of a match two days before, Alexander was able not only to wrest victory from his hard-hitting rival of Philadelphia, but to play tennis of a sort which is seldom seen. It was an artistic bit of tennis that he put forth. There was finish in every stroke, the keenest strategy in every move. He knew from the first that he could not afford to waste an ounce of strength, for Tilden is one of the most formidable players of the East, with a service that is equaled by none.

The very fact that he was held in restraint by his weak ankle seemed to improve Alexander's game. He knew that he could not afford to take chances and his strokes were played with a precision and keen judgment that showed the cool work of the master struggling under difficulties to gain a victory. If a shot was out of reach, he almost invariably was forced to let it go, but when there was the opportunity to make a return his racquet bit into the ball with a firm, confident swing that sent the sphere directly to the place which he had anticipated. It was this ability to place that caused Tilden much confusion. Alexander's strategy was superb. Repeatedly he drew Tilden out of position so that he could send a passing shot sizzling down the lines.

Champion Forced to Hard Match.

Voshell and King Smith had a merry set duel that many times threatened to turn against the titleholder. The latter was in fine form, so that Voshell was forced to play a hard match all the way. There was a little unsteadiness on the part of Voshell and some of his strokes seemed to lack their accustomed sting. This was noticeably true on his ground strokes. Now and then he sent his drives across with severity but more often he lacked the confidence to put power behind them. Having won the stormy fought first set, however, Voshell came through with greater speed in the second, when Smith's game showed signs of weakening.

In the defeat of Rosenbaum and Alexander in doubles there were two important factors—one that Rosenbaum was having something of an off day on the courts, and the other that the 15-year-old Cecil Donaldson was playing a much stronger game than might have been expected. Then, too, there was an element of overconfidence injected in the match which proved disastrous. Rosenbaum and Alexander almost had the victory within their grasp in that last set. Leading at 5—2 on games and 40—15, a single ace was all they needed to clinch a place in the finals today. Rosenbaum threw away two strokes on efforts to make a finishing placement, and from deuce the score turned against the titleholders and the game was lost. Two more games fell to the lot of the rival pair and finally the match was won by Tilden and Donaldson.

The final in doubles will be played at 12:30 this afternoon, the singles final following at 2.

The score:

Singles, Semi-final Round.—Frederick B. Alexander defeated W. T. Tilden 2d, 7—5, 10—8. S. Howard Voshell defeated King Smith, 10—8, 6—3.

Doubles, Semi-final Round.—W. T. Tilden 2d and Cecil Donaldson defeated F. B. Alexander and Dr. William Rosenbaum, 6—4, 1—6, 12—10. G. Carlton Shafer and King Smith defeated Arthur S. Cragin and W. D. Cunningham, 1—6, 6—3, 6—4.

REACH PINEHURST FINALS.

Robeson and Stranahan Survive in North and South Golf Tourney.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 5.—Irving S. Robeson of Rochester and R. A. Stranahan of Toledo survived the semi-finals of the North and South Amateur Championship tournament at Pinehurst today and will meet in the 36-hole final contest for the title on Saturday. Robeson defeated E. L. Scofield, Stamford, the medallist, in the semi-final by 6 up and 5 to play, and Stranahan beat Arthur Yates of Rochester by 3 and 2.

Today's matches were played under a cloudless sky, but a wind storm played havoc with the medal scores, and Robeson, who went out in 41 against Scofield, was the only one of the four semi-finalists who played a steady game.

Summaries:

Semi-final, Championship.—I. S. Robeson, Oak Hill, beat E. L. Scofield, Weeburn, 6 and 5; R. A. Stranahan, Inverness, beat Arthur Yates, Oak Hill, 3 and 2.

Eaten Eight.—H. G. Phillips, Moore County, beat P. S. MacLaughlin, Ekwanok, 4 and 2; Dr. C. H. Gardiner, Rhode Island, won from Alan Lard, Chevy Chase, by default.

Second Sixteen.—J. E. Smith, Wilmington, beat Melville Peck, Richmond, 3 and 2; W. E. Smith, Braeburn, beat C. H. Hart, Dunwoodie, 4 and 3.

Beaten Eight.—R. M. Taft, Worcester, beat R. C. Shannon, 2d, Brockport, 3 and 2; W. M. Bakewell, Allegheny, beat Thomas Morrison, Oakmont, 4 and 3.

PENN CANCELS YALE RACE.

Quaker Oarsmen Will Compete in Regatta on Severn.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 5.—Yale's race with University of Pennsylvania was canceled tonight because of the plan of the Quaker oarsmen to take part in the regatta on the Severn. The two events were to christen the new course on the Housatonic River May 11. Yale has challenged Pennsylvania, Columbia, Princeton, and Cornell to race on the Housatonic any Saturday during May. Yale, Harvard, and Princeton have declined to row on the Severn.

COLUMBIA CREW IN SHELL.

Coach Rice to Send Oarsmen Out for Trial Spin.

Jim Rice, coach of the Columbia crew, thinks his 'Varsity candidates have had sufficient work on the barges, and at noon today he plans to put them in the shell for the first time this season and give them a spin over the Edgewater course.

Gallico, one of the three experienced oarsmen among the candidates, will watch the practice. He has been caring for a sprained wrist which physicians first thought a break. On Monday he will be back in the boat. His return will greatly strengthen the crew, which will be seated as follows: Steinschneider, bow; Hawkins, No. 2; Kraus, No. 3; Schachtel, No. 4; Parks, No. 5; Taylor, No. 6; Wormser, No. 7; Brown, stroke.

At yesterday's meeting of the University Athletic Committee permission was given for the Blue and White's participation in two regattas—the Child event and the patriotic regatta on he Severn.

OLDER HORSES BEAT COLT.

George W. Avery Loses First Clash with Aged Rivals.

BOWIE, MD., April 5.—After a winning start in his last race, which was against horses of his own age, George W. Avery was started against older horses today, but failed in his attempt, running third to Master Karma and May W. At that the three-year-old colt made a favorable impression, since he had a very long journey. After breaking badly he raced extremely wide, and before Jockey McAtee could get the youngster in line the others had a big advantage. Once straightened out George W. Avery came speedily and was gaining on the leaders at the end.

The summaries:

Taberski Wins Handicap Matches.

Frank Taberski played in two handicap pocket billiard games at John Doyle's Academy yesterday. In the afternoon he defeated the combined efforts of J. McCabe and R. Hughes with the score 100 to 53, and in the evening defeated Miss Maud and Miss Florence Flower in another handicap match by 75 to 55. In this contest the world's champion played 20 or no-count.

YANKS ROUT BRAVES, BUT LOSE WALTERS

Catcher Dislocates Thumb as Teammates Down Boston Team by 10 to 0.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBIA, S. C., April 5.—The fifth consecutive victory of the Yankees over the Boston Braves here today was a rout for the National leaguers, but it cost New York the services of Al Walters, first string catcher. A foul tip in the third inning dislocated the thumb on Walters's throwing hand, and it will be at least two weeks before he will be available for service again, which means that the Yankees must begin the season with two young catchers, Ruel and Hannah.

The score today was 10 to 0, and it came near being a hitless game for the New York pitchers. The first Boston hit was delivered by Red Smith in the seventh inning. It was an infield single and could have been called an error. The other single was a clean drive to center by Kelly in the ninth inning.

The largest attendance of the series was recorded here. Four thousand soldiers from Camp Jackson and many civilians filled the stands and completely surrounded the playing field, making ground rules necessary. Major Gen. Bailey threw out the first ball.

Slim Love was in great form, not allowing a hit in the first four innings, and striking out seven of the Braves. Thormahlen was almost as good in the last five periods. Artie Nehf, Boston's best left hander, held the Yanks in check until the fifth, when seven hits, an error, and a pass produced seven runs. After that the game was more or less of a farce, and when it ended just before 7 o'clock most of the spectators had disappeared.

The teams play tomorrow at Greenville to another soldier crowd. Charley Herzog is still unsigned, and says that if he hears nothing from President Haughton of the Boston Club today, he is going home tomorrow with the intention of reporting to the Giants when the season opens.

RAIN HOLDS BACK GIANTS.

Unable to Play Game, McGraw Gives Players Long Talk.

Special to The New York Times.

DALLAS, Texas, April 5.—Rain prevented the second game of the series between the New York Giants and the Cleveland Indians here today. It was the first time that the Giants have been interfered with by rain since they started training at Marlin, just three weeks ago. The two teams left for Houston, where games will be played tomorrow and Sunday.

The New York defeat at the hands of Cleveland was not pleasing to McGraw. He had the entire team up in his room this morning and gave the players quite a lengthy talk. He particularly impressed on the men that he will stand for no slacking in training, and says they are far behind the form he would like. The Cleveland players appear to be much further advanced, especially the pitchers.

McGraw also impressed on the players the fact that the season will open in ten days and that a lot of hard, conscientious work must be done before then.

Pitcher Jesse Winters left the team, and will join the Giant youngsters now being put through their capers on John Ganzel's Kansas City club. That still leaves McGraw with ten pitchers, of which two more are to go before May 15. Winters, who is a Texas collegian, has made a favorable impression on McGraw, and John Ganzel has received instructions to give him every opportunity and to report on his progress.

BRONX SEEKS LEAGUE TEAM.

Gibson Wants Franchise in New International Body.

Prospects that the Bronx may be represented in the new International League, organized at a meeting of representatives of Eastern cities at the Hotel Biltmore Thursday, developed at the second day's session yesterday. Billy Gibson, a boxing and athletic promoter of the Bronx, assured the gathering that he could finance such a proposition if it were possible to get the consent of the National and American Leagues for the invasion of the territory.

During the Federal League war organized baseball gave out many interviews of a possibility of placing a minor league team in the Bronx to counteract the strength of the Federals, but whether or not the major leagues would favor such a proposition now is doubtful. The Bronx proposition was left in abeyance when the assembled delegates adjourned late last night after a twelve-hour session, to meet again in Buffalo probably next Thursday.

It was decided at the meeting yesterday that no double headers shall be played until after the clubs have made the first circuit and that no club shall be allowed to transfer a player until thirty days before the close of the season. The rates of admission also were decided upon and the prices fixed at 28 cents, 55 cents, 83 cents, and $1.10, all including the 10 per cent. war tax.

The Schedule Committee also formed tentative plans for the season. All of the clubs, excepting Newark, announced their intention of continuing their respective clubs during the year. No word was received from James Price, who conducted the Newark club last year, but three other Newark parties are said to have put in applications for a franchise. All of these applications are under consideration and, unless Price gets in line soon one of the three will get the franchise. No action was take on the Newark franchise.

The new Directors and those interested at the meeting were Joseph J. Lannin, Buffalo; John H. Farrell, President of the new league; Charles T. Chapin, Rochester; Jack Dunn, Baltimore; J. J. McCaffery, Toronto; Dave Driscoll, Jersey City, and Fay Benedict, representing George J. Johnson, owner of the Binghamton club. The Schedule Committee is comprised of Lannin, Chapin and Farrell. They will draft a schedule by next week.

It was said that none of the owners felt any trouble would arise about securing players. One of the delegates insisted that there are thousands of good ball players seeking jobs and that eight teams could be formed over night.

DODGERS TURN ON BOSTON.

Take Tenth of Exhibition Games by a Score of 5 to 3.

Special to The New York Times.

HOUSTON, Tex., April 5.—In an eighth inning rally, the Brooklyn Dodgers came from behind today and defeatcd the Boston Red Sox in the tenth game of the exhibition series, by a score of 5 to 3.

The game was played before a good sized crowd, many of the fans having turned out to pay tribute to Jack Coombs, now a resident of Texas, and George Whitman, who formerly played here. It was timely hitting by Olsen, Daubert and Myers that gave Brooklyn the victory.

Olsen made four safe hits in the game, Daubert three, and Myers three. They also managed to hit with men on the bases. Boston made all its runs off Coombs in the first five innings. Pfeffer replaced him and stopped the scoring. Young Dick McCabe, for Boston, held the Dodgers safe for five innings, but they got to Sam Jones in the seventh and scored in each inning after that.

Hits by Olsen and Myers, a fumble by McInnes and some good base running enabled the Dodgers to take the lead in the eighth. The series now stands 7 to 3 in favor of Boston. The game today was the last in Texas. The teams begin a two-day stay at New Orleans tomorrow.

MORSE GAINS DASH LAURELS AT GAMES

Former Furlong Champion Beats Fast Field for Metropolitan Title at 60 Yards.

Roy F. Morse, former national furlong champion, last night won the Metropolitan Association senior 60-yard championship in convincing fashion at the annual games of the Smart Set A. C. in the Thirteenth Regiment Armory, Brooklyn. Against a field of six of the best sprinters in the local district, Morse showed superior. With an increased effort in the final twenty yards, Morse edged his way to the front to win by about one and one-half yards. His nearest rival was Freddie Teschner, the Glencoe A. C. star, while Charlie Clark of the Pelham Bay Naval Training Station finished third. Morse's time was 6 4-5 seconds.

In the two-mile walking championship for the senior metropolitan title Win J. Rolker, former outdoor national champion, annexed premier honors in 15 minutes 4-5 second. Rolker displayed superiority over Kurt Zulch, American Walkers' Association, and Alexander Jessup, junior national two-mile champion, who finished in the order named. Zulch was about one-half a lap behind the winner.

George P. Wagner gained the three-mile bicycle championship in a stirring race. He covered the distance in 8 minutes 9 2-5 seconds, leading home the veteran rider, A. E. Rhodes. Several spills occurred during the final half-mile of the race, and these caused the elimination of Eddie Goodwin, with the United States Aviation Corps; William Vanden Dries, and Walter Stein.

The summaries:

880-Yard Relay Race, (closed to 13th Regiment, New York Guard.)—Won by 10th Company; 8th Company, second; 4th Company, third. Time—1:44 2-5.

Two-Mile Walk, (senior indoor Metropolitan Association A. A. U. championship.)—Won by Win J. Walker, unattached; K. Zulch, American Walkers' Association, second; Alex. Jessup, unattached, third. Time—15:00 4-5.

Two-Mile Run, Handicap.—Won by J. Huisebosch, Paulist A. C., (110 yards;) L. R. Kaufman, Brooklyn A. A., (25 yards,) second; F. Travelena, Mohawk A. C., (110 yards,) third. Time—9:04 3-5.

BIG GAME FOR COLUMBIA.

Blue and White to Meet Holy Cross Nine Today.

Columbia's baseball team plays its first important game of the season this afternoon when it meets Holy Cross on South Field. The game will mark the conclusion of the latter's Southern trip, on which it has defeated Johns Hopkins by a 13 to 0 score and the Annapolis cadets, 3 to 1.

Gill, Holy Cross's star twirler, who fanned eleven men in the game with Catholic University last Monday, will probably have Farrell of Columbia as his opponent on the mound.

Holy Cross Beats Seton Hall.

The Holy Cross baseball team defeated Seton Hall College at South Orange yesterday afternoon by a score of 7 to 1. The batteries for Holy Cross were Ryan and Keating and for Seton Hall Quinn and Fleiger.

HUB TRAPSHOOTERS AGAIN LEAD N. Y. A. C.

New York Gunners Fall Further Behind in Interclub Match with Boston A. A.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., April 5.—The Boston A. A. further increased its lead over the New York A. C. team to 18 targets in the championship trapshooting tournament being held at the Laurel House Gun Club traps. The New York nimrods in the aggregate broke 669 targets, while the Boston shooters scored 681. The total score, with 500 targets yet to be shot at, stands at 1,378 to 1,360 in Boston's favor.

Dan McMahon again was the cause of his team's downfall, for the best he could do in 150 trials was 121—a poor showing for him. The total scores for the match thus far are: N. Y. A. C.—Dr. G. L. Martin, 278; D. F. McMahon, 249; W. H. Yule, 282; W. S. Silkworth, 274; R. L. Spotts, 277. Boston A. A.—G. L. Osborne, 273; L. F. Curtis, 288; J. L. Snow, 269; L. H. Davis, 280; Jay Clark, Jr., 268.

Fred Tomlin of Penn's Grove, N. J.; Charles H. Newcomb of Philadelphia, and H. J. Pendergast of Phoenix, N. Y., in a field of 145 shooters, tied for first place in today's session with 144 breaks each. In the shootoff this morning in the tie for first honors for yesterday's shoot, L. F. Curtis of Boston hested Clarence Platt of Bridgeton. Frank Wright of Buffalo gathered in 143, and won fourth place. Fred Tomlin turned in a run of 138, the best thus far.

Atlanta Gets Washington Pitcher.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 5.—The Atlanta Southern Association Club today purchased Pitcher Joe Engel from the Washington Americans. Engel played with the Buffalo team of the International League last season.

SULLIVAN VICTOR IN BOUT.

Defeats Rosenberg in Friars' Club Amateur Tourney.

James Sullivan of the Union Settlement A. C., metropolitan district amateur boxing champion at 145 pounds, last night defeated D. Rosenberg of Brooklyn in the final bout of the 145-pound class in the Friars' Club tournament. This victory gave Sullivan the prize. The contest was one of the most interesting seen in a local amateur tourney this season. Rosenberg, although outgeneraled, nevertheless gave a good account of himself.

Sam Sieger, Rutgers Place Gymnasium, and Sam Mosberg, unattached, were other champions who were successful in their final bouts. Sieger, New York State champion at 105 pounds, won the prize in this class by gaining the judges' award over Sam Nable. Clark House A. A. Mosberg, Metropolitan 135-pound class, won the final bout at this weight from P. Ebneth, Mohawk A. C., on the judges' verdict in three rounds.

In the competition for the point honors of the tournament, which went to the club whose representatives scored the greatest number of points, the Union Settlement A. C. was successful with nine tallies.

"Roll Your Own"

ANNOUNCEMENT

OUR Government has requested that we put at the disposal of the War Department our entire output of the "makings"—"BULL" DURHAM tobacco.

And we have complied—fully, gladly. For whatever the Government wants, whatever it needs, it must have from us and from you fully and with a generous heart.

We have been sending immense quantities of "Bull" to our men at the front, and at the same time trying to supply consumers at home. But now we are asked to give all our output:—36,000,000 sacks, 2,000,000 lbs., 100 carloads of "BULL" DURHAM every month.

This call means more than just huge figures to me and I know it will mean more than figures to the hundreds of thousands of men everywhere in the country who "roll their own" and who look upon that little muslin sack of good old "Bull" as a personal, everyday necessity.

It means that the Government has found that our fighting men need the "makings".

But, if "Bull" is a necessity to you, here, in the peaceful pursuit of your daily life, how much greater its necessity to those splendid Americans who have gone to fight for you—to win this war for you.

I know that you will think of them as I do—only of them. I know there will not be a single complaint. I know that you will give up your share of "Bull", however long you have enjoyed it, however close it is to you, as you will give up anything you have if it is made clear to you that our forces over there need it.

That the Government has requested the whole output of "Bull", the night and day output of all of our factories, must make this absolute need clear to you.

And I know that you will not forget the little muslin sack—gone for the present on its mission of hope and inspiration to our boys in the trenches.

"Bull" will come back, with ribbons of honor. Have no fear.

STEEL NOW ASSURED FOR BUILDING SHIPS

Wilson Consults on Steps Taken and Backs Plan of Better Co-ordination.

PRIORITY IS CENTRALIZED

Denman Tells Senate Committee of $12,000,000 Demand for Hog Island Profit.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Prompt shipments of steel to the shipbuilding plants of the country, where the great emergency fleet is being built, was assured today as the result of activity and agreement by various Government agencies.

Late in the afternoon Senator Fletcher, Chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, and Chairman Hurley of the Shipping Board called on President Wilson. At that time they emphasized the pressing need of steel at the yards as a vital adjunct of the great war machine. They were assured of his entire support.

Earlier in the day Chairman Hurley and J. L. Replogle of the War Industries Board conferred with the Senate Commerce Committee in executive session. Mr. Replogle is one of the "big" men in the steel industry of the country and is now Chairman of the committee in charge of steel shipments. He gave his assurance that in two weeks every yard in the country engaged in Government work would have an ample supply of steel.

Much of the delay was due to poor transportation facilities, Mr. Replogle told the committee. He announced that the steel output was now the greatest in the history of the country. The mills fell behind on their orders during the Winter months, he said.

Early Relief at Hog Island.

Fears that the work at Hog Island would be greatly delayed because of lack of steel, which have been prevalent since George J. Baldwin of the American International Shipbuilding Corporation urged the pressing need of prompt shipments there, were allayed by Mr. Replogle. He told the committee that 80 per cent. of the steel ordered for Hog Island had been made at the mills, but that only a comparatively small proportion had been delivered because of delays in transportation. Conditions have now so improved, he said, that there is no likelihood that work at the great plant will be subject to further delays because of the non-arrival of steel.

A better system of co-ordination among the various agencies, which was emphasized as a pressing need by Mr. Baldwin, has already resulted. Under the new plan the War Industries Board will be informed exactly what varieties of steel products are most needed at the different mills, which should greatly expedite delivery of the desired parts.

Before the committee went into executive session, William Denman, former Chairman of the Shipping Board, testified at an open meeting. He said that work in starting the Hog Island Yard had been greatly delayed while officers of the Shipbuilding Corporation haggled over the size of their fee. Had the original contract been adhered to the Shipbuilding Corporation would have acquired profits ranging from $12,000,000 to $15,000,000, Mr. Denman asserted. He said that the present contract was fair, so far as he knew, and that there was little opportunity for large excess profits to the company.

Following the conferences it was deemed advisable to leave the question of preference for all Government agencies, including the army, navy, and Shipping Board, in the hands of the War Industries Board. A representative of that board will be stationed at each of the steel mills. Officers who have been detailed to this work by the army and navy will be withdrawn.

REPORTS PROGRESS ON FEDERAL SHIPS

Submarine Boat Corporation's Plant on Newark Bay 80 Per Cent. Completed.

The Submarine Boat Corporation, in its annual report, throws some light on the progress it is making in the construction of its giant yard on Newark Bay and on its contract to build 200 vessels for the Shipping Board.

"Despite the rigorous Winter through which we have passed," Henry R. Carse, the President, says, "and the tying up of transportation facilities of the country, which prevented material being delivered at the shipyard in accordance with our calculations, very satisfactory progress has been made in the construction of these cargo vessels. It is estimated that about 80 per cent. of the work necessary for the completion of the shipways and plant has been finished, and at the present writing twenty-one keels have been laid upon the ways, and sufficient work has been done on a number of the ships to indicate that the plans of the engineers of the company, in relation to having the parts of the vessels fabricated in over fifty different shops throughout the country and brought to the shipyard to be assembled, will work out satisfactorily.

The Submarine Boat Corporation controls the Electric Boat Company, from which the bulk of its income was received during 1917. The report states that the gross business of the Electric Boat Company and subsidiaries amounted to $23,873,934, from which a net income of $2,612,012 was derived, a decline of $4,400,072. A surplus of $609,060 remained after dividends had been paid on the Electric Boat shares, compared with $1,876,180 the year before.

Ship Board to Try Concrete Tankers

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Growing need for oil carriers caused the Shipping Board to decide today to begin as soon as possible the construction of a fleet of steel barges, ocean-going tugs, and concrete tank steamers to replace the large number of tankers taken from the Mexican and coastwise service for transatlantic trade. It is estimated that seventy-five additional steamers are required. Three experimental concrete ships of 2,500 tons each, which will be built at the Government yard soon to be established in the South, will be fitted as tankers.

TIMES FINDS HER RING.

Mrs. Spadone Recovers $1,500 Jewel and Pays $200 Reward.

Mrs. E. C. Spadone, who lives at the Plaza, recovered a $1,500 ring yesterday which she had left in the washroom of the hotel on Wednesday evening. When Mrs. Spadone, upon missing the ring, went back to the washroom, it was gone. She notified the police and also inserted an advertisement in THE NEW YORK TIMES offering a reward of $200 to the finder. Mrs. Spadone was notified by telephone by Miss Edna L. Gilnell of 215 West Ninety-eighth Street, yesterday, that she had found a ring in the washroom of the hotel on Wednesday night. Miss Gilnell called on Mrs. Spadone at the hotel later with the ring and received the reward of $200.

Labor and Housing Delay Gunmaking.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—Eugene Grace, President of the Bethlehem Steel Company, was examined by the Senate Military Committee today regarding the production of artillery under Government contracts which his concern holds. The meeting was behind closed doors. Mr. Grace told the committee that the Bethlehem Company was making good progress, but that it was having difficulty because of labor and housing conditions.

ORDERS WOOL HELD FOR GOVERNMENT

Goethals Commandeers Supply to Insure Clothing for Our New Army.

MILLS READY TO COMPLY

Owners Assert Civilians Can Wear Old Clothes for a While—F. K. Nixon to Control Passaic Looms.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—All woolen mills in the country were directed by the War Department today to hold their looms at the service of the Government from now until July 1 in order to insure adequate supplies of cloth for uniforms. Manufacturers of civilian clothing who get any of the output of the mills will do so under special Government permits.

Notices were sent to the mills by Acting Quartermaster General Goethals. It was officially stated that the department now sees its way to fully clothe all men called to the colors. No comment was available as to the amounts of cloth the Government may release to private manufacturers or as to the probable effect of the commandeering order upon the trade.

BOSTON, April 5.—"The Government must have precedence, the soldiers must be clothed, and civilians must take the chance," William Whitman, a leading woolen manufacturer, said tonight on being informed that the War Department had directed all the woolen mills in the country to hold their looms for Government service until July 1.

"If necessary," he said, "we can get along with our old suits for a while. It will not hurt any one to go without new clothes for a few months. But there is one thing certain. The soldiers must have their shirts and uniforms. The main thing now is to get them all equipped."

Trading in wool here was stopped today by vote of the trade, and all the unsold stock was placed at the disposal of the Government at prevailing values.

Frederick B. Peterson, Director of the Bureau of Imports of the War Trade Board, has informed the American Textile Association that F. K. Nixon, one of the best known men in the woolen industry of the United States, has been appointed the representative of the War Trade Board at Passaic, N. J. Mr. Nixon, who has offices at 43 East Seventeenth Street, will have broad powers so far as certain German-owned or partly German-owned Passaic woolen mills are concerned, and these mills, in order to obtain wool, will have to obtain the approval of Mr. Nixon first. The War Trade Board has further instructed the Textile Alliance to release "wool, wool tops, noils, yarn, waste, &c.," only through Mr. Nixon, and "not otherwise."

It is the contention of some of the leading woolen manufacturers of this country that certain German-owned or controlled mills are not supplying as much woolen fabrics to the army as they should. There are several of these mills which are making millions of dollars annually through the sale of the greater part of their output to the civilian trade and thus obtaining profits of 25 per cent., and even more, while the American-owned mills are working day and night for the Government on a 5 per cent. profit basis.

Data now in the possession of the Federal authorities show that in two instances these German controlled mills made profits last year which in one instance totaled more than $6,000,000 and in another more than $3,000,000. These two mills sold practically their entire output, it was said, to civilian dealers.

The Passaic mills which will not have to get Mr. Nixon's "O. K." in order to obtain wool include the Botany Worsted Mills, the Gera Mills, the Forstmann & Huffman Company, the New Jersey Worsted Spinning Company, the Garfield Mills, and the Passaic Worsted Spinning Company. The largest of these mills is the Botany company, which is said to be valued at more than $17,000,000.

HEAVIER DRY GOODS SALES.

Wholesale Distribution Is Far Ahead of Same Time Last Year.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 5.—Marshall Field & Co. in their weekly review of the dry goods trade say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods is very largely ahead of the heavy shipments for the same period a year ago. The total volume of road sales for both immediate and future deliveries shows a marked increase over the large volume of the corresponding week of 1917. Merchants have been in the market in fewer numbers. The market on domestic cotton goods continues strong. Collections are good."

Facts About Baby Carriages.

Indulgent fathers who desire to buy new carriages for their offspring nowadays want to bear some things in mind. One of these is that prices have gone up very sharply on practically all kinds of "buggies," that not many of those now available have wheels with ball bearings in them, and that, even in the most expensive carriages, there is difficulty in getting guarantees from the sellers that the colors will give entire satisfaction. Several hues of enamels are said not to "set" well and to crock, among them being navy blue, green, and white. Repairs also cost more than they used to, due in no small degree to the increased prices for corduroys and other fabrics used in upholstering, as well as the higher cost of wheels and other parts.

The Price of American Lives

ALL the money you ever hope to possess will not recompense his mother for the life of one American soldier.

But the money you pay for Liberty Bonds now will help save the lives of thousands of our sons, by shortening the war and insuring an early victory.

You should be thankful for the opportunity to put to such a splendid purpose every dollar you can save or borrow.

It may well be that the bond you buy will bring home to the arms of his loved ones an American boy who would otherwise have perished.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Swing Idly in a Dull Session on the Stock Exchange—Cotton Off.

There were no new tendencies observable back of the movements of stocks yesterday, and the ticker remained quiet for moments at a time. It was the dullest session which the big board has seen in a year and a half, the total transactions running to but little more than 140,000 shares. For the most part, price changes were unimportant. The list opened at slightly lower levels as a reflection of the resumption of the German offensive, and in a number of cases final prices were below those of the previous session. On the whole, however, the changes were too small to attract attention. An idea of the narrowness within which quotations ranged may be gained from the fact that, until within a few minutes of the close, Steel common had fluctuated but a quarter of a point, and its maximum range was ⅜. Steel was second in point of activity yesterday, leadership being assumed for the day by Distillers Securities on a buying movement that lifted the price to 41⅜ at the close. American Tobacco gained another 6 points on sales of only 200 shares, and other inactive industrials similarly reflected the extreme narrowness of the market.

It is easy to understand the public's disposition to hold aloof from the market, in view of the almost entire absorption of the financial community's energies by the new Liberty Loan campaign, and while the battle of Picardy continues, with great possibilities always lurking in the background. It is becoming increasingly plain to most financiers that indications point to a very long war. This inevitably means further radical readjustments in taxes and Governmental policies toward business, with uncertain effect upon the security markets.

Beginning today, most of the investment houses will practically close their salesmen's desks and relegate all other activities to making the drive for subscriptions for the new Government bond issue an even more pronounced success than the two previous loans. The outstanding issues convertible into the new bonds continue to sag below the level at which they ought to sell, basing the price upon the value of the conversion privilege. With business almost at a standstill in other departments, the bond crowd on the floor of the Exchange had another busy session, with a large turnover, particularly in the second 4s, which sold down to 96.26.

After the violent rise on Thursday, the cotton market broke almost as sharply at the opening yesterday in a rush to take profits on the advance. There was a rally later in the day, but selling was later resumed shortly, and the list closed at practically the lowest figures for the day. The decline was helped by fresh rumors of the adoption of a Government price-fixing policy.

LONDON MARKET CHEERFUL.

Traders Still Waiting for Outcome of Operations in France.

LONDON, April 5.—The stock market was quietly cheerful today, awaiting the outcome of the operations in France. The war loan advanced, and there was further hardening in other gilt-edged securities. Rubber shares were firm, but mining stocks dropped from lack of support, and the excitement in tin mines subsided.

Money was in plentiful supply, and discount rates were easy.

The banks are buying Treasury bills freely, and this creates the belief that the interest may be reduced soon, which is quite feasible in view of the Government's control of the market. Neutral exchanges recovered partly from the weakness of yesterday.

Trading Quiet on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, April 5.—Trading was quiet on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes, 57 francs 50 centimes for cash. Exchange on London, 27 francs 19½ centimes. Five per cent. loan, 88 francs 35 centimes.

PENNY A WEEK FOR WAR.

National Special Aid Society Launches New Movement.

Pay a penny a week, wear a Lincoln penny badge with a tricolor ribbon, and refuse to talk peace or listen to it. This is a new scheme of the National Special Aid Society, 259 Fifth Avenue, to raise money and to promote patriotism. The society, of which Mrs. William Alexander, now in France, was the founder, has previously tried a penny a week subscription fund in a branch of its work in North Carolina. It brought in $17 the first week, and in a few weeks more the returns enabled the women to buy a canning factory. The slogan of the penny workers is "Stand by America."

The society believes that the new branch will not only be a strong working force, but that it will enable women who have previously had no chance to do anything for the war to do something with no great effort and bring immediate results in combating German propaganda.

The officers of the society are Mrs. Charles Frederick Hoffman, President; Harris A. Dunn, Vice President of the Columbia Trust Company, Treasurer; Warren A. Mayou, Assistant Treasurer; Miss Isabelle A. Hardie, Secretary.

Luxury Tax in Paris Restaurants.

PARIS, April 5.—Hotels and restaurants of Paris to the number of 300 have been classified officially as establishments whose bills are subject to the tax on luxuries. Patrons of these places will pay an additional 10 per cent. on all bills exceeding 1 franc.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Reflecting the Tide of War.

While dealings in stocks continue on a small scale, the price movements since the German advance was undertaken have reflected news from the western front from day to day as effectively as though business was large. The initial success by the Kaiser's armies brought a decline, which was gradually changed into a slow upward movement as the drive slowed down. On Thursday prices displayed firmness when news came that the early attacks by the enemy were being repulsed, and yesterday morning much of the Thursday gains were eliminated in the first half hour's trading after the Street had been impressed by overnight dispatches with the belief that the Germans were pressing the attack with vigor. In the afternoon some improvement occurred, accompanying news that the French and British were keeping the enemy in check. Inquiry among commission houses indicates that since the drive began dealings have been restricted chiefly to investment purchases and casual speculative operations, the latter originating mostly within the Street.

Dull Business in Stocks.

Of ninety-five stocks on the quotation board in one brokerage office yesterday, only five traveled over a range as wide as a full point. Steel common was one of the most sluggish issues. The day's turnover of 143,000 shares was the smallest since Aug. 7, 1916, when the total was somewhat under 110,000 shares.

Buying of National Lead.

Buying of National Lead shares has been the subject of comment in brokerage circles since the price came to a pause after last week's decline of 3 points. As the result of accumulation of the sort which is characterized in the Street as "good," the stock rose from 54 to above 60, a reaction occurring yesterday. The annual report contains matter of the sort to puzzle one who seeks to decide what prospects 1918 holds forth for profits. In respect to the last year, the statement is satisfactory, showing more than $15 a share earned on the junior stock issue. President Cornish points out that operations were conducted under trying conditions in respect to adequate supplies of labor, transportation difficulties, and high costs of raw material.

The Farm Mortgage.

The total of farm mortgages in the United States is $4,000,000,000, according to the records of the Farm Mortgage Bankers' Association, which are based on census reports and the association's investigations. A bulletin of the association states that farm mortgages are not evidences of poverty. "They merely represent borrowing of working capital," it continues. "Iowa and Wisconsin are conceded to be among the leading prosperous farming States, and in both over 51 per cent. of the farms were mortgaged in 1910. The average merchant or manufacturer does business largely on borrowed capital carried on short-term bank notes. The farmer borrows his working capital on long time by using his farm as security, and is not subject to the same anxieties as the merchant whose obligations mature in sixty or ninety days.

Funds to Pay Off French Credit.

Funds have been received by Bonbright & Co. from the French banks which participated in the $15,000,000 French Export Credit of March 12, 1917, for the payment of the first $5,000,000 installment under that credit. This is the initial payment on the last of four credits for $15,000,000 each which were arranged by the banking firm for Schneider & Co., the French munition manufacturers, for financing purchases of war materials in this country.

A Danger to be Overcome.

The revelation of extensive thefts of Liberty bonds in the financial district draws attention to the flaws which exist in the system used in delivering securities. The delivery hours are crowded with work both for the messenger boys and the clerical forces of the brokerage offices, a condition which begets carelessness. The heavy dealings in Liberty bonds have increased the pressure and made available for the resourceful thief a great quantity of securities which may usually be liquidated easily into cash. The brokers have been awakened to a danger which will have to be overcome by measures not heretofore employed in assuring careful delivery and the exchange of checks or receipts at the moment the bonds change hands, not an hour or more later, as has frequently been the case.

THE CONDITION OF TRADE.

Commenting on the condition of trade and the business of the banks, Dun's Review says:

The country enters on its second year of war with many extraordinary economic changes effected and with further important adjustments pending, the ultimate results of which cannot now be clearly determined. While business is still inconvenienced by the various restrictions and regulations of the period, and though the future is uncertain, there is no conspicuous unsettlement in any quarter and the commercial mortality remains notably moderate. The vast governmental expenditures, while logically causing tighter conditions in money, stimulate sustained activity in many directions, and there are accumulating evidences of enhanced purchasing power in the great manufacturing centres and in the prosperous agricultural sections.

Bradstreet's says:

Unneededly civilian requirements are large, but with the Government constantly urging speed in various directions, production for ordinary purposes proceeds under restrictions or licenses, limiting supplies for civilian uses, and owing to the paucity of materials, jobbing trade in staples is marked by considerable interdealing. Easter trade at retail was of exceptionally large proportions, save at the bigger Eastern centres, and indeed tidings from the surplus crop yielding sections indicate that country merchants, irrespective of prices for manufactured goods, want to buy heavily for future delivery.

FULL CAR RULE ORDERED.

Long Island Railroad to Receive Smaller Shipments 3 Days a Week.

To assist in the conservation of equipment and train service as directed by the Federal Railroad Administration, the Long Island Railroad announced yesterday that, beginning April 8, shipments of packages or freight requiring less than a car would be limited to three days a week at all stations of the railroad.

A circular explaining the new regulations which has been sent out by the railroad states that freight of the character above will be received at the stations only on three days a week, which will be posted at the stations. It was said that the days would not be the same at all the stations. If a legal holiday fell on one of the days freight would be accepted on the preceding day, it was said. The reasons for the innovation, the circular stated, are: "The elimination of delay incident to rehandling freight, conservation of car supply, reduction in the number of train movements required to transport a given amount of freight, and improvement in the regularity of freight service."

CURBS LUMBER DEALERS.

Trade Commission Stops Unfair Competition in the West.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—The Federal Trade Commission today ordered ninety-seven lumber companies in the West to desist from unfair methods of competition. The order applied also to Luke W. Boyce, a Minneapolis detective.

Procuring by bad faith or subterfuge information intended only for bona fide customers of mail order houses, furnishing to Platt B. Walker of Minneapolis, Minn., publisher of The Mississippi Valley Lumberman, of the names of persons selling to mail order concerns to enable him to interfere with the free purchase of supplies by those concerns, the employment of Boyce to obtain the business secrets of mail order firms and the following of mail order salesmen to embarrass them in their business dealings, were forbidden in the future by the commission.

Walker and the Lumberman Publishing Company recently signed a stipulation of facts in cases against them, and an order was entered requiring them to cease and desist from practices complained of.

UNTERMYER WARNS OF OVERTAXATION

Tells Ohioans They Must Buy Bonds or Capital Might Be in Danger of Confiscation.

REPLIES TO WAR CRITICS

Declares History Will Have Nothing but Unstinted Praise for What We Have Done.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 5.—Samuel Untermyer of New York, in an address at the opening of the Liberty Loan campaign here tonight, told his hearers that if they would avoid confiscation of private property they must lend their money to the Government. Although long an advocate of the income tax, Mr. Untermyer said the present levies were about as heavy as enterprise would stand, and he declared that the revenues from this source had been greatly underestimated.

"There are just three ways in which to raise the money needed by the Government in this war," said the speaker. "By taxation, by bond issues, and by the confiscation of private property. We are now raising fully 25 per cent. of the annual needs of the Government through the income tax and excess profits tax laws. In my judgment, the revenues from this source have been greatly underestimated. I believe the tax will yield at least $3,500,000,000 and probably over $4,000,000,000.

"Having been for twenty-six years or more a consistent champion of the income tax law, and at a time when it was regarded as a reproach and a socialistic assault on property rights to entertain such views, I have no tender regard for the inviolability of great incomes. If we could in the interest of the prosperity of the country impose still further taxation, I should be heartily in favor of doing so. It is purely a question of governmental policy and not of sympathy with the inviolability of great incomes. If the recent proposal to take all incomes in excess of $100,000 a year were not to my mind destructive of the very purpose sought to be attained, I would favor such a law, but I believe we have well-nigh reached the border line of safety in the way of that form of taxation. Any further substantial burdens in that direction will serve only to provoke evasion and to destroy industry, initiative, and enterprise.

"By far the most serious objection, however, to further taxation is its effect upon enterprises which in these days involve the investment of large amounts of capital.

"For these reasons I maintain that we cannot afford to add to the load that we have imposed upon capital, nor can we look forward to the appreciable reduction of that burden after the war. If that be true, the only other alternative for you, unless you will lend your money to the Government upon its inexhaustible credit and security, is to confiscate private property, and I doubt whether any of us is prepared to advocate such a course."

Turning his attention to those who assail the Government for not preparing in advance for the war, Mr. Untermyer said:

"It sounds like 'thrashing out old straw,' to refer to events preceding the war bearing on the question of our preparedness, but it is just as well to silence our few but noisy 'might have beens' and other Doubting Thomases who never contribute anything to the common welfare in times of stress but wails and lamentations.

"In truth there is no ground for criticism and the time will come soon when there will be nothing but unstinted praise for the marvels that have been accomplished in the brief space of one short year. It is a vindication of the genius of our people and institutions and a revelation of our resourcefulness to which we in common with all mankind will pay tribute when the facts have been analyzed."

LEADING BANKERS PLAN BIG DISCOUNT COMPANY

Announcement of Proposed Concern Follows Chartering of Foreign Trade Banking Corporation.

It became known yesterday that officers of some of the leading banks and trust companies had had under consideration the plan of forming a discount company with a capital of $5,000,000 or $10,000,000. Definite plans have not yet been formulated, although such institutions as the National City Company, the Guaranty Trust Company, the Bankers Trust Company, the Chase National Bank, and the First National Bank have indicated their willingness to participate in the organization of a discount company.

The announcement that powerful banking interests are contemplating the establishment of a discount company comes right on the heels of the incorporation of the Foreign Trade Banking Corporation, with a capital of $2,000,000, by George A. Gaston, President of Gaston, Williams & Wigmore, Inc., and Max May, formerly Vice President of the Guaranty Trust Company.

In some quarters there was a disposition yesterday to believe that Messrs. Gaston and May had "stolen a march" on the Guaranty Trust Company and other institutions in the organization of the first discount company in America. On the other hand, it was stated in other quarters that Mr. May had for several years past been thinking of forming a discount company, and that when he retired from the Vice Presidency of the Guaranty Trust Company early this year he immediately started out to interest capital in the venture.

Both the Gaston and May enterprise and the new discount company which is under consideration have for their object the transaction of business in bills and acceptances along the lines of the long-established discount companies of London.

A certificate of organization of the Foreign Trade Banking Corporation, at 35 Wall Street, has been filed in the New York County Clerk's office. The incorporators are George A. Gaston, with 15,000 shares of $100 par value; Max May, with 2,000 shares; Harry T. Hall, Vice President of the Merchants National Bank, with 500 shares; Wade Robinson, with 2,000 shares, and Benjamin S. Guinness, with 500 shares. The certificate of organization was approved by State Banking Superintendent Skinner a week ago yesterday.

TORRENS BILL IS PASSED.

Will Greatly Benefit Property Owners, Says Its Author.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 5.—Assemblyman Wilfred E. Youker's Torrens bill passed the Senate today. According to the introducer, the passage of the measure is the consummation of a fight started four years ago by John J. Hopper, then Register of New York County, to obtain a "workable Torrens law."

"This law will enable property owners in New York City to free themselves from the grip of the title companies, who will doubtless continue their opposition by attempting to defeat its use," said Mr. Youker tonight.

"The registering of titles is not only a public function, but also is now made practical. Every property owner will find it to his advantage to avail himself of the benefits of this law."

The bill now goes to Governor Whitman.

NATIONAL LEAD CO. EARNS $4,896,952

Reports a Net Profit for 1917 $1,919,253 Larger Than in Previous Year.

PROPERTIES CONSOLIDATED

Balance for Dividends in Terms of Common Stock Equals a Trifle Over $15 a Share.

The National Lead Company earned a net profit of $4,896,952 in the year ended Dec. 31, an increase of $1,919,253 over the preceding year. In terms of the common stock the balance for dividends was equal to slightly more than $15 a share after providing for the preferred stock disbursement. The annual statement issued yesterday went into considerable detail in regard to the year's business, with especial application to the consolidation of properties which was made during 1917.

The company took over all the property of the St. Louis Smelting and Refining Company, except the smelting works and some minor plants. The stock of this concern has been owned by the National Lead Company for a long time. After the property transfer took place the St. Louis Company's surplus was declared as dividends. The stock of the subsidiary, formerly carried on the books at cost, $1,653,287, was then lowered to $500,000. The surplus declared as dividends amounted to $4,071,148 and appeared on the National Lead Company's books as part of the earnings of 1917.

The report contained a statement representing the National Lead Company's condition before the change and another showing the effect of the transfers and also the consolidated position of the parent concern and the companies in which it owns all the capital stock. Total assets of $58,722,630 in the first statement were increased to $80,718,850 in the second; the property account rose from $25,229,672, less depreciation and depletion reserves, to $41,557,068, and the surplus from $8,341,563 to $15,016,424.

Edward J. Cornish, President, told stockholders that the year brought great activity in certain lines of manufacture and a decline in others. Business having to do with war requirements taxed the capacity of the plants engaged on it. In regard to the United States Cartridge Company, in which National Lead has a half interest, Mr. Cornish said large profits in proportion to the stock were expected this year and small profits in relation to the volume of business. The National Lead Company of Argentina was formed during the year to manufacture mixed metals.

The report said it was believed by the management that the 3 per cent. dividend could be maintained. Stockholders numbered 7,152 at the end of the year, a gain of 512 during 1917. Half the shareowners are women.

SALVATION FUND NEXT.

Army Will Begin Drive for $250,000 in New York.

A campaign for the purpose of raising $250,000, New York's quota of the Salvation Army War Fund, will be conducted from May 5 to May 12, inclusive, it was announced at a luncheon given at the Railroad Club yesterday by Wilbur C. Fisk, President of the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Company. Among the speakers were Horace Andrews, President of the New York State Railways, and E. H. Eldridge, State Secretary of the Y. M. C. A.

The committee in charge of the drive in this city will be George Gordon Battle, Chairman; E. E. Olcott, George T. Brokaw, James H. Post, Mrs. William Grant Brown, Henry W. Taft, Miss Mary Garrett Hay, Mrs. William Cutting Story, Colonel W. A. McIntyre, George T. Wilson, William M. Kingsley, Adolph Lewisohn, Samuel Untermyer, Abram I. Elkus, William A. Prendergast, Frank L. Dowling, Mrs. Charles S. Whitman, John H. Finley, Mrs. James Lees Laidlaw, and Commander Evangeline Booth.

THE COTTON MARKET

Net Loss of 62 to 69 Points on Report of New Attempt at Fixing Prices.

Taking advantage of the weakened condition of the local cotton market yesterday, as a result of the recent rapid and continued advances, a report from Washington indicating the possibility of a new price-fixing attempt in cotton by the War Industries Board was made the starting point of a bear speculators' coup which knocked prices down by from 60 to 70 points, practically overturning the results of the big advance of Thursday. The market closed barely steady, at a net loss of 62 to 69 points.

The price-fixing report started with a dispatch from Washington that the War Industries Board had called a meeting for next Wednesday with representatives of the cotton trade to discuss prices of cotton goods on behalf of the Government, which is now by far the largest buyer of cotton fabrics. This dispatch was accompanied, when it reached the ring, by statements attributed to unnamed officials that there was "a runaway market" in cotton and goods and that it was time to call a halt. The story arrived at the ring at the psychological moment, in the late afternoon, when the market was wavering. Prompt and heavy selling, in big blocks, led a selling drive which swept prices before it all down the list, and even after the close there were many big selling orders still to be placed around the ring.

After the close, however, advices were received by many in the trade from Washington which put a different appearance upon the report which had caused the break. One large spot dealer, not himself a speculator, received a telegram from Senator E. D. Smith of South Carolina which said: "War Industries Board has not the authority to fix the price of raw cotton or products. Meeting called Wednesday is for the purpose of getting prices on cotton fabrics from the manufacturers for war purposes."

Exports yesterday were 1,500 bales. Southern spot markets were 66 points higher to 50 lower. Yesterday's quotations follow:

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

The market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange yesterday closed dull with final quotations showing net losses from a fraction to a point. With the exception of a few moments after the opening, the market was in a lethargic state throughout the entire session. Prices recovered slightly from the early declines, and held steady thereafter, with fractional changes up or down. Trading was wholly professional in character, and the slight incentive given to the list was due chiefly to cash transactions. There was an evident disposition to await more definite news from the battle fronts.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

Prospects for the new wheat crop continue most favorable, and the trade feels very hopeful in regard to the outcome. The Modern Miller report said that the season was one to two weeks early in the matter of seeding Spring wheat, while in the soft Winter wheat States the plant shows an even stand and of fair average prospect, and in Kansas beneficial rains have fallen and the crops show green and healthy over the principal sections of that State. Receipts at primary points continue moderate, and so far the efforts of the Food Administration toward inducing farmers to sell have not had much apparent influence, although receipts for the week have increased a trifle.

CORN.

The corn market was firm and higher early, prices at one time showing gains of ⅝c. with a fair demand and light offers. Subsequently, however, a reactionary tendency developed, in sympathy with oats, and at the close values were only ¼c above the final of Thursday. Small receipts and firm cash markets were the basis for the early firmness, and the trade apparently believes that a further falling off in the movement will occur. Weather conditions were favorable for farming operations, but it is still too early to form conclusions regarding the probable acreage to be planted to corn, especially as the question of seed corn is a factor this season which may have a tendency to reduce the area planted. In the local cash market kiln-dried No. 3 yellow was quoted at $1.97¼, No. 4 yellow $1.94¾, No. 3 white $2.20¾, cost and freight, New York; Argentine corn, $2.30, free on board cars.

OATS.

The oats market started firm and early prices worked up ½c with reports of further export buying and on a better demand from commission houses, who were expecting bullish developments in connection with the new contract, which was to be voted upon on Saturday. Late reports from Chicago, however, said that the vote on the oats contract had been deferred to a later date, and toward the close prices broke sharply under liquidation, closing ⅜c to ⅝c net lower. Favorable weather and crop advices and predictions of larger receipts next week were given as factors of the late decline. The local cash market was easy, natural quoted at $1.04@1.05; clipped white, $1.05@1.07, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The provision market was easier under selling by commission houses, prompted by a decline of 15c to 25c in the price of live hogs, and also on the unsatisfactory condition of the cash trade. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 33,000 head; estimated for Saturday, 25,000 head; Kansas City received 8,000 and Omaha 14,000 hogs.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The market for cottonseed oil was dull and featureless, with prices entirely nominal in absence of business. The cash position was without special feature, and prices were about steady. Range of prices:

COFFEE.

There was a steadier tone in the coffee market yesterday, with trade appearing less confident of such an increase in imports as would weaken the spot situation. So far no official statement has been made regarding expected Government measures, and it was pointed out that the amount of ocean tonnage mentioned as likely to be placed at the disposal of the coffee trade would fall considerably short of replacing normal warehouse deliveries in this country. The market opened at an advance of 4@10 points and closed not unchanged on April, but generally 6@10 points higher. The rally carried May back to the maximum price of 8.65c, while September sold up to 8.85c and closed at 8.83c. The advance was attributed to covering and a moderate demand from trade sources. The local spot market was dull, but firmly held, at 9⅛c for Rio 7s and 11⅛c for Santos 4s.

SUGAR.

There was no change in the local sugar market, prices continuing on the fixed basis of 4.985c for Cubas, cost and freight, equal to 6.005c for centrifugal and 7.45c for fine granulated. The committee reported purchases of 31,000 bags of Cubas for shipment this month, and taken altogether the situation seems to be gradually loosening up. That there will be enough sugar on hand to take care of the early canning season seems to be assured, as the Government has promised a number of ships for carrying sugar from Cuba to this country, but how long these ships will be in the sugar-carrying trade remains to be seen. However, the demand at present seems to be less urgent, and refiners are making pretty fair deliveries.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 6,673 pkgs., including 800 pkgs. in transit for export. Supplies are still excessive and without much enlargement of the demand; values are again lower and unsettled. Most grades of creamery, both fresh and held, declined ½c. Renovated still neglected and values uncertain. Ladles are easier. Very little packing stock here and prices are fairly sustained in consequence. Creamery, higher than extras, a pound, 41½@42c; extras, (92 score,) 40½@41c; firsts, (88 to 91 score,) 39½@40½c; seconds, (84 to 87 score,) 37½@38c; thirds, 36@37c; creamery, unsalted, higher than extras, 42½@43c; extras, 41½@42c; firsts, 39½@41c; seconds, 38@39c; creamery, held, as to quality, 34@40c; State dairy, tubs, finest, 40½@41c; good to prime, 38@40c; common to fair, 34@37½c; renovated, extras, 38½@39c; firsts, 37@38c; lower grades, 34@36c; imitation creamery, firsts, 35½@36½c; ladies, current make, firsts, 34½@35c; seconds, 33@33½c; lower grades, 31@32½c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 33½c; No. 2, 32½@33c; lower grades, 28@32c.

EGGS.—Receipts, 30,385 cases. Arrivals continue excessive, and the market is unsettled and irregular. Regular distributing trade is quiet. There is little speculative support on the part of local dealers; most of whom are anticipating further decline as the result of rapid accumulation here, but country advices are sustained under relatively high levels. Larger buying interests are reported to be taken over at primary points, and much of the stock from desirable sections arriving here is under limits which take it practically off the market. To force sales prices have to be further shaded, and average qualities are being sold at somewhat lower prices. High grades from desirable sections are generally held about as before, but it is difficult to do important business, and the offerings for current needs at some concession seem to be sufficient for requirements. Nearby white eggs are having some call for storage. Some receivers have more stock than they can promptly move, and, while the sales reported are at unchanged prices, outside figures are somewhat extreme. Fresh gathered extras, a dozen, 37½@38c; storage packed, firsts, 36@37c; regular packed, extra firsts, 36@36c; regular packed, firsts, 32½@34½c; seconds, 31@32c; fresh gathered dirties, No. 1, 31½@32c; No. 2 and poorer, 30@31c; fresh gathered checks, ordinary to choice, dry, 29@31c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western hennery whites, fine in fancy, 39@40c; ordinary to prime, 37@38½c; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 36@39c; Western and Southern, gathered whites, 36½@38c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby hennery browns, 37@38c; gathered brown and mixed colors, 34@38c; duck eggs, 45@55c; goose eggs, per dozen, 60@70c.

BARS SERVICE BOARD FROM RAISING FARES

Court of Appeals Upholds Rochester Contention Affecting Surface Lines.

CITY MUST CONSENT FIRST

Decision, Which Is Final, Disposes of Many Applications—No Transfer Charge.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 5.—Increased fares for traction companies which are limited to 5-cent fares by contract, franchise, or statutory provision failed to find favor with the Court of Appeals today. A decision handed down by the court denies the Public Service Commission, Second District, the right to consider the necessity of granting increased rates on application of surface lines so bound.

The decision was rendered in the case of the city of Rochester, which protested the right of the Utilities Board to grant the New York State Railways Company an increase in fare from 5 to 6 cents in Rochester. Judges Hiscock and Collin dissented.

The Court of Appeals reversed the lower court's decision. Justice Wesley O. Howard at a Special Term of the Appellate Division, Third Department, denied a writ of prohibition to restrain the up-State Public Service Commission from taking any further proceedings in the application of the New York State Railways Company. The commission had ruled last November that it had jurisdiction over such cases under general powers granted by the Legislature.

No Legislative Intent.

The effect of the opinion, which was written by Judge Cuthbert W. Pounds, is that where a municipality and a street railway corporation have entered into an agreement to fix the fare at 5 cents, that agreement is binding. Judge Pounds points out that the court was unable to find anything in the statute which would disclose legislative intent whereby the Public Service Commission could override an agreement regulating local car fares. In the absence of this intent, the court held that it could not permit any action designed to destroy the nature of such an agreement.

The court granted an absolute writ of prohibition, which restrains the Commission from reviewing the Rochester case. The issuance of this writ leaves local railway corporations without any relief save an amendment to the Public Service Commission law, which would specifically vest these boards with authority to hear and determine applications for fare increases in cities where 5 cents has been fixed as the maximum rate.

"The power of local authorities to impose as a condition to giving their consent to the construction and operation of a street railway that a stipulated rate of fare should be charged, has been repeatedly upheld," in the court's opinion.

Affecting the right of a city to stipulate with a corporation the maximum fare charge the Court of Appeals points out that the grant by a municipality of authority to use its streets is not a mere privilege or gratuity, but that once accepted it becomes a contract which neither the State nor its agencies can impair.

Affects Transfers Plea.

The Court of Appeals in the Rochester case disposes for the present of all of the applications for an increase in fares throughout the State, and in the opinion of the commission in this district it also disposes of the pending applications before the commission, asking that the surface railroad companies in this city be permitted to charge 2 cents for transfers.

The decision of the court is final, as it relates to a matter within the sole control of the State, and the United States Supreme Court is without jurisdiction.

In the North Shore Traction Company case before the Public Service Commission of this city, a decision by Commissioner Travis H. Whitney was practically the same as that in the Rochester litigation. In this case and in all similar cases the two commissions have been at variance, and the decision of the court sustains the opinion of Mr. Whitney and is in line with the brief prepared by William L. Ransom, chief counsel of the commission, who intervened in the case. Another brief filed by the Corporation Counsel, who also intervened, consisted mainly of Mr. Whitney's North Shore opinion.

Mr. Ransom said yesterday that the companies seeking an increase in revenues here by an increase of fare either directly or by charging for transfers began at the wrong end. They should have applied first to the Board of Estimate for a modification of their franchises, and then, having procured the modification sought and thus opened a way for the commission to act, should have applied to the commission for the desired authority.

"Under this decision the Mayor and the Board of Estimate are likely to be confronted very directly by the problem of the five-cent fare on the surface lines of this city," Commissioner Whitney said.

EARNINGS OF HUDSON TUBES

Company's Net $3,135,187 Against $3,142,079 Last Year.

The Hudson & Manhattan Railroad Company, which operates the tunnels under the Hudson River, earned a gross income of $4,427,005 in 1917, an increase of $342,858 over the preceding year. Operating expenses, including depreciation, amounted to $2,219,901, an expansion of $303,980. The net return from the Hudson Terminal buildings brought the company's net up to $3,135,187, compared with $3,142,079 the year before.

After deducting bond interest and appropriating $845,000 as a reserve for contingencies, the company had a balance of $1,847, compared with $332,134 in 1916. The sharp drop in this item was caused by a substantial increase in the reserve. Wilbur Fisk, President, said in the annual statement yesterday that the year had brought many unforeseen difficulties, which were met in an efficient way by the employes.

OIL FREIGHT RATE INQUIRY.

General Investigation Ordered by Interstate Commerce Board.

WASHINGTON, April 5.—A general investigation of railroad freight rates on petroleum and petroleum products was ordered today by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The investigation was decided on in view of wide differences in the amounts and percentages of recent rate increases sought by the railroads. It appeared, said the order, that an equitable adjustment of rates could be effected only by a general investigation covering the whole situation.

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday..........6 p. c. for the best names
Thursday...........6 " " " " "

The quotations are for six months' paper.

Corduroy Skirts and Suits.

According to some manufacturers corduroy in suits and in separate skirts has become more popular this Spring than for some time past. In sports skirts it seems to have attracted the most attention, and is actively sought in many sections. For this purpose it is usually preferred in white, though light blue, pink, tan, and very light yellow are also in good demand. Suit manufacturers also are said to have found models in this material big sellers. In this business a number of the dark shades are taken as well as the light colors.

Wash and Silk Skirts Selling.

While business in separate skirts is marking time at the moment, so far as woolen ones are concerned, there is apparently no dearth of demand for wash and silk skirts. In the wash skirts the favored materials so far have been tricotines, cotton gabardines, and piques, while in the silks the best business to date has been done on soft taffetas, foulards, satins, and silk ginghams. In the woolen skirt business passing appear serges, gabardines, poplins, and burella voiles. There is practically no telling the most popular colors, though in the wash skirts white is naturally a big factor. Quite a few of the woolen skirts are pleated, but most of the silk and wash skirts are made plain in this respect. Full and half belts, fancy pockets, and novelty button arrangements are among the trimmings seen.

Soft Collars for Men Popular.

Soft collars for men are in much greater demand this year than last, according to reports from the local trade. There is said also to be considerable popularity developing for colored soft collars. Irregular stripes of several harmonizing colors as well as solid shades are taken. There are some few in figured designs on a white or a very light colored background, but stripes, checks, and solid colors are generally preferred.

Men's Straw Hat Trade.

Straw hat manufacturers report that Spring business this year has been very good, considering the conditions which prevailed when the buying season started. Styles are not very different from last year's offerings, it is said, though in some cases brims are a trifle wider than they were last Summer and the crowns are somewhat lower. Narrow brims and high crowns, however, are still very much in evidence. Rough straws seem to be occupying the centre of the stage just now, though it is thought that when the retail season opens the smooth finished hats will come into their own as they have always done in the past.

Wash Dresses in Demand.

Now that the Easter season is past, it is said that buyers are turning their attention to wash dresses of every description. Ginghams, calicoes and voiles are prominent in this business, and there is said to be every indication that the demand is going to be unusually heavy. Very simple effects are preferred, and the surplice style in all its variations is among the leaders. There are a great many very smart looking fitted and semi-fitted dresses being shown. The colorings in most cases are light, and many bright combinations of colors in stripes and checks are among those which are selling most readily.

Gray Goods Prices Strong.

Buying was rather weak yesterday in the local market for gray goods, but the same could not be said of the prices asked and paid. Business was done on 39-inch 68-72s at 19¼ cents for this month's delivery, and, while many of the mills would not accept less than 20, the former figure was regarded as the real market. For April, lots of 38½-inch 60-48s, 16 cents was paid. Buyers still are not keen to pay 23 cents for 39-inch 80 squares, but the mills would take nothing less than that for any kind of nearby shipment. Sheetings and other coarse goods continued rather quiet, but the former were firm on the bases of 22 cents for 64-square four yards, and 22¼ cents for 56-60s of the same weight. Printcloth prices closed this way:

39-inch, 80x80s	23c	38½-inch, 64-60s	17¾c
39-inch, 72x76s	22c	38½-inch, 64-56s	17½c
39-inch, 68x72s	19¼c	38½-inch, 60-52s	*16½c
39-inch, 56x44s	15c	38½-inch, 60-48s	16c
38½-inch, 64-64s	18c	27-inch, 64-60s	13c

To Urge Standard Color Card.

Definite steps were taken yesterday, at a meeting held at the Waldorf-Astoria, toward the solution of the problem of coordinating colors in the various branches of the women's ready-to-wear industries, as well as among makers of shoes, gloves, hosiery, &c. Representatives of all these industries were present. The chief decision of the meeting was to have representatives of these trades on the Color Committee of the Textile Color Card Association, Inc. Frederick Bode, who presided, read from a pamphlet which will soon be sent to 10,000 prominent retailers throughout the country urging upon them the advisability of using a standard color card. This plan met the unanimous approval of those present.

Glass Trade Active.

Manufacturers of glassware with offices in this city report that the Spring trade in this market is fairly active. Household glassware is being taken in liberal quantities by buyers from many parts of the country, though local retailers continue to pursue a policy of ordering their requirements more or less from week to week. The supply of heavy tumblers and glass jars on hand for immediate delivery, however, is very limited, and few factories are yet in a position to promise deliveries in these lines for nearer than five or six months from now. Cut glass is in good demand and blank shapes are also well taken.

M., there to show cause why discharge should not be granted.

JOHN J. TOWNSEND,
Referee in Bankruptcy.

COMMODITIES PRICES.

Week's Fluctuations Again Showed Excess of Advances.

While the fluctuations in Dun's list of wholesale commodities prices were more numerous this week than for some time, and while there was the excess of advances that has marked the list recently, the difference between the number of advances and declines was smaller than that shown last week. In the foodstuffs the chief interest laid in the contrast between dairy products prices and those asked for the major provisions at Chicago.

The following list gives the minimum wholesale prices quoted on forty-one standard commodities this week at this city, unless otherwise specified. They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for last week and the corresponding week a year ago:

*Nominal. †Government basis.

The foodstuffs part of the list showed a slight excess of declines, due largely to the entire lack of advances in the dairy products. While there were no changes in cheese prices, the best butter declined to a point below the corresponding 1917 figure, and renovated stock was also cheaper. Curiously enough, however, the latter costs more now than it did last year. Nearby fancy eggs declined again, this time to a level only two cents a dozen higher than the quotation of a year ago. First Westerns also fell off, and are now quoted at the same price that prevailed at this time in 1917.

At Chicago Middle Western lard and short ribs were lower, but all of the live meats and mess pork were higher. All of the listed changes in the vegetables were declines, they including rutabagas and white turnips, cabbage, onions, and choice pea beans. Neither the fresh nor the dried fruits showed change either way. The same was true of teas, coffees, and sugars, but in the spices a decline in Zanzibar cloves contrasted with advances in Cochin ginger and white Singapore pepper.

For the first time in a long while the metals list showed changes in items other than the minor ones. Ordinary antimony was off, while in the crude products declines were shown both by basic valley furnace and Bessemer pig iron. In the lumber market there were eight advances in the seventeen varieties listed, due, in part at least, to the increased use of wood for war purposes, notably in ships and airplanes. The price on common Hudson River brick declined. In the naval stores there were declines in resin and turpentine, while at Cincinnati spirits were quoted lower than last week.

In the grain list corn showed the only advance, the declines being attributed to malt, oats, and long rye straw. In the leather market there were no quotable changes either way, but in the hides advances in No. 1 Texas and No. 1 calfskins offset a drop in No. 1 native packer stock. The combined list for drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs, and oils contained eleven advances and only three declines. The features included the smallest number of changes in the oils for many weeks and a drop of $2 a pound in opium, jobbing lots, to $25 a pound. The miscellaneous changes included advances in Brazilian crude rubber and raw silk.

Interest in the textiles again centred in burlaps and cotton goods, both of which showed added strength as a result of underlying conditions. Both heavy and light burlaps went up again, and in the cottons the changes were confined for a second week to advances in unfinished drills, sheetings, and printcloths. The sharp rise in cotton was no small factor in these increases, as trading in these goods was none too heavy.

BUSINESS NOTES.

C. H. White, who formerly was manager of the American Guaranteed Holeproof Clothiers Company at New York, has organized and is President of the All-Prufe Fabric Mills, Inc., and in the future will devote his attention entirely to the piece goods business. He has opened offices with L. Bachman & Co., 257 Fourth Avenue.

The Northam Warren Corporation, manufacturer of manicure specialties, has removed to its new plant at 114 West Seventeenth Street, this city, where it occupies a six-story building, 75 by 80 feet.

The Hawes Foundry and Equipment Company has recently acquired the Central Bronze Company. The products of the company, which consist of steam engineering, industrial, and shipbuilding supplies, will be distributed through the John Wiltert Company of this city, Brooklyn, St. Louis, and Buenos Aires.

The National Association of Worsted Yarn Spinners, at its general meeting yesterday in the Woolen Goods Exchange, changed its name to the National Association of Worsted and Woolen Spinners.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

Broome St. Mercantile Building Bought for Occupancy—Another Brooklyn Waterfront Deal.

The sale of a Broome Street business building was a feature of a quiet real estate market yesterday.

Mrs. Adeline I. Lathan sold through Horace S. Ely & Co., the six-story mercantile building, at 457 to 459 Broome Street, on a plot 50.5 by 95.10. The purchaser will make extensive alterations and occupy the property with his own business.

$1,700,000 Brooklyn Waterfront Deal.

The Palmer property, another large waterfront tract on the East River and Newtown Creek, in Greenpoint, Brooklyn, has been sold by Bryan L. Kennelly to a client.

This property contains more than 600,000 square feet, including bulkhead and land under water, and is bounded by Freeman Street, Eagle Street, West Street, Franklin Street, Commercial Street, the East River, Newtown Creek and the State Barge Canal Terminal. It includes various buildings, a large pier and about 700 feet of bulkhead. The property has been held at $1,700,000, and adjoins the Havemeyer sugar house property, reported sold by Mr. Kennelly several days ago.

Bronx Sales.

Bernard Bloch bought from Cahn & Pitman the six-story new-law apartment house, with five stores, at the southwest corner of Bathgate Avenue and 184th Street.

G. A. Pfortner resold for the Benenson Realty Company three lots on the south side of West 167th Street, 85 feet east of Lawrence Street, and four lots on the east side of Sedgwick Avenue, about 425 feet south of 167th Street. They were recently taken in a trade with the Hudson Realty Company.

Brooklyn.

Louise Tappan sold the one-family house at 953 Bay Ridge Avenue to a client of Walter S. Ross and C. C. Gretsinger for occupancy.

The Jere Johnson Jr. Co. auctioned for the Edward J. O'Brien estate, in the Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange, 284 and 286 South Ninth Street and 284 Rodney Street, at the intersection of Broadway, South Ninth, and Rodney Streets, for $19,750, to John J. Farrell; 707 Willoughby Avenue, near Sumner Avenue, a three-story brick dwelling, for $8,000, to Julius Epstein, and 13 Harrison Avenue, between Hewes and Hooper Streets, for $2,525, to Parcols Holding Corporation.

Queens Borough Sales.

R. W. Kellogg sold to A. M. Storms the dwelling on the west side of Husson Avenue, 84 feet north of Bellevue Avenue, Hollis.

H. Morgenroth sold to N. J. F. Stadtfeld the dwelling and plot 52 by 78 feet, on the northwest corner of Jefferson Avenue and Howell Street, Queens.

H. Braun sold to F. De Brucknaere the plot, 75 by 90 feet, on the north side of Howell Avenue, 151 feet west of Twenty-seventh Street, Woodside.

Charles Gold, a stock broker, has purchased the property formerly owned and occupied by E. J. Farrell at 302 Sanford Avenue, Flushing. The property has a frontage of 100 feet on Sanford Avenue, and is 237 feet deep, running through to Barclay Street. It is improved with a fourteen-room house.

Robert C. Muir of the Glidden Varnish Company purchased from Edwin H. Brown a new stucco house at Addisleigh, St. Albans. G. W. McDougall negotiated the sale.

Staten Island.

Moffatt & Schwab sold for the Staten Island Holding Company the new dwelling on the south side of Myrtle Avenue, West New Brighton, to Mrs. Theodore W. Mills of West New Brighton, who is to take possession about May 1.

Cornelius G. Wolff sold for the Nerraw Realty Company the private frame dwelling on Portland Place, Brighton Heights, to C. Howard, who will take possession immediately.

Westchester County.

The Robert E. Farley Organization sold the Strohhecker house on Buckingham Road, Nepperhan Heights, Yonkers, to G. A. Sebacher of New York City.

New Jersey.

E. J. Vintschger, Vice President of Markt & Hammacher, sold his large Colonial residence, 113 Park Street, Montclair, N. J., on a plot 70 by 211 feet. The property was held at $13,000, and the sale was negotiated by the Frank Hughes-Taylor Company.

Commercial Leases.

Charles B. Walker leased for Frederick Hollander the store and basement at 245 Canal Street to the St. Regis Self-Service, Inc., for a long term of years at an aggregate rental of about $40,000. This company has a chain of lunch rooms throughout the city.

George R. Read & Co. leased the store and basement at 200 Central Park West to the Breese-Montant Motors, Inc.; also the store and basement at 207 West Seventy-second Street to the Dellon Tire Company.

Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company has leased the banking floor at 35 Wall Street to the Foreign Trade Banking Corporation for a term of years.

J. Scobel leased to Selds' Lunch Company the store and basement at 22 Warren Street for a term of ten years.

William A. White & Sons and Robert Rainey leased the entire building at 338 Greenwich Street to Schnetter & Finkelstein for a term of years. The building will be altered for the tenants.

Begin Liberty Loan Drive.

Plans for the big drive which real estate men will launch in behalf of the Third Liberty Loan were outlined yesterday at a mass meeting held in the rooms of the Real Estate Board of New York.

Alfred E. Marling is Chairman and Charles S. Brown Vice Chairman of the Real Estate Board's Liberty Loan Committee, which is made up of members of the Brooklyn Board of Real Estate Brokers and representatives from the other boroughs. Campaigners for the loan subscriptions will visit all the brokerage offices and also the offices of the large real estate owners.

Place $370,000 Loan.

Hughes & Hammond have placed for Bing & Bing a loan of $370,000 at 5½ per cent. for five years, on the new fourteen-story apartment hotel known as the Robert Fulton, at 228 to 230 West Seventy-first Street.

The building was completed last Fall, at which time it was leased for twenty-one years at a net rental of $72,000 per annum.

Recent Buyers.

George W. Jackel is the buyer of the dwelling at 210 East Sixty-second Street.

The Lawyers Mortgage Company is the buyer of 388 Broadway.

Realty Notes.

Pease & Elliman, Inc., announce that the other stockholders have acquired the interest of W. Albert Pease in the corporation, and that he has resigned as President and Director of the corporation and allied companies.

W. Albert Pease announces that he will open an office at 50 East Forty-second Street for the transaction of a general real estate and insurance business.

The New York Building Managers' Association reports that robberies in elevator apartments in this city have caused the Burglary Underwriters' Association to advance rates from $16.50 to $19.50 the $1,000.

The commission announces for May 7 an examination for inspector of knit goods, for men. Vacancies in the Quartermaster Corps, New York, at $1,200 a year, will be filled from this examination. The duties are such that appointees should be able to judge various grades of wool, wool substitutes, and cotton; they should understand the mixing and blending of them, the carding and spinning of woolen and cotton yarns, the knitting of flat and ribbed fabrics for underwear and hosiery, and they should understand the essential requirements of finish and appearance of the garments. They should also be able to determine whether underwear has been cut, stitched, and finished according to specifications. Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on physical ability, 10; training and experience, 90. Applicants must show that they have had at least three years' experience in the actual manufacture of knitted underwear, hosiery, or other knit goods, or at least five years' experience as a salesman of such goods. They must have reached their twenty-first birthday on the date of the examination. Further information may be obtained from the commission, Washington, D. C.

Education Notes.

The Board of Education yesterday increased the wage of pupil teachers from 75 cents to $1 a day.

The recommendation of the Board of Superintendents that Miss Fanniebelle Curtis, Director of Kindergartens, receive a leave of absence from duty, without pay for one year to establish kindergarten work as a war relief measure for children in France, has been disapproved by the Board of Education, her services being required here.

Principals of public schools are to be allowed $25 a year for small repairs in their schools.

The assignment of Carolina G. Ronzone, a teacher in the school for the deaf, to special duty for one year as an instructor of physically handicapped children in industrial art work, and also to placement work for such children, with additional compensation at $300 a year, was approved by the Board of Education yesterday.

A kindergarten class will be established in the Dispensary and Hospital for Deformities and Joint Diseases, 1,915 Madison Avenue, as an annex to P. S. 103, Manhattan.

Patriotic exercises were held in the public schools yesterday in commemoration of the first anniversary of the entrance of the United States into the present war.

An effort will be made to obtain a proper site and building for the School for the Deaf in East Twenty-third Street.

Agnes C. O'Brien was appointed yesterday as a teacher in P. S. 21, Manhattan.

A leave of absence with pay until April 30 was granted to Jacob J. Shapiro, assistant to Principal in P. S. 4, the Bronx, to assist the Jewish Publicity Committee of the Liberty Loan Committee in connection with the Third Liberty Loan issue.

A leave of absence without pay has been granted to Helen H. Kammerer, a teacher in P. S. 86, Brooklyn, until Aug. 31 for war service.

The leave of absence granted to Ida B. Lanx, a teacher in the Morris High School, for war service has been terminated.

I Will Do It Today

And Do it Before the Sun Goes Down Tonight

IF I do not get another thing done today, I will do this one thing—as a fitting remembrance of that day, just a year ago, when America entered this war.

I will go today and buy a Liberty Bond.

I'll buy a Liberty Bond whether I think I can or not. I'll buy one although I had already bought a dozen. I'll do it no matter what kind of obstacle stands in my way. That is the only way we Americans can win this war—it's by doing the things that other people say "can't be done."

DON'T let's allow another year to roll 'round and find us still wondering who is going to win this war—let's decide that question today, once and for all. And we can decide it if you and I and every American will jump right into this thing and say "I WILL do it."

There is not another thing we can do that will help our boys to win this fight as much as the fact that we here at home are ready to back them up—right to our last cent.

There is not another thing that will so stem the tide of German confidence as the knowledge that they have gone up against a nation that will not back down—a united nation that they cannot overwhelm—that is made of sterner stuff than they are.

GO to the nearest bank, trust company, department store or other authorized agency and make application for your Bonds. Convenient terms of payment will be arranged. Some banks and employers will let you buy Liberty Bonds on payments as low as $1 per week.

The Third Liberty Loan for $3,000,000,000 pays 4¼% interest semi-annually, payable March 15th and September 15th. Bonds of this loan are non-convertible and will be accepted at par and accrued interest in payment of Federal Inheritance Taxes. The wealth of the whole nation stands back of these bonds. The Government has established a 5% Sinking Fund to protect the market value of all Liberty Bonds.

No fee of any kind will be charged whether you buy for cash or on the installment plan—every dollar you invest goes directly to the Government and will be used to help win the war.

Don't let us wait until heavy casualty lists bring home to us the fact that we are at war. Let's do our part today to keep the war itself from "coming home" to us on this side.

FORGET that you are a laborer—forget that you are an employer—forget that you are anything except an American—the kind of an American that says "I WILL"—and does it.

Buy that Liberty Bond today. Not alone because it's a good investment—not alone because you want to save a few dollars—not because you'd be ashamed not to buy one—but buy it because you want to end this war.

If you and I and every other American takes that stand today—there will be no war on next April 6th.

READ the full details of the Third Liberty Loan. You can buy on the installment plan or for cash. Read how to buy—and then before you do another thing, say:—

I'll Buy My Liberty Bond Today

'FORCE, FORCE TO THE UTMOST,' SAYS WILSON, IS OUR ANSWER TO GERMANY'S CHALLENGE; NO PEACE THAT GIVES HER FREE HAND IN EAST

But the German Forces Are Now Barely Two Miles from Amiens Railway.

LULL ON THE BRITISH FRONT

Masses of Germans Gather Near Corbie, but Apparently Delayed Their Effort.

PARIS, April 6.—Following a night of violent guns duels along the Avre without any infantry actions, the German forces made powerful attacks today at several points along the French front from the region of Montdidier eastward to the east and south of Chauny, (southwest of La Fère.)

The enemy's assaults were beaten off, says the War Office report tonight, except on the left bank of the Oise in the Chauny sector. There a series of violent drives by the Germans forced Pétain's men to fall back from advanced posts to "prepared positions."

Two other attempts were made by the Germans on this southern side of the Somme "elbow." One was between Mesnil St. Georges and Montchel, (both southwest of Montdidier,) and the other was north of Mount Renaud, (southwest of Noyon.) In both cases the French troops held their ground.

The night bulletin of the War Office reads:

The artillery action was violent on the front of the Oise and the Somme. The enemy this morning delivered a strong attack on our positions between Mesnil-St. Georges and Montchel. The attack, broken by our artillery fire, failed completely. Numerous dead remained before our lines.

Further to the north our batteries dispersed enemy concentrations in the wood south of Hangard and in the region of Demuin.

In the Noyon sector, after a bombardment with heavy shells, the Germans attempted to wrest from us our gains north of Mount Renaud, but in a very spirited engagement our troops held their advantage and maintained the conquered ground.

On the left bank of the Oise the day was marked by a series of violent attacks launched by the Germans on the Abbecourt front, south of Chauny and at Barisis. Our troops resisted on the lines of the advanced posts, and after having inflicted heavy losses on the enemy proceeded to occupy, in conformity with orders received, prepared positions.

In the Argonne, in the region of St. Mihiel and Ban-de-Sapt., considerable activity was displayed by both artilleries.

The day statement of the War Office is as follows:

The night was marked by violent bombardments north and south of the Avre, particularly in the region of Montchel, without infantry actions.

On the right bank of the Meuse and in the forest of Apremont the artillery fighting was rather severe at times.

Two German raids, one north of Vaux-les-Palameix, the other near Seuzey, were without result.

Elsewhere the night was calm.

President Wilson's Speech in Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Md., April 6.—The text of President Wilson's speech here tonight is as follows:

Fellow-citizens: This is the anniversary of our acceptance of Germany's challenge to fight for our right to live and be free, and for the sacred rights of freemen everywhere. The nation is awake. There is no need to call to it. We know what the war must cost, our utmost sacrifice, the lives of our fittest men, and, if need be, all that we possess.

The loan we are met to discuss is one of the least parts of what we are called upon to give and to do, though in itself imperative. The people of the whole country are alive to the necessity of it, and are ready to lend to the utmost, even where it involves a sharp skimping and daily sacrifice to lend out of meagre earnings. They will look with reprobation and contempt upon those who can and will not, upon those who demand a higher rate of interest, upon those who think of it as a mere commercial transaction. I have not come, therefore, to urge the loan. I have come only to give you, if I can, a more vivid conception of what it is for.

The reasons for this great war, the reason why it had to come, the need to fight it through, and the issues that hang upon its outcome, are more clearly disclosed now than ever before. It is easy to see just what this particular loan means, because the cause we are fighting for stands more sharply revealed than at any previous crisis of the momentous struggle. The man who knows least can now see plainly how the cause of justice stands, and what the imperishable thing he is asked to invest in. Men in America may be more sure than they ever were before that the cause is their own, and that, if it should be lost, their own great nation's place and mission in the world would be lost with it.

I call you to witness, my fellow-countrymen, that at no stage of this terrible business have I judged the purposes of Germany intemperately. I should be ashamed in the presence of affairs so grave, so fraught with the destinies of mankind throughout all the world, to speak with truculence, to use the weak language of hatred or vindictive purpose. We must judge as we would be judged. I have sought to learn the objects Germany has in this war from the mouths of her own spokesmen, and to deal as frankly with them as I wished them to deal with me. I have laid bare our own ideals, our own purposes, without reserve or doubtful phrase, and have asked them to say as plainly what it is that they seek.

We have ourselves proposed no injustice, no aggression. We are ready, whenever the final reckoning is made, to be just to the German people, deal fairly with the German power, as with all others. There can be no difference between peoples in the final judgment, if it is indeed to be a righteous judgment. To propose anything but justice, even-handed and dispassionate justice, to Germany at any time, whatever the outcome of the war, would be to renounce and dishonor our own cause, for we ask nothing that we are not willing to accord.

It has been with this thought that I have sought to learn from those who spoke for Germany whether it was justice or dominion and the execution of their own will upon the other nations of the world that the German leaders were seeking. They have answered — answered in unmistakable terms. They have avowed that it was not justice, but dominion and the unhindered execution of their own will. The avowal has not come from Germany's statesmen. It has come from her military leaders, who are her real rulers. Her statesmen have said that they wished peace, and were ready to discuss its terms whenever their opponents were willing to sit down at the conference table with them. Her present Chancellor has said—in indefinite and uncertain terms, indeed, and in phrases that often seem to deny their own meaning, but with as much plainness as he thought prudent—that he believed that peace should be based upon the principles which we had declared would be our own in the final settlement.

At Brest-Litovsk her civilian delegates spoke in similar terms; professed their desire to conclude a fair peace and accord to the peoples with whose fortunes they were dealing the right to choose their own allegiances. But action accompanied and followed the profession. Their military masters, the men who act for Germany and exhibit her purpose in execution, proclaimed a very different conclusion. We can not mistake what they have done—in Russia, in Finland, in the Ukraine, in Rumania. The real test of their justice and fair play has come. From this we may judge the rest.

They are enjoying in Russia a cheap triumph in which no brave or gallant nation can long take pride. A great people, helpless by their own act, lies for the time at their mercy. Their fair professions are forgotten. They nowhere set up justice, but everywhere impose their power and exploit everything for their own use and aggrandizement, and the peoples of conquered provinces are invited to be free under their dominion!

Are we not justified in believing that they would do the same things at their western front if they were not there face to face with armies whom even their countless divisions cannot overcome? If, when they have felt their check to be final, they should propose favorable and equitable terms with regard to Belgium and France and Italy, could they blame us if we concluded that they did so only to assure themselves of a free hand in Russia and the East?

Their purpose is, undoubtedly, to make all the Slavic peoples, all the free and ambitious nations of the Baltic Peninsula, all the lands that Turkey has dominated and misruled, subject to their will and ambition, and build upon that dominion an empire of force upon which they fancy that they can then erect an empire of gain and commercial supremacy—an empire as hostile to the Americas as to the Europe which it will overawe—an empire which will ultimately master Persia, India, and the peoples of the Far East.

In such a program our ideals, the ideals of justice and humanity and liberty, the principle of the free self-determination of nations, upon which all the modern world insists, can play no part. They are rejected for the ideals of power, for the principle that the strong must rule the weak, that trade must follow the flag, whether those to whom it is taken welcome it or not, that the peoples of the world are to be made subject to the patronage and overlordship of those who have the power to enforce it.

That program once carried out, America and all who care or dare to stand with her must arm and prepare themselves to contest the mastery of the world—a mastery in which the rights of common men, the rights of women and of all who are weak, must for the time being be trodden underfoot and disregarded and the old, age-long struggle for freedom and right begin again at its beginning. Everything that America has lived for and loved and grown great to vindicate and bring to a glorious realization will have fallen in utter ruin and the gates of mercy once more pitilessly shut upon mankind!

The thing is preposterous and impossible; and yet is not that what the whole course and action of the German armies has meant wherever they have moved? I do not wish, even in this moment of utter disillusionment, to judge harshly or unrighteously. I judge only what the German armies have accomplished with unpitying thoroughness throughout every fair region they have touched.

What, then are we to do? For myself, I am ready, ready still, ready even now, to discuss a fair and just and honest peace at any time that it is sincerely purposed—a peace in which the strong and the weak shall fare alike. But the answer, when I proposed such a peace, came from the German commanders in Russia and I cannot mistake the meaning of the answer.

I accept the challenge. I know that you accept it. All the world shall know that you accept it. It shall appear in the utter sacrifice and self-forgetfulness with which we shall give all that we love and all that we have to redeem the world and make it fit for free men like ourselves to live in. This now is the meaning of all that we do. Let everything that we say, my fellow-countrymen, everything that we henceforth plan and accomplish, ring true to this response till the majesty and might of our concerted power shall fill the thought and utterly defeat the force of those who flout and misprize what we honor and hold dear.

Germany has once more said that force, and force alone, shall decide whether justice and peace shall reign in the affairs of men, whether right as America conceives it or dominion as she conceives it shall determine the destinies of mankind. There is, therefore, but one response possible from us: Force, force to the utmost, force without stint or limit, the righteous and triumphant force which shall make right the law of the world and cast every selfish dominion down in the dust.

Crowd of 15,000 Cheers Wildly When He Defies Germany's Strength.

Troops from Camp Meade Join in Liberty Loan Celebration and Make a Great Show.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 6.—President Wilson was greeted by an audience of 15,000 persons in the Fifth Regiment Armory tonight—the hall where he was nominated in 1912—and brought the multitude to its feet with prolonged cheers when he declared that America accepted Germany's challenge of force, and added that it would be met with "force which shall make right the law of the world and cast every selfish dominion down in the dust."

The cheering lasted several minutes.

The occasion was the opening of the Third Liberty Loan campaign, and the President's speech ended a day of celebration in which all Baltimore turned out and displayed the utmost enthusiasm.

President Wilson was greeted by a great demonstration on his arrival at the hall, which was packed to the doors. Thousands were outside unable to gain entrance. Long lines formed in front of the armory as early as 6 o'clock.

No Time for Politics.

Former Governor Phillipp S. Goldsborough, introducing the President, declared that out of the war would come a new world, dedicated to liberty. Mr. Goldsborough, a Republican, said that all parties in the country must rally behind the Executive.

"This is no time," said Mr. Goldsborough, "to criticise the Government. This is the time for everybody to get behind our flag."

The crowd in the armory cheered for several minutes when the President arose to speak, and it was some minutes before he could make himself heard.

The President's audience was plainly with him in his denunciation of Germany's military masters. It applauded his declaration that he is ready at any time to discuss a just peace sincerely proposed. His declaration that nothing was proposed for Germany, but justice also was warmly applauded, as was his statement that Germany's course in Russia was a cheap triumph.

At the conclusion of the President's address subscriptions were opened for Liberty bonds. The Savings Bank of Baltimore immediately took $1,000,000 worth. Other large amounts were subscribed.

The President returned to Washington at 10:45 o'clock tonight.

Subscriptions to the loan announced at the meeting aggregate $7,000,000, a quarter of Baltimore city's quota to the loan. The largest subscriptions were: Maryland section of Navy League, $1,650,000; Savings Bank of Baltimore, $1,000,000; National Bank of Baltimore, $500,000; Old Town Bank, $100,000; H. Crawford Black and Van Lear Black, $100,000.

President Sees Camp Meade Men in Line—Cheers Negro Regiments.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 6.—President Wilson, in formally opening the third Liberty Loan campaign here today, reviewed 12,000 troops of the national army from Camp Meade, Md.

The soldiers, tanned by the wind and sun, marched by the reviewing stand for nearly two hours, in formation that showed the effects of intensive training. A few months ago in civil life, they had been whipped into training in a manner that gave them the appearance of regulars in the service. The men were from Pennsylvania, Maryland, and the District of Columbia.

In the stand with the President were Mrs. Wilson, Cardinal Gibbons, Major Gen. Joseph E. Kuhn, commanding the 79th Division, at Camp Meade, and others. Crowds that packed the curb and buildings along the line of march cheered as the soldiers marched.

The feature of the parade was several regiments of negro soldiers, headed

Americans' Quick Barrage Routs Raiding Parties; Two Germans Taken

Enemy Officer, Caught Between Fire of Our Guns and His Own, Is Captured—Foe Again Foiled When His Rocket Signal Starts Pershing's Artillery.

From a Staff Correspondent.

AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCE IN FRANCE, April 6.—Young Americans manning artillery have won a reputation all their own for quickness in barrage fire. This was well demonstrated this morning. The boche had laid down an especially severe barrage on a section of the American front northwest of Toul. Americans saw a German officer leave a front trench leading a party of forty men. Instantly the signal for a barrage was given to the American artillery. It came down in less than a minute.

By the light of the firing, Americans saw the German officer cut off from his party. The American barrage had come down just between the leader of the Germans and his men. The men retreated in haste to their own trenches, leaving the officer caught in No Man's Land between his own and the American barrage. An American corporal and two men went out and captured him. The boche paid tribute to the severity and exactness and quickness of the American artillery. There were no American casualties.

A short time before, the Germans, planning another raid in the same sector, sent a signal for barrage. The rocket signal was followed in three and a half minutes by the boche barrage. But it so happened that the boche barrage signal was identical with the American, and American gunners, acting on the signal that they thought was their own, laid down a barrage before the Germans could, breaking up the German raiding party. American officers were in a quandary as to whether to correct or praise the American gunners.

About 4 o'clock this morning the Germans sent out a party of ten men to repair wire defenses. They became frightened at some noise made by the Americans, and an order to retire to their own trenches was given. One man got lost and upon hands and knees wandered around for two hours. At dawn he saw trenches ahead, which he thought were his own, but when he stuck his head over the top two husky Americans grabbed him. In addition to wire tools and a revolver, the prisoner carried a wicked dagger nine inches long, with a point curved on one side.

The two prisoners were taken to American division headquarters,

Japanese and British Land Troops at Vladivostok; Bolshevist Government Orders Siberians to Resist

MOSCOW, April 6, (Associated Press.)—The British, as well as the Japanese, landed forces at Vladivostok yesterday. The local authorities had no warning of this action.

LONDON, April 6.—According to a semi-official dispatch from Moscow, the following official statement has been issued there:

"In reference to the landing of Japancse at Vladivostok, the Council of People's Commissaries is undertaking political steps, and at the same time orders all the Soviets in Siberia to offer armed resistance to an enemy incursion into Russian territory."

America Sent 1,100,000 Tons of Food to the Allies in March, Making a Record

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—As a result of conservation measures adopted and the co-operation of the people, the United States was able in March to export 1,100,000 tons of foodstuffs to the Allied nations.

This was a jump from 750,000 tons in February, when the ability of the nation to respond to the call of the Allies, who set 800,000 tons as the minimum needed, was held in check by the severe weather and lack of transportation facilities.

The 1,100,000 tons of foods shipped last month, according to an official announcement by the Food Administration, represents 15,500,000 bushels of wheat and its products, and 16,200,000 bushels of other grains; 80,000,000 pounds of beef and beef products, and 200,000,000 pounds of pork and pork products.

The Food Administration has issued the warning that a sufficient quantity of wheat can be shipped from now until the next harvest only in the event that the consumption in America is cut in two. The response which has met the appeal has made it appear certain that the crisis will be safely passed.

Reports continued to reach the Food Administration today from all parts of the country telling of the extreme measures which had been voluntarily adopted by the people to save wheat.

Hoover Prevented $30 Flour.

The Federal Food Board celebrated the first anniversary of the entrance of the United States into the war yesterday, with special exercises at the headquarters, 220 West Fifty-seventh Street. Charles P. Robinson, counsel for the board, presided.

Arthur Williams, Federal Food Administrator for New York, in speaking of the work accomplished, pleaded for the elimination of the garbage pail, and declared the price of flour might be $30 a barrel by this time but for the work of the Administration.

New York Opens Liberty Loan Drive With Subscriptions of $100,000,000

On Half Holiday City Doubles Amount of Sales on First Day of Second Campaign—Patriotism Fires East Side—Children and United Hebrew Trades Take Million Each.

New York's response to the first call for subscriptions to the third Liberty Loan was prompt and generous. Yesterday, the opening day of the four weeks' campaign, celebrated by numerous patriotic demonstrations throughout the city, brought subscriptions estimated in the neighborhood of $100,000,000, or one-ninth of this district's quota. This total is enormously in excess of the initial day's applications of the first Liberty Loan, and just double the estimated total of subscriptions filed on Oct. 1 the first day of the second Liberty Loan campaign.

The fact that yesterday was a half-holiday, with the banks closing at noon, makes the results the more remarkable, for the previous drives were launched on Mondays. Subscriptions actually filed with the Federal Reserve Bank of New York up to noon totaled $74,000,000, which compares with $10,166,550 on the first day of the second Liberty Loan. In addition to the formal applications forwarded to the reserve bank, various institutions announced other subscriptions, which, taken into consideration with still others that were filed but not announced, makes the estimated total of $100,000,000 appear to be a conservative figure.

Although the Treasury Department has fixed the quota for the New York district at $900,000,000, the Liberty Loan Committee is determined to raise $1,000,000,000, or one-half of the $2,000,000,000 loan. With the campaign running for twenty-five business days, the daily average must be $60,000,000 in order that this district attain the amount sought for.

The following table shows how the Treasury quota of $900,000,000 is distributed among the various portions of the New York Federal Reserve District:

New York City:
Manhattan	$618,794,000
Brooklyn	80,616,000
Queens	4,264,400
Bronx	3,317,100
Richmond	1,032,900
	$687,125,300
Remainder of New York State	151,939,500
Twelve Northern Cos. of N. J.	71,925,000
Fairfield County, Connecticut	9,010,200
Total for district	$900,000,000

Governor Addresses East Siders.

A wave of patriotism swept over the east side on the first day of the loan, and scores of enthusiastic meetings were held last night in halls and public places. One of the largest meetings, from the point of view of the crowds present and subscriptions pledged, was held at the Bank of the United States, 77 Delancey Street, where Governor Whitman made an address and announced subscriptions from several sources amounting to $2,310,000.

The recent German drive and the shameful treatment of revolutionary Russia were attributed by those present last night as the impelling causes for the outburst of enthusiasm that echoed and re-echoed over the east side last night wherever meetings were in progress.

The school children in that part of the east side bordering on Delancey Street pledged $1,000,000, according to the statement read by the Governor at the meeting, and the United Hebrew Trades, one of the largest trade unions in the country, also pledged $1,000,000. The Bank of the United States took $250,000 of the bonds through Governor Whitman, who signed the application by a negro band. The President and his entire party joined in the cheering as they came into view. The negroes marched well and their band was classed as the best of several in the parade. As the negro soldiers came past the stand the band detached itself and took up a position directly in front of the President, playing "Over There" and other military and popular airs.

The troops marched to Baltimore from Camp Meade, and will march back tomorrow. They comprise the 318th, 315th, 316th, 314th, and 368th Infantry; the 304th Field Signal Battalion, the 316th Field Hospital Company, the 154th Field Artillery Brigade, the 304th Sanitary Train, and a provisional machine-gun company.

President Wilson and his party were greeted by a great crowd at the station and by thousands along the streets from the train to the reviewing stand. Two battalions of the 2d Maryland acted as the President's escort and guard.

Baltimore was crowded for its "Over There" celebration, which began several days ago, to stimulate interest in the Liberty Loan drive. After reviewing the parade the President went for an automobile ride in the suburbs. At one place crowds eager to see the President and Mrs. Wilson so blocked the streets that the President's car was halted and police had to clear a way for him.

FIRST PLACE CLAIMS POUR IN AT TREASURY

Fully 200 Cities and Towns Have Subscribed Quotas to Liberty Loan.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The Treasury Department is being deluged tonight with telegrams from all parts of the country giving reports of the race for the honor flag in completing subscriptions for the Third Liberty Loan. The winners are not the big cities. Sioux City, Iowa, and Lynn, Mass., for instance, are the largest that have reported in the winning class. It is the small cities and towns that have won out, and this is taken as a sign that this loan is to be thoroughly popular and not to be built up by the heavy financial centres in the lagging hours of the last day for subscriptions.

Fully 200 cities and towns have scored a victory in the contest. Treasury officials are not able to decide just what place was first to win the flag, but as effort will be made to settle the honors. A large number of towns filled their dispatches precisely at 9 o'clock this morning. Many others, anxious to be surely on time, filed them last night. A careful canvass of all the districts will be made before victory are finally placed.

There are other prizes yet to be contested for, as the highest amount, the largest total in States, the largest in counties, and the position as first in point of time to qualify in States counties, and towns.

Among the communities reporting that they had subscribed or oversubscribed their quotas were these:

Pennsylvania—Catasauqua, Bedford Borough, Everett, Mann, Monroe, Southampton, Snakespring, East Providence, West Providence, Bedford County, Voolrich, Bryn Athyn, Ambler, Radnor, Saint Davids, Wayne, Strafford, Hamburg, Chalfonte, Jenkintown, Borough of Fawn Grove.

New Jersey—Far Hills, Mendham, Newton, Woodbridge, Pennsgrove, Bernardsville, Cranford, Elmer, Absecon, Pitman, Pentress County, Lodi. Far Hills oversubscribed its quota of $11,700 ten times.

New York—Adams, New Baltimore, Athens, Inwood, Lawrence, Cedarhurst, Woodmere, Hewlett, Lodi, Marathon, McGraw, College Point, Richfield Springs, Interlaken, Cazenovia, Far Rockaway, Larchmont, Pearl River, Irvington, Spencer.

Rain interfered with the celebration in St. Louis, forcing the postponement of the parade until tomorrow. Reports throughout the district were to the effect that the sales were progressing well. Many of the smaller communities were oversubscribing their quotas. The sales in St. Louis proper will not begin until Monday. The two special war exhibit trains, which left St. Louis today, were enthusiastically received along the line.

A telegram from San Francisco late tonight said that a large number of small towns on the coast had oversubscribed their quotas, but gave no details.

Congress today stood on the steps of the Capitol while four moving picture stars sold Liberty Loan bonds. The bond sellers, each of whom spoke, were Mary Pickford, Charlie Chaplin, Douglas Fairbanks, and Marie Dressler. Speaker Clark also made a brief speech.

Thousands of dollars' worth of bonds were sold. The first block went to Styler Page, who won a $1,000 prize in a contest for the best American creed, and bought bonds to this amount.

The steps of the east front of the Capitol were filled with members of Congress, while the spectators were quite as numerous as on Presidential inauguration days.

"PATRIOTISM WITH PROFIT."

E. H. Gary Says Liberty Loan Offers Such an Opportunity.

Elbert H. Gary, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the United States Steel Corporation, said yesterday that subscriptions to the third Liberty Loan offer the best opportunity for combining patriotism with profitable investment. He said:

"The news which we are now receiving from Europe, showing the desperate struggle the Allies are making to stem the tide of Hun invasion, must be regarded as very timely, although very distressing. Can there be any Americans who still need to be convinced that we are facing an emergency which threatens the very life of the nation and of civilization?

"The conviction has forced itself home to all of us by this time that a situation of most real danger has to be overcome if the safety of America represents anything more to us than a mere empty shell.

"Considered solely from the individual point of view, the buyer of Liberty bonds is in an enviable position as compared with the man in the trenches. Though making a possible sacrifice, which everybody hails with enthusiasm, he is really adding to his personal wealth and is really bettering his condition by his support of the Government. For the soldier there is no such alternative. It is a privilege that goes along with the Liberty bonds, and it must be considered in the present emergency in connection with the sacrifice of career and life risked by the actual fighter."

OUR BATTLESHIPS ARE NOW ABROAD

Secretary Daniels Discloses Fact at Loan Drive in Cleveland.

150 WARSHIPS IN WAR ZONE

35,000 Officers and Men Are Now on Naval Duty "Over There."

MAKING A FINE RECORD

"Inflicting Telling Losses Upon the Enemy," the Secretary Declares —Ships Self-Sustaining.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 6.—A great fleet of American warships, numbering more than 150 vessels, and including destroyers, battleships, cruisers, submarines, gunboats, coast guard cutters, converted yachts, tugs, and other auxiliaries, is operating in the war zone. Manning this fleet and the many small submarine chasers, which are not reckoned in the total, and doing duty on air patrol and at the supply stations ashore, are 35,000 officers and men, half the navy's personnel when the nation entered the war just a year ago.

These hitherto carefully guarded facts were disclosed here today by Secretary Daniels in an address at a celebration marking the opening of the Third Liberty Loan campaign. Mr. Daniels said that while he was not at liberty to tell the toll the fleet had taken of German submarines, the nation could "rest assured that our forces have inflicted telling losses upon the enemy."

The speech was the first official statement not only of some of our naval activities, but of the fact that American battleships were now operating with the allied navies in the war zone.

"As an instance of naval activity," said the Secretary, "I may cite the work of one detachment of destroyers for a six-month period: Total miles steamed in war areas, 1,000,000; submarines attacked, 81; single vessels escorted, 737; convoys escorted, 86; total number of days at sea, 3,000.

"The navy has furnished every aid possible that the countries aligned with us in the war have requested or suggested, and has worked in the closest co-operation with them. Our forces have played an important part in the war against the submarines, and have aided materially in the marked reduction in sinkings of merchantmen, as compared with the number sunk in the corresponding period a year ago, and in the no less notable increase in the number of submarines destroyed."

Under Vice Admiral Sims, who is in supreme command of all the American naval forces in the war zone, were four Rear Admirals with stations in Europe, said the Secretary. They are Henry B. Wilson, in France; Albert T. Niblack, in the south; Hugh Rodman, in command of battleships, and Herbert O. Dunn, on special duty.

America's fighting ships, Mr. Daniels asserted, had been self-sustaining, with the assistance of repair ships, except for major repairs and docking.

"The navy has made a record of which we may well be proud," declared Mr. Daniels, "but much more must be done. Ours has been a modest accomplishment in comparison with the achievements of our allies, but our contribution has been considerable and is rapidly increasing.

"Neither massed armies nor reverses of any kind will weaken our purpose. The sword is in our hands, and we will not lay it down until we have accomplished our declared intents. We enter our second year of war assured that the nation cannot fail, that autocratic militarism cannot withstand the efforts of free men intelligently sacrificing themselves in defense of their freedom."

Thousands of workers were out early today to open the Loan campaign in the Fourth Federal Reserve District, the quota of which is $300,000,000. Cleveland's campaign to raise its quota of $55,000,000 opened at 10 o'clock. All business was suspended for five minutes.

A trench has been constructed at a prominent downtown intersection and an armored tank was placed in the public square to stimulate interest. Fifteen thousand uniformed men and eighteen bands paraded through the downtown streets. Six thousand workers were in the field. All banks in the city remained open until 9 o'clock tonight.

FOUR SPEECHES BY McADOO.

Secretary in Philadelphia Indicates Taxation Will Rise.

PHILADELPHIA, April 6.—"The soul of America is uplifted; she knows her duty and will not be afraid to perform it," exclaimed Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo at the conclusion of one of the four ringing addresses he made here today in opening the Liberty bond campaign in the Philadelphia Federal Reserve District. The Secretary was the central figure in a celebration in which the patriotic spirit ran high.

A parade of sailors and marines and 1,200 high school girls, costumed as goddesses of liberty, preceded the unveiling of the Statue of Liberty at City Hall. Secretary McAdoo's 5-year-old granddaughter, Nona Martin, pulled the string that revealed the statue. With tears glistening in his eyes as he surveyed the vast crowd, the Secretary said:

"This great outpouring of the people of Philadelphia, where independence had its organized birth, even before the French Revolution began; where the heroic men and women of America in those old Colonial days dedicated their lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honor to the cause of liberty, shows we are now resolved anew that America shall triumph in this war and never shall we sheath the sword until right and the majesty of Christ's doctrines shall be vindicated anew."

At the Academy of Music the Secretary made his principal speech, in which he reviewed the war and the aims of America and her allies and told of the sufferings of the nations of Europe battling for freedom and of sacrifices to come.

"The Kaiser," he said, "cannot deprive this nation of its right to the freedom of the seas unless American blood now runs yellow instead of red—and, from what I have seen in Philadelphia today, it still runs red."

Mr. McAdoo urged economy on the part of the individual American and investment of savings in Government bonds. In this, he declared, the nation must have the whole-hearted aid of womanhood.

Speaking of the new issue of bonds the Secretary said:

"I have been told by some people that the rate of interest is too low. I do not believe that the patriotism of America is expressed in the rate of interest on a Government bond. I do not believe that the American dollar is a fugitive and must be chased by high rates of interest when the Government's credit is back of it. If we do not take an intelligent stand now in favor of keeping the rate of interest on Government bonds stabilized at 4½ per cent., and unless we are willing to make a fight to preserve the Government's credit upon that basis, then it is going to be the most unfortunate thing that can possibly happen to the American people."

Increased taxation to meet the expenses of the war was indicated by Secretary McAdoo in a speech at the dinner of the Five o'Clock Club tonight. He said that between the two contingencies, further loans and increased taxation, the country must expect both, and that a steady balance must be preserved so that all citizens should share alike in the economic responsibilities of the war.

At the end of the day the records showed that over $8,000,000 had been subscribed here for the loan.

80,000 PARADE IN BOSTON.

Twenty-two New England Cities and Towns Exceed Quotas.

BOSTON, April 6.—A parade of more than 80,000 men and women today ushered in the campaign in this city for New England's quota of $250,000,000 of the Third Liberty Loan. It was said to be the longest parade ever held in the city. Every marcher displayed a circle of red, white and blue pasteboard, bearing the slogan, "Buy a Liberty Bond." Five hydroplanes circled high over the city dropping Liberty Loan literature. The battle-scarred British tank Britannia led the line.

Lieut. Gov. Coolidge, Acting Governor in the absence in Washington of Governor McCall, was in a reviewing stand at the State House with several members of the Polish War Mission.

Reports reaching the New England Liberty Loan Campaign Headquarters, showed that twenty-two cities and towns in the six States "went over the top" in the first few hours of the bond-selling campaign. Officials estimated at noon, when the loan headquarters closed for the day, that $12,000,000 had been subscribed.

NEW YORK OPENS LIBERTY LOAN DRIVE

with a gold pen presented to him by Bernard K. Marcus, Vice President of the institution. Among the others whose subscriptions went into the $2,310,000 were the employes of Phillips Jones & Co., for $25,000; Elias Suret, $25,000; Witty Bros., $10,000.

"I want to tell you that the east side is all right," declared the Governor, speaking to a throng of 500 crowded into the bank and 3,000 more gathered on the street in front of the plate. "The east side is all patriotic and it's all American," he continued. "This great section of the city has stood by law and order and it is going to stand by the Government and the nation to which we owe all we have and to which we are ready to give over and over again if need be, because we live in this land where men are brave and free."

The other speakers were the Rev. Hirsch Maslinsky and Mr. Marcus. One hundred school children clad in white and garlanded with red, white, and blue wreaths sang "Soldiers of Glorious America" before the Governor spoke.

"There is no east side, no west side, no rich, and no poor in this great crisis that confronts America: we are all citizens of the United States," affirmed Rabbi Maslinsky, as the crowd applauded in approval.

Governor Whitman took the first $1,000 bond allotted to the Hotel St. Regis, and Samuel S. Koenig took the second subscription for the same amount.

The chief event of the day, designed to mark the formal opening of the loan campaign, was a parade from Liberty Loan Headquarters, in the Equitable Building, to City Hall Park, where a large noonday crowd gathered to listen to speeches and music. The procession was headed by J. P. Morgan, Jacob H. Schiff, Walter E. Frew, George F. Baker, Jr., and other members of the committee, all of whom carried American flags. They were escorted by a platoon of mounted police and several bands. The procession included a great many Liberty Loan workers, including members of the Women's Committee. The ceremonies were conducted around the huge model of the Liberty Bell erected in the park under the direction of the Mayor's Committee of Women on National Defense. The demonstration opened with a volley fired by marines, who, with soldiers and sailors, formed the guard of honor.

Mayor Hylan's Speech.

Mayor Hylan made a brief address in which he said that the people of this city could look back with a great deal of satisfaction to the part they played in the last two war loans, and declared that New York had a reputation to maintain. Mayor Hylan said:

"This day marks the anniversary upon which the United States entered this great struggle to free the people from militarism and to make the world safe for democracy.

"Here at the City Hall fifty-seven years ago my father and others bid goodbye to their families and friends on their way to the battlefield of the civil war. This is one of the proudest moments of my life to stand here and say a few words for the great cause in which we are all engaged.

"This third Liberty Loan gives to the people at home an opportunity to do their part and render their assistance to the nation in this war. It behooves every one to do his or her part to make it possible for the Government to give every assistance and comfort to our boys at the front who are doing the actual fighting for us. The third Liberty Loan gives the people who stay at home not only an opportunity to invest their money, but also to render national service to their country.

"At a time when our country is at war all citizens, regardless of race or creed, should cast aside their personal views and subscribe to the views and policy of the Government under which we are enjoying our independence and freedom. The United States calls upon its people to support it in this struggle with the necessary funds. The Government begins today an offering of $3,000,000,000 to carry on its war activities, and it is the people's duty to respond liberally to this call.

"Citizens of New York, we can look back with a great deal of satisfaction to the part that New York played in the last two Liberty Loans. New York City has a reputation to maintain, and we must not let our city lose its prestige in this third offering.

"The people of this city will, by the amount of their subscriptions, send a message to the President that New York is behind the Government to the limit of its financial resources, and that it is behind the boys in the trenches who are fighting shoulder to shoulder in order to preserve for us the liberties that we now enjoy.

"Other times may come, other great duties may devolve upon the people of our city, but there is no service more important to be rendered at this time than to make this Third Liberty Loan a tremendous success."

Patriotic addresses were also delivered by Martin Vogel, Assistant Treasurer of the United States, and by Sergeant Arthur Guy Empey.

Mayor Buys a Bond.

Mayor Hylan was the first bond purchaser at the booth in City Hall. He filled out a subscription for $1,000, which he handed to his daughter, Miss Virginia Hylan, after filling it out in the name of his wife. The women's organization sold the second bond to J. P. Morgan, who subscribed for $10,000, and the third went to George F. Baker, Jr., who also applied for $10,000.

The noonday celebration at the Sub-Treasury drew an unusually large crowd. The ceremonies consisted of the unveiling of a large canvas painting stretched across the Wall Street side of the building, the same being the work of Henry Reuterdahl and N. C. Wyeth; the reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address by H. Cooper Cliffe, and the singing of patriotic songs by members of the Rubinstein Club. The two painters, as well as Joseph Hartigan and Martin Vogel, made brief speeches. There were a number of bands, and soldiers were stationed on the steps, and the crowd, seemed to be taken by the patriotic assemblie.

"Somehow or other," said Mr. Vogel, "the atmosphere of this historic Sub-Treasury is filled with patriotism. The statue of Washington looks down upon us and reminds us of the Minute Men of Lexington and Bunker Hill. They were the patriots of 1776—let us be the patriots of 1918.

"Let us work from this moment to the close of the campaign so that on May 4 a message can be flashed across the seas to the battlefields of France—a message stronger than all other words and phrases—a message of four words—'Liberty Loan gloriously oversubscribed.'

"This will prove to the man fighting over there that the folks at home are with them heart and soul—everything we have and everything we are. And their reply will be: 'We will drive the Huns to their knees—the Stars and Stripes will wave victoriously.'"

Some of Largest Subscriptions.

At the close of business yesterday the Liberty Loan Committee made public the following list of subscriptions totaling $74,000,000 received by the Federal Reserve Bank:

Bankers Trust Co., New York	$25,000,000

$15,547,000 Taken Through Bank.

The Corn Exchange Bank, which operates branches in all five boroughs of the city, sent the following letter early yesterday morning to the Federal Reserve Bank, announcing its subscription to the full quota, which was made possible by applications received from its customers, and indicating the distribution of the same:

THE CORN EXCHANGE BANK,
New York City.
April 6, 1918.

Federal Reserve Bank,
Bond Issue Division,
New York City.

Gentlemen: From information the Corn Exchange Bank has received, they feel warranted in subscribing, on behalf of their depositors and themselves, for the entire quota of Third Liberty Loan bonds allotted to them in the various boroughs, viz.:

Manhattan	$12,979,000
Kings	1,088,700
Bronx	451,700
Richmond	213,750
Queens	213,850
Total	$15,547,000

Names of participants in this subscription will be announced later.

Very truly yours,
WALTER E. FREW, President.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Theatrical Allied Interests $1,000,000 was subscribed to the Liberty Loan by managers of the leading New York theatres. It was suggested by E. F. Albee, Chairman of the committee, that the theatres should not wait, but set an example by themselves making prompt subscriptions. Following are the applications there were announced:

Klaw & Erlanger	$150,000	A. P. Keith	$50,000
Martin Beck	100,000	E. F. Albee	50,000
Lee & J. J. Shubert	50,000	David Belasco	50,000
Cohan & Harris	50,000	J. H. Mack	50,000
Alf Hayman	50,000	H. K. Hynicka	50,000
A. H. Woods	50,000	Columbia American Circuit	50,000
Sam H. Scribner	50,000	Eliot, Comstock & Gest	50,000
Marcus Loew	50,000	Joseph Schenck	20,000
F. F. Proctor	50,000	N. M. Schenck	10,000
Maurice Mayer-feldt	50,000	B. F. Roeder	10,000

More than two-score of towns in the New York Federal Reserve District are claimants for the first Liberty Loan honor flag to be awarded. Promptly at 9 o'clock yesterday they notified officials of the bank that they had obtained their full quotas of subscriptions, or more. The incentive to oversubscription of quotas was exemplified in the case of Far Rockaway, which not only put in a claim for the privilege of being the first to fly the honor flag, but made an additional request for two stars, because it had oversubscribed its quota three times.

Many Towns Complete Quotas.

The following towns in the New York Federal Reserve District had filed subscriptions in excess of their quotas at 9 o'clock yesterday morning:

Town.	Quota.	Subscription.
Bernardsville, N. J.	$116,600	$221,850
Cranford, N. J.	134,200	220,000
Far Rockaway, N. Y.	339,152	1,050,350
Larchmont, N. Y.	123,400	126,500
Pearl River, N. Y.	25,100	40,000
Pompton Lakes, N. J.	81,800	101,500
Spring Valley, N. Y.	92,300	117,250
New Baltimore, N. Y.	20,000	20,100
Nyack Hills, N. Y.	11,700	125,000
Athens, N. Y.	25,700	27,200
Lawrence, N. Y.	57,250	95,300

The paper Honor Flags for subscribers to the third Liberty Loan, intended to be hung in the windows of their homes, will be ready for distribution tomorrow. Only the official flags should be used. These bear the words "Third Liberty Loan Subscriber" above the colored picture of the flag. Beneath is a place for the subscriber's name.

Airplanes Interest Crowds.

The opening of the drive was attended by spectacular airplane demonstrations which thrilled many thousands of men and women who were gathered in the windows of high buildings and on rooftops to see the messengers of the air drop Liberty Loan appeals. At one time in the afternoon a large dirigible balloon and half a dozen airplanes were hovering over Broadway, the sight of it causing a stir of apprehension to many on the street, when the thought occurred of what that spectacle might mean if it were a German air fleet approaching for an attack on New York.

A suggestion to that effect by a woman in front of one of the Liberty Loan booths on Broadway caused several men who were in the crowd to walk into the booth and purchase several Liberty Bonds apiece. The sight of the air fleet had a similar effect upon spectators in other parts of the city. The sight of the dirigible, which resembled a Zeppelin, in the opinion of many who saw it, won more subscriptions to the Liberty Loan yesterday than the speeches. It appeared over the heads of the crowds at City Hall Park and at Madison Square just at a crucial moment when the speakers were putting forth all their powers of persuasion to obtain subscriptions to the loan.

Dr. William T. Manning was speaking in front of the Liberty Bank at Madison Squnre when the dirigible came into sight, and he was interrupted by a voice from the crowd, which shouted: "We must lend our money and our strength to the Government or some day that balloon will be a German balloon dropping bombs on our women and children!"

Loan Literature Rains from Sky.

The airplane squadron went aloft from the Mineola aviation field shortly after 2 o'clock, and fifteen minutes later the planes were "bombing" the downtown district of the city with circulars and Liberty Loan literature.

From the downtown district the squadron proceeded up Broadway, sometimes in horizontal procession, each plane directly behind the other, or else in vertical position, one plane under the other. The ease and confidence with which the pilots cut circles and all kind of figures in the air held the crowds below in breathless attention. Many thousands of circulars were dropped on Broadway, especially between Twenty-third and Fifty-ninth Streets. The squadron remained in the air and visible to the spectators in the uptown district of the city for about an hour, after which the planes fell into line and sped homeward toward Mineola.

One Italian plane took part in the campaign—the Caproni, piloted by Captain Antonio Resnatti. The other flyers, in Curtiss planes, were Lieutenants E. L. Williams, Charles Luddick, C. B. McCullough, E. O. Barr, H. E. Watson, and E. W. Kilgore. Resnatti had four persons in his flyer, one acting as an observer, one assistant pilot, and two mechanics. The others carried from one to two men, in addition to the pilot.

Liberty Bank Opened Again.

In the presence of thousands of cheering men and women the little Liberty Bank in Madison Square Park was opened for business again yesterday by the National League for Women's Service. The exercises began shortly after noon, and a great crowd gathered long before that hour, eager to make investments in the loan. An interesting addition to the white colonial structure appeared in the form of a "liberty bell," given by the New York Central Railroad and hanging from a little tower of its own in front of the bank, so that it could be rung by the pulling of a cord. It was rung many times, once for each bond that was purchased. Several thousand dollars' worth of bonds were disposed of within a few hours' time.

Rear Admiral Bradley Fiske presided, and the speakers were Mgr. John Chidwick, chaplain of the old battleship Maine; Rabbi Nathan H. Krass of the Central Synagogue, and the Rev. Dr. William T. Manning, rector of Trinity Church.

Brooklyn Eager for Drive.

Brooklyn started in on its Third Liberty Loan campaign yesterday with a rush and a hurrah. With bands playing, troops marching and flags flying everywhere, the borough entered with enthusiasm on the work of raising its quota of $40,000,000. There was a big patriotic celebration at the Borough Hall, and all over the district men and women were busy selling bonds. Last evening subscriptions amounting to more than $10,000,000, or one-quarter of the total Brooklyn is expected to raise, were reported. The Junior League and the National League for Woman's Service sold bonds to the amount of $112,000.

The parade and exercises which marked the official opening of the campaign were held in the afternoon in front of the Borough Hall. About 7,000 people attended the ceremonies. Lieut. Col. Harry B. Baldwin of the 47th Regiment was the grand marshal of the parade, the column being made up of the 47th and 13th Regiments of the State Guard and a battalion of the Naval Reserves. The procession started at Henry and Remsen Streets and passed in review at the Borough Hall.

Edwin P. Maynard, Chairman of the Brooklyn committee, presided at the exercises. Speeches were made by United States Senator William M. Calder, Borough President Riegelmann, Chaplain Nehemiah Boynton of the 59th Coast Artillery Corps, Captain E. P. Dalmasse of the 47th Regiment, and Sergeant Jenkins.

The following Brooklyn subscriptions to the loan were reported:

Manufacturers Trust Company	$3,000,000
Brooklyn Savings Bank	1,000,000
Brooklyn Trust Company	1,000,000
Abraham & Straus	100,000
Broadway Trust Company	1,000,000
First National Bank	210,000
Mechanics Bank	1,000,000
Nassau National Bank	200,000

Appeal from Cardinal Farley.

Cardinal Farley sent this letter yesterday to the parish priests in the Archdiocese:

Cardinal's Residence,
452 Madison Avenue,
April 4, 1918.

Rev. and Dear Father:

You have no doubt received a "Memorandum of Program for Churches" from the Publicity Committee of the Third Liberty Loan for the Second Federal Reserve District. The loan campaign opens on the 6th inst. and will continue until about May 4. I have assured the gentlemen on the committee that the Catholic Church in New York will promote this campaign with all the influence at her command.

It is essential that the Government's appeal for this war loan reach every citizen of the country. The pulpit is an invaluable aid for publicity, and in a movement like the present it is our duty to use it for the country's welfare. I recommend, therefore, that during the loan campaign, announcement be made at each mass to emphasize the necessity of universal subscription to this national war fund, for only the soldiers and sailors who have sons, but every man and woman in this country is at war. The entire nation is in peril, and the nation's defense is each individual's responsibility. Without necessary equipment and sufficient munitions our armed forces cannot battle effectively. The purchase of a Liberty bond therefore is a direct act of national defense, an evidence of patriotism, a manifestation of loyalty.

Sunday, April 21, is Liberty Loan Sunday. The committee requests that a special appeal for the loan be made on that day and asks that after the service, which in the churches would be the last mass, a demonstration be held in front of the church at which appropriate patriotic airs be sung. I recommend both these features most strongly. The children, if properly rehearsed for such a service, could be used most effectively. Notable aid can be given the publicity work in connection with the loan by having it explained to the children in our schools and in Sunday schools.

The Liberty Loan Committee's Publicity Department, with headquarters on the twenty-fourth floor of the Equitable Building, at 120 Broadway, will furnish posters and such literature as you may be able to use in your parish. I advise also that the parish clergy join in the meetings of the local Liberty Loan Committees and speak, if requested, in favor of the campaign.

Our co-operation in this movement is most important. We could not be engaged in a more serious occupation at this critical time than by helping the Government to win the war. We must do our share by purchasing bonds; we must urge our people to buy bonds. The Catholic Church in New York reaches a vast audience every Sunday. By our announcements we will be able to do very effective work.

Praying God's blessing on your own and your people's effort in this very patriotic cause, to which I am confident you will bring all the enthusiasm which made the Catholic war drive such a success, I am,

Faithfully yours in Xto.,
JOHN CARDINAL FARLEY,
Archbishop of New York.

Pastors Will Boom Loan.

Liberty Loan meetings were held throughout the city last night. Abram I. Elkus, formerly American Ambassador to Turkey, addressed a gathering of the Independent Order B'nai B'rith, District No. 1, held at B'nai B'rith Hall, 2,307 Broadway. In various churches this morning clergymen will speak of the need of subscriptions to the loan.

The Pennsylvania Railroad announced yesterday that it had made arrangements by which its employes could subscribe to Liberty bonds on a partial payment plan, payment to be made by ten equal deductions every month for ten months.

Aaron Weil of 706 East 178th Street, an office boy employed by the Publicity Department of the Liberty Loan Committee, has the honor of being the first buyer of Liberty bonds in this district. He took $500, paying cash for it.

AIRPLANE LOSS: GERMAN, 363, BRITISH, 122

Haig's Fliers Account for Three Times the Number Lost Since Offensive Began.

BOMBS DROPPED BY TONS

And a Million Rounds of Ammunition Fired at Ground Targets by British Airmen.

NEW POWER FOR DEFENSE

German Aerial Force on the Somme Has Been Distinctly Outclassed.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 6.—From authoritative sources THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent learns that the possibilities of aircraft in defense have been considerably developed in the present battle in France. The machine gunning of troops on the ground and the bombing of railheads, junctions, &c., have been carried further than ever before.

It is difficult to estimate the results really obtained, but something can be learned by questioning prisoners. What has been learned in this way is distinctly satisfactory.

Low-flying aircraft cannot be dealt with by other aircraft. They have to be dealt with by infantry or artillery from the ground. An infantry attack cannot be held up by airplanes, however numerous, but its impetus can be reduced to a certain extent.

To talk of the line being held by airplanes, as has lately been done, is not justified by the facts, and gives the infantry, who do hold the line, some reason for complaint. During the period from March 20-21 down to April 3-4, the British brought down at the front 240 German airplanes and drove down 127 out of control.

The former are all machines which have been actually seen lying broken on the ground or in flames in the air. The latter include those which by falling through a cloud or from some other reason were lost sight of by the airmen. They undoubtedly include many which crashed to the ground. During the same period the British had 122 machines missing.

Excluding the bombs dropped in raids on Germany, British aircraft dropped during the same period 179½ tons of bombs by day and 151 tons by night, a total of 330½ tons. They also in the same period fired 1,139,325 rounds of ammunition from machine guns upon ground targets.

When it is remembered that in order to fire upon ground targets the airplane has to take a special dive and in each dive fires only ten or twelve rounds perhaps, some idea can be formed of the enormous amount of work represented by these fighters. The maximum number of rounds fired at ground targets in a single day was 250,000, and in a single night 60,000. The maximum weight of bombs dropped during a single day was 81 tons, and in a single night 27¾ tons.

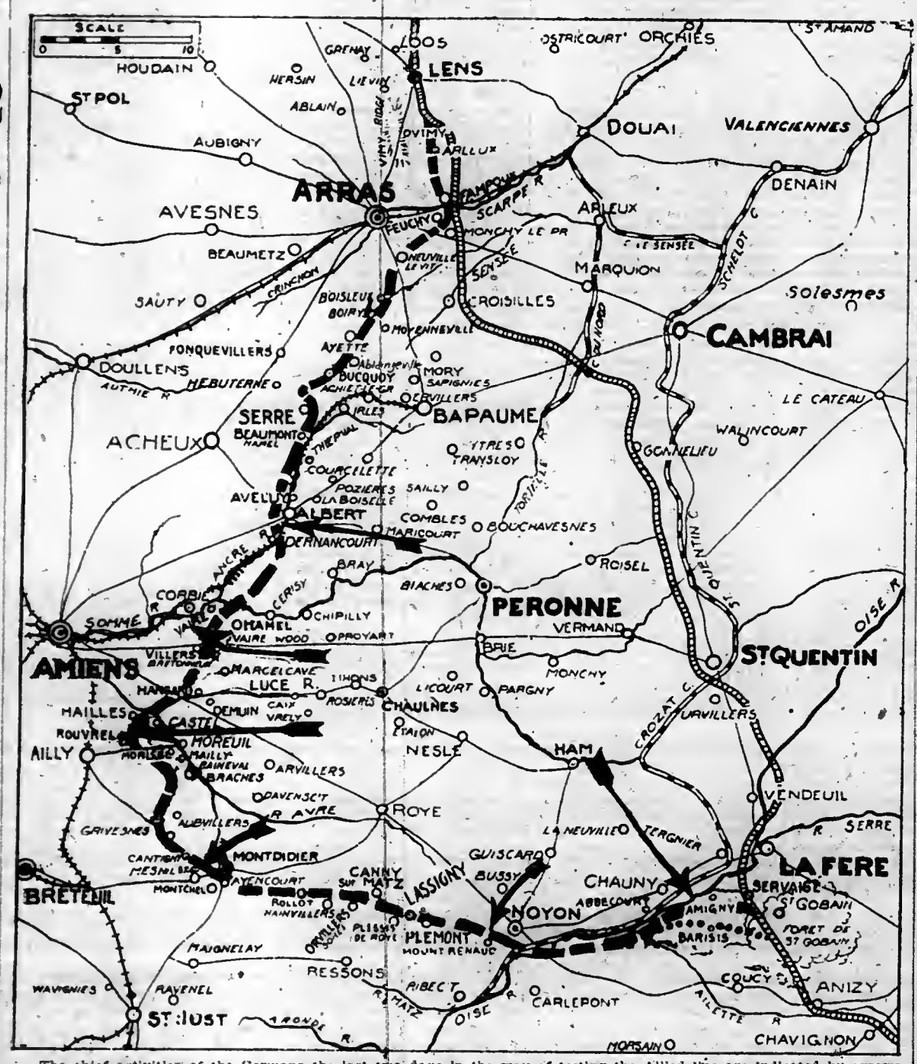
In a single day one British brigade captured twenty-two German airplanes and drove down seven. The air authorities dislike such phrases as "mastery of the air." In their opinion such mastery is not obtained while any enemy airplanes are left in the air, because if even one is left a good pilot can do a good deal with it.

It would, however, be the truth to say that the British airplanes on the battlefront possesses at the present time a marked local predominance, show greater efficiency than the enemy, and are capable of performing more work.

The war will never be won in the air in the sense of being won by aircraft alone, but the importance of the aerial arm in conjunction with the other arms of the British fighting forces is steadily growing.

Last month's long-distance bombing raids comprised thirteen British raids on German towns and only one German raid upon London.

Points That Have Figured in the Latest Operations.



The chief activities of the Germans the last two days in the way of testing the Allied line are indicated by arrows. The northernmost is near Albert, where Hindenburg's troops made almost their only gain Friday north of the Somme in the course of a wide attack.

East of Corbie, on the Somme, the Germans massed heavily yesterday morning, but whether they attacked in that area, which has been the scene of such heavy fighting, is not clear.

West of the Avre the Germans apparently gained from the French Thursday or Friday, even attacking near Rouvrel, two miles east of the Amiens-Paris railway.

There have been fruitless attacks by the Germans near Montdidier and Noyon.

Most important of yesterday's operations was the German assault in force on the French lines south of the Oise and southwest of La Fere. Here the French front seems to have been further north than has been indicated. The dotted line shows the apparent location of the "prepared positions" to which the French retired.

GERMANS SHIFT FROM THE SOMME

Haig, in his official report tonight, says that the only infantry action on the battle front today was some "local fighting" near Aveluy Wood, just north of Albert, and engagements between "small bodies" of troops at some other points.

He records the fact that the enemy used ten divisions (about 120,000 men) in the assaults yesterday on the British lines north of the Somme as far as Bucquoy. The fighting he styles "very severe" and continued until late in the evening.

Field Marshal Haig's report tonight reads as follows:

Today the infantry action on the battle front has been confined to local fighting in the neighborhood of the Aveluy Wood, north of Albert, without change in the situation, and engagements between small bodies of troops at different points. The hostile artillery continues active.

At least ten German divisions are known to have been engaged in the enemy's unsuccessful attacks yesterday north of the Somme, and the fighting was very severe on many points of this front as far north as Bucquoy.

The day bulletin of the War Office is as follows:

North of the Somme heavy fighting continued along the whole front south of Ayette until late yesterday evening. The enemy constantly attacked in considerable strength, but with no further success than attended his efforts during the morning.

Local fighting also took place yesterday afternoon south of the Somme, in the neighborhood of Hangard. We improved our position somewhat by a counterattack.

Foe Massed at Corbie.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, April 6. (Associated Press.)—The German infantry continued its mass attacks just east of Corbie on the Somme during the early hours today, and there was every indication that a heavy assault would be made. At 5:30 o'clock in the morning the enemy was reported advancing in waves near Vaire Wood. At noon, however, it was stated that the storm had not yet broken.

The British artillery was maintaining a heavy bombardment of the enemy's assembling places, and it is possible that this may have delayed the onslaught.

The strong German assaults, made in this region yesterday, resulted in the pushing back somewhat of the British line south of Hangard Wood. Elsewhere the Germans were repulsed with severe losses.

Their operation was divided into two sections. About midday they surged forward in large numbers just below the Somme. The British artillery and machine guns opened a terrific barrage, which had full play on the advancing infantry and brought the attack to a standstill.

South of Hangard Wood the Germans had more success. Bitter fighting took place here and the defenders were forced to fall back in the face of superior numbers. After a slight withdrawal, however, the British held tenaciously to their new positions, and the enemy was unable to make further progress, although he kept throwing waves of infantry against the British defenses.

British Make Gain Near Albert.

North of the Somme today the most important event thus far reported was a British counterattack southwest of Aveluy Wood, (near Albert,) in which some ground was regained after a sharp engagement.

The fighting in the Albert region yesterday gave the Germans a slight gain southwest of the place, where they were able to cling to a triangular bit of ground, won before Dernancourt. This advance brought the enemy up against the Albert-Amiens railway, which they undoubtedly were trying to seize.

North of Albert the fighting was severe. In the morning the British destroyed a bridge across the Somme Canal at Bozineourt, which blocked the enemy advance in this sector.

Just northwest of Albert the Germans obtained a hold on the crest of the ridge, from which they pushed their attack, but without success.

Fighting continued nearly all day yesterday in the region of Bucquoy and Ablainzeville. In the region of the latter place the enemy was thrown back, but a desperate battle was waged near Bucquoy.

The Germans stormed and reoccupied Lassigny Farm yesterday.

Astride the Arras-Cambrai road a short-lived engagement was fought as the result of an enemy assault on a small scale after a heavy trench mortar bombardment. This attack was repulsed.

BERLIN TELLS GAINS SOUTH OF THE OISE

Railway Establishments Near Amiens Have Been Shelled, It Is Stated.

BERLIN, April 6, (via London.)—The communication from General Headquarters this evening says:

From the battlefield on both sides of the Somme there is nothing new to report. French attacks on the western bank of the Avre failed.

South of the Oise we penetrated the enemy's positions near Amigny, (3½ miles east of Chauny.)

The day bulletin reads as follows:

Local enterprises near Bucquoy and south of Hebuterne resulted in bringing in some prisoners and numerous machine guns. An English thrust against Puisieux failed.

On the western bank of the Ancre we extended our bridgehead positions by means of an attack.

On both sides of Albert and south of the Somme there were lively engagements and minor successful infantry fights.

Railway establishments near Amiens were shelled.

French attacks on wide sectors between Morcuil and Montdidier, made to wrest from us gains that we secured on Thursday, broke down with heaviest losses to the French. Montdidier was subjected to French fire.

There was lively artillery firing before Verdun, which increased during the day.

FOE CLOSE TO RAILWAY.

Attack Friday Was Barely 2 Miles from Paris-Amiens Line.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, April 5, (Associated Press.)—There was no relaxation today of the German efforts to the north of Montdidier. Between Thennes and Crivesnes a few French divisions faced and held back nearly four times their number of selected German troops.

Along this front of about six miles there naturally were fluctuations under the weight of such a strong attack, the main point of which was around Rouvrel, (about two miles from the Amiens-Paris Railway.) Two villages fell into the hands of the Germans, but they were not permitted to hold them in peace, for the French came back in a vigorous counterattack, which made the positions of the enemy critical.

On both ends of the line, at Thennes and Crivesnes, there were the most severe encounters, in which the French obstinately kept the barrier intact against furious assaults. A division of the German Guard suffered especially heavy losses.

French artillery, mostly field guns, was brought hurriedly to the scene and battered the Germans unmercifully. Both artillerymen and infantrymen declared that never had they better targets. They fired at them until their supplies of ammunition were exhausted.

Prisoners affirm that the German losses were terrible. Many companies were reduced to below fifty men. The Germans, in view of the rapid marches they were expected to make, were ordered to carry only indispensable articles, but each had reserve rations for two days and two waterbottles. Field kitchens, carrying fresh rations for another day, followed closely, and further behind came horse-drawn wagons with food for three days more.

Each German soldier had a map, on which was printed the dates of the proposed arrival of the attacking troops at the various objectives. One of these points was Paris, showing the intention of the German command to push onward. But apparently the enemy did not reckon on the tenacity of the French and British.

KAISER WATCHES BATTLE TIDE

Heavy German Concentration at the Anglo-French "Hinge."

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, April 6, (Associated Press.)—The artillery alone made war during the night and early this morning, but made it with great vigor, chiefly in the vicinity of the junction of the French and British Armies, where strong enemy concentrations are visible. The infantry scarcely came into action, seemingly marking time, while taking a rest.

The German Emperor, who is said to be watching the battle, has had real war movements proceeding before his eyes. However, the Germans have not reached ground which they had not previously prepared, as they did the country they devastated last year between Roye, Lassigny, Noyon, St. Quentin, La Fere, and Chauny, where they left no shelter whatever for the allied troops, whose movements they were thus able to observe without hindrance.

COUNTING AMIENS A SECOND VERDUN

French Have Faith It Will Prove No Easier Nut for the Foe to Crack.

LOSSES NOW EVEN HEAVIER

Ten Germans to a Yard Marked the Heavy Concentration of Thursday's Assault.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 6.—"We have been selling bits of our ground at the price of fifty killed to the acre," said a wounded French officer in reply to a question when he was brought back to a hospital in the rear. He went on: "We are perfectly prepared to sell them several square miles more at the same price, but they certainly will not get through."

This statement voices the absolute confidence of the French Army and people this morning. The salient fact of the situation is that the German rush on Amiens has been stopped, and the flood has been dammed, as General Foch expressed it in his talk with the newspaper men yesterday.

The terrific German attacks on the armies defending Amiens, which went on through Thursday night when the enemy threw fifteen divisions into battle on a front of as many kilometers, were not renewed yesterday. Just what was the nature of those ten successive furious assaults during that one night may be imagined when it is realized there were ten German soldiers for every yard of the front on which the attacks were concentrated.

Observers here are satisfied that the strategic direction of the battle, which has been given to Foch, is in the best possible hands and that it will enable "those remarkable tacticians, Pétain and Haig," as Marcel Hutin calls them, even with their slightly, but only very slightly smaller, forces to take terrible vengeance on the closely packed masses of the enemy.

The German attack on Amiens promises to develop into a new Verdun, but with the difference that already much heavier losses have been inflicted on the Germans in a few days than during the several months before Verdun.

Gustave Hervé points out that at Verdun two years ago the Germans succeeded almost at bound on the fifth day of their attack in reaching and taking Douaumont, which was six miles from the Verdun bridges. It took them until the 24th of the following June, however, to reach the outer defenses of the Souville fort. Even then they were still two miles from the town."

"Today," says Hervé, "they are not six miles from Amiens but ten. There is plenty of room left for us to fall back, foot by foot, if necessary."

As to the possibilities of German success, owing to the fact that Amiens is not a fortress, M. Hervé says that Verdun was saved, not by its forts, but by trenches hastily scratched out under shellfire and often by mere shell holes linked together. It is argued, therefore, that there is no reason to think the Germans will find Amiens any easier nut to crack than was Verdun. So the French are not afraid that Amiens will fall before the German battering ram. They remember Verdun.

"Moreover, there are undisclosed factors in the present situation which time alone will reveal, but which inspire with the utmost confidence all who are in a position to know them."

"The way," says Colonel Rousset, "is now opening to a battle of manoeuvring, which is the last word in warware and a more effective solution than all the static forms of resistance. Let us wait patiently for what is developing from this factor. We shall not have to wait long."

On the same line Marcel Hutin concludes his article in the Echo de Paris this morning with these words:

"Clemenceau, who returned to the front this morning, knows why the enemy will finally fail in his supreme attempt to obtain a victory which belongs to ourselves and our allies."

Amiens is not yet out of danger, but in the opinion of all qualified to state the critical moment has passed.

FRENCH GIFT TO WEST POINT

Statue for the Academy to be Mounted on Stone from Verdun.

PARIS, April 6.—A delegation headed by General Georges A. Florentin, Grand Chancellor of the Legion of Honor, and including Senator Curinot and MM. Brissae and Roume, representing the Polytechnic School, called, with Jules Cambon, at the American Embassy today to notify Secretary Baker that a reproduction of the statue of which Marshal Joffre took a model to the United States, would be presented to the Military Academy at West Point.

The reproduction will be mounted on a base of stone from Verdun, in which will be inclosed relics from the Marne battlefield. The gift recalls the message from West Point sent through Lafayette to France's similar institution. Secretary Baker acknowledged the presentation with an appreciation of the spirit in which it was made.

AMERICAN BARRAGE ROUTS RAIDERS

where they underwent the American "third degree," which starts with a good meal and cigarettes, and for which the prisoners gave information desired as to the personnel of their own troops.

Officers able to check their statements said they told the truth. After the first two hours the boche seemed content at being captured. I saw them at Division Headquarters. They appeared well fed and were of good physique.

American officers thought they had found a German spy today when they came on a man just back of the American lines with a rifle and uniform but no other equipment. He was unable to explain his actions. The man was taken to headquarters, where after a while he was able to explain that he had been left for four days' shelterless at a listening post without food or relief, and had partly lost his reason under the long strain. Instead of prison he got the best care that could be given him.

An attempted raid on the American trenches yesterday morning was stopped quickly by our artillery. Two dead Germans were left in No Man's Land. The German prisoners say the boche officers and men have developed marked respect for our artillery fire.

A ration party of two men on the way to give breakfast to two Americans at an outpost in No Man's Land this morning, were creeping along with pails of soup, coffee, and other food when they ran into a German patrol of ten men. The Germans challenged. In reply the American sergeant pulled a revolver and shot the boche leader through the heart. The rest of the Germans beat a hasty retreat, the two Americans pursuing.

Giving up the chase the Americans groped about in the dark until they found the food they had been carrying, and went onto the outposts. On their return they found the dead German and dragged him between them back to the American trench, where they reported with their loot to the commanding officer.

Swiss Ask About Dr. Muck.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The Swiss Government, through Minister Sulzer, inquired of the State Department today the reasons for interning Dr. Karl Muck, who is technically a Swiss citizen though of German birth. He had made no profession of Swiss citizenship until recently.

TWO AMERICAN FLIERS AT THE FRONT MISSING

Charles Kerwood Last Reported in a Clumsy Bombing Machine Fighting Seven Germans.

PARIS, April 6.—Charles Kerwood of Bryn Mawr, Penn., and Houston Woodward of Philadelphia, both members of the Lafayette Escadrille, have been missing since April 1.

Kerwood, while patrolling in the Somme region, encountered seven German airplanes. He was flying a bombing machine, which obliged him to keep at a lower altitude than his comrades in the patrol, but unhesitatingly engaged one of the Germans. Almost at once a quartet of Germans were attacking him. Surrounded, he defended himself bravely with his clumsy bombing plane against the lighter battle planes.

Manderson Lehr of Albion, Neb., belonging to the same patrol and flying higher, saw Kerwood battling with the Germans, but shortly lost sight of Kerwood's machine, which fell behind the German lines, and it is not known whether the fall was fatal to Kerwood, or he was taken prisoner.

Woodward left on a scouting expedition on April 1 and has not returned, and there is nothing to indicate whether he fell into German hands as a prisoner or met another fate.

ARCHIE ROOSEVELT SOON TO LEAVE THE HOSPITAL

Quick Recovery from Bullet Wound Received in Action Considered Remarkable.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

From a Staff Correspondent of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCES IN FRANCE, April 6.—Captain Archie Roosevelt will leave the hospital within a few days. His quick recovery from wounds received several weeks ago is regarded as remarkable.

Severe bullet wounds in the leg and arm will leave no permanent injury, and he is in a fair way soon to rejoin his command.

War Department Issues Denial of Heavy Losses; Spread of False Reports Credited to Germans

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The War Department gave to the press this evening the following statement:

Pending the receipt from Secretary Baker of a reply to a cablegram from the War Department asking specifically if his order directing that all publication with reference to persons in the American Expeditionary Forces be given out from General Pershing's headquarters forbads the publication from the War Department of lists of casualties, the War Department announces that the lists of casualties which have been received from General Pershing daily during the last four days have been absolutely minor in numbers and that there has been no great loss on our western front reported.

Should there be a report of large losses or a disaster of any kind, the fact will not be concealed, but the figures, at least, will be given out immediately. The relatives of the soldiers named in the casualty lists during the last four days have been already informed.

It is understood by the department that a German propaganda has been initiated for the purpose of causing unrest and disseminating the idea that there has been a large casualty list on the other side among the American forces, but not only on this occasion, but on all occasions, the public may be assured that there will be no suppression of bad news.

BACKS CLEMENCEAU IN REPLY TO CZERNIN

Painleve Says That Austria Sought to Open Peace Negotiations.

GERMANS CRITICISE CZERNIN

Pan Germans Show Jealousy of Austria's Territorial Gains at Rumania's Expense.

PARIS, April 6.—In view of the official announcement yesterday that Premier Clemenceau, on assuming office, found that conversations had been entered into in Switzerland between representatives of France and Austria, on Austria's initiative, Professor Paul Painlevé, who preceded M. Clemenceau as Premier, today issued the following explanatory statement:

"During the year 1917 Austria made several attempts to open semi-official negotiations with the Entente Allies. Notably in June, 1917, I was advised by the Second Bureau that Austria through the person of Count Revertata had several times asked through a Swiss intermediary for an interview with the officer attached to the Second Bureau, Major Armand, a distant relative.

"Alexander Ribot, then Premier, having been consulted, Major Armand and Count Revertata met in August, 1917. The matter stopped there, and no interview took place from August until November, when I left office.

"The events which occurred afterward naturally are unknown to me, but I presume, from the statement made by Premier Clemenceau, that Count Revertata returned to the charge."

German Comment on Czernin Speech.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Saturday, April 6.—It is obvious from the German papers which have arrived at The Hague, somewhat belated, that the German press played up "the Clemenceau peace offer" before the French dementi had time to arrive. All the papers dwell at length on this portion of Count Czernin's speech.

The speech raises criticism in German papers. Its references to the peace with Rumania appears to have reawakened the German annexationists' lust for "securities" for Germany—as the conservative press now designates annexation in the west.

There is no doubt that the Dual Monarchy's territorial gains have caused considerable envy among the Pan Germans, more especially as Czernin has posed as opposed to annexation. The Deutsche Tageszeitung remarks that the tone in which in a former speech he referred to the Austro-Hungarians' help on the west front was hardly one to use in speaking of allies. "We do not expect Austria to fight for German annexationist aims—that is impossible, as there are none—but we do not want public opinion to be misled in Germany or Austria," says the Tageszeitung, which holds that the "securities" obtained by Germany in the west will protect the Dual Monarchy's interests as much as Germany's.

In the meantime, the rumor that Czernin is about to retire is gaining ground. Count zu Reventlow considers the last half of the Austro-Hungarian Minister's speech as a defense of his policy. In his Tageszeitung editorial he refers somewhat sarcastically to Czernin's statement that the Rumanian peace was not one of annexation, but only in the interest of frontier corrections and military security. He congratulates Austria-Hungary on the value, from an economic and military point of view, of these "frontier corrections," which, he remarks, include security to Austrian shipping on the lower Danube and the possession of mountain passes and coal-mining districts, and suggests that Germany insist on the same economical and military security in the west.

The conservative Tägliche Rundschau remarks that peace terms of the Brest-Litovsk variety would satisfy even the Pan German demands for Belgium, Longwy, and Briey.

The conservative Kreuz-Zeitung says that Count Czernin still appears to consider President Wilson as a peace mediator, but hopes that after recent events in the west Germany will demand, besides the renunciation of French claims to Alsace-Lorraine, a war indemnity in the shape of the Briey-Longwy iron region and the giving up of French Morocco. The Frankfurter Zeitung remarks that it is only natural that the organs of the Right and the National Liberals, who have always had more or less Pan German war aims, disapprove of Czernin's views and have disapproved of them ever since he advocated a peace by understanding, with Wilson as an instrument for his policy.

Vorwärts says that Czernin's statement about Clemenceau's peace offer sounds too fantastic to be true. His Rumanian peace, it remarks, resembles that with Russia. Hungary and Bulgaria take the territory they want, and Rumania is told to help herself to Bessarabia—and Czernin calls this peace!

A TYPICAL TEUTON TRICK.

So Tardieu Characterizes Czernin's Talk of Secret Peace Parleys.

André Tardieu, the French High Commissioner, who was in this city yesterday, said that the assertion of Count Czernin that he had carried on secret exchanges of views on the subject of peace with Premier Clemenceau was a typical Teutonic manoeuvre, which had been substantially duplicated on several previous occasions.

"I do not know anything about what took place between Austrian and Swiss officials," he said. "They may have talked a great deal about peace plans. But I do know that France did not start any peace talks, and that France did not take part in any peace talk. The statement of Premier Clemenceau on that subject is very complete.

"After every one of her offensives in the past Germany has sought to start a movement for peace. It is the German tactics."

POOH-POOHS PEACE DRIVE.

Washington Calls It a Failure, but Expects to See Others.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Teutonic efforts to cause discord among the Allies over the question of peace have failed. The "peace drive" attempted by Count Czernin, the Austro-Hungarian Minister for Foreign Affairs, as a corollary of the German military offensive in Picardy, has had no effect upon this Government, and from all accounts it has not made an impression on any of the co-belligerents of the United States.

The question of peace negotiations at this time has been settled by the speech delivered by President Wilson in Baltimore tonight. The President has disposed of all Teutonic propaganda launched to give the impression that there was likelihood of peace soon.

Count Czernin has never addressed the United States, it was declared at the State Department today, nor has the American Government been in communication with any of the enemy Governments since the war began.

It is believed here that, in the event of the final failure of Germany to break through the western front, Austria-Hungary, again at Germany's instigation, will attempt to set on foot in Switzerland a discussion of peace preliminaries with the Allied Powers, in the meantime maintaining in Switzerland personages of high rank and recognized official position who will avail themselves of any opportunity to advance the peace movement.

An Entente diplomat said today:

"Czernin has tried to cheat everybody, especially the United States, but America has not fallen into his trap, and now no one is in doubt concerning what the Vienna Foreign Minister is up to. His game is a smart one, however, and requires careful watching."

HERTLING TO SPEAK APRIL 16.

But Has Not Taken Reichstag Leaders Into His Confidence.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, April 6.—The Berlin Tageblatt says that Chancellor Hertling is expected to speak on April 16, when the Reichstag reassembles. It asserts that no decisions have been taken, and that "in any case the question of the Chancellor's health will be considered." Parliamentary work is at a standstill. No conferences between factions have taken place, and the Chancellor has not expressed a desire to speak with the party leaders on the working program of the coming Reichstag session."

REASSURED BY CLEMENCEAU.

Premier Tells Deputies They Can Have Confidence.

PARIS, April 6.—Premier Clemenceau told the Committees on Foreign and Military Affairs of the Chamber of Deputies at a joint session yesterday that they could have confidence regarding the outcome of the great battle now in progress.

"We have an admirable army," he said, in summing up the situation, after giving details to the committee. "Our officers and our men are equally brave. They are endowed with the best qualities of our race. They possess material means of great power. All this permits us to have confidence."

The Premier's summary of the situation made an excellent impression upon the Deputies. After the meeting an important member of the Military Committee said:

"The Premier has will power, audacity, and energy. He has faith in his convictions, and is able to bring others to those convictions. After listening to him it is impossible not to have confidence."

VORWAERTS CHIEF A SUICIDE

Eisner, Former Editor, Had Been Imprisoned on a Treason Charge.

LONDON, April 6.—The suicide in prison in Munich of Kurt Eisner, formerly editor of the majority Socialist newspaper Vorwärts of Berlin, is reported in an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Copenhagen. Herr Eisner was arrested in Munich last February for having taken a leading part in the strike movement at that time, and was charged with high treason.

JEWS ACTIVE IN WAR.

Report of American Committee Shows Many Services.

The eleventh annual report of the American Jewish Committee refers to Jewish patriotism which has inspired many Jews to serve the United States in important places in Washington and many thousands in the army and navy. Members of the Executive Committee of the organization have aided the Government in the work of the Council of National Defense, the Liberty Loan Committee, the placing of war loans, and the drafting of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Allowance Compensation and Insurance act, and in many other ways.

The committee proposes to issue a memorandum on Jewish disabilities in Russia and other countries with a view to their amelioration. The book will contain chapters on the legal restrictions respecting domicile, education, land-holding, commercial pursuits, professions, agriculture, &c. In every case there will be exact quotations from the statutes, the history of the events which led up to their enactment, an account of the important decisions of the Russian Senate respecting the application of the law, and a survey of its effects upon its victims. Last year the society expended $13,768 on its many activities.

The officers comprise Louis Marshall, President; Cyrus Adler and Julius Rosenwald, Vice Presidents, and Isaac W. Bernheim, Treasurer. Executive Committee, Cyrus Adler, Chairman; Isaac W. Bernheim, Harry Cutler, Samuel Dorf, Jacob H. Hollander, Julian W. Mack, Judah L. Magnes, Louis Marshall, Julius Rosenwald, Jacob H. Schiff, Isador Sobel, Oscar S. Straus, Cyrus L. Sulzberger, Mayer Sulzberger, and Leo Weil.

BRITISH CASUALTIES 3,743.

Weekly Report Evidently Antedates the Fighting in the Big Drive.

LONDON, April 6.—British casualties reported in the week ended today aggregated 3,743, divided as follows:

Killed or died of wounds: Officers, 135; men, 612.

Wounded or missing: Officers, 628; men, 2,368.

This total is only slightly in excess of last week's, which was 3,614. Apparently the reports of casualties in the Somme battle have not begun to come in.

PARIS AGAIN UNDER FIRE.

Three Persons Wounded in Long-Range Bombardment Yesterday.

PARIS, April 6.—The bombardment of Paris by long-range German guns was resumed at 11:40 o'clock this morning, and continued throughout the day. Three persons were wounded.

VON JAGOW BEARS OUT LICHNOWSKY

Practically Confirms His Contention That England Strove to Avert War.

GREY WAS "CONCILIATORY"

Mesopotamian "Agreement Had Almost Been Reached" When Hostilities Began.

WAR FOR GERMAN PRESTIGE

Damaged by Moroccan Defeat, It Had to be Maintained, Kaiser's Ex-Minister Says.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 6.—German papers containing the text of the observations which the former German Foreign Secretary, Herr von Jagow, made in reply to the memorandum of Prince Lichnowsky, wherein the former German Ambassador to London blamed Germany for causing the world war, have now reached England.

Herr von Jagow was presumably put forward to counteract the effect which the publication of Lichnowsky's revelations in the Vorwärts and other German papers had had in Germany, but in the course of his three-column article in the Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung he confirms what is most material in them.

He applies such phrases as "an unheard-of assertion," "a mass of inaccuracies and perversions," to Lichnowsky's memorandum, but he does not meet the former Ambassador's charges with any new evidence, merely referring his readers to former publications of the German Government.

As The London Times points out, the eagerness with which he fastens on a few trifling errors in the memorandum serves to increase the significance of his admissions.

He bears out the assertion that in 1913 England was prepared to enter into friendly agreements with Germany. She was "ready to meet us." A Bagdad railway agreement was almost completed when Germany drew the sword. Negotiations about the future of the African colonies of Portugal in certain contingencies had been resumed, and the German Foreign Secretary looked forward to further agreements in the Far East and elsewhere.

He refuses to adopt the German view that "England laid all the mines which caused the war." On the contrary, he bears witness with former Ambassador Lichnowsky to Sir Edward Grey's "love of peace and his serious wish to reach an agreement with us." He says that it is true that Sir Edward could have prevented war, but he is careful not to indicate how. Presumably he means he could have done it by following Germany's example and treating England's engagements as "scraps of paper."

He agrees that the war was not popular with the British people, and that Belgium had to serve as a battlefield. Germany, on the other hand, had to maintain her prestige. It had been damaged by her political defeat in Morocco. A fresh diminution of it would have been, he remarks, "intolerable for our position in Europe and in the world."

Dodges the "Potsdam Council."

In one point of fact he corrects Prince Lichnowsky. He denies that he himself visited Vienna at any time between the Spring of 1913 and the outbreak of the war. He confirms, as far as he remembers, all the expressions attributed to him by Lichnowsky.

His only reference to the Potsdam council of July 5, 1914, (when, it is asserted, the Teuton leaders made the final decision for war,) is not a denial that the meeting took place, but a single sentence. "On July 5 I was absent from Berlin."

In regard to Lichnowsky's main charges, Herr von Jagow talks of "unheard-of" assertions and "inaccuracies and perversions," but he does not bring forward any fresh arguments to meet the charges, and merely refers to the publications of the German Government concerning the conversations which took place in June, 1914, between the Kaiser and Archduke Francis Ferdinand. Herr von Jagow says:

"At Konopischt no plan was laid down (festgelegt) for an active policy against Serbia. Archduke Francis Ferdinand was not at all an advocate of a policy leading to war, although he was often reckoned as such. During the London conference he advised moderation and avoidance of war."

Herr von Jagow here avoids the issue, raised by Lichnowsky, who did not say that a definite scheme was arranged at Konopischt, but that the indication was, not that Archduke Francis Ferdinand was in favor of war, but that his death was a positive relief to the advocates of war.

In the course of his statement Herr von Jagow, who remained Foreign Secretary until late in 1916, says:

"When I was appointed State Secretary in January, 1913, it seemed to me that a German-English rapprochement was desirable, and an understanding upon those points where our interests touched and sometimes even crossed, and this I deemed feasible. At least, it was my intention to work on this."

Admits England Was Conciliatory.

With regard to the Bagdad question Herr von Jagow says:

"If England insisted upon excluding us from Mesopotamia, it appeared to me that a conflict would be avoided with difficulty. We were met in a conciliatory manner by the English Government, and an agreement had almost been reached just previous to the outbreak of the world war."

He meets Lichnowsky's assertion that Germany drove Russia "into the arms of France and England by our Oriental and Balkan policy" by the contention that the Pan Slavism which governed Russian politics was directly anti-German.

Upon the London conference on Algeciras he says: "We no more desired war on Albania's account than did Sir Edward Grey. That is why, in spite of our former experiences at Algeciras, we consented to the conference. The merit of a conciliatory attitude at the conference must not be denied to Sir Edward Grey, but it is going a little too far to say that he in nowise took up his stand on the side of the Entente. He certainly often urged St. Petersburg to give way, and found principles of accord (Einigungs Formein) suitable to this end. But outwardly he represented the Entente, as he could no more leave his associates in the lurch than could we. Nor did he wish to do so.

"Urged Moderation Upon Vienna."

"On the other hand, the assertion that we adopted without exception the standpoint prescribed for us by Vienna is absolutely untrue. We played, as England did, a conciliatory rôle, and urged moderation upon Vienna far more than Lichnowsky seems to be aware of, or at any rate admits. Vienna thereupon made a variety of the most far-reaching concessions, Dibra and Djakowa."

Mentioning the Serajevo murders as the climax of the continued Russian provocations against Austria, von Jagow says:

"The prestige and existence of the Danube monarchy were at stake. We could not agree to the English proposal concerning a conference of Ministers, as it would doubtless have led to a serious diplomatic defeat for us."

He adds: "I do not intend to adopt the theory now widespread among us that England was the originator of all the intrigues leading to the war. On the contrary, I believe in Sir Edward Grey's love of peace and his genuine desire to arrive at an understanding with us, but he had allowed himself to become too hopelessly entangled in the network of Franco-Russian policy. He could find no way out and therefore failed to do that which had been in his power to prevent the world war. War was not popular among the English people, therefore Belgium had to serve as a battle cry."

Couldn't Abandon Old Allies.

At the end of his observations von Jagow restates his policy as follows: "I also pursued a policy which aimed at an agreement with England because I was of the opinion that this was the only road by which we could get out of the unfavorable situation into which the unequal distribution of strength and weakness of the Triple Alliance had brought us. Political marriages 'until death us do part' are, as Prince Lichnowsky says, impossible in international relations, but in the existing state of affairs in Europe isolations are equally impossible. The history of Europe is composed of coalitions, some of which have led to avoidance of wars and some to violent conflicts. A loosening and final dissolution of old unions, which no longer satisfy all conditions, cannot be recommended until new constellations are within reach. That was the aim of our policy of rapprochement with England. As long as this policy did not provide trustworthy guarantees we could not abandon the old securities and obligations which they involved.

"Our Morocco policy led to political defeat. Happily, this had been avoided in the Bosnian crisis and at the London conference. Fresh diminution of our prestige was intolerable for our position in Europe and in the world. Prosperity of States and their political and economic successes depend upon the prestige which they enjoy in the world."

Commenting on Captain Persius's statement in the Berlin Tageblatt that "an understanding ought to be easier now that we have heard from the two opposing sources, from von Jagow and Lichnowsky, that England was not responsible for the war, as hitherto has been believed in wide circles in Germany," The Westminster Gazette says:

"For some days past we have been waiting expectantly for this last observation, for it is extremely unlikely that the publication of the Lichnowsky memorandum would have been permitted at this moment, and still more that von Jagow would substantially have confirmed Lichnowsky, unless a powerful section of the official world desired this inference to be drawn. We will only say for the moment that it is the beginning of wisdom for the enemy to understand that his dream of world conquest cannot be realized in the face of the resistance of Britain and America. We speak of these two powers as representing the impregnable sea forces and oversea resources of the Allies, and we believe that they have it within their power to bring everything that the enemy has done, east or west, into a final settlement, and to see that it accords with justice and fair dealings."

May Try Lichnowsky for Treason.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, April 6.—In a written reply to a Richstag member's question, the Government has announced that the State's attorneys are now considering whether Prince Lichnowsky and certain other persons can be brought to trial on the charge of high treason for circulating the Prince's circular letter dealing with "my mission in London." The Imperial High Court at Leipsic is also considering the same question.

The Prince, who has subscribed 1,000,000 marks to war loans is now living on his estate in Silesia.

Lichnowsky Agent Arrested.

AMSTERDAM, April 6.—The Berlin Lokal-Anzeiger says that Captain Beerfeld, who was particularly concerned in the distribution of the memorandum of Prince Lichnowsky, the former German Ambassador at London, has been placed under "preventive arrest."

CELEBRATION IN LONDON

King, Too, Sends Message of Confidence to War Anniversary Luncheon.

TRIBUTE FROM BALFOUR

Dwells on Magnitude of America's Sacrifice in Brigading Troops with Allies.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 6.—The first anniversary of the entry of the United States into the war was commemorated in London today by a luncheon at the Mansion House, to which the Lord Mayor, Colonel Charles Augustus Hanson, M. P., had invited a highly representative British and American company, together with the Ambassadors and Ministers of all the allied nations. The menu was wartime in character, consisting of fish, eggs and vegetables, but there were reminders of the old-time Lucullian banquets of the City Fathers in the gorgeous gold and silver plate displayed about the tables.

The Lord Mayor read a telegram from the King, in which his Majesty said the fact American troops are daily taking their place in battle line "increases more than ever the confidence with which we patiently look forward to the ultimate triumph of our united efforts in defense of the rights and liberties of civilization," and a message from Prime Minister Lloyd George, who predicted that "during the next few weeks America will give the Prussian military junta the surprise of their lives."

Lord Northcliffe, whom an attack of influenza prevented from attending the luncheon, sent a letter, in which he said: "The war will have been worth while if it makes for the reunion of the English-speaking peoples who, with their allies, will be able to prevent a recurrence of the present horror."

Arthur J. Balfour, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, proposed a toast to the day, "the anniversary of the greatest events in history, the moment when the New World threw in its lot with the civilized elements of the Old World."

Civilization, both in the Old and New World, he said, was now making common cause against an overmastering peril. There was not room on earth for the ideals of German militarism and the ideals of free democracy.

Mr. Balfour paid a high tribute to America's decision to allow American troops to be brigaded with British and French troops on the western front, dwelling on the magnitude of the sacrifice of purely national feeling and ambition which that policy involved.

Ambassador Page received a great ovation when he rose to reply, and the cheering was renewed when he presented to the Lord Mayor and Corporation of London an American flag on behalf of the officers of the American Army and Navy who are stationed in England. The Lord Mayor said the Stars and Stripes which was then draped over the back of his civic chair emblazoned with the arms of London, would be cherished as one of the city's greatest treasures.

Messages from Premier and King.

LONDON, April 6, (Associated Press.)—Premier Lloyd George, telegraphing today to the Lord Mayor of London on the occasion of a luncheon given to celebrate America's entry into the war, said:

"The decision of the American people that it was their duty to join in the great struggle of free peoples against the attempt of overweening despotism to establish its own universal dominion by military power was one of the most momentous events in history. During the past year they have been bending all their energies to the work of preparation. During the next few weeks America will give the Prussian military junta the surprise of their lives."

In honor of the day the flags of the United States and Great Britain flew all day over the Mansion House. Ambassador Page was the guest of honor at the luncheon. Other guests were the Ambassadors and Ministers of the allied countries, the Archbishop of Canterbury, the Earl of Derby, Lord Milner, the Marquis of Crewe, Sir Eric Geddes, Lord Robert Cecil, Admiral Wemyss, Admiral Jellicoe, Winston Spencer Churchill, General Sir William Robertson, Sir R. H. Finlay, Vice Admiral Sims, and representatives of the Dominions and colonies. A band of the Grenadier Guards played American airs.

The telegram from the Premier was read to the assembled guests by the Lord Mayor, who also read a telegram he had sent to King George and the latter's reply to it. The Lord Mayor's message, which he sent in the name of himself and his guests, said:

"I respectfully offer to your gracious majesty my assurance of deep, sincere esteem and regard, with profound gratitude for all that you have done and are doing in the interests of the Allies to secure victory and a lasting peace, to which we look forward with unfailing confidence."

Here is the King's reply:

The message received from you my Lord Mayor, and your distinguished guests assembled to celebrate the entry of the United States into the war, greatly touched me. Pray convey to all my grateful thanks for their generous sentiments, whereto it gives expression. American troops are daily taking their place in the battle line, and this increases more than ever the confidence with which we patiently look forward to the ultimate victory of our united efforts in defense of the rights and liberties of civilization. GEORGE, R. I.

The Lord Mayor said he had also received a message from Lord Northcliffe, who declared that the Americans were coming in thousands, hundreds of thousands, and millions, if necessary, to make victory certain.

Balfour Proposes a Toast.

Arthur J. Balfour, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, in proposing a toast commemorating the entry of the United States into the war, said he did not believe that at this moment, among those fighting for the allied cause, was any community to be found which more clearly understood what were the issues at stake or was more firmly determined to see those issues brought to a successful conclusion than the United States. All had come to the conclusion that, while there was room on the earth for the free development of all communities, there was no room for both the ideals cherished by the German military party and the ideals cherished by the great free democracies of the world. One or the other must prevail; they could not flourish side by side.

Could anything be more painful, Mr. Balfour went on, than the use to which President Wilson's declarations of policy had been put by the Central Powers? All their statesmen who had praised the principles expressed by the President had at the very moment when they came to be carried out cynically violated them without reproach by their own people.

After declaring that all the boundary lines the Central Powers had drawn in the east had been made in violation of ethnological and national principles, in order to sow the seeds of future dissensions, so that the Central Powers might work their will of those peoples, Mr Balfour said:

"We cannot make war by rhetoric or secure peace by fine phrases. Our Russian friends are beginning to learn that truth.

"We thought that the present leaders of Russia really believed that they could bring an end to the war by appealing to the better instincts of peoples, or sections of peoples, of the enemy powers, and added:

"I am one of those who have an undying faith in the Russian people, and I look forward to the time when they will be not only independent and united, but free. Every assistance we can give them in that painful upward struggle will be given.

"The illusions which brought Russia to her present position," said Mr. Balfour, "have never been entertained by our friends on the other side of the Atlantic. They have always, in cherishing the ideals in which they believe, known that they would have in the last resort to fight for those ideals, and they have always understood that in this great battle between darkness and light sacrifices were inevitable, and they have shown that they were ready to make those sacrifices to the fullest extent.

America's Great Sacrifice.

"It is an imposing sight to see a great nation, hitherto solely engaged in the paths of peace, whose worst enemy could never suggest that it had military ambitions, devoting all its energies, all its powers of sacrifice, and all its wealth in men, ability, and resources to the service of the cause in which we believe. And surely no greater proof was ever given of its devotion to the common cause than has been given recently by President Wilson and the American Government in agreeing to allow the troops of America to fight in the first instance, not as an American army, but with British and French troops on the western front.

"I am not sure that every one in this room can appreciate the full magnitude of this sacrifice and what policy it involves. I do not believe that it would seriously delay what we should all like to see—a great American army fighting as an American army side by side with the British, French, and Italians and the other allies. The sacrifice has been made for a great international cause, and because the President and the community whom he represents have thoroughly realized how much depends upon the fighting in the west in the next few months, and have felt that all smaller obstacles must be swept out of the way, that the great and final end may be achieved."

Secretary Balfour said he was the last man to underrate the formidable character of the German organization or the bravery of the German troops. But when the Germans asked the world to look at the war map and declared that the war was already won for Germany, he looked at the camp and come to different conclusions.

The Italian Ambassador, Marquis Imperiali, turning to the American Ambassador, said:

"I bring you, Mr. Ambassador, in the name also of all my allied colleagues, that same greeting which is at this very moment speeding from Rome the Eternal toward your country. We all remember that at this same hour free American citizens are fighting side by side with their British and French comrades in an equally heroic effort; are barring with their bodies the advances of powerful enemy hordes, led to destruction by an unquenchable thirst of greed and dominion, in those very fields and those very cities of France which ancient civilization made the symbol and the fullest expression of liberty and human dignity."

Ambassador Page, replying in behalf of America, expressed the great appreciation of Americans for the remembrance of the anniversary and the many kindnesses and the help which the Americans had received at the hands of the British since their entry into the war. Continuing he said:

"You earnestly welcomed our troops, and the constant stream of them which since has poured through this kingdom has been met by innumerable kindnesses. Your Government has thrown open all doors to helpful information and has dealt with us as it deals with its own people."

Ambassador Page referred, among other things, to the British naval patrol "risking the lives of their crews in saving the lives of our men" from the torpedoed steamship Tuscania, and the unselfish kindness on that occasion of the people of Scotland and Ireland, from the highest to the humblest dwellers on those rough coasts. Mr. Page then spoke of the efforts America had made, saying the United States had built a vast military structure on a broad basis.

The reading by the Ambassador of General Pershing's words to General Foch, when the American commander placed the American troops in France at the disposal of the Entente allied commander, evoked a great round of applause, as did his reference to President Wilson's resolve "to see the struggle through to the end."

"In this hour of the supreme test," said Ambassador Page, "we are hurrying, and we will come in as many millions as are needed—come along with you and our French companions in arms—so to redden the fields of France that rulers or nations that hereafter meditate conquest will see there the price freemen paid for freedom, and will hesitate and desist.

"Your heroic example makes our part of the task easier. It will be an immortal experience to share your unyielding endurance. No nation that helps stay this plague will ever outlive the glory of its achievement or the thanks of succeeding generations.

"We have to thank you especially for your sure shield against the subjection of the seas and threatened attacks on the lands beyond them. For this I speak our appreciation with a new understanding, and this understanding will never pass from our grateful recollection."

It was in concluding his speech that Ambassador Page presented to the City of London, in the name of the American officers stationed here, an American flag "in token of our appreciation of your kind remembrance of this day and of our appreciation also of this distinguished gathering in our honor."

FRANCE HONORS AMERICA'S ENTRY

Tribute to Our Fighters Now in Battle Paid by Pichon at Notable Gathering.

PARIS, April 6.—A brilliant assemblage, including French officials and diplomats and Americans, this afternoon celebrated the first anniversary of America's entry into the war in the magnificent festival hall of the Hôtel de Ville—the City Hall.

Stephen Pichon, the Foreign Minister; Jules Cambon, the head of the American Relations Department of the French Government, and Georges Leygues, the Minister of Marine, represented the French Government. Ambassador William Graves Sharp, Secretary of War Baker, General Tasker H. Bliss, Chief of Staff of the American Army, and a considerable number of American naval and army officers were present.

Adrien Mithouard, President of the Municipal Council, and M. Raux, Prefect of Police of Paris, speaking in behalf of the city, paid tributes to the patriotic and unselfish motives which actuated America's intervention in the war. After this M. Pichon spoke for the Government.

Ambassador Sharp, in replying, thanked the city authorities and the representatives of the Government for the demonstration, adding:

"Auspicious as is this event and the readiness of our own brave soldiers, who now take their places beside their allied brothers on the battle front, yet at this moment, when the enemy more than ever is determined to subject the soil of France to his domination, I am persuaded that the time for words has passed into the time for deeds.

"The world knows the momentous issues at stake. Do they not involve all that is essential to happiness? The progressive development of free peoples is today imperiled by the power of the militarists. As long as that enemy seeks to impose his terms upon us, we must fight, and we will fight, to conquer. For that purpose all the men and all the resources of America will be placed at your disposal."

The remarks of both M. Pichon and Mr. Sharp were greeted with rousing cheers. At the end of the ceremony toasts were drunk to President Wilson, Secretary Baker, Generals Bliss and Pershing, Ambassador Sharp, and the American Army.

In his address Minister Pichon said:

"For the States that provoked the catastrophe, in which millions have met their deaths, the anniversary of the declaration of war is that of a crime of which they will eternally bear the responsibility and stigma. For the peoples who resolved to make supreme sacrifices only in order to defend and to save their most precious possessions for humanity, the anniversary of their entry into the war is that of an act which history will regard with the title of immortal glory. Among those peoples, none more than that of the United States has a right to claim its part in the homage which will be rendered them by posterity.

"In behalf of right and justice alone has America intervened, in a battle in which barbarism threatens the world with the most frightful aggression, and is acting without a trace of selfish calculation, seeking only to serve a cause which is that of civilized humanity."

France, the Minister continued, appreciates more than any other country the effect of America's invincible will, as it is in France that America's splendid troops continually arrive.

"Thus, for our hearths they are fighting at the moment I am speaking. In Picardy they are sacrificing their lives to drive the enemy from our land. Thus, along the Somme and the Oise, they are marching to reconquer invaded districts for our unhappy countrymen. America's ends are the same as those of France; peace by victory—lasting peace, based on justice."

Cheers greeted these words.

One point which is brought into relief is the spirited manner in which General Pershing offered the American army now in France for the present battle.

FRENCH ARMY SURE FOE IS CHECKED

Confidence Can Be Read in the Faces of the Troops Now on the Front.

HOW PLEMONT WAS RETAKEN

Brilliant Work by the French Infantry and Artillery in Driving Germans Out of Captured Territory.

By G. H. PERRIS.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES, April 5.—I spent yesterday on the front immediately south of Lassigny, and I read in the face of men and things what it means to say, "The boche is arrested."

General Foch said this today in welcoming a group of war correspondents. Of the German wave attack he said:

"It is clear it is blocked. [The expression was "endigue," that is a breakwater has been set up against it.] The wave dies on the beach because it finds sufficient obstacle. The boche, to give him his common name, is completely arrested. We shall try to do better, to get the better of him. The future is ours and will show the measure of our success."

At last the weather has broken. It is yet only a foretaste of April showers, and even on the clay soil here it is not as bad as in Flanders. Happily, too, if it is bad to slither up and down the French hillsides it is worse to be bogged in the plain to which the enemy generally is confined. For the last stage of the allied retreat was deliberate enough to permit of the holding of the best line of positions for this definite stand.

In the original invasion of France the German armies strode forward between the Avre and the Oise and nothing but delaying actions could be attempted. Now they have been stopped beyond Noyon, and from that point along the crescent of heights of the Oise, extending nearly all the way to Montdidier. At some points they got beyond their positions of the Spring of last year, at others they fall short of them and leave the advantage to us. This is notably the case near Lassigny. Last year, when as now they held the little town itself, the charming Renaissance château of Plessis de Roye a mile to the southwest and its extensive park were in our hands, but the Germans sat upon the conical hill of Plemont which overlooks and completely dominates them. Now we hold Plemont and have recaptured Plessis after a stirring action.

At 7:30 A. M., on March 30, a strong enemy attack was delivered from Lassigny, one division striking at Plessis, while another division directed its attack upon Plemont. After a half hour's artillery preparation the infantry came on in columns of two companies, with machine guns in front. The first waves were mowed down by the French machine guns, but some hundreds of men got around through marshy ground into Plessis Park and seized the château. The Colonel of the regiment defending it was wounded at his post of command. Three sappers asked to stay to take care of him. During the day he constantly asked whether the counterattack had begun, but he did not survive to see it.

Meanwhile other German divisions had reached the summit of Plemont. The north side of the hill was then occupied by French watchers and telephonists. The assault passed over and beyond them. Hearing that they were isolated in their hole, a Major, commanding a battalion, got together seven or eight men at his post of command, charged through, installed a machine gun in the entrance, and held out there till relief came.

At 9:30 A. M. a concerted counterattack was made, troops marching eastward from the neighborhood of Canny-sur-Matz, while other companies moved from the southwest and advanced direct upon Plemont and Plessis. Very hard fighting on the hillside and in the park ended in the capture of the whole of the lost ground with 700 prisoners, including twenty officers.

There was still more satisfaction in liberating 100 Frenchmen who had been captured and in recovering the body of their gallant Colonel.

The success of the operation was largely due to the excellent work of the French guns, which first cut off Lassigny and the German rear and then put what they call a raking fire over the park and low ground near and finally covered the infantry advance with the usual progressive barrage.

The front now skirts south of Lassigny and runs southeastward near the railway line and Duette to Mont Renaud, which has been several times lost and recovered and is now ours.

Plemont naturally is not a very healthy place in the circumstances, and after looking out upon the plain that extends from its feet far northward, I hastened as well as one can hasten by muddy trenches and paths to safer parts.

PRESIDENT GETS WEBB BILL.

Final Action in Congress on Act to Promote Export Trade.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Final action on the Webb export bill, permitting American exporters to form combinations in extending their foreign commerce, was taken today by Congress, and the measure went to the President.

Exporters under the bill are prohibited from acts, in their foreign combinations, intentionally enhancing or depressing prices in the United States.

Exporters' associations are made subject to strict supervision of the Federal Trade Commission, which is empowered to prosecute those guilty of unfair practices.

Mass for Etienne De Sadeleer Apr. 10

The requiem mass to be offered for Etienne De Sadeleer, and announced to take place tomorrow, has been postponed and will be offered in the Belgian Church, St. Albert's, 43t West Forty-seventh Street, on Wednesday, April 10, at 10 o'clock. Etienne de Sadeleer was killed at Amiens, France, on March 26 during the bombardment of that city from the air. He had been serving for several months as a Marechal de Logis in the Belgian Army. His father is Louis de Sadeleer, Belgian Minister of State, now in this city at the head of a special mission from King Albert.

NOTABLE TRIBUTES TO AMERICA'S COURSE

Messages from Britons and Irishmen on Anniversary of Entry Into War.

BELFAST, April 6. (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—Inspiration and confidence arising from America's participation in the world war were expressed by noted Britons and Irishmen today, the first anniversary of the entry of the United States into the war, in a series of messages to the people of the United States, gathered by The Belfast Telegraph and given to The Associated Press. Excerpts from the most notable follow:

Admiral Viscount Jellicoe, formerly First Sea Lord of the British Admiralty—I can speak best of the work of the United States Navy, and on this point I can truly say that the spirit of keenness, high sense of duty, and the great efficiency of the personnel manning the units which are now affording such invaluable assistance to the allied cause is a subject of very great admiration to my comrades in the British Navy.

Sir Joseph Maclay, British Shipping Controller—My message to America is to think of nothing but to win the war. Sacrifice anything, sacrifice everything in the cause of righteousness and truth.

Paul Deschanel, President of the French Chamber of Deputies—The soldiers of noble America are fighting today for the honor of their country and for the liberty of all peoples. Never did a holier cause offer itself to greater hearts. In accomplishing a year ago one of the greatest actions of her history, the American Republic created for herself one more title to the gratitude of the human race. France will never forget.

Viscount Milner, Member of the British War Cabinet—It will be accepted hereafter that the turning point in the world's struggle for freedom came when the United States of America decided to enter the lists, not, of course, in any immediate or momentary sense, but the turning point as history will record it.

"An Unequaled Feat."

Duke of Marlborough—As Parliamentary Secretary of the Board of Agriculture, I look on the food situation first. I find that the colossal effort of the United States to supply the Allies with grain in the future and with nearly 100,000,000 bushels of grain in the current half year, a good deal to be saved out of her own national larder, is promising well of success, and that the provision of shipping to help bring it is progressing equally. Considering the difficulties that stand in the way, I am astounded not only at the success which is attending the essential food measures, but also at the quickness and skill with which the whole of America has been put on a war footing. She has at once realized the stupendous efforts that are necessary—in my opinion, an unequaled feat of national imagination.

J. Havelock Wilson, Secretary of the Sailors and Firemen's Union—Every son of the British Empire should thank God the United States entered this war on the side of democracy and freedom. I venture to predict that the second anniversary, when the whole weight of America is thrown in, will witness the freeing of Europe from autocracy.

Sir Ignatius O'Brien, Lord Chancellor of Ireland—The splendid way in which the people of the United States have thrown themselves whole-heartedly into the prosecution of the war on behalf of right and freedom has inspired us all with the hope that the world may soon, in the words of their great President, be made safe for democracy.

Walter Hume Long, British Secretary of State for the Colonies—I hope that the united efforts of the great Anglo-Saxon races and their allies may soon put an end to the curse of militarism.

The Most Rev. Dr. John B. Crozier, Primate of All Ireland—May God bless our kinsfolk across the seas who are now cementing the long-continued friendship of America and Great Britain.

Sir Arthur Conan Doyle—America and we understand one another. There is no more to say. Just one hand-grip, and to work.

George H. Roberts, British Minister of Labor—Patriotic labor here rejoices that its instinct finds such splendid response in the heart of American labor. We go forwar unitedly to the achievement of a peace based upon universal justice.

John Hodge, British Pensions Minister—We look to the coming year for such a manifestation of America's power as will help forward the allied aim of making the world "safe for democracy."

The Right Rev. Dr. Ingram, Bishop of London—The entrance of America into the war was the greatest event in the history of the Anglo-Saxon race, and will, I hope, assure victory for our righteous cause.

Father Bernard Vaughan—We congratulate with all our hearts "the champions of the right of mankind," the American people.

GERMAN PRESS REMEMBERS

Comments on the Anniversary of Our Declaration of War.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, April 6.—Under the headings, "America's War Year," "America's Useless War," and "In Commemoration of the American Declaration of War," the German press editorially comment on the American anniversary. Captain Persius in the Tageblatt, quoting Wilson's declaration to Congress, states that the German people for the most part received the message sorrowfully, having hoped from February first that Wilson would give his life and office to obtain peace by understanding.

He says that many people were overskeptical about the length of time required for the building up of the American Army and admits that the German prophecies about submarine feats have been somewhat premature.

The Tageblett says that American troops represent a factor on the west front, and adds: "Nevertheless, we hope that the present offensive will bring a result which will exclude America's further participation and that America will not have a second war year."

DR. MANNING REVIEWS WAR.

First Anniversary of Our Taking Part Observed at Trinity.

The first anniversary of the declaration of war against the German Government was celebrated in Trinity Church yesterday at the noontide services. The Rev. Dr. William T. Manning conducted the simple services and delivered the sermon. The services consisted of the singing of hymns, the special wartime litany and prayers and the sermon. Dr. Manning recently returned after three months spent with the troops at Camp Upton, where he had been serving as a volunteer Chaplain. He said:

"This day one year ago was the most solemn and momentous in all our history. On that day we took our place. We pledged ourselves to do our part with those nations that already had long been fighting for right, justice and the preservation of civilization. We have been at war one year—rather we have been preparing to take our part in the war, for only now are we ready to begin to take an actual part in the great struggle.

"We are still a long way off from realizing what this war must mean for us, the sacrifices and sorrows we must endure before the end. But the last two bloody weeks, with their horrors and perils, will help. If that heroic line on the west front should give way, if the hordes of the enemy should be able to break through, we would begin to see this would mean suffering and self-sacrifice of which few of us have dreamed.

"The situation demands that we who cannot go must put all our resources into the struggle. We must put our means into these Liberty bonds. Every one who thinks knows this. God can be trusted. He who rose again stands today to tell us the right shall not go down to defeat. God bless our boys over there now in that terrific battle that is raging today, the sound of whose guns seems to ring in our ears. May He give us the victory and show us to be worthy of their sacrifices. May we now gird ourselves to stake our whole might in this fight for right and freedom, side by side with our gallant allies, until the infamous Prussianism has vanished from the world and we shall have peace through a victory won for the right."

"One Year of Democracy's War," was the subject of the sermon delivered yesterday by Rabbi Samuel Greenfield at Isaiah Temple, 131 West Eighty-ninth Street, before a large congregation. He said in part:

"The past year has taught our civilians to help support every cause allied to the war's maintenance, thus to infuse strength into the body of our soldiery. It has also taught men how to make sacrifices of what they hold most dear in the interests of our country's cause. Greater and yet greater offerings and self-denials will be demanded of us who are now tha last outposts for the protection of human ideals. A vast population dedicated to the service of mankind, reinforcing those whose titanic efforts have thus far stemmed the encroachments of an unrighteous horde upon the battlefields of Europe."

FOREIGN BORN TO PRESIDENT

League Made Up of Many Nationalities Expresses Loyalty.

The League of Foreign Born Citizens sent the following telegram yesterday to President Wilson:

April 6, 1918.

His Excellency, Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States, Washington, D. C.:

At the dawn of the second year of America's part in the battle for world freedom we, on behalf of the League of Foreign Born Citizens, composed of men and women of different nationalities united by love and loyalty to America, do pledge you the fullest measure of devotion, praying for the day that shall mark the beginning of a lasting peace, making secure a world consecration to the principles of democracy.

"You Never Pay More at Best's"

SEES US AIDING IN TWO VITAL WAYS

Help in Battle and Help in the Upholding of True Faith, Says Professor Gilbert Murray.

MIGHT HAVE DODGED ISSUE

But Those Who Came to America to Seek Freedom Are Returning to Europe to Fight in Freedom's Cause.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 6.—Professor Gilbert Murray, writing in The Chronicle, says:

"It is a year today since America entered the war. We have seen as yet comparatively little actual effect on the battlefront. America has not yet struck her first blow, but that must not dull our appreciation of the greatest event that has occurred on the side of the Allies since the opening of the war, and one of the greatest in the whole realm of recorded history.

"America is a nation, or a continent, built up by refugees, refugees of all creeds and types, and sprung from all the races of Europe, though one type and one race has from the onset predominated, the English nonconforming Puritans. They fled from persecution, civil and religious. They fled from the tyrannies and the intrigues of old Europe, from corruption and class government and militarism, and after three centuries and three great wars for freedom, having established their nationhood and built up the largest and strongest free society in the world, they have returned to strike again at the ripened fruit of the same tyrannies, the same tangle of deep-rooted evil from which they themselves fled when the Mayflower sailed from Plymouth. Their ancestors, who were also our ancestors, fought, to the historian's eye, only another phase of the same battle that we are now fighting. The emphasis, of course, was different in their days. It lay more on religion. Now it lies on international politics, but in the long stretch of time the story is a plain one. It is a return of the Mayflower.

"America is fully conscious of this policy and its momentous responsibilities. The first thing the refugees needed was isolation. They were determined that the bad social order from which they had fled should not pursue them across the ocean. No European power should have any finger in the affairs of the two American continents. This principle, embodied in the famous statement of President Monroe, has been for generations the guiding star of American politics, but by this time it has served its purpose. America is strong enough and now she has boldly accepted her position as a great world power to whom no interest affecting the human race can remain indifferent, and whose own peace and national freedom are insecure as long as any great mass of civilized humanity remains war-driven and not free.

How America Will Help.

"The Americans will help our battle in two separate ways. In the first place, in actual physical fighting they have brought to our aid in time of dire necessity inexhaustible resources, immense manufacturing power, and an army not indeed trained before but, like our own new army, multiplied.

"People ask questions about the quality and value of the American troops. The best rough answer is to say that they are like the Canadians and Australians. They have the same fine physique, the same independent intelligence, the same dash and endurance. They will not, of course, have the disciplined skill of the German Army, much less that of our own old contemptibles, but there can be little room for doubt that in a year or two, if the war continues so long, the American army will be the finest, as well as the largest in the world.

"The flower of German manhood, like our own, lies under the battlefields of France and Flanders. It is not wise to speak confidently about the future. Many unpleasant things may happen. It is not wise to say even that the present German offensive may not succeed in its full aim, but if we can hold out, if we can still keep a large enough tract of Northern France free for the Americans to land and manoeuvre in, it seems almost a mathematical certainty that ultimately the Germans must lose the war.

Could Have Evaded Full Participation.

"It would have been very easy for America to avoid whole-hearted entrance into this war, even after the advent of unrestricted submarine warfare. Germany would have been only too pleased to have peace with her or only a war of limited liability. American ships could have been armed. There could have been arrangements about routes, compromises and agreements, and damages when agreements were broken. It would have been easy. It would have been on the surface, at least, obviously prudent. America would have continued to drive a gigantic trade. She would have been courted by both sides. She would have been left in a position of colossal strength in the world where all the other great powers were weakened and ruined. She could in the end have dictated, so far as her own interests were involved, the terms of peace and have stood out as confessedly the first power in the world.

"President Wilson had all this policy laid before him and weighed the arguments for and against it before he deliberately committed his nation to what Mr. Asquith has described as the most unselfish act in history. Those who long ago escaped into freedom have returned at an enormous sacrifice to fight for the freedom of those left behind.

Our Faith in Freedom.

"That is the first help that America brings to us. In the second place, if Germany loses the war and America is a decisive factor in winning it, we may be reasonably certain that the victory will be a real victory for freedom and peace. Americans instinctively believe in these things, in freedom, peace, democracy, arbitration, and international good-will. The average American in the street believes in them as our man in the street believes in cricket and football, or, let us say, in free trade and the Magna Charta. They are not merely the doctrines of idealists or intellectuals, as they are in most of the countries of Europe.

"Faith in these principles depends chiefly on security and on the distance that separates you from your probable enemies. America, protected by the Atlantic, believes in them most. Great Britain, protected by the Channel and the North Sea, comes next in faith. The countries which border on Germany are more skeptical than Thomas. They would like to belive, but the difficulties in faith are too great. And last comes the enemy, with his firm conviction that all such faith is a delusion of the devil, that to talk of freedom, humanity, internationalism, arbitration, democracy, disarmament, and the like is merely a wicked attempt to undermine the foundations of the blessed German State.

America True to Herself.

"Yet when the war is over there will be a world to rebuild, and the only principles on which to rebuild it are these principles. Of course men may fail or may refuse to rebuild it at all.

"In that case even if Germany is defeated no one will have won the war. The war will be a pure loss, unmitigated ruin. In fine, there are two things beyond all others needed by a nation like ours, caught in the last embittered death struggle of the fight for freedom, of civilisation. We need help in the battle, and we need help in the upholding of our true faith, and in both of these matters America answers to our need.

"The only necessity is that America shall be true to herself and her great traditions, and on that point I have no fear. We hear of mistakes and delays in material preparations for war, of occasional friction and disappointment in the vast organization. Of course, we do. It is always the one thing that goes wrong that is talked about, the thousands that go smoothly are seldom mentioned. It is just what happened with ourselves, and while America has to some extent the benefit of our experience, she starts from much further back, and she has vaster numbers and magnitudes to grapple with. We had our expeditionary force and our territorial system, and we are an island, not a continent. America has shown her enthusiasm, her disinterestedness, her magnificent power of spring and initiative. She has shown her common sense in spending full time on preparation and not sending her troops into battle unprepared. She has shown it equally in her readiness now, at the moment of need, to let them serve by battalions mixed with the French and English, and not to wait till they have the full dignity of their own divisions and army corps.

"Even in diplomacy, where America is comparatively unskilled compared with the great European powers, she has helped us by her straightforward faith and her good counsel. She has stated out cause better than any one of the Allies. She has answered the enemy's proposals more calmly and more searchingly. She has shown more balance of mind and more sympathetic insight in her attitude towards Russia.

"Americans are not angels and not supermen. They are extremely like ourselves, only more so; but they are wonderful Allies in the crisis that threatens us, and should remain hereafter, unless some strange folly supervenes, our closest friends and fellow-workers in the restoration of the wounded world."

LORD BRYCE REJOICES

That American Troops Stand Beside British in the Battle Line.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 6.—In response to a request from the editor of The Daily Chronicle, Lord Bryce, lately British Ambassador at Washington, sends the following to America:

"In this moment of supreme effort our thoughts turn to our great American friends, rejoicing that their valient soldiers stand beside ours in the battle line as the hearts of our two peoples beat in unison for justice and freedom against force, fraud, and aggression."

FRANCE SOUGHT AID, TARDIEU REVEALS

High Commissioner Says Urgent Requests Were Made for the Help of Pershing's Army.

ASKS FOR GREATER UNITY

Co-ordination of Action, He Says at Luncheon, Should Obtain In All Lines.

General Pershing's army was put at the disposal of France in response to urgent requests from the French Government, because of the gravity of the situation created by the first German onslaught in the present offensive, it was asserted by André Tardieu, the French High Commissioner to this country, who expressed his gratitude in a speech delivered yesterday afternoon at a luncheon at the Ritz-Carlton given in his honor by the French Institute in the United States.

Victory will be achieved by the Allies, Commissioner Tardieu continued, when France, England and America are one, not only in the field, but in the production of munitions, in transport, and in every other branch of action contributing to military success. He said:

"Keener than ever during the last fortnight, during these bloody and heavy days, I have felt that America, whenever America chooses to give herself, she chooses to give the whole of herself. I am grateful for, and I have been moved by, the acceptance of the urgent requests which, on account of this battle, it was my duty to submit to your Government.

"At the same time, between the Allies, confronted by the same peril, a complete solidarity has asserted itself. A single head, General Foch, on whose staff I was during the battles of the Marne and Ypres, has taken command of the Allies' forces. A single method, the immediate use of all available forces, has been adopted, not only as regards the French and the British, but as regards the American Army as well.

"When the unity which has been secured in military action will be realized in all the other branches of action, on which victory depends, when we are actually and for all practical purposes one—one for the supplies, one for the war munitions production, one for sea transportation—then, do not be doubtful about it, the success of our common cause will come.

"Therefore, on this memorial day, in the name of France, who has been ahead of you in this holy struggle, but to whom you are now bringing the huge and decisive help of your material and moral strength in order to carry the fight to a successful end, and in name of France who feels highly honored by the regard of her great European and American allies, I have come here to state again our unshaken resolve.

"Do not be under any delusion. This crisis is a terrible one, and we are not over it as yet. We have broken the powerful onslaught of the enemy. We must drive back the foe. It will be a matter of weeks, maybe of months. It will be your concern as well as our own. Speed up, and be sure that anyhow you come not too late.

"Today you are standing for action. Before next Summer 1,000,000 trained men will be thrown by you in the scales and Germany will experience the weight of your clenched fist. We are proud to share with you in the same sorrows and in the same hopes."

Speaking of Myron T. Herrick, ex-Ambassador to France, Commissioner Tardieu said that Mr. Herrick was "cherished in the hearts of all Frenchmen as the symbol of courage, of uprightness, and of faithfulness."

The luncheon, which was held for the purpose of celebrating the first anniversary of the entrance of the United States into the war, was made an occasion for honoring Commissioner Tardieu. McDougall Hawkes, the President of the Institute, tendered to Commissioner Tardieu a medal, which was awarded him by the Institute in recognition of his services in strengthening the friendship of France and England.

Ex-Ambassador Herrick, who presided, in his remarks, asserted that speed in getting America's forces into the field was America's greatest duty. He said:

"Our isolation from Europe a century ago was not more complete than our moral isolation from the life and death struggle only a little more than a year ago. America is not a coward, but she was dangerously near committing herself to a selfish and cowardly part.

"Thank God, those days of drifting and humiliation are past. The President's incomparable war message last April cleared the darkened atmosphere. Since then, though we have hesitated and stumbled often, at least we go with heads up along the path of honor.

Sir Henry Babbington Smith, Assistant Commissioner for Great Britain, representing Lord Reading, and Charles B. Alexander of the Board of Regents of the University of the State of New York, spoke briefly. Some of those who arranged the dinner were Mrs. Myron T. Herrick, Mrs. Robert Bacon, Mrs. Charlee S. Whitman, Mrs. McDougall Hawkes, Mrs. Charles B. Alexander, Mrs. William H. Crocker, Mrs. James W. Gerard, Mrs. Newbold Le Roy Edgar, Miss Luisita A. Leland, Mrs. M. Orme Wilson, Mrs. Ogden Goelet, Mrs. E. Henry Harriman, Mlle. Liebert, Mrs. Frederick W. Vanderbilt, Mrs. Henry Mottet, and Mrs. Adolf Ladenburg.

300 LEPERS ESCAPE GUARD.

Dissatisfied with Food in Colony Near Bogota, Colombia.

BOGOTA, Colombia, April 6.—Dissatisfied with the food given them, 300 lepers, confined in the colony at Agua de Dios, near Bogota, escaped from their keepers recently and have scattered to various parts of the Santander district.

The Government authorities are using every means to find them, and to keep them from reaching the seacoast. An increased food ration has been promised them if they will return.

Two hundred of the lepers are said to have gone toward Bucaramanga, near the Venezuelan border, and the others in the direction of Zapatosa, northeast of Bogota.

4,051 on Columbia Service Flag.

The Alumni Association of Columbia College, at its semi-annual reunion last week at the Columbia University Club, 4 West Forty-third Street, presented to President Nicholas Murray Butler a service flag with the figures 4,051, representing the number of graduates of the university known to be doing war service. Dr. Butler said it would hang by the side of the undergraduates' service flag on the university grounds.

POSTAL AIRPLANES TO LAND IN BELMONT PARK

Government Accepts Site Offered by Westchester Racing Association.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The selection of Belmont Park, on Long Island, as the landing field for postal airplanes carrying mail between Washington and New York, was announced today by the Post Office Department. The site was tendered to the department by the Westchester Racing Association without rental or other charges.

The selection of Belmont Park as the landing field for airplane mail service between Washington and New York was the culmination of arrangements made between Postmaster General Burleson and Secretary Baker. Announcement that the airplane mail service would begin on April 15 was made in Washington on Feb. 27. The aerial postal service will be conducted for one year as part of the aviation training system of the army, the machines being piloted by army flyers.

It is planned that one trip each day be made on a fixed schedule. The flying time between New York and Washington was estimated at less than three hours, including a stopover to deliver mail, at Philadelphia. On each trip 800 pounds of first-class mail will be carried. It will occupy a space of not more than twenty-five cubic feet.

Congress appropriated $100,000 for use in establishing the service.

Beeman Garden Tractors $285

They Plow, Cultivate, Disc and Harrow

THE BEEMAN GARDEN TRACTOR is the most modern application of power work on the farm. In cultivating it goes astride of onions, carrots, beets and other crops that grow in narrow rows, cultivating one or three rows at a time. In cultivating corn or other wide-rowed crops it goes between the rows. It will take the place of a horse or mule in cultivating. It cultivates closer, faster and better than it is possible in any other way. No pushing or pulling. So easy to control, that a boy or woman with a BEEMAN can do more work than three men. Pulls a small plow or harrow and develops 4 H. P. on the belt. Goes from job to job on its own power.

Three-Plow Tractors

The Turner three-plow tractor is the ideal tractor for farms of from 25 acres up. It handles two 14-inch bottoms in any kind of soil. It will handle three 14-inch bottoms in most soils. It is a built close to the ground tractor. Takes the place of 8 horses. It is the modern application of power on the farm. We can make deliveries now.

If you need a tractor for spring work or summer work, save yourself a lot of money by sending to us for full information. The Turner develops 12-H. P. on the draw-bar; 20-H. P. on the belt, and back of every tractor we sell you is the service of an organization which has for 23 years done nothing but manufacture and sell gasoline engines. Ask for Catalogue T.

OPPOSES DRAFT PLAN TO OBTAIN NURSES

Woman Superintendent at Bellevue Hospital Asserts There Is No Shortage.

WANTS STANDARDS KEPT UP

Nursing Profession as a Whole, Miss Hilliard Asserts, Does Not Favor Shortening of Training.

Miss Amy Hilliard, Superintendent of Nurses at Bellevue Hospital and President of the New York City League for Nursing Education, asserted yesterday that there was no need to consider plans for drafting women to act as nurses, a proposal which had been made by Louis J. Frank, Superintendent of Beth Israel Hospital, and approved by prominent suffrage leaders. Miss Hilliard gave figures to support her assertion that no shortage of nurses existed, and said that she and the entire nursing profession were opposed to lowering the standards for pupil nurses as advocated by Charles B. Grimshaw, Superintendent of Roosevelt Hospital, in a letter to Dr. D. G. Stewart, Acting President of the Academy of Medicine.

To support her contention that the best authorities in touch with the nursing situation are united in the belief that the standards of the nurses' training schools should not be lowered, Miss Hilliard made public the following telegram from Miss M. Adelaide Nutting, Professor of the course on Nursing and Health of Teachers' College, sent from Washington:

> The Committee on Nursing advises against any breaking down of the regular standards of nurses training. The committee is strongly supported in this position by the State Councils Section and the Woman's Committee and the General Medical Board of the Council of National Defense. Exception is advised only for college graduates with special training. A message recently given out by the Surgeon General's office says that it is considered inadvisable to do anything with short courses for nurses at this time. Plans are under consideration at the Surgeon General's office to handle this question in an entirely different manner.

Want Full Training Maintained.

On reading in THE TIMES the letter of Mr. Grimshaw which advocated the cutting of the training school courses from three to two years, Miss Hilliard called a special meeting of authorities on nursing at the Central Club for Women, 132 East Forty-fifth Street. At the meeting, besides Miss Hilliard, were Miss Anna Maxwell, Superintendent of Nurses at Presbyterian Hospital; Miss Jessie Murdock, Superintendent of Nurses at Post Graduate Hospital; Mrs. C. E. Bath, Superintendent of Nurses at St. Luke's Hospital; L. Stewart, Professor of Nursing at Teachers College, and Nancy Cadmus, Superintendent of Nurses at the Manhattan Maternity Hospital. At the meeting a statement was drawn up which was as follows:

It is perfectly evident that Mr. Grimshaw is not closely in touch with the present situation and is not informed as to the measures which have already been undertaken to meet the present crisis. The National Committee on Nursing, which was appointed by the Government last Summer as a section of the General Medical Board of National Defense, represents not only the nurses, but the hospitals and physicians of the country, as well as the American Red Cross and the Army and Navy Nursing Service.

This committee has made a complete survey of the nursing resources of the country and has instituted several measures for utilizing more fully the present supply and increasing as rapidly as possible the number of trained nurses in the country. These measures have the full support of the General Medical Committee.

It may be of interest to the public to know that the American Nurses' Association has been pledged since 1909 to supply registered nurses to the American Red Cross as a reserve force for the Army and Navy Nurse Corps. For direct admission to the Army and Navy Nurse Corps registration has never been required. At no time have they refused to accept graduate nurses from reputable schools, giving at least a two years' course in training.

The survey just completed indicates that there are 65,000 registered nurses in the United States; approximately 100,000 have taken the examinations for nurse registration. Nineteen thousand registered nurses are already enrolled in the American Red Cross Nursing Service. The above figures do not include all those nurses who have entered directly into the Army and Navy Nurse Corps.

The article opens with a challenge to the Red Cross and other agencies to lower their standards, and in reply we refer to the message recently given out from the Surgeon General's office that it is inadvisable to do anything to shorten the course for nurses at the present time as plans are under consideration to handle this question in an entirely different manner.

"Our only apprehension is concerned with the care of the sick in the hospitals," said Miss Hilliard yesterday. "They cannot be in any way neglected and we must therefore protect the training schools."

ALLAYS FEAR OF JAPAN.

Dr. Iyenaga Points to Difficulty of Transporting Troops.

Speaking on "Japan's Attitude Toward Her Allies" before the Oberlin Association of New York in the Waldorf-Astoria last night, Dr. Toyokichi Iyenaga said that he was glad the the United States had come to a realization of the difficulty of transporting large numbers of troops overseas, as it will "sternally dissipate" the idea that the Japanese are to come across the Pacific to try to conquer this country.

The meeting last night was held in the rooms of the Ohio Society and it was an annual reunion of the association. E. A. Lightner was the presiding officer, and the speakers, besides Dr. Iyenaga, included President Henry Churchill King of Oberlin, Dr. Robert A. Milliken of the National Research Council at Washington, and Professor S. F. MacLennan, Educational Director at Camp Upton.

Dr. Iyenaga said that the only reason Japan was in the war was in obedience to her treaty with England, a fact, he said, that ought to prove that the Japanese do not regard their treaties as scraps of paper. He said that she was neither lukewarm nor indifferent to the war, but the reason she had not entered more fully into it was because it was not the wish of the Allies that she should thrust herself in. The Russian situation was, he said, an entirely different matter.

"Japan," he said, "has exercised prudence and caution in dealing with the Russian question. This is shown by the attitude of friendship toward the Russian people. Has not the time arrived when it will be of benefit to the allied cause to adopt a more constructive policy than watchful waiting?"

After telling how the Bolsheviki Government had acted in international matters the speaker pointed out that with the Siberian railroad in good condition it would take the Germans only about two weeks to come to Vladivostok.

"I believe the time has come," he said, "when each one of the Allies must do the utmost to crush German militarism. There must be a large number of the Russian people who are true to the allied cause. Cannot we give these people a strong support?"

NEW PARTY ALL FOR WAR.

John Spargo Pledges the National to Full Support of Wilson.

John Spargo was the principal speaker at a mass meeting of the new National Party, held in the Labor Temple, Fourteenth Street and Second Avenue, last night. The meeting was called to commemorate the anniversary of this country's entrance into the war, and to pledge the new party to the fullest support of the United States and its Allies in carrying the war to a victorious conclusion. Mr. Spargo said that April 6 is destined to become one of the sacred days of history, and that it will rank with the signing of the Magna Charta at Runnymede, the fall of the Bastile, and the Declaration of American Independence.

J. A. H. Hopkins, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the new party, presided, and the speakers in addition to Mr. Spargo were Hugh V. Reilly of the Machinists' Union, Miss Louise Adams Grout, and Captain A. P. Simmonds, who spoke for the Liberty Loan. In his speech which opened the meeting, Mr. Hopkins said that the National Party stands squarely for the wholehearted prosecution of the war, and that all of the country's material and human resources must be efficiently organized in order that the "great democratic ideals" entinciated by the President may be realized.

"It is a unique procedure for the founders of a new political party which, in the very nature of things, must gather its strength at the expense of the existing parties, and must be, in a special sense, a challenger of the party in power, to urge its followers to support the existing Administration," said Mr. Spargo. "We do this unique thing tonight because upon the issues involved in the war there can be no difference of opinion between loyal Americans."

BALLIN SEES DARK OUTLOOK

German Shipowners Apprehensive About Trade After the War.

LONDON, April 6.—The Birmingham Daily Post says that if statements in Hamburg newspapers are reliable, the prospects of German shipowners after the war are very uncertain. It is considered probable that for some years they will have difficulty in again obtaining a foothold in several important tradee which they at one time almost monopolized. This is quite apart from any restrictions adopted by the allied Governments.

Albert Ballin, Director General of the Hamburg-American Steamship Line, who, it is believed, did his utmost to prevent the war, knowing the magnitude of the commercial interests at stake, takes a very pessimistic view of the future.

Commenting on the same subject, the London correspondent of The Liverpool Daily Post says that the German mercantile marine, which aggregated 3,072,993 tons when the war began, has been depleted to the extent of nearly 3,000,000 tons.

According to articles in Hamburg and Bremen newspapers, there can be no doubt that Germany views with much apprehension the shipbuilding progress made in other countries.

Parasol Fashions

for the approaching Summer

are accurately portrayed in the charming originations—foreign and American—now being shown.

Here are parasols to suit all tastes and to meet every exigency of fashionable or everyday life. Decidedly attractive—perhaps because of their vivacious color tones—are those made of the new, brilliant sports satins, plain and figured; but equally charming, though designed for more formal occasions, are the dainty parasols of Georgette, chiffon or net. Hand-embroidered parasols of white or natural pongee provide an appropriate finishing touch for the smart Summer costume; and rainproof parasols in the wanted colors are a practical necessity.

Woven Underwear

for Spring and Summer

is now ready in large and carefully chosen assortments which are sufficiently comprehensive to meet the varied requirements of women, misses and children.

Especially interesting are the selections of silk jersey and Italian silk undergarments, for women and misses. These, like other features of the regular stock of the Knit Underwear Department, are most reasonably priced.

DRAFT CALL IS FOR 150,000 MEN IN APRIL

Increase in Month's Quota Indicates a Total of 1,500,000 for the Year.

CAMPS ARE NOT NAMED

But Men Will Move Into Barracks Vacated by Those Going to Embarkation Points.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Major Gen. Enoch Crowder, the Provost Marshal General, today sent out a call to all the States for a total of 150,000 men in the second call to the colors under the draft. These men are to begin moving to the training camps on April 26 and are to complete their mobilization movement in the five days following that date.

The orders went to the Adjutants General of the various States, and each was notified as to the quota of men to be furnished. The quota for New York State will be 10,171 men. They will be taken from Class A1 of the registration lists and will go to training camps to be announced later. They will take the place of soldiers who are moving from the camps this month to embarkation points for transportation to France.

The quota of men to be mobilized in this April mobilization, or the second call to the colors, is considerably larger than was expected several weeks ago, when it was understood that about 90,000 men only would have to be furnished by the different boards during April. The fact that the quota has been raised to 150,000 men as a starter is looked upon as corroboration of the statements that the number of men to be summoned under the second call to the colors in the next twelve months will run close to 1,500,000, instead of the 500,000 recently fixed upon for the coming year.

The State now called upon to furnish the largest number of men in April is Pennsylvania. Its quota is 10,956. New York stands second. In the first draft New York was the banner State, having been called upon to furnish 69,241 out of a total first draft call of 687,000 men.

Pennsylvania under the first call had a quota of 60,859. In fixing the quotas due allowance has been made for men already furnished for military purposes by these States.

The points to which the 150,000 men are to be sent for training were not disclosed today. It was explained that this is for military reasons.

Out of the total of 150,000 there will be 115,700 white draft registrants. The quotas which the States are to furnish in the mobilization of 150,000 men on April 26 are as follows:

AGREE TO REORGANIZE FARM LABOR AGENCIES

Announcement of Close of Legislative Inquiry Is Followed by Resignation of Two Specialists.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 6.—Legislative investigation of the State Food Control Commission came to a sudden and unexpected close today. An agreement to reorganize the agencies being used by the State to obtain farm labor was reached between Majority Leader Brown, Chairman of the Joint Legislative Sub-War Committee, which conducted the inquiry, and John Mitchell, President of the Food Commission. Unification of the agencies also was agreed upon.

Following Senator Brown's announcement that the investigation had been closed, John H. Rahrie of Auburn, and John Clark of Buffalo, farm labor specialists, tendered their resignations. Other resignations are expected to follow.

Senator Brown took occasion to compliment President Mitchell's conduct in office.

DENIAL BY GERMAN AGENT.

Becker Says Red Cross Funds Did Not Aid Propaganda.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, April 6. (via London.)—Ewald Becker, former delegate of the German Red Cross in New York, writing in the Rhenish Gazette, points out that according to the latest American papers which have arrived in Germany the Senate has decided to dissolve the German-American National Alliance because funds collected for the German Red Cross were used for German propaganda.

Becker denies this and states that every cent was sent to Germany, and that proof of this lies in the numerous letters of thanks received by German-Americans.

SPEAKERS TO AID CRIPPLES.

Women Will Bring Their Work Before Theatres and Clubs.

A course of four Saturday morning lectures will be given at the Red Cross Institute for Crippled and Disabled Men, 311 Fourth Avenue, beginning Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, to train public speakers on reconstruction work for crippled soldiers, according to the announcement made yesterday by the Committee of the Association of Collegiate Alumnae. The object of this public speaking, which will be carried on in churches, forums, clubs, theatres, and restaurants, is to establish a sound community attitude toward the disabled soldier and to oppose the influences which might tend to pauperize him.

The officers of the committee are: Mrs. Leo Kessel, Chairman; Mrs. Lydig Hoyt, Vice Chairman; Mrs. Edgerton Parsons, Second Vice Chairman; Mrs. Arthur Scott Burden, Treasurer; Mrs. Snowden A. Fahnestock, Secretary, and Miss Elizabeth Gunn, Assistant Secretary. Mrs. Edgerton Parsons is Chairman of the Employment Committee and Mrs. Walton H. Marshall is Chairman of the Public Education Committee.

The other women serving on the committee are Miss Virginia Ake, Mrs. Gertrude Atherton, Mrs. John W. Blodget, Mrs. George Blumenthal, Miss Helen Varick Boswell, Mrs. Gertrude Beeks Easeley, Mrs. A. Goldsmith, Mrs. James Newton Gunn, Mrs. Ethel Puffer Howes, Miss Margaret Maltby, Mrs. George McAneny, Mrs. William Mitchell, Mrs. Shepard Morgan, Mrs. Rita Wallach Morgenthau, Miss Frances Perkins, Miss Lizzie Rector, Dr. A. A. Richardson, Mrs. Mary Harriman Rumsey, Mrs. Mortimer Schiff, Mrs. Herbert Scoville, Miss Carita Spencer, Mrs. A. Steyne, Mrs. Arthur Hayes Sulzberger, Miss Marion Taber, Mrs. Anna Hedges Talbot, and Miss Edith Valet.

Simpson Out for Senatorship.

TRENTON, N. J., April 6.—Assemblyman Alexander Simpson, Jersey City, today filed with the Secretary of State formal declaration for the United States Senatorship nomination on the Democratic ticket. He named James J. Lillie as his campaign manager and the Commercial Trust Company of Jersey City as the depository for campaign funds.

SHIPYARD WORKERS HAIL LIBERTY DAY

Service Flag Hoisted and Message from Hurley Read—Calls for More Than a "Bit" from All.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—In 132 shipyards from Maine to Florida on the Atlantic Coast, along the shores of the Gulf and the Pacific, and on the Great Lakes, today was celebrated as "Liberty Day." Raising of the new flag of the United States Shipping Board was made the central event in the program for the patriotic exercises, which included the singing of the national anthem and "America," repeating the pledge of allegiance to the republic, and the reading of an appeal from Edward N. Hurley, Chairman of the Shipping Board, asking them to dedicate themselves to their country's service by building ships to nullify the work of the German submarines.

"At this hour of national peril, when the forces of despotism, long gathered, are hurling themselves against us, I call upon you, the shipbuilders of America, to put forward all your might to our common purpose," Mr. Hurley telegraphed. "It was an evil thing that the phrase was coined that we do our 'bit.' The nation of which each member today merely does his 'bit' is lost. Doing our bit is too small a bucket to bail back the sea. The tide of despotism is too great for such small and unavailing measures. We must do our all.

"And, therefore, on this day, marking the anniversary of our entrance into this war which threatens civilization, it is fitting that I appeal to you for the large and full measure of your help. And I ask you, as far as is possible, that you consider that my appeal is personal to yourself, each man of you in the shipyards of America. And I ask you to scrutinize yourself and to put to yourself the question, each man of you, whether you yet work to your highest limit."

LOYAL SOCIALISTS ISSUE CALL TO WAR

Comrades in Allied Countries Are Urged to Turn Energies Against German Militarism.

DENOUNCE TEUTON INTRIGUE

Point to Kaiser's Socialists Preaching Pacifism Abroad and War Preparation at Home.

A call to the Socialists of the allied countries to use all their energies for the defeat of German militarism was issued by John Spargo yesterday on behalf of the Social Democratic League of America and the Jewish Socialist League, two of the organizations of Socialists created by the split of the American Socialist Party on the war. The appeal attack the Socialists of Germany for betraying the cause of internationalism by preaching pacifism in other lands while supporting military programs in their own country, and denounces the Socialist Party of the United States for having "condoned and defended, sometimes openly and more often covertly, the betrayal of internationalism by the German Social Democracy." On this point the statement continues thus:

"With a degree of uniformity as significant as it is remarkable, it (the Socialist Party of America) has supported every contention of the German Imperial Government, every miserable evasion and excuse of the German Socialist majority, and has been silent concerning the outrages committed by the German barbarians. No single contention of German diplomats has failed to receive the support of the Socialist Party of America. Whatever their intent, the responsible spokesmen of the Socialist Party of America have been in fact the allies of German militarism and autocracy."

The appeal is signed by four of the leaders of the Socialist movement in this country, John Spargo and J. G. Phelps Stokes as Chairman and Secretary of the Social Democratic League of America, and William Edlin and Henry L. Slobodin as Chairman and Secretary of the Jewish Socialist League. Acknowledging the first anniversary of the entrance of the United States into the world war as a fitting occasion upon which to bring the Socialists of all the allied nations into a unified movement of allegiance to the allied cause, the appeal begins by assailing the Socialist declaration that the war was "not caused by the policy or institutions of any single nation" as a "stupid and fatuous contradiction of history and an affront to intelligence."

"Nor can we stultify ourselves," the statement continues, "by offering as an explanation of the war the silly hypothesis that it came as the logical and inevitable result of the capitalist system. We insist that the outbreak of the present war in 1914 was not due to the capitalist system, but to the madness of dynastic imperialism. It had long been realized by the leaders of international commerce and finance that war must be unprofitable to the capitalist classes of all nations, victorious as well as defeated. The capitalist classes of all lands were, as a whole, as much opposed to war and as earnest in their efforts for peace as were the workers. They had no interests which could be better served by war than by peace. Even in Germany there was as much opposition to the idea of war among the capitalists as there was among the proletariat."

Asserting that the war was caused by the "imperialist vision of the Hohenzollern dynasty, using the worm-eaten Hapsburg dynasty as a wretched tool," the appeal says this verdict was confirmed by the Socialists of Great Britain, Belgium, France, and Russia at the conference of the Socialist and Labor parties of the allied nations on Feb. 14.

The manifesto points out that from the first beginnings of Socialist internationalism the Central Empires have been its special and particular enemies and that the Central Empires, as soon as the war clouds gathered, showed every evidence of being "bent upon the destruction of the internationalism already achieved and incorporated into the political life of the world."

"The conduct of the Socialist parties of Germany and Austria-Hungary cannot be passed over in silence," the appeal says. "By their support of their Governments the Socialist parties of the Central Empires became the co-partners of the Hohenzollerns and the Hapsburgs, accessories to their infamous crimes against mankind. They betrayed the cause of international socialism, betrayed all the small nations to the despotism of the arrogant, sword-rattling military autocracies, and constituted themselves part of the most brutal, reactionary, and lawless imperialism in modern history.

"The part played by the German Social Democracy cannot be described as other than infamous. Its leaders have even stooped so low as to play the despicable part of bribing and corrupting agents of their Government.

"Even more sinister has been the part which the German Socialists have played as propagandists of anti-militarism. For years they have urged upon the Socialists of other lands, particularly of England, France, and Russia, the duty of vigorously opposing militarism and military preparedness. Never have they perniciously asserted themselves against these things in Germany, however.

"In every country the German Socialist propagandists have gone, insidiously serving military absolutism. Their intrigues in Switzerland, Holland, and the Scandinavian countries have been notorious. These have undermined the new Socialist republic of Russia, delivering it as a prize to their Kaiser. Long before the war started they were engaged in this nefarious work: there is little reason to doubt that the visit of Scheidemann to this country the year before the war began had for its real object an understanding with prominent members of the Socialist Party on the subject of the attitude to be taken by the party in the event of a war in which Germany would be engaged.

"In all the cynical and brutal literature of Prussian imperialism there is nothing more shameful than the speech by David in the Reichstag, soon after the war began, in which he stated the function of the Socialists. He said:

"'Germany must squeeze her enemies with a pair of pincers, namely, the military pincer and the pacifist pincer. The German armies must continue to fight vigorously, while the German Socialists encourage and stimulate pacifism among Germany's enemies.'"

Citing the facts that led the United States into the war, the manifesto says:

"For us, as American Socialists, there is no other means of serving the cause of internationalism than supporting with all our moral and material might the splendid efforts of the President of the United States. To our comrades of other lands we send the assurance that the exalted idealism of President Wilson is shared by the entire nation."

The manifesto concludes with a protest against the holding of any conferences with representatives of the German or Austrian Socialist organizations until the end of the war.

AUTO TRUCKMEN PROTEST.

Bill Limiting Loads on Highways Regarded as Menace.

A conference was held yesterday at the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, 7 East Forty-second Street, to discuss the motor truck bill recently introduced into the Legislature prohibiting the use on the State highways of motor trucks with loads exceeding ten tons. Dealers, owners, and users of commercial motor vehicles were present. The bill was regarded as a reactionary measure, especially at this time when the running of army motor transport trucks from Western factories to the seaport was assuming greater proportions, and also in view of the development of motor truck express and carrying routes to transport produce as a relief to railroad congestion.

Theodore D. Pratt, Secretary of the Motor Truck Club of America, pointed out the apparent haste with which the bill was evidently drawn in that it makes no exception for Government motor trucks on the New York State highways. It does, however, exempt heavy motor trucks which have already been registered, and they will be permitted to run until the registry expires.

Should the bill become a law it would mean the elimination from the roads of New York of five-ton trucks.

NOTED MEN GATHER AT DINNER TO RIGGS

Old Associates of Man Who Spent 30 Years on The New York Sun Pay Tributes.

SAW THE TOWN GROW UP

Veteran Newspaper Writer Recalls the Time When There Were No Telephones or Subways.

Edward G. Riggs, who for thirty years was a political reporter on the staff of The New York Sun and has for a few years past been Executive Assistant of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, was the guest of honor last night at a dinner given at the Andiron Club, 132 West Seventy-second Street, by newspaper men formerly associated with him and other friends.

Mr. Riggs made a patriotic address in responding to a toast in his honor, and told of the changes which had taken place in the technique of newsgathering since he covered his first assignments, when there were no telephones, no subways, no electric surface cars, and no taxicabs.

Mr. Riggs said that his observation of New York life had made him a disbeliever in the theory that this country and particularly this city were "melting pots," but that the slow process of fusing many races into one was being speeded by compulsory military service in this war until the "melting pot" was being changed from a pious opinion into a reality. He illustrated this by the following story, which he credited to General Leonard Wood.

"One hot day, a very stocky Italian boy, with a still stockier trunk, got off the train at Plattsburg. He dragged his heavy trunk down the street, out onto the road leading to the camp, nearly three miles away. As he got along on the dusty road that trunk was becoming heavier and heavier, when along came a soldier, who grabbed one end of the trunk and said to the Italian lad: 'Come along, I'll help you.' And the two lugged that heavy trunk into camp.

"'A bystander said to the Italian, 'Gee! You're lucky to have the help of such a man as that!'—pointing to the soldier who was legging off in another direction. 'Do you know who he was?'

"The Italian boy shook his head. He was then told that the man who had helped him was Robert Bacon, Assistant Secretary of State and Secretary of State in President Taft's Cabinet, and Ambassador Extraordinary and Plenipotentiary to France.

"That meant nothing to the Italian. He didn't know anything about Bacon, but, wiping the perspiration from his brow with his old-fashioned bandana, he replied:

"'I don't know who da man was, but he was a damn good fellow.'"

Colonel Henry Watterson was to be a speaker at the dinner, but was detained in Florida. He sent a letter saying:

"Nothing would give me greater pleasure than to accept your invitation to the proposed dinner to Edward G. Riggs. He is one of the oldest and most valued of my friends."

Louis Seibold was the toastmaster. Speeches were made by Colonel George Harvey, Frank Munsey, Edward P. Mitchell, editor of The Sun; Caleb M. Van Hamm, Morgan J. O'Brien, ex-Senator O'Gorman, and Patrick Francis Murphy. Among the guests were:

City Chamberlain Alfred J. Johnson, Charles Mason Fairbanks, James Cox Brady, Nicholas F. Brady, Augustus Van Wyck, Edward W. Hatch, Edward E. McCall, Francis M. Scott, Henry A. Gildersleeve, Supreme Court Justices Julius M. Kapper and Charles L. Guy, Captain R. E. T. Riggs, ex-Lieut. Gov. Thomas F. Conway, B. Campbell, Herbert C. Smyth, Samuel A. Beardsley, John Godfrey Saxe, Collin Armstrong, Bryan L. Kennelly, Philip J. Britt, J. Stevens Ulman, Joseph D. Ulman, James Butler, Harry F. Mellenhauer, Alexander Konta, George MacDonald, Philip F. COURT FINES MRS. HERZ.

Holds Her in Contempt for Taking Daughter Out of State.

Mrs. Edith Oppenheimer Herz, wife of Stephen Herz of Pittsburgh and divorced wife of Emanuel M. Kaiser, a lawyer, was fined $250 in the Supreme Court yesterday for contempt of court in disobeying a decree prohibiting her from taking their daughter, Eleanor, from the State of New York. Mrs. Herz told the court that her affection for her daughter was so great that she took the child away after her marriage to Mr. Herz without considering the consequences of her act. Justice Newburger fined Mrs. Herz after reading a letter written by Mrs. Herz to her former husband, just after her marriage to Herz in Philadelphia, in which she said:

"I have taken Eleanor with me only because the child expressed a preference to be with me. I suggest that by mutual agreement we have the present decree modified to provide for your seeing her. In my present state of mind I can only wish for you a future happiness equal to that which I foresee for myself."

Max D. Steuer, counsel for Kaiser, said that he did not recognize the validity of the divorce decree obtained by Mrs. Herz in Philadelphia, and that he intended to sue her here for divorce on the ground of her present marriage. Mrs. Herz was accompanied in court by her father, Dr. Isaac Oppenheimer.

WOMEN RAISE $300,000 FOR 'BATTALION OF LIFE'

Fund Will Be Used to Send Women Doctors to Care for the Wounded in France.

Fifty thousand dollars in one certified check yesterday delighted the members of the American Women's Hospitals, who have been working hard during the last week to raise money to send their "Battalion of Life"—well-equipped women doctors—to those who need them on the other side. It was at the last of their daily luncheons at the Hotel Biltmore that they found they had $32,050 more than their $200,000 goal. Last night the total exceeded $300,000.

Dr. Eliza Taylor Ranson of Boston exhibited the $50,000 check, which represented contributions from Massachusetts persons, who asked that the money be used to construct the first women's hospital in France.

The little adopted daughter of Mrs. Finley J. Shepard told how she had asked her mother to help the women doctors save the babies abroad, and this was followed by the presentation by the son of Dr. Emily Dunning Barringer, the first woman ambulance surgeon, of a $50 Liberty bond "for the babies of France." Mrs. Samuel Swift and her two children gave $1,000 in memory of her husband for an operating room on the French front. Several other contributions of $1,000 were given for operating rooms, including one from the "War Chest" of Rome, N. Y.

Dr. Helen Morton gave $1,500 to equip an ambulance in memory of Margaret Bradford Morton, and an ambulance was given in memory of Lee Higginson Dorr, Jr., a young aviator, who recently lost his life. Miss A. Hume Donaldson, Captain of one of the teams, gave another ambulance in memory of Loretta Montgomery Donaldson, "a little girl who wanted to be a doctor, but died too soon." Still another was given in memory of Alexandra Stevens Slosson. The women lawyers of New York pledged an ambulance, and Mary Austen, the novelist, at that rose and said: "Count in another ambulance for the women writers of New York. We will give one, too."

FIX UNIFORM WAGES FOR SHIP WORKERS

Labor Adjustment Board Extends Scale at Philadelphia to Most of Atlantic Coast.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The adoption of a uniform wage scale for all workers in the shipyards on the Atlantic Coast was announced today by the Shipbuilding Labor Adjustment Board as a measure to end the shifting of labor from yard to yard, which, it was held, has done much to destroy efficiency and delay output. A small class of laborers and other unskilled workers in the South Atlantic and Gulf yards are the only ones who will not come under the general agreement. They will, however, receive increases.

The decision today extends to the workers the schedule recently adopted for workmen paid by the hour in the Philadelphia and Baltimore yards. An increase of 15 per cent. is granted in piece work rates. In its findings the board asserts that the necessity for ending the shifting of labor is one of the most serious problems confronting the shipbuilding industry under Government control.

5,000 JEWS IN THE NAVY.

Welfare Board Provides for Their Spiritual Care.

A canvass of the navy by the Jewish Welfare Board indicates that there are 5,000 Jews in the naval service. The board has been in touch with about 3,000 of these men and has supplied them with prayer books, Bibles, and stationery.

The board announced yesterday that the War Department had commissioned David Goldberg as Chaplain, and assigned him to the U. S. S. Grant. It was also announced by the board that its Committee on Overseas Activities had decided to send a commission to France to conduct the overseas work.

Colonel Harry Cutler announced yesterday that the Independent Order B'Nai Brith is now associated with the board. The B'Nai B'rith is one of the largest Jewish fraternal organizations in the country, and henceforth all the cash and other assets it collects for welfare work will be turned over to the board.

PRESIDENT NAMES NEW AIDS TO BAKER

Stettinius and Keppel Are Nominated to be Assistant Secretaries of War.

REORGANIZATION TO FOLLOW

Secretary Will Be Relieved of Administrative Duties and Devote Himself to Question of Military Policy.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—President Wilson sent to the Senate today the nominations of Edward R. Stettinius and Frederick F. Keppel, both of New York, to be Assistant Secretaries of War. They will fill two new offices created to carry out plans for placing the War Department on a better basis to carry on the conduct of the war. Both nominations had been forecast.

Mr. Stettinius was a partner in J. P. Morgan & Co., and as such had charge of the purchase of war supplies for the Allies in the United States before the United States entered the war. He is now Surveyor General of Purchases under the Director of Purchases in the War Department. Senators who favored the creation of a War Cabinet of three members cited Mr. Stettinius as the kind of man needed for that proposed body. Dr. Keppel is Dean of the College of Columbia University, New York. He has been a voluntary assistant to the Secretary of War and one of Secretary Baker's most intimate official associates.

When Mr. Stettinius and Dr. Keppel have qualified as Assistant Secretaries the new organization of the War Department will be made effective. Under the plan proposed, Secretary Baker will be relieved of most of the administrative work of the department and the army and will be freer to devote himself to questions of policy relating to the conduct of the war, particularly military policy.

The administrative work of the War Department proper will be taken over by Benedict Crowell, the present Assistant Secretary of War, who is acting Secretary in the absence of Secretary Baker. Mr. Stettinius will be in charge of purchases for all the branches of the War Department, including the Quartermaster Corps, the Signal Corps, which supervises aircraft, and the Ordnance Corps. He will co-operate closely with the War Industries Board, which will have supervision over purchases for the entire Government.

To the degree limited by the activities of the War Department Mr. Stettinius will be a Minister of Munitions. It is expected that immediately upon qualifying in his new office he will begin an effort to straighten out the situation produced by the failure to carry out the ambitious program to furnish aircraft for the forces in France.

Dr. Keppel will have charge of all the nonmilitary activities of the soldiers. He will look especially after the welfare of the men in the ranks and will co-operate with and supervise the work of those who are engaged in furnishing amusement and comforts for the soldiers both in France and this country.

EGAN TO AID PERSHING.

Aid to Davison Will Be Commissioned a Major in the Army.

WASHINGTON, April 6. — Martin Egan of New York, now serving as an assistant to Henry P. Davison, Chairman of the Red Cross War Council, will soon take a place on the staff of General Pershing. It is expected that he will be commissioned, probably as a Major in the Adjutant General's department, and will assume the general duties of a liaison officer, keeping General Pershing and his staff in touch with world events.

The appointment, made at the request of General Pershing, has not been announced formally, and the details of the work the General expects Mr. Egan to perform are not fully known to the War Department here. It is believed at the department, however, that Major Frederick Palmer will continue as censor on General Pershing's staff.

A "TIMELY" SPECIAL PURCHASE OF SHEETS AND PILLOWCASES FOR HOUSEKEEPERS' WEEK!

AT this time, with cotton higher than it has been since the Civil War, surely this is an achievement only possible here.

Our cash purchasing power has many times brought to us offerings not heard of elsewhere, and this purchase is another instance.

The brands (shown in above cuts) are all well-known kinds, easily recognized by every housekeeper as being the favorite for durability.

Stamped subject to slight imperfections, but one would have to scrutinize them very carefully to find the defects, which consist of a dark thread or heavy thread here and there, that will not interfere with service in any way.

As to prices, you could not buy Sheets and Pillowcases of coarsest quality Muslins at the prices we name in this sale.

OBJECT TO HYLAN'S 'LECTURE LETTERS'

Members of Estimate Board Tell Mayor They Do Not Like Them.

PRODDING CITY EMPLOYES

Must Be at Their Desks at 9 A. M., and Not in Municipal Building's Corridors.

The possibility of a break between Mayor Hylan and some of the members of the Board of Estimate was said yesterday to be close to realization, because of the attitude of these members at Friday's meeting of the board in objecting to the Mayor's "lecturing" of department heads. On several occasions the Mayor has sent letters to his department heads peremptorily demanding that they reduce expenses in their departments or face removal. Some of those who have been censured have appealed to other elective members of the board, over whom the Mayor has no influence, with a view of having the Mayor discontinue his "lectures."

The matter came to head at Friday's meeting when a report of the Committee on Salaries and Grades recommending the adoption of certain mandatory increases was under discussion. The Mayor objected to receiving the report, saying that he thought the heads of departments from which the requests for increased salaries had come should be asked to reconsider them. Maurice E. Connolly, Borough President of Queens, went to the assistance of the harassed department heads.

"I object to this constant lecturing of heads of departments," he said, looking directly at the Mayor. The Mayor was plainly startled, and slowly took off his glasses and polished them industriously.

"I don't like them, either," put in Frank L. Dowling, Borough President of Manhattan, and Tammany's spokesman in the board. The Mayor looked still more startled, and before he could speak Controller Craig was added to the list of insurgents.

"I don't like these lecture letters, either," he said, "but I think there is nothing improper in asking the heads of departments not to request increases and in showing them the burden such increases would place upon the city." By this time the Mayor had recovered from his astonishment, and remarked:

"Why should we be so sensitive about lecturing if it means saving the people's money?"

"I don't care about that," retorted President Connolly, "but I am opposed to this constant lecturing."

The other members nodded their approval, and the Mayor dropped the subject by asking the Secretary to proceed with the reading of the calendar. The Mayor has sent a letter to Corporation Counsel Burr, asking him to thoroughly reorganize his office, despite the fact that the office was reorganized shortly after the Corporation Counsel took office. As a result of the Mayor's activity, Mr. Burr has sent a letter to each member of the Law Department, calling his attention to the fact that hereafter he may not incur any indebtedness in the way of purchasing office supplies or engaging experts to testify in court without first obtaining an authorization for this expenditure from the Corporation Counsel himself.

It also became known yesterday that the Mayor has sent still another letter to city employes warning them that it is not sufficient that they be at their respective offices at 9 o'clock every morning, but that they must actually be at their desks by that hour. The Mayor complained that it had been found that a number of city employes had been seen in the corridors of the Municipal Building on the way to their offices at 9 o'clock. Charities Commissioner Bird S. Coler is soon to make a report to the Mayor, it was said yesterday, regarding the reforms he has put into effect in his department. Twenty-three social investigators drawing salaries of from $900 to $1,800 have been let out by Commissioner Coler since the first of the year, it was said. The deposed workers were understood to have been men appointed during the Mitchel administration, and mainly for this reason were told that their services were no longer required.

Starr J. Murphy Heads Saloon Fight

MONTCLAIR, N. J., April 6.—Starr J. Murphy, personal counsel for John D. Rockefeller, has been elected Chairman of the Patriotic League of Montclair, which will conduct the campaign against the saloons in this town preceding the referendum to be held on April 30. Prominent New York business men are among the Vice Chairmen of the league, one of whom is Colonel Isaac N. Lewis, inventor of the machine gun. Charles H. Miller is Chairman of the Campaign Committee, some of the members of which are James N. Jarvie, Robert Lynn Cox, Nolan R. Best, Charles W. Anderson, George Welwood Murray, Charles E. Francis, and Hugh R. Monro.

How Germany Exaggerates Sinkings by U-Boats.

As German submarine warfare accomplishment goes down German exaggeration goes up, according to the British Admiralty, and as proof of this the War Cabinet, at the request of the Board of Admiralty, has issued a statement giving full facts of the tonnage position of the Allies. The statement was issued, not merely to confute German liars, but to impress upon the people of England, and America as well, the vital necessity for individual and united effort on their part to make good the losses made by U-boats. The accompanying diagram illustrates the extent of the German claim in connection with the losses of mercantile tonnage.

During the year since America entered the war the German claim of vessels sunk has gone steadily up without regard to the truth. This was evidently intended as a modified form of frightfulness, with the object of creating a false belief in the efficiency of submarine warfare, perhaps more for home consumption than for the actual frightening of the Allies.

In the month of February, 1917, the exaggeration was 46 per cent; in January, 1918, it was 113 per cent. In other words, at the beginning of 1917 the German War Office was content to overestimate the allied sea losses at about 50 per cent. greater than they actually were. At the end of the year they had doubled the truthful figure and added some to that. The average exaggeration for the whole period is put at 56 per cent.

Since the beginning of the war and up to January, 1918, the loss to the world's merchant shipping through enemy action and marine risks, including the 825 gross tonnage interned in enemy ports, was 11,827,372 gross tonnage, and of this amount Great Britain lost 7,079,492 tons. The output of merchant shipbuilding since the outbreak of the war and up to the first of this year excluding enemy countries, was 6,006,275 gross tonnage, of which 3,031,555 tons represents the output of Great Britain.

The situation, however, is made brighter by the Admiralty's statement that since the war and up to the first of 1918 enemy tonnage captured and brought into the service of the Allies was 2,589,000 gross tons. Of this amount 1,211,800 tons were captured in 1914 and 1,068,500 in 1917. The net loss in world shipping since the war began has been 2,632,279 gross tons.

The statement of the Admiralty is not issued to convey the impression that there is not danger in the present situation, or that there should be any slackening of the shipbuilding program of the Allies. The statement has this to say:

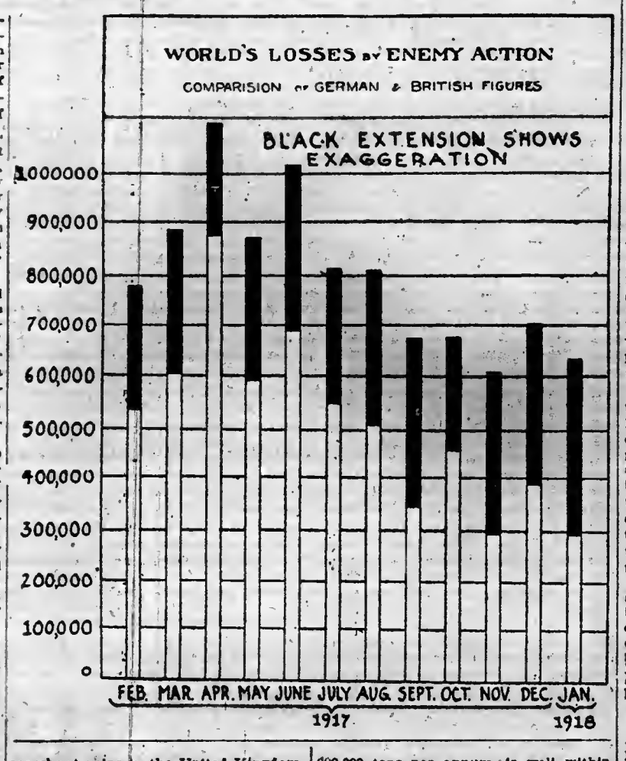
"The recent production, however, of merchant ships in the United Kingdom, even making the most generous allowance for weather conditions, fell so far below the rate of output in the preceding quarter that, if improvement is not speedily made, the point where production balances losses will be postponed to a dangerous extent, and even when that point is reached we shall still have to make good the losses of the past.

"During the critical period that confronts us we must rely to a large extent on our own shipyards and on ourselves. Our partners in the war are making every effort to increase their production of ships, but a considerable time must elapse before the desired output is secured.

"To produce in the United Kingdom 1,900,000 tons in 1918, and to reach an ultimate production at the rate of 3,000,000 tons per annum, is well within the present and prospective capacity of our shipyards and marine engineering shops. But the ranks of the skilled men must be enlarged without delay by the introduction of men and women at present unskilled. The education of these newcomers, upgrading, and interchangeability of work are essential, and must be pressed on with the good-will of employers, foremen, and men.

"Further, the Board of Admiralty wish to make it perfectly clear that these results cannot be obtained unless maximum output is continuously given in every shipyard and marine engine shop by every one concerned.

"It is to insure the vigorous co-operation of all concerned that the Admiralty have recommended the publication of the facts."



STIRS RUMANIAN JEWS.

Gov. Whitman Addresses Convention of Federation.

Governor Charles S. Whitman, speaking at the annual convention of the Federation of Rumanian Jews of America last night in the Hebrew Technical School for Girls, at Fifteenth Street and Second Avenue, aroused his hearers. A choir of boys from various synagogues sang "The Star-Spangled Banner" after the Governor was introduced and before he began his speech.

"Is it not an inspiration," the Governor asked, "as we hear these little Jewish boys in America glorifying the flag of freedom to think that this very night in France many of our own boys having offered their lives all day are likewise singing 'The Star-Spangled Banner'?

"After all we see no real lines of difference among Americans. The test of democracy has been truly tried by this war and we find that all men in this land of the free, regardless of religious creed or racial distinction are united at last in loyalty to the President of the United States and the ideals of the nation."

The reference to President Wilson caused a great patriotic outburst.

OFFERS SPY BILL AT ALBANY.

Drastic Penalties Provided for Hinderers of War Preparations.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 6.—Senator Sage of Albany has introduced a bill in the Legislature making it a felony for anyone to tamper with any Government property with intent to hinder the United States in the prosecution of the war against Germany. Imprisonment from five to twenty-five years would follow conviction under the bill. It also provides against delay or obstruction of any military or naval operation of the Federal Government, any of its Allies, or of the State.

The bill had been advanced to the order of final passage and will, it is expected, be passed in the Senate Monday night. It will be sent to the Assembly immediately, where similar action is predicted. Wholesale tampering with army airplanes and other Government war machines and buildings led to the introduction of the measure.

Jail for Mild Alien Enemies.

Assistant Attorney General William Wallace, Jr., in charge of the New York Bureau for Alien Enemies, is trying a new plan for handling those enemy subjects who violate the war regulations but are not in the dangerous class. The scheme is to send these "not very dangerous" enemies to jail for periods of from ten to sixty days, according to the wilfulness of the offense.

New Year Book of the Churches.

The Year Book of the Churches, published by the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, has been issued. It is a complete manual and directory for the use of all who desire concise and detailed information concerning all religious bodies, with statistics based on the United States census figures just out. The Directory of Religious Bodies, Protestant, Catholic, and Jewish, gives information concerning general boards and officials, with addresses, schools, institutions, and periodical publications. There is also a list of nonsectarian publications. The Directory of Interchurch Organizations, which gives names and addresses of officials, the purpose of the organization and scope of its work. Includes temperance societies, representative war relief organizations and other official interchurch war commissions, representative peace socities, and young people's societies. The war commissions of the various denominations are also listed, and there is a complete directory of army and navy Chaplains.

I. W. W. TRIAL HALTED; JURORS DISMISSED

Judge Landis Excuses Entire Venire When It Is Learned That They Were Approached by Socialists.

CHICAGO, April 6.—Federal Judge Landis dismissed tonight the entire venire in the trial of 112 Industrial Workers of the World, charged with violating the Espionage act, after a number of prospective jurors had testified that they had been approached by agents of the organization relative to their views on socialism and the I. W. W. The trial was postponed until a week from next Monday, and another panel of 100 veniremen was called for that time.

"This does not appear to be other than a systematic campaign and I don't like it," Judge Landis declared. "I don't want a jury of this kind. It is perfectly proper for the litigant to make an investigation of the jurors, but this is beyond the limit. For an agent of the defendant to approach the juror, directly or indirectly, is the same as the defendant himself trying to influence the juror. In view of the evidence I must dismiss the entire panel."

The Department of Justice, it was announced, would inquire next week into the activities of the Socialists and others who questioned veniremen. The department also has made arrangements to meet any disturbances at the Defense Fund mass meeting to be addressed by leaders of the I. W. W. here tomorrow.

Big Six Gives a Show.

Patriotism and condemnation of the Bolshevikt were the leading features of a minstrel show given last night at the Central Opera House, Third Avenue and Sixty-seventh Street, by the members of New York Typographical Union No. 6. The instrumental music for the show, which consisted of many songs and dialogues, was provided by the Big 6 Band, composed of members of the union. It was attended by several thousand persons and was given to raise a fund to mark the graves of the members of the union who died leaving no relatives.

PADEREWSKI TESTIMONIAL.

Admirers to Honor Pianist's Work for Polish Freedom.

A testimonial to Ignace Paderewski in recognition of his devotion to devastated Poland will be given at Carnegie Hall on Wednesday evening by the Civic Forum. Dr. John H. Finley will preside, Robert Underwood Johnson will read an original poem, "Paderewski the Patriot," and the noted pianist will deliver an address on the freedom of Poland and the cause to which he has consecrated his life. The purpose of the meeting is to promote a better understanding of the nationalistic movement as it applies to the Polish people. Frederick C. Walcott will also make a short address.

At the close of the program, a rare print, showing the crowning of the first King of Poland, will be presented to the great artist as a "token of the love and esteem of his legion of friends in this country who desire to honor him as a man and a patriot." All proceeds from the sale of boxes and tickets will be turned over to the Polish Relief Fund. Tickets may be obtained at the Civic Forum offices, at 17 West Forty-fourth Street.

James M. Beck is Chairman of the Committee on Arrangements. Other members are Robert Underwood Johnson, A. Barton Hepburn, Mrs. H. Fairfield Osborn, Mrs. Herbert Satterlee, and Mrs. John Henry Hammond. The committee issued a notice yesterday calling attention to the fact that 50,000 Poles in this country have either volunteered or responded to the draft, and are in the service of the American Army.

JASCHA HEIFETZ PLAYS.

Carnegie Hall Packed at Russian Violinist's Fifth Recital.

Jascha Heifetz, the extraordinary Russian violinist, gave his fifth recital in Carnegie Hall yesterday afternoon to a house sold out far in advance, some late comers filling the utmost capacity of the stage. His program, of the more ganist and ingratiating sort of music, included Grieg's sonata in C minor and Spohr's concerto No. 8 as its principal numbers.

Among lesser pieces were Beethoven's romance in G, the Porpora-Kreisler minuet, and, for the first time here, a "Hebrew Melody" and "Hebrew Dance" by Joseph Achron. André Benoist accompanied these at the piano, as also a final "Lithuanian Song," Chopin-Auer, and a scherzo tarantelle, Wieniawski.

A Message From The Tribune

The advertising policy of The New York Tribune was created for the benefit of shoppers and merchants alike. You therefore are interested in this message which The Tribune has addressed to

New York Merchants

NEW YORK is the safest town in America in which to shop. Merchandising methods practised in New York are cleaner than those used in any other large city in the United States. We think the policy of The Tribune is largely responsible for this condition. Not that that policy has created any radical change in the merchandising methods practised by the legitimate merchants of the City of New York, but that it has limited and destroyed the methods pursued by the illegitimate merchant. The Tribune has done for legitimate business that which legitimate business could not do for itself. If any legitimate merchant of the City of New York should attempt to destroy an illegitimate competitor, with whose methods he could not compete, the legitimate merchant would at once be tarred with the stick of competition and accused of attempting to profit by the destruction of his alleged competitor. This defence is not open to the shyster merchant whose methods are questioned by The Tribune.

TWO men might be arrested in the same town, by the same kind of policeman, taken to the same station house, incarcerated in the same kind of cell, docketed upon the same docket and compelled to appear before the same judge. Up to that point both are mere offenders against the law. But right there, in their appearance before the court, there is a distinction. The one is ordinarily a law-abiding, reputable citizen, whose offence may be a technicality or a misconception of the law. The other is a man who makes his living by criminal means. The first man can be handled by a mere suggestion, but society must be protected from the latter. And if the first mentioned should rail at the law and demand its repeal by reason of the slight embarrassment suffered personally, he would only deprive himself of the protection he personally enjoys from the encroachment of the latter. He would find himself ultimately a prey to the second individual, with no possible means of relief or redress.

THE policy of The Tribune is aimed at doing that thing for legitimate business which legitimate business cannot do for itself—at the absolute destruction of the illegitimate merchant, the elimination of unfair merchandising methods. Recently a buyer for a reputable New York store complained that he did not like The Tribune's criticism of his advertising statements, even if they were untrue. And he insisted that he had a right to say what he pleased about his own merchandise. How absolutely unwise is the position taken by this buyer! If it were carried out to its logical conclusion it would absolutely destroy the value of his own position. It would take away the requirement of brains and ability in the handling of a department, and the man who would be worth the most money as a buyer would be the man with the least conscience; the man who was willing to put over the greatest exaggeration. Carrying it throughout the store, it would absolutely destroy the institution and take away its standing among mercantile establishments. It would give them a class of competition which they could only meet in kind, and if he doubled his exaggeration he would be required to compete with a man who quadrupled his.

LEGITIMATE business has absolutely nothing to fear from the great, nation-wide movement for truth in advertising or from the policy of The Tribune. We are not going to quarrel with you about the placing of a hyphen or a comma, the crossing of a "t" or the dotting of an "i." We are trying to do a constructive work in a constructive way. We are trying to remove from your shoulders a burden of unfair competition which you cannot meet and which you are unable to destroy. And as the occasion permits we are pointing out to you those things which will prevent your institution from even appearing to have any of the earmarks of the other kind.

THE policy has a threefold benefit. It benefits alike the merchant, the consumer and The Tribune. It protects the merchant in the matter of competition and places him in his proper class in the mind of the consumer. It safeguards the consumer in his purchases, and it makes advertising more valuable to the merchant and consequently creates space for The Tribune.

TRUTH in advertising is a policy which must succeed. Its foundation is just as solid as the fact that honesty is the best policy. You cannot believe one without believing in the other. But just as the law relies upon the law-abiding for its support, so must the movement for truth in advertising rely upon the support and coöperation of the truthful and the legitimate business man.

THE advertiser has a right to have his advertising believed: In many instances the entire success of his business—in fact, frequently the very sustenance of his family—depends upon the drawing power of his advertising. He pays for the space which he buys in the public prints and it belongs to him. If he purchased a home in a restricted neighborhood and an undesirable neighbor moved into the neighborhood, thereby depreciating the value of his property, he would complain loudly. Then why should he stand for a newspaper neighbor in some low, vile, loathsome, indecent medical copy; some lying piece of financial copy or any other advertising which casts a shadow over the truth of the statements which he makes concerning his own legitimate product? Under The Tribune policy he has the assurance that he will not be annoyed with neighbors of this character.

IT REQUIRES no stretch of the imagination to picture what would happen if the lid were removed in the matter of advertising carried by the merchants of New York. You might suggest that if The Tribune did not take care of it somebody else would and on the same basis; you might as well say that there is no call for a police department; that if the police did not make arrests somebody else would. But the question is, who would? What is everybody's business is nobody's business. It has been pointed out to us that but 5 per cent of the advertising carried is illegitimate. We have no data by which to verify the figures. If the percentage is 5 to-day, it is safe to say that it was nearer 50 per cent when The Tribune's policy was first adopted. But, assuming that it is but 5 per cent, we also have figures showing that less than 1 per cent of the population of the world are of the criminal type. Yet who would suggest abandoning the police force, the criminal courts and jails? Society demands that protection, and demands it in the full knowledge that if it were withdrawn the criminal percentage would grow by leaps and bounds overnight. And legitimate business throughout the country to-day is demanding the protection of the organized agencies who are standing behind the truth-in-advertising movement.

YOU are interested in the success of your own business. You must be interested in the policy of The Tribune. If there is anything about that policy which you do not understand or of which you disapprove, you in your triangular interest are entitled to say something about it. The Tribune wants to hear from you. May we have some sort of expression? Have no hesitancy; just say what you have on your mind. It will be received in just the manner in which you send it.

The campaign for truthful advertising and cleaner merchandising methods must have your support and co-operation.

Shop with the merchants who advertise in The Tribune. The Tribune's Money Back Guarantee protects you.

NEW HOSPITAL AIMS TO REMAKE CRIPPLES

Woman Endows Clinic Which Will Try to Rehabilitate Injured Soldiers.

TO HAVE LATEST APPARATUS

Other Institutions Will Give Patients Training in Various Trades.

Through the beneficence of a woman, who does not wish her identity revealed, New York is to have a new clinic and hospital devoted to the functional re-education of maimed military men and civilians, the first of its kind in this country. The institution, to be opened within six weeks, will occupy a part of the plant formerly used by the New York Infirmary for Women and Children, at Stuyvesant Square and Fifteenth Street. During the war it will concern itself largely with military work, but it is the intention of its founders to make it a permanent organization for the benefit of the industrial maimed of peace times.

As is implied by its name—the New York Clinic for Functional Re-education of Disabled Soldiers, Sailors, and Civilians—the plant will be devoted to the initial step in the rehabilitation of cripples. In other words, it will take them just as soon after injury as it can get them, and through the use of specialized methods which have reached a high degree of development during the war, will teach them to obtain the maximum use from injured parts. This therapy has a twofold purpose, since it aims not only to bring about the greatest possible degree of recovery, but is designed to interest the patient himself from the start and to keep him in a mental state favorable to his eventual return to society as a self-supporting man.

Rehabilitation, in the economic sense, will not be attempted by the clinic. That work is to be left to the Red Cross Institute for Crippled and Disabled Men and other organizations of that nature, which will devote themselves to teaching the cripple useful trades suitable to his needs and abilities, and to the social regeneration of these unfortunates. It is the wish, however, of the institute and other such bodies that the man who comes into their care shall have had the proper preliminary handling, such as the new clinic will aim to supply.

The President of the organization is Dr. W. Gilman Thompson of 61 West Forty-ninth Street, professor emeritus of medicine at Cornell Medical school and consulting physician to Bellevue Hospital. The other officers and members of the board are Giraud F. Foster, Vice President; Miss Gertrude Parsons, Secretary; Mrs. Carlos de Heredia, Treasurer; Mrs. C. D. MacDougall, Mrs. John Nicholas Brown and Dr. Victor G. Heiser of the Rockefeller Foundation.

"On arriving at the clinic," Dr. Thompson said, "the patient will undergo tests of his muscle strength and joint movements by special recording apparatus. These tests serve both as an index for treatment and as a record for comparison when improvement begins. The patient then will receive a prescription for treatment by baths, with electricity or mechanical apparatus. As he progresses he may commence some mechanical work at a lathe or carpenter's bench, receiving instruction more designed to aid him in general training than to fit him for any particular trade or vocation. The latter ground is being covered by other institutions.

"An important feature is to be the use of mechanical apparatus based upon the exceedingly clever mechanisms devised mainly by Professor E. A. Bott of Hart House, Toronto. The principle of this apparatus is to interest the patient in achievement, that is, in the progress which he makes from day to day. To this end each piece of apparatus is fitted with a marker and dial upon which is recorded the degree of joint movement or muscular strength of which the patient is capable. Separate mechanisms have been devised for attachment to every joint in the body—for instance, the man with an inflexible wrist joint lays his hand upon a small board, to which it is strapped firmly. One end of the board is pivoted, while the movable end is attached to a pulley and weight. A small brake may be used to increase the force required to overcome the resistance of the apparatus. The patient endeavors to turn the wrist from side to side, and a dial is arranged to record the angle of motion. Thus, by observing his own performance from day to day, the patient is stimulated to try to better his record. Often men similarly maimed enter into a race with each other, each vying day by day to move the needle on the dial further than his fellow, and the beneficial effects of such competition may readily be perceived.

"An interesting part of the treatment at Hart House is that a volunteer woman helper accompanies each patient at his work, showing him how to use the apparatus, keeping a record of his achievements and encouraging him from day to day. Games also are used to interest and encourage the patient in increasing his range of motion—for example: Certain muscles of the wrist are called into play in the game of ping pong. If the patient's fingers are so contracted that he cannot handle the ordinary bat, an adjustable one is fitted for him. One hardly expects to see the game of bowls played with the feet, but a one-legged man is fitted with an artificial leg ending in a peg which is pushed into a hole bored in a large bowling ball. He then swings his leg back and forth and finally releasing the ball rolls it toward the goal as hard as he can. Thus he exercises the remaining muscles in the thigh and hip, and because of his mounting interest in the game is able to work longer and with much greater benefit than in any other way, often forgetting completely his pains and stiffness in an effort to outdo his opponent."

The United States Government has just authorized Teachers College to serve as a training centre for women in the field of physical therapy and invalid occupations. Two classes will be formed, beginning April 10. One will specialize in physical therapy, which includes massage, remedial movements with practice in hospitals, hydro-therapy, electro-therapy, bandaging, applied psychology, and hospital routine. The aim of the class is to train persons to apply these measures to crippled, disabled and shell shocked men. The second class will specialize in occupational therapy, which includes weaving, basketry, block printing, wood cutting, knitting and other occupations suitable in hospitals for the treatment of mental and nervous diseases, for the treatment of the crippled and the blind, and for convalescent and chronic patients of various types. Each class will occupy eight weeks. It is expected that candidates for both classes will have a general education equivalent to that given in a high school course.

Those who take either of the courses recommended by the Government will do so at their own expense, with the understanding that the Government assumes no obligation to accept them for service on the completion of the course. If accepted they will be put on the active list and will be expected to respond immediately to any call from the Government. Their pay will be $50 a month when on duty in the United States, $80 a month for service overseas. If employed in a hospital they will be given quarters and subsistence in addition. If not employed in hospitals they will in addition be given $12 a month for quarters and $1 to $1.25 a day for subsistence.

Mischa Levitzki's Last Recital.

Mischa Levitzki, pianist, at his final recital in Aeolian Hall last evening, played from two composers only, Schumann's "At Evening," "Exaltation," and the G minor sonata, together with Chopin's F minor fantasie, and nine smaller pieces of interest to the interpreter, and no less so to the wide public he has won in New York. Mr. Levitzki has before now commanded praise as one of the most important of the rising group of pianists, an artist young in years, already named among the stars.

SEAPLANES PLAY HAVOC AMONG SUBMARINES

British Admiralty Describes Ten Cases Where Airmen Recently Sank U-Boats with Bombs.

LONDON, April 6.—Details concerning the destruction recently of ten German submarines by naval aircraft, eight by seaplanes and the others by dirigibles, have been obtained by The Associated Press from Admiralty reports. The first case is described as follows:

"While on patrol in the English Channel a seaplane sighted a submarine eight miles away, directly in the path of an oncoming envoy of merchant ships. The seaplane dived at ninety miles and hour. The submarine attempted to escape by submerging, but was just awash as the plane reached a bombing position and released two bombs, one of which exploded on the conning tower of the U-boat. The seaplane dropped two more bombs into the midst of the bubbles from the collapsed submarine, which was of the largest type, carrying two guns."

The second case: "At dawn a seaplane sighted a large submarine on the surface, with a member of the crew standing by the gun. The seaplane dropped a bomb on the tail of the U-boat and afterward photographed the sinking submarine, with a big hole in its deck. A second bomb was dropped close to the submarine's bow and the U-boat collapsed."

The third case: "Two seaplanes attacked a large submarine traveling on the surface at fourtsen knots, with two men in the conning tower. A bomb was exploded close to the conning tower, and the submarine began to sink stern first. A bomb from a second seaplane completed the work."

The fourth case: "Three patrol planes sighted a large submarine as it was submerging and dropped two bombs close to the conning tower, causing the submarine to turn turtle and disappear in a mass of oil and wreckage."

The fifth case: "A seaplane sighted two submarines close to the surface and dropped two bombs. One bomb was ineffective, but the other hit the deck fairly amidships. The submarine was hidden by the smoke of the explosion, and when the smoke cleared the U-boat was sinking, with both ends in the air."

The sixth case: "A seaplane saw the track of a torpedo fired at a merchantman. It dived toward the surface and sighted the black form of the submarine well below the surface. It dropped two bombs, which exploded closed to the submarine, resulting in a large quantity of oil, bubbles and wreckage."

The seventh case: "Two seaplanes sighted a U-boat on the surface and dropped a bomb each. The first bomb caused a heavy list to the U-boat, which began to sink by the stern. The second bomb exploded in the centre of the swirl, demolishing the U-boat."

The eighth case: "A seaplane dropped a bomb on a submarine just emerging, and the U-boat disappeared with a heavy list to port. The pilot dropped a second bomb into the swirl, and a few minutes later a patch of oil 150 feet long and twelve feet wide appeared on the surface."

The ninth case: "A naval airship at midday sighted a suspicious patch of oil and circled it in an effort to ascertain the cause. Suddenly a periscope broke the surface in the midst of the oil. The airship dropped a bomb close to the periscope, and a series of bubbles began appearing, indicating that the damaged submarine was moving slowly away under the water. Several more bombs were dropped in the path indicated until satisfactory evidence was obtained of the enemy's destruction."

The tenth case: "An airship dropped two bombs over a submarine which was engaged in attacking merchantmen. Great patches of oil and bubbles indicated severe damage, and trawlers made this complete by depth charges."

AWAITS THE IRISH REPORT.

Parliament May Offer Home Rule Plan Even If It Is Not Unanimous.

LONDON, April 6.—The question of Ireland's future has reached a crucial stage with the announcement that the Irish Convention has finished its work and decided upon a report to be made to the Government.

While it is not permitted to reveal the convention's proceedings for the present, the nature of this report and the general work of the convention are well known to public men in England and Ireland. Premier Lloyd George declared, when the convention was organized that if it agreed upon any plan for a government, its plan would be embodied in a bill and placed before Parliament.

PROOF OF ILLNESS OR PRISON FOR BUENZ

Judge Howe Declares Himself Distrustful of Convicted German Conspirator.

HEARS OF TRIPS ABOUT CITY

Learns That Supposed Patient Goes Automobiling and Attends Auction Sales.

Dr. Karl Buenz, former German Minister to Mexico, at one time Consul General in New York, and when this country entered the war the head of the Hamburg-American Line in this country, may be too sick to go to the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta, but he will have to prove it to the complete satisfaction of Judge Harlan B. Howe of the Federal District Court of Vermont. Judge Howe began an inquiry to ascertain Buenz's real condition yesterday and on the outcome of this inquiry will depend whether or not Buenz shall be taken to Atlanta to serve eighteen months in prison for his part in a German conspiracy to make the Port of New York a supply base for German ocean raiders.

Dr. Buenz was convicted more than two years ago, but because of the alleged condition of his health the beginning of the prison term has been deferred and the plotter has been at liberty under a bail bond of $25,000. Recently it became known that Buenz has been automobiling about the city, taking walks in the parks, attending auction sales, and dining out with friends. This information came to the Federal authorities and it was decided to make a court investigation of Buenz's physical condition.

In the course of yesterday's hearing, Judge Howe himself asked most of the questions. He let it be known that he considered it strange that Dr. Buenz, who is said to have been out as usual on Friday, was too ill to appear yesterday. At the close of the day's hearing he made the significant comment that the testimony of Dr. Buenz's personal attendant and nurse "has a very strong tendency to convince that it would not only be prudent to commit him to the penitentiary to serve his sentence, but that it will be very imprudent not to commit him."

When Judge Howe began the inquiry yesterday United States District Attorney Francis G. Caffey, in behalf of the Government, explained that Dr. Buenz was convicted in 1915 and that the case had been appealed and unanimously affirmed by the Circuit Court.

Dr. Buenz following the affirmation by the Circuit Court," said Mr. Caffey, "applied to the Supreme Court of the United States for a writ of certiorari, and we are now informally advised that the writ has been denied, but the order of mandate has not reached New York.

"Furthermore, Dr. Buenz has recently made an application to President Wilson for a respite or commutation of seatence, accompanied by statements of various physicians as to the state of his health. The President therefore desires to have a statement as to the views of the Judge as to Buenz's health, as the application was based solely on his physical condition."

Judge Howe, replying to the District Attorney, said that he considered the situation "rather extraordinary," and that much had been said as to the health of the defendant by counsel and others at the time of the trial more than two years ago. When he was convicted Judge Howe added that the court had left the question as to Buonz's health open, with the understanding that an appeal was to be made and that the court would have a further opportunity to inquire into that phase of the matter.

"It seems," remarked Judge Howe, "that the defendant has attempted to take advantage of that position, and has made an application for respite or commutation of sentence without calling the attention of the court to the matter at all. So it has been decided to hold this hearing so that we can find out what the condition of his health is."

Edward Sandford of counsel for Buenz interrupted to say that a number of physicians who have examined Buenz, being out of the city, were unable to be present, whereupon Judge Howe replied that he did not care to hear the testimony of more than two or three doctors. "This hearing will not develop into a contest to see which side can put on the greatest number of doctors," Judge Howe added.

Dr. Emanuel Baruch, who for five or six years has been Dr. Buenz's physician, was the first witness called. Dr. Baruch began by stating that he was a graduate of the University of Munich and had started to speak of his medical experience, when Judge Howe interrupted and informed him that it was not necessary for him to qualify as an expert.

Judge Howe asked the next question. It was as to the number of times Dr. Buenz had been out automobiling in the past few weeks, how often he went out walking, and how many dinner parties he had attended. Dr. Baruch replied that he had been automobiling in the park and had taken some short walks.

Charles Hempel, personal attendant of the defendant, was then called to the stand. Hempel, a native German; said that he had been with Buenz for years, that he was with him in Mexico, in Turkey and during the period of his residence in New York. He admitted in answer to questions that Dr. Buenz went riding on Friday and that he had attended, also on Friday, an auction at Twenty-fifth Street and Fourth Avenue. He said that Buenz and himself were out from 11:15 A. M. until 2 o'clock in the afternoon. He also said that Buenz had left the German Club and now had apartments at 1 East Fifty-sixth Street.

Mr. Noyes said when Hempel left the stand that he had been unable to get certain witnesses into court, whose testimony was necessary in the case. When he referred to the proposal to send the defendant to a hospital for observation, Judge Howe replied:

"I don't think it is necessary to go that far to determine this man's condition. He stands here as an ordinary felon and will be treated as such. His career in the past has been such as does not create confidence in his honesty."

At one point in the hearing, when the difficulty of keeping Buenz indoors was referred to, Judge Howe, in his quaint New England way, remarked:

"There would not be any difficulty about keeping him indoors if he went to Atlanta, would there?"

1,967 RIVETS IN A DAY.

Team at Port Newark Makes Record in Ship Work.

All records for driving buttonhead rivets in ship work are believed to have been broken by a team at the Submarine Boat Corporation's yard at Port Newark Terminal. In a nine-hour day August Eckstein and his crew drove 1,967 rivets. The best previous record at the yard, and as far as known for the country, was 966 rivets in a nine-hour day, made last week after Chairman Hurley of the Shipping Board offered as a prize a trip to Washington and an introduction to President Wilson. That was made by a riveter and four helpers.

Eckstein is said to be the fastest riveter in the Port Newark yards. He works at such speed that it is necessary for him to have two heaters and at times two passer-boys. Most riveting gangs are made up of the riveter, the bucker-up or holder-on, the heater, and the passer-boy. Eckstein on Tuesday worked so rapidly that an extra heater had to be put on his gang and yesterday the extra passer-boy was added.

PRESIDENT FREES F. M. RYAN

Commutes Sentence of Labor Leader in McNamara Conspiracy.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—President Wilson has decided to commute, to expire at once, the prison term of Frank M. Ryan, formerly President of the International Union of Structural Iron Workers, now in Leavenworth Penitentiary. Ryan was convicted in the "dynamite conspiracy," and his term ordinarily would expire July 20, 1918.

Ryan was one of twenty-four union leaders convicted as an outgrowth of the sensational McNamara case and the dynamiting of The Los Angeles Times Building. The President also has commuted the terms of four of the men sentenced with Ryan, and the terms of all but three others have expired.

Repeated efforts have been made for commutation of all the sentences.

Creel in an Air Smashup.

BALTIMORE, April 6.—George Creel, Chairman of the Committee on Public Information, and Aviator O. M. Bounds had a narrow escape from injury this morning when the airplane in which they arrived here from Washington was disabled while making a landing at the Pimlico race track. Both men escaped with a slight shaking up, but the machine was so badly damaged that it could not be used for a proposed flight over the city to distribute Liberty Loan pamphlets during the celebration.

Dr. Finley Joins Security League.

Dr. John H. Finley, State Commissioner of Education, yesterday accepted membership on the National Security League's Committee on Patriotism Through Education, according to an announcement made by the league. SENATORS ANSWER ROOSEVELT CHARGE

Produce One of His Editorials on Sedition Bill and Find He Was Misinformed.

THINK HE SHOULD EXPLAIN

Nothing in Bill About Slurring the President—Debate Continues to Delay the Measure.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—Theodore Roosevelt was taken to task by Senator Overman of North Carolina today during the Senate debate on the Sedition bill for an editorial utterance, published in The Kansas City Star, in which the former President attacked the Senate Judiciary Committee for, as he put it, having "adroitly inserted a provision" in the bill to punish by imprisonment or fine any one who uses "contemptuous or slurring language about the President." Senator Overman declared that no such provision had been put in the bill, nor had it even been considered. It developed that the Colonel's attack had been based upon a mistaken report of The Associated Press.

In his editorial Colonel Roosevelt, commenting on the supposed provision relating to the President, wrote:

"This proposed law is sheer treason to the United States. Under its terms Abraham Lincoln would have been sent to prison for what he repeatedly said of Presidents Polk, Pierce, and Buchanan. It is a proposal to make American subjects instead of citizens. It is a proposal to put the President in the position of the Hchenzollerns and Romanoffs."

Holding before the Senate a copy of a newspaper containing Colonel Roosevelt's criticism, Senator Overman exclaimed:

"The statement that the Judiciary Committee inserted such a provision in the bill is utterly false and untrue. No bill with such a provision was ever reported or considered by the Judiciary Committee. But Colonel Roosevelt denounces the pending bill because of it. I want him to know that he has made a false statement. Probably he has been misinformed. I want to say that if Colonel Roosevelt has his old-time manhood and is a lover of truth and courage he will apologize to the people of the country."

Senator Thomas of Colorado suggested that probably the only effect of calling Colonel Roosevelt's attention to the matter would be to put the Senator from North Carolina in the Ananias Club.

"Somebody else may go there," returned Senator Overman.

"It looks very much like an attempt of the Colonel to qualify for membership in one of his own clubs," put in Senator Reed of Missouri.

Senator Borah of Idaho suggested that, as the provision under discussion was not a part of the bill, it must have been the error of a newspaper correspondent in reporting it. It developed then that The Associated Press had sent out the misleading statement.

"My language then applies equally to The Associated Press," said Senator Overman. "It had no right to send out a false report about this bill. What right had it to put in quotations what were not in the bill?"

"I wonder whether the former President simply wanted to get out of the danger zone himself and leave everybody else subject to criticism, arrest, and indictment?" interposed Senator Stone of Missouri.

Senator Kellogg of Minnesota arose to correct Senator Overman's statement that provision to punish slanderers of the President had never been considered by the Judiciary Committee. He recalled that on Aug. 17, 1917, Senator Myers of Montana had offered a bill with that provision in it and that it had been referred to the Judiciary Committee, before which the Montana Senator appeared to urge favorable report to the Senate.

"I don't recall any such thing," replied Senator Overman. "Senator Myers must have appeared before the committee when I was not there."

The incident ended with Senator Overman sending a copy of the Sedition bill to the desk, so that Colonel Roosevelt might see "a true copy of it if he wants to."

Later it was explained that The Associated Press had taken the provision relating to the President from a previous draft of the bill which had been changed before being considered by the committee.

GIRLS TO ACT AS MINSTRELS

Vacation Association Will Give a Performance to Make Up Deficit.

Miss Anne Morgan's girl members of the Vacation Association are to give a minstrel performance to cover a deficit in their expenses and to show that they can pay all the costs of the association without assistance from the officers. Miss Morgan is the Treasurer and Miss Gertrude Robinson Smith is the President. The girl members, who are known as taxpayers, have for some time been running the association independently as voting members. Their dues paid the upkeep of the headquarters, but the amusements, lectures, &c., ran over and left a deficit of $500 this last year, which was transferred from the 1917 to the 1918 accounts of the house. The girls with this entertainment expect to wipe it out and leave a nestegg for the coming year.

The minstrel show will be given on Thursday evening at the Florel Garden, 146th Street and Broadway, with seventy-five vacation girls in blackened faces and red, white, and blue frocks.

CITY BREVITIES.

A soiree for the benefit of the Food for France Fund will be given by Adolph Lewisohn at his home, 881 Fifth Avenue, on Wednesday evening. There will be songs by Reinald Werrenrath and Carita Spencer, recitation by Emile Fillmeln, and Herman Sandby, 'cellist, will give selections. Alexander J. Hemphill is Treasurer of the fund.

The French League in America will hold a meeting at the home of Otto Kahn, 100 Fifth Avenue, on Tuesday evening. Addresses will be made by Major General J. Franklin Bell, Dr. John H. Finley, Lieutenant Adrien de Pachmann, French High Commissioner, and C. H. Outland, manager of the league.

MISS IRENE TURNURE WEDS ENSIGN KISSEL

Naval Men Ushers at Grace Church Ceremony—Lieut. Butler Marries Miss O'Brien.

MISS VANDERHOEF A BRIDE

Wed to Harry F. Morse in St. Thomas's—Nuptial of Miss Alice Baldwin and F. W. Murray, Jr.

The wedding of Ensign Rudolph H. Kissel, Jr., Assistant Paymaster U. S. N. R. and a son of Rudolph H. Kissel of this city and Morristown, N. J., by his first wife, Miss Ina Morgan, and Miss Irene Turnure, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Evans Turnure and a granddaughter of Charles Lanier of this city and Lenox, was celebrated at noon yesterday in Grace Church, Broadway and Tenth Street, by the Rev. Charles Lewis Slattery. The only decorations were lilies on the altar and daisies massed either side of the chancel entrance.

The bride, who walked with her father, was in a simple white satin gown with a narrow train, on one end of which were fastened clusters of orange blossoms and a full-draped front. Tulle filled in the corsage and in the point lace of the centre front was caught a diamond ornament. She also wore a string of pearls and a voluminous tulle veil, held by a short one of point applique arranged flatly across her coiffure, and carried an armful of lilacs. The ushers were officers of the United States Navy.

Butler—O'Brien.

Lieutenant Pierce H. Butler, a son of James Butler, and Miss Maudo Louise O'Brien, a daughter of Ex-Justice and Mrs. Morgan J. O'Brien, celebrated their wedding at 11:30 yesterday morning in the Church of St. Vincent Ferrer, East Sixty-seventh Street, the ceremony being performed by Father Heffernan, Prior of the Dominicans, and Cardinal Farley pronounced the blessing. The bride wore a white satin and tulle gown and a rose point veil, a string of pearls, the gift of the bridegroom, and carried white pansies, orchids, and lilies. Her sister, Miss Estelle O'Brien, was her only attendant and wore orchid colored chiffon, with a panel train and silver girdle and a large tulle hat to match, and carried orchids and lilacs.

Miss Marion Vanderhoef Weds.

The wedding of Harry Franklin Morse, Vice President of the Groton Iron Works that is building ships for the Government, and Miss Marion W. Vanderhoef, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. Wyckoff Vanderhoef of this city, was solemnized at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in St. Thomas's Church, the rector, the Rev. Dr. Ernest M. Stires, officiating. Daisies, pink Spriag flowers, and palms about the chancel were the only decoration.

The bride, walking with her father, wore her grandmother's gown, a flounced point lace petticoat with over draperies of satin; point lace trimmed the corsage, and the net elbow sleeves banded in and held with orange blossoms, a long point lace veil bordered with rose point was arranged in frill effect. She wore a diamond necklace and corsage ornament and carried lilacs and orchids.

Miss Baldwin Weds F. W. Murray, Jr.

The wedding of Miss Alice Baldwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Baldwin of 405 Park Avenue, and Francis W. Murray, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Francis W. Murray of this city, was celebrated yesterday afternoon in the Cathedral of the Incarnation, Garden City, L. I. A reception followed at the Garden City residence of the bride's parents.

Miss Mary Baldwin was her sister's maid of honor, and the other attendants were Mrs. Roger Gordon Alexander, and the Misses Dorothy Baldwin, Heiaino Peters, Gertrude Murray, Mary Cushman, and Margaret Miller.

Miss McLaughlin Marries Aviator.

Wells Martin of Chicago, a member of the aviation section of the Signal Corps, and Miss Janet G. McLaughlin, a daughter of Mrs. Frank W. McLaughlin of the Apthorp, this city, were married yesterday at 12 o'clock in the Chantry of St. Thomas's Church, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Dr. Stires and the Rev. Dr. Hopkins of Chicago. The bride, in her mother's bridal gown, walked to the chancel with her uncle, William R. McLaughlin, and her mother gave her in marriage. She was attended by the Misses Avice Martin, a sister of the bridegroom, and her own sister, Miss Frances McLaughlin, in old English pink gowns, topped by leghorn hats trimmed in brown tulle. They carried yellow daisies and purple lilacs.

Reynolds—Fleischmann.

Miss Grace Fleischmann, daughter of Mrs. Maximilian Fleischmann of 32 East Sixty-fourth Street, and Jenn Hazard Reynolds of 161 East Thirty-ninth Street were married yesterday afternoon at the Central Presbyterian Church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Wilton Merle Smith.

Miss Dorothy S. Smith Weds.

The wedding of Miss Dorothy Stark Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Smith of Rutland, Vt., and Andrew Matthews of Montpelier, Vt., took place at noon yesterday in St. Saviour's Chapel, at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. Dean Robbins officiated.

Bride of Ensign Samuel H. Packer.

The marriage of Miss Ruth Wood Slavens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Slavens, to Ensign Samuel Henry Packer of the United States Naval Reserve force was solemnized at 6 o'clock last evening at the home of the bride's parents, 800 Riverside Drive. Ensign Packer is the son of ex-State Senator Howard E. Packer of Burlington, N. J.

Miss Reeve Weds George R. Kenyon.

Miss Margaret Reeve, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney A. Reeve, was married yesterday at noon to George Ross Kenyon, son of Robert Nelson Kenyon of this city, at the Church of the Ascension, the Rev. Dr. Percy Stickney Grant officiating.

Bogota Merchant Marries Here.

Marcel Laurens, a department store proprietor of Bogota, Columbia, and Miss Lucie Clerc of Paris were married yesterday forenoon at the Hotel Majestic.

Mr. Laurens came to New York about a fortnight ago, and shortly afterward met Miss Clerc, who happened to be here, buying goods for a Paris business firm. After her marriage the bride cabled her resignation to the Paris firm and will leave shortly for Bogota with her husband.

Miss Elise A. Frey a Bride.

Mrs. Rose Frey of 255 West Ninetieth Street announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Elise A. Frey, to Leonard N. Heinz, which took place in this city last Thursday, the Rev. De Sola Mendes officiating. The couple have gone South on an extended bridal journey.

Miss Goepel Weds R. W. Distler.

Miss Frances Goepel, daughter of Mrs. Charles Goepel of 21 West 130th Street, and Richard Whitfield Distler were married last evening at the home of the bride's mother, the Rev. Dr. Cornelius Woelkin, an uncle of the bridegroom, officiating. A dinner for thirty guests followed at the St. Regis. Later the couple left for San Antonio, where Mr. Distler is to enter the Aviation Corps.

SUES FOR $1,095,025.

Thomas B. Dixon Wants Western Union to Pay for Invention.

A suit for $1,095,025 was filed in the Supreme Court yesterday against the Western Union Telegraph Company by Thomas B. Dixon for the use since 1916 of a certain invention by which the capacity of the telegraph company's cable from Bay Roberts, N. F., is alleged to have been increased 120 letters a minute.

Dixon alleges that the defendant agreed to pay him the "reasonable value" of his invention for its use, and that the sum so was to receive would be determined later. The complaint alleges that the defendant has made net earnings of $4,500,000 from the use of his invention, and he believes the amount he sues for is reasonable compensation.

ENGAGEMENTS.

Baron and Baroness Alfred de Ropp of this city and Los Angeles, Cal., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Baroness Vera de Ropp, to Major Eric Fisher Wood, U. S. Vidal de la Blache was a native of Pezenas, Herault, and was educated in the Upper Normal School, from which he was graduated in 1863. He directed the issue of a series of maps which bears his name and which was published in the Historical and Geographical Atlas of 1890. M. de la Blache was a member of the French delegation which arrived in New York on April 7, 1912, with a bronze bust which was erected on Crown Point, Lake Champlain, N. Y., on May 3 of that year in memory of Samuel de Champlain.

JEWS SEEK $500,000 FUND.

Brooklyn Federation of Charities in Drive for Contributors.

The campaign of the Brooklyn Federation of Jewish Charities for $500,000 and 25,000 annual contributors continued yesterday with the announcement of many additional contributions. Samuel Rottenberg, the leader of the campaign in the Eastern Parkway and Brownsville sections, leads in the amounts obtained yesterday with $9,346. The next largest amount collected was $1,800, obtained by Jalkoff Brothers.

A message was received from Julius Rosenwald saying that at least one person in Brooklyn should contribute $10,000 to the Federation. Mr. Rosenwald wrote that a single contribution of $10,000 would mean an increase of at least $100,000 to the subscription list from other sources.

Meetings are to be held in the interest of the drive in all parts of Brooklyn tonight and tomorrow. At a mass meeting in Bath Beach tomorrow night under the leadership of Albert Rosenblatt at the Unity Club reports will be received from the teams and captains and the progress of the campaign announced. Bird S. Coler, Charity Commissioner, will address the meeting.

Judge Alexander H. Geismar, Chairman of the Campaign Executive Committee, speaking at the Temple Beth El of Greenpoint urged that the campaign be liberally supported. He said that the federation is allotted only $291,000 for 1918 for the care of its affiliated societies, and unless the drive is a success will be faced with a $40,000 deficit.

PARK & TILFORD

ESTABLISHED 1846

THE question of the use or misuse of alcoholic beverages is a topic of the day.

War conditions have for some time been creating abnormally high liquor prices, and these are being sent even higher by Prohibition legislation.

One result is absolutely certain. The future demands of the family table and of medicinal requirements will greatly exceed the available supply of beverages. This will bring about an acute crisis.

With a 100 per cent demand and a 40 per cent supply, no one can foretell to what extent prices may be forced upward.

We feel it our duty to those who have been honoring us with their patronage to call their attention to the approach of this alarming condition.

And we advise them, while prices are still fairly reasonable to purchase and to purchase liberally.

WINES & LIQUORS At Great Savings

I predicted the Prohibition movement, and the scarcity of all wines and liquors with the great jump in prices. Months ago I put in a tremendous stock at low prices. I bought heavily for cash and got big discounts. Therefore, I am able to sell at positively the lowest prices in the city. The quality of my goods is the same which made my reputation many years ago.

SHIFTING OF GOLD CREDITS

Results in Gain of $13,600,000 at the New York Bank—Decline in Discounts on Hand.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The Federal Reserve Board's weekly bank statement showing the condition of the Reserve Banks as at the close of business on April 5, indicates a gain for the week of $8,400,000 in total cash reserves, as against a decrease of $6,000,000 in net deposits. Earnings assets increased $22,800,000, and Federal Reserve note circulation $27,100,000.

As the result of considerable shifting of gold credits between Reserve Banks through the gold settlement fund, the New York bank reports a gain of $13,-600,000, and the Chicago bank a decrease of $23,600,000 in gold reserves.

Discounts on hand show a decline of $9,300,000, the large decrease shown for the New York bank being offset by substantial increases by most of the Western banks. Of the total discounts held: $304,100,000, as against $301,500,000 the week before, represent war loan paper, i. e., member banks collateral notes and customers' notes secured by Government war obligations.

Acceptances on hand increased by $22,-400,000, Chicago, St. Louis, and Atlanta reporting the largest additions to their holdings of purchased paper. Over $10,000,000 of Government securities were added to the banks' holdings, chiefly certificates of indebtedness taken for the temporary accommodation of member banks.

Payment by newly admitted member banks, chiefly in the Chicago Federal Reserve District, accounts largely for an increase of $271,000 in the banks' paid-in capital.

Government deposits show a slight gain, while members' reserve deposits fell off $26,100,000, the New York bank showing the largest net withdrawals for the week.

Net issues of notes by Federal Reserve agents totaled $46,600,000. The banks report an aggregate Federal Reserve note circulation of $1,479,900,000, an increase of $27,300,000 for the last week.

Holdings of Member Banks Show Decline of $30,000,000.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 6.—The principal changes for the week in the condition of 682 member banks in about one hundred leading cities are shown as follows: As the result of substantial sales to customers by New York City banks during the week, holding of United States certificates of indebtedness decreased $30,000,000, and total United States securities $31,000,000. Loans secured by United States war obligations decreased $2,900,000, while all other loans and investments gained $14,100,000.

For the Central Reserve city banks corresponding changes were: United States certificates of indebtedness, decrease $12,800,000; total United States securities, decrease $16,500,000; loans secured by United States bonds and certificates, decrease $3,600,000, and all other loans and investments, decrease $7,300,000.

Reserves with Federal Reserve Banks of all reporting banks shows an increase of $9,300,000. Cash in vault decreased $6,300,000.

The gain in net demand deposits at all reporting banks is shown as $72,300,-000, time deposits declined $1,700,000, and Government deposits $130,900,000. In the Central Reserve cities the increase in net demand deposits amounted to $54,100,000, while time deposits declined $1,200,000 and Government deposits $70,000,000.

The ratio of combined cash and reserve of all reporting banks to total deposits remained unchanged at 13.9 per cent., while the like ratio for Central Reserve city banks went up from 15.3 to 15.4 per cent. The ratio of investments to deposits for all reporting banks went up from 107.5 to 107.9 per cent. For Central Reserve city banks this ratio decreased slightly from 103.6 to 103.4 per cent. Total excess reserves decreased from $112,100,000 to $102,100,000. Like reserves of Central Reserve city banks show a decline from $75,400,000 to $68,700,000.

Sinclair Oil Moves Up.

Sinclair Oil joined the other oil issues on and off the Stock Exchange in a smart forward movement yesterday. At 28 the stock was not far above the recent minimum level, but a gain of any amount brings relief to holders who bought it from 45 to above 50. There is probably no active stock on the list which has been handled more roughly in market gossip of late than Sinclair oil. Much talk has accompanied the decline, of the possibilities of the dividend being reduced or eliminated, of the need of additional working capital, &c. The company recently completed a pipe line from the Mid-Continent oil field to its Chicago refinery, a development which had been heralded as the forerunner of increased profits. The addition to facilities did not bring a cessation of pressure against the stock, although the downward movement was not so pronounced afterward as before.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The Central Trust Company, as depositary for the Colorado Midland 4 per cent. bonds, invites holders of its certificates of deposit at any time before April 22, either to withdraw their bonds or authorize it to collect for them the dividend on the bonds recently authorized by the United States District Court of Colorado.

The annual report of the Wisconsin-Minnesota Light and Power Company for 1917 shows net income of $597,618, an increase over 1916 of $158,884.

THE COTTON MARKET

Abrupt Recovery Sends Prices Soaring, with Net Gain of from 20 to 38 Points.

Having discovered overnight that the price-fixing interpretation placed late Friday afternoon on the report of a conference in Washington between cotton goods manufacturers and the War Industries Board was, to say the least, subject to revision downward, the cotton market recovered abruptly in yesterday's short session from the Friday afternoon slump. In a combination of active covering by Friday sellers, and renewed trade buying against expected big Government orders, prices moved forward rapidly, though a trifle irregularly, closing firm at a net advance of from 20 to 38 points.

There are still two minds in the market about Wednesday's meeting of cotton men with the War Industries Board. No one disputes that the Board has not, strictly speaking, the power to fix cotton prices, which even Congress—and Southern influence is too strong in Congress, it is believed, to permit Congressional action.

On the other hand, the course of the market yesterday indicated that the trade interprets the meeting as foreshadowing even larger orders for goods from all mills, and hence as a bullish factor.

This situation had been fairly well assimilated by the market before the opening, which was from 9 to 17 points up, and well sustained. Contracts were very much to seek until prices had advanced even further, and the close was practically at the top. The crop news continues good, with fairly abundant rain reported in the Southwest, and preparations generally pretty well advanced on good acreage.

SEES NO LABOR SHORTAGE.

State Bureau Says the Supply Still Exceeds the Demand.

The report for March of the Bureau of Employment of the New York State Industrial Commission says that the supply of labor still exceeds the demand, and that from interviews with workers the superintendents of the employment offices believe that a very large percentage of unskilled workers could be easily trained to do skilled work. Because of the heatless Mondays and holidays there were only twenty working days in February. Part of the report, dealing with different classes of labor seeking work, says:

"From the figures sent in it is believed that over 50 per cent. of the applicants are what may be termed unskilled or semi-skilled. The sub-division of processes has gone on until there are thousands of workers capable of doing but one thing. Many of them are anxious to learn the machinist trade or acquire a skilled occupation, but, although young, they feel they are not young enough to accept apprentices' wages.

"The replacement of men by women still continues. Taking the State as a whole, however, the percentage of change is not yet great. In some cases the women taken on are given less wages than were formerly paid to men. In other cases the women were placed on regular wages to obviate the necessity of increasing the wages of men. If the replacement had not been made the men in many cases would have demanded and received an increase. The applications show that there is a large supply of women labor at the present time, especially in New York City."

The report says that the demand for farmhands is very large; that single men on farms are receiving from $30 to $45 a month, with room and board, and that married farmhands are receiving from $40 to $60 a month, with house rent, garden, milk, firewood, and vegetables.

BOSTON COPPER GOSSIP.

Old Dominion's Output During March Was 2,872,000 Pounds.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, April 6.—Old Dominion's smelter output for March was 2,872,000 pounds of copper, compared with 2,841,-000 pounds in February, and 3,335,000 pounds in March, last year. March production of Cerro De Pasco was 6,900,000 pounds of copper, against 5,332,000 pounds in February, and 6,074,000 pounds in March, 1917. The March output of Shannon was 962,000 pounds, compared with 788,000 pounds in February and 900,000 pounds in March, a year ago.

The 1917 report of Centennial shows $1.50 a share earned on the 90,000 shares outstanding. In 1916 the company earned $3.07 a share. The production for the year was 2,002,867 pounds of copper.

The White Pine Copper Company in 1917 produced 4,067,529 pounds of copper. The annual report of Isle Royale shows earnings of $6.75 a share, whereas in the preceding year the earnings were $9.31 a share. The production was 13,480,921 pounds of copper, which cost 15.74 cents a pound to produce, while the average price received was 20.74 cents. Thus the profit on the 10,236,619 pounds shipped was 11.13 cents a pound, or $1,125,745.

The March output of Miami was 5,-174,365 pounds, compared with 4,902,505 pounds in February, and 5,217,903 pounds in the corresponding month last year. Shattuck-Arizona's March output was 1,013,593 pounds of copper, 60,878 pounds of lead, 11,429 ounces of silver, and 88.08 ounces of gold. In February the company turned out 854,042 pounds of copper.

The East Butte Copper Company smelter during March produced 2,395,940 pounds of copper. This compares with 2,324,040 pounds in February.

For 1917 the Inspiration Consolidated Copper Company made net profits of $11,080,732, equal to over $3 a share. The March production of the Inspiration property was 8,750,000 pounds of copper, against 8,200,000 pounds in February, 7,000,000 in January, and 5,000,000 in December.

The Greene-Cananea Copper Company reports its March production at 4,480,-000 pounds of copper and 130,400 ounces of silver, against 3,980,000 pounds of copper and 115,570 ounces of silver produced the preceding month.

YANKS AGAIN DOWN BRAVES IN CONTEST

Herzog Leaves Boston While New York Is Registering Sixth Straight Victory.

ON WAY TO HIS HOME

Former Captain of Giants Declares He Will Block Doyle-Barnes Deal.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENVILLE, S. C., April 6.—For the sixth straight time the New York Americans rode rough shod over the Boston Nationals here today, the Yankees triumphing by a score of 7 to 3. The Braves could do nothing with the offerings of Monroe and McGraw, while the Yankees pounded Canavan and Ragan all over Greenville. Both teams gave their pitchers poor support, but the defense the Braves attempted was much more ragged than New York's.

Boston's crying need for the signing of Charley Herzog never was more exemplified than today, when the Braves played particularly demoralized ball. Herzog apparently is lost to the Braves, for he left for his home in Maryland tonight, saying he was disgusted with the delay of the Boston Club in letting him know how he stood, and that unless some official of the Boston Club came to Maryland to reopen negotiations with him he would return to the Giants and block the Doyle-Barnes deal.

When Herzog left President Percy Haughton of the Braves in Augusta last Wednesday George Stallings said he would let Herzog know inside of twenty-four hours whether Boston would agree to his terms. After waiting in vain for four days to get his answer, Herzog quit in disgust and went home. Herzog insists that there is no chance of Doyle and Barnes remaining with the Giants if he chooses to hold McGraw to the iron-bound contract which prevents the Giants from trading or selling him without his consent.

Seventeen ringing hits were harvested off the Boston pitchers by the Yanks while Monroe and McGraw were holding the Braves in the hollow of their hands. Monroe was found for two scratch hits in five innings and McGraw set the Braves down with one hit in the last four frames.

RAIN AGAIN HALTS GIANTS.

Players See Parade in Houston, but Have No Game.

Special to The New York Times.

HOUSTON, Texas, April 6.—Rain, having broken in on the Spring festivities of the Giants and Cleveland Indians, refuses to go away. Thunderstorms that sounded like heavy artillery as the teams left Dallas last night shot off their fireworks here this morning.

A washout forced the Giants to do a lot of roundabout riding, and, after making several circles, they pulled into Houston this morning in time to see a Wisconsin regiment from Camp Logan parading in honor of the Third Liberty Loan. A few minutes later a deluge came down on the marching troops and on the Houston ball park as well. It cleared up a bit this afternoon, but when some fans went to the ball park to see how the water lay, they sank up to their hub in mud.

Another postponement tomorrow will just about knock the bottom out of this little tour. The Saturday and Sunday games in Houston were expected to be the biggest revenue gatherers of the trip, and today's game would have gone big, as most of the paraders, former National Guardsmen, spent the afternoon in town.

CHARLIE LEYDECKER IS IN FRONT AGAIN

McBride's Three-Year-Old Colt Captures Its Second Handicap at Bowie.

BOWIE, Md., April 6.—E. McBride's three-year-old colt, Charlie Leydecker, won his second handicap of the Spring racing season at Bowie here today when he led a fast field of fair performers from almost the start to the finish of the Springtime Handicap, a race of six furlongs. Charlie Leydecker won the Inaugural Handicap on the opening day handily, and performed even better in the clash today. Only Tea Caddy furnished formidable opposition, and this veteran was raced into submission before the final furlong was reached. Startling, usually a good racer at short distances, seemed dull, and never theatened at any time.

Charlie Leydecker assumed the lead almost from the barrier, and set a dizzy pace for the first half of the journey. Cobalt Lass and Tea Caddy tried desperately to hold on, but the McBride colt was not to be denied, and finished with a burst of speed which easily held the others safe.

J. F. Sweeney's Egmont, which had a fairly successful two-year-old career but has shown little since, came back with a good race in the third event, winning handily from a fairly hard contention.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE.—For three-year-olds and upward, claiming, purse $600; six and one-half furlongs. Preston Lynn, 112 pounds, (Rodriguez,) $3.70, $2.10, $2.70, won; Anxiety, 107, (Atkinson,) $12.60, $7.80, second; Glory Belle, 106, (Hopkins,) $11.20, third. Time—1:22 2-5. Surrey, Lady London, Miss Girl, Highland Lassie, Owasa, and Stalwart Van also ran.

SECOND RACE.—For three-year-olds and upward, claiming, purse $600; one mile and twenty yards. Egmont, 110 pounds, (Rice,) $7.40, $4.90, $3.10, won; Charles Cannell, 105, (Mooney,) $6.20, $4.20, second; Dairose, 94, (Mergler,) $2.80, third. Time—1:46 4-5. Disturber, Matoaka, Boston, and Beautiful Kathryn also ran.

THIRD RACE.—For three-year-olds, claiming, purse $600; mile and twenty yards. Stir Up, 105 pounds, (Mergler,) $41.60, $10, $3.60, won; Boxer, 105, (Rodrigues,) $3.20, $2.80, second; Pharaoh, 110, (Doyle,) $2.40, third. Time—1:46 1-5. Dartworth, Odalisque, Thamar, and Free Love also ran.

FOURTH RACE.—The Springtime Handicap, for 3-year-olds and upward, purse $700, six furlongs. Charlie Leydecker, 104 pounds, (McAtee,) $4.30, $3.10, $2.90, won; Tea Caddy, 112, (J. McTaggart,) $2.60, $2.80, second; Cobalt Lass, 96, (Ericson,) $6.50, third. Time—1:13 2-5. Startling, Capt. Ray, Iron Cross 2d, and Avon Carey also ran.

FIFTH RACE.—For 4-year-olds and upward, claiming, purse $600, one mile. Dollins, 101 pounds, (Rodriguez,) $10.60, $5.80, $3.40, won; Yodeling, 107, (Ambrose,) $7, $4.80, second; Firing Line, 104, (Mergler,) $3.50, third. Time—1:46 4-5. Prince S., Ponzio, Gerish Sun, Brother Jonethen, and Amalgamator also ran.

SIXTH RACE.—For 4-year-olds and upward, claiming, purse $600, mile and one eighth. All Smiles, 117 pounds, (Rice,) $3.50, $2.90, $2.40, won; Pit, 110, (Mooney,) $4.80, second; Fairly, 113, (Lowder,) $3.50, third. Time—1:57. Baby Slater and Lady Ward also ran.

SEVENTH RACE.—For 3-year-olds and upward, claiming, purse $600, mile and twenty yards. G. M. Miller, 110 pounds, (Dominick,) $11.30, $4.90, $4.40, won; Freda Johnson, 105, (Foley,) $4.60, $3.80, second; Kilmer, 115, (Rice,) $3.10, third. Time—1:46 4-5. Mark G., Comecho, Herwood, and Ed Bond also ran.

HUB TEAM BEATS N. Y. A. C.

Local Gunners Fall Before Boston A. A. Marksmen.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., April 6.—The team of trapshooters from the Boston A. A. decisively defeated the marksmen of the New York A. C. in a three-day trapshooting contest at the traps of the Laurel House Gun Club. The event ended today. In the three-day tournament New York registered 1,816 broken targets to Boston's 1,842. As on the other days, D. F. McMahon was the cause of New York's downfall. Today he missed 15 out of 100. In all he broke 334, against an average of his other teammates of a trifle over 370.

The gross scores for the event were: New York A. C.—Dr. G. L. Martin, 368; D. F. McMahon, 334; W. H. Yule, 374; W. S. Silkworth, 370; R. L. Spotts, 370. Boston—G. L. Osborn, 367; L. F. Curtis, 388; J. L. Snow, 361; L. H. Davis, 372; Jay Clark, Jr., 359.

The Lakewood championship was won by William H. Wolstencroft from Philadelphia. He scored 98, which also gave him the Mapiswood hundred medal. W. S. Silkworth of New York A. C. won the Lakewood Handicap with a scire of 99.

TWO GUNNERS TIE AT N. Y. A. C. TRAPS

Bradley and Vanderveer Each Break 93 Out of Possible 100 in Weekly Shoot.

With practically all the star gunners of the New York Athletic Club at Lakewood taking part in a big shoot with the nimrods of the Boston A. A., there was only a small field of marksmen on the firing line at Travers' Island yesterday. The day was not particularly good for the sport, a high wind whirling the blue rocks into impossible shooting angles.

The best work was done by D. I. Bradley and J. H. Vanderveer. They tied for the high scratch prize with 93 out of a possible 100 targets. On the shoot off, the trophy was won by Bradley, who also scored on both the Hasin and the Club Cups, returning straight strings of 25 in each event.

The Travers Island Trophy was won by J. H. Vanderveer. No gunner ran straight in the event. F. M. Wilson won a leg on the Accumulation Cup. The high handicap prize was won by H. B. Knight, with a total of 97 out of 100 targets.

WILL RUN DERBY MAY 11.

Kentucky Racing Commission Sets Date for Turf Classic.

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 6.—The State Racing Commission, at its meeting here today, awarded the Spring racing dates for the Kentucky tracks. There will be sixty-eight days of racing, running from April 23, the beginning of the Lexington meeting, until July 13, the end of the Latonia meeting.

The dates awarded follow:

Lexington, April 23 to May 9; Churchill Downs, Louisville, May 11 to 25; Douglas Park, Louisville, May 27 to June 11; Latonia, June 13 to July 13. The Kentucky Derby will be run on May 11.

The State Racing Commission also affirmed the decision of the National Owners and Breeders Association to give $300,000 to the American Red Cross, allotted $100,000 to licensed racing associations, $75,000 to horse owners, to breeders $40,000, and trainers and jockeys and employes' racing associations, $25,000.

Pelham Bay Entrant Victor at 1,000 Yards.

Willie Gordon, the former New York A. C. middle-distance runner, now in training at the Pelham Bay Naval Training Station, last night ran his best race of the present indoor season in winning the 1,000-yard handicap run at the games of the Greek-American A. C. in the 71st Regiment Armory. Gordon started at scratch against a field of fourteen local middle-distance stars, and gradually cut down his field, some of whom had handicap allowances of 75 yards. Two laps from the finish of the journey Gordon overtook the leaders and, entering the final lap he went to the front. Gordon's time was 2:20 2-5.

RECORD CROWDS AT CIRCUS.

Attendance in the Last Two Weeks Has Been 250,000.

The circus ended the first two weeks of its 1918 season in Madison Square Garden last night before a capacity audience. Despite war times, the season to date has been among the most successful in the long history of Barnum and Bailey appearances in New York, and this fact is cited as one of the reasons which caused Secretary McAdoo, as Director of Railways, to classify the circus as a necessary public institution and to issue orders for its transportation over the country this Spring and Summer.

The total attendance at the twenty-four performances given in the last two weeks was said last night to exceed 250,000, which, among other things, means that the war tax to be turned over to the Government will have amounted to more than $50,000 when the big show ends its New York season, one week from next Saturday night.

"A few of the old-time veterans of the Barnum and Bailey organization were talking shop between acts yesterday afternoon. Among them were Harry Mooney, perhaps better known as "the man of the elephants"; John Patterson, who knows every tiger, lion, and other wild animal in the show by its first name; Andreas Zingari, whose best friends are giraffes; Tom Lynch, who loves horses; Toto Selgirat, dean of aerial performers; Al Misaco, the old-time clown, and Orrin Davenport of the fourth generation of circus equestrians.

For more than thirty years Mooney has had charge of the elephants of the circus, and never was a man more careful of his charges than is Mooney in this year of the world war, for he realizes that until the Kaiser bends the knee and surrenders to the Allies no more elephants are going to cross the Atlantic in ships.

"Cargo space is needed for our boys and those of our allies," said Mooney, "and even if I had a chance to bring a couple or two mastodons across I don't think I would do it. We have three fine herds, and as most elephants live to be between seventy-five and one hundred years I don't think we will run short for some score or more years to come."

The old story that elephants, like turtles, live to be 150 to 200 years, is scouted by the veteran trainer. The average age of the elephant in captivity Mooney places at eighty years and in the wild state at between 100 and 150.

MUST FIGHT ALL GERMANS.

J. B. Lunger Says the Entire Nation Is Imbued with Prussian Ideas.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP UPTON, L. I., April 6.—John B. Lunger, First Vice President of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, told an audience of 3,500 soldiers in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium tonight that they were going forth to fight not the Kaiser and a military clique, but the entire German nation, all peoples in which are thoroughly imbued with Prussian ideals. For ten years Mr. Lunger was European agent of the Equitable.

"I speak from experience with the Germans," he said, "when I tell you that Saxons, Würtembergers and others are in full sympathy with the military party and will fight to the last man to carry out its program. Hold no delusions about the foe whom you are going forth to fight. It is the German nation, not the Kaiser or the Hindenburg clique."

The occasion of his address was a minstrel show given by twenty-five members of the society in compliment to the soldiers.

NEED NEW HOME FOR CLUB.

Organization for Soldiers and Sailors to Lose Present Quarters.

The Comrade Club of 305 Madison Avenue, organized six months ago as a place of entertainment for soldiers and sailors, is threatened with extinction on May 1 unless a new home can be found by that time. The club was started under the auspices of the National League for Women's Service, but it is now practically an independent organization controlled by a Board of Directors, of which Mrs. Henry R. Caraway, President of the Women's University Club, is Chairman.

"Our club lease expires on May 1," said Mrs. Caraway yesterday. "The club has provided entertainment for thousands of men in uniform, who have the use of the rooms from 1 to 10:30 P. M. On Saturday and Sunday nights there are generally more than 100 soldiers and sailors present. We are looking for a good house between Thirtieth and Fiftieth Streets, but have been unable to find the proper place."

Among the members of the Managing Board of the club are Mrs. August Heckscher, Mrs. Thomas Preston, Mrs. W. H. Hirons, Mrs. F. H. Cone, Mrs. Antoinette V. Pell, Mrs. Frank Hastings, Mrs. Douglas Robinson, Mrs. J. M. Babcock, Mrs. D. A. McKinley, and Mrs. Donald Brown.

The Truth about the Liberty Motor

1st The Liberty Motor is a success

2d The Liberty Motor was not originated by an automobile manufacturer

The above statements are made in justice and fairness to the public and to the various factories, engineers and individuals who have contributed to the development and successful production of the Liberty Motor.

Assertions both confusing and untruthful, either for sinister or commercial reasons, have been made regarding the Liberty Motor, and I deem it my duty as an American citizen to do what I can to correct these erroneous impressions.

To emphasize my sincerity and at the same time to eliminate as much as possible irresponsible and misleading contradictions, I will donate ten thousand dollars to the American Red Cross if anyone can disprove my statements pertaining to the Liberty Motor.

The Verdict of the Test Cars

4,178,744 Tire Miles

GOODRICH

TESTED TIRES

OYEZ! OYEZ! OYEZ! Hear the Verdict of the Test Car Jury.

"Secure sure tire service in Tested Tires. They give sure service because it is proven service. Their endurance and durability have been proved in the one way to assure mileage to the motorist, under the car on the road, every type of road, throughout 4,178,744 tire miles."

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Hearken to this verdict of the GREAT AMERICAN JURY of TIRES, the just, searching jury of over forty Test Cars which throughout 1917 put Goodrich Tires to a 4,178,744-mile road test.

Every kind of road, rock, gravel, brick, macadam; every kind of climate, on burning sands and icy trails; every kind of weather, with knee-deep mud and frozen slush, shared in the great national verdict.

"America's Tested Tires," so The Verdict proclaims, "Matchless in strength and lasting wear, are the road test proven tires, Goodrich Tested Tires."

Here is certainty of service for the tire user, because it is proven service. SILVERTOWN CORDS, and BLACK SAFETY TREADS proved themselves in actual road tests on light and heavy cars, conquerors of the road, in a grand mileage of 4,178,744 tire miles.

The spiral-wrapped, cable-cord tire body, and the tough, close-clutch, cross-barred black safety tread, battled the roads of America—beat them—wrung from them "The Verdict," making them America's Tested Tires.

Hearken to this verdict brought from America's roads, and make sure of your tire service with Goodrich Tested Tires.

The commission announces for May ? an examination for assistant sanitary engineer for men. Vacancies in the Public Health Service at $1,600 a year will be filled from this examination. The duties will be to make studies of public health matters involving engineering problems, including stream pollution and sanitary surveys, the treatment of water, sewage, and industrial wastes, and other similar subjects. Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on physical ability, 10; education, training, and experience, 90. Applicants must have graduated from a college or university of recognized standing, with instruction including full courses in sanitary engineering, and have had at least one postgraduate year of laboratory or field experience in some branch of sanitary engineering; or have had at least two years' competent experience in sanitary engineering, or a combination of education and experience as outlined above aggregating three years. Special credit will be given for training in anti-malarial measures or supervisory experience in ditching or drainage. Applicants must not have reached their forty-fifth birthday on the date of the examination. Further information may be obtained from the commission, Washington, D. C.

Education Notes.

The electors of the Retirement Board have elected a committee to study a revision of the pension law.

Public School 116, Brooklyn, has been enrolled as a school auxiliary of the Brooklyn Chapter of the Red Cross.

The Board of Aldermen will be asked for authority to complete without public letting repairs to heating and plumbing plants in about twenty-two public school buildings. These plants were damaged during the severe cold weather. The cost will be about $60,000.

Associate Superintendent Shallow has prepared a program for the use of the funds for new schools, alterations, and additions. About $11,000,000 is involved. The Board of Education will take up this report at its meeting this week.

Liberty Bonds or German Bonds?

THE debt of the United States is today one-fifth the debt of Germany. The resources of the United States are three times greater than those of Germany.

Whose bonds would you rather hold?

Make sure of not being forced some day by a victorious Germany to take German bonds.
